School Report.

TO THE CITIZENS OF HAMPTON :

The year which now closed its record has been marked by no extraordinary event in the administration of our public schools.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Of those who enter this school only a few complete the course of four years, some enter and remain no longer than two years. It is thought by some of our citizens that the standard of admission to this school is too high. If we lower the standard it will be a high school only in name: we desire a larger number who wish to prepare for a more thorough course of study in other institutions of learning. I am happy to state that this school is in its usually healthy and prosperous condition. It must not be forgotten that the province of our high school or academy is to furnish a higher grade of education than could otherwise be obtained in the schools of Hampton. There is a pressing need that its benign influence shall be felt in arousing and stimulating the pupils in our lower grades of schools to greater effort to acquire there all the education they afford. I desire to call attention to some of the studies pursued in our schools and to make some suggestions that may not be deemed inappropriate. The study of history has not been made so prominent in the course as it deserves to be. Especially is the study of the history of our country important at this time. It is not sufficient that pupils read a portion of our country's history or that a few of the most prominent facts are impressed upon their minds; they should be familiarized with the different periods of our history, understand the causes of events which have transpired in our country, and become conversant with those events and those issues that have convulsed our nation, threatening our blood-bought institutions. The past season "Good Citizenship" has been introduced into our Primary schools, an elementary work, the study of which will whet the appetite for more and fuller enlightenment on a subject which should be familiar to all. In the series of plates to which this is an accompaniment the teacher will recognize suggestions or an outline of work, on the subject of civil government which may be extended and adopted as the occasion requires. Physical exercises in some form have been introduced into most of our schools. I would advise and insist upon some physical exercises daily in each school, having them so conducted as not to interfere with the regular school duties. It is of incalculable value when rightly managed as regards the discipline of the schools, in addition to benefit to the health of the pupils.

A great part of ill health and disordered nerves, which is ascribed to over-study is chargeable to a neglect of physical exercise and poor ventilation.

For some time past lessons have been given in anatomy and physiology in all our schools, in connection with the art of hygiene, defining a system of rules for preserving the body in health, learning the importance of breathing pure air, of proper exercise, of cleanliness, of temperance.

In presenting again the annual report of our schools, it gives pleasure to be able to say that without an exception the schools have enjoyed a year of general prosperity. We feel it to be our highest duty to employ the services of such teachers as are best adapted by natural qualities and education. Hence it has been our purpose to retain those teachers who have themselves proved efficient and willing workers.

The schools are now well provided with books and can consequently be better classified, and school-work more satisfactorily done.

I would say to the parents that while your children attend school, much depends upon the interest you evince in their education.

I hope at the annual town meeting a generous appropriation will be made for the support of our schools, remembering that the success and usefulness of the rising generation depend largely upon the knowledge acquired in our common schools, and that a nation's strength lies in the intelligence of the people.
