REPORT.

Another school year has brought forth its educational results, and although they are so widely diffused through society that they are not noticed by the casual observer, yet they exert a most potent beneficent influence, not only upon the pupil, but upon the community. These results are of inestimable value, forming and moulding intelligent, virtuous character, which is the means of individual success, the foundation on which the good order and prosperity of society rests, and the strength and stability of the nation, and no means should be spared that the largest possible harvest of these results should be annually garnered.

SCHOOL ROOMS.

While most of the school rooms are suitably furnished and as pleasant as could reasonably be expected, there are three whose uncomfortable board benches and desks ought to be replaced with modern chairs and desks, and there is one so dilapidated and untidy that it ought never again to be occupied for school purposes.

The school house at the Four Corners, District No. 3, has been rebuilt during the past year, and provided with modern furniture, at an expense of about three hundred dollars, and is now one of the most inviting school rooms in town, and the scholarly and orderly appearance of the school, at the close of the last term, indicated that at least one hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction had already been derived from the improvement.

The commendable example of this district should be imitated by all others, until the attractiveness of all the school rooms invite children and youth to their instruction, and teach them lessons of neatness and order.

APPARATUS.

All the schools have suffered for want of the most approved apparatus, no sufficient means having been provided to furnish these facilities for instruction.

This deficiency has in part been met by an act of the last Legislature, empowering the Committee "To expend at their discretion, for the use of the schools, one-fifth part of the 'literary fund' which may annually be assigned any city or town, in the purchase or repair of blackboards, maps, charts, globes, dictionaries, or any apparatus which in their judgment will advance the educational interests of said schools." The Committee taking advantage of this provision, have furnished a much-needed and very valuable set of Mitchell's Outline Maps, for the use of the Intermediate and Grammar Schools.

TEACHERS.

This year has been one of unusual changes in teachers. Among the twelve teachers of last year there have been eight changes. These changes have been attended with disadvantages, especially in the First District, where among seven teachers there have been five changes, for it requires time for the new teacher, however well qualified and thoroughly furnished for the position, to become familiar with the routine of the school, the character and capacity of the pupils, and the course of study. These changes have been effected with as much facility and as little disadvantage as could reasonably be expected, especially as Miss Angie P. Smith, who has occupied the position next to the Principal for a succession of years with perfect satisfaction, and is a model teacher, was compelled on account of failing health to resign, in the midst of the closing term of the year. The Public Schools are such a power for forming intelligent and honorable character that no pains should be spared to secure the best teachers, and having secured them, avoid the disadvantages of change by making their situation permanent and giving them all the encouragement and moral support in their difficult and responsible work which their high position demands.

REGULARITY OF ATTENDANCE.

The importance of a punctual and regular attendance at school is not likely to be overestimated. It has a decided influence, not only upon the progress of the pupil in his studies, but upon his whole character, serving to make him prompt, orderly and faithful in all the relations of life. Moreover, the influence of the tardy and irregular pupil is decidedly injurious, interrupting the school by coming late, and retarding the progress of his class by the deficiency caused by his absence. The advantages of a punctual and regular attendance, both to the pupil and the school, should be a sufficient inducement to keep all unnecessary tardy and absent marks from the School Registers.

There has been some improvement during the past year, but the Registers still show a great deficiency. A larger number have been perfect in their attendance. While the Report for 1878 gives only seven perfect in attendance, and the Report of 1879 gives nineteen, the present Report gives twenty-one, and their names, some of whom have not been absent for two and even three years, have been honorably recorded in Statistical Table No. 4, with the hope that this Roll of Honor will be increased from year to year.

DISCIPLINE.

That the schools must be governed in order to be successfully taught, is what no thoughtful person will for a moment question. Order and obedience on the part of the pupils is absolutely necessary to the successful instruction of the school. And to secure this, and at the same time the love and respect of the pupils requires a rare talent, and often taxes to the utmost all the faculties of the best teachers. The authority of the teacher must be maintained at all hazards, but every possible means should be exhausted to maintain it before corporal punishment should be resorted to, and when that becomes absolutely necessary it should be administered with great deliberation and calmness. Insubordination among pupils must be wisely met and subdued, and the supremacy of the teacher maintained, in order that the fruitage of our Public Schools may be intelligent, virtuous and loyal citizens.

COURSE OF STUDY AND REGULATIONS.

The Course of Study and Regulations have been revised and printed for the use of the schools, though the care with which they were originally prepared rendered very few changes necessary.

APPROPRIATION.

The liberal sum which you have in past years appropriated for school purposes you will doubtless deem it wise to continue, for it will be necessary to maintain the schools with their present length of terms, which, however, might be profitably increased, and to maintain the honorable position which you have gained of the third town in the county and the sixteenth in the State, in the amount of money appropriated for educational purposes.

HIGH SCHOOL.

The High School suffered a serious loss, at the close of the summer term, in the resignation of the Principal for a more lucrative and responsible position. Under his skillful management and thorough instruction the school enjoyed uniform success and grew in popular favor. The transition from one teacher to another was necessarily attended with disadvantages, but these were made comparatively slight by the fortunate choice of a Principal so well fitted and thoroughly qualified, by experience and a liberal education, to fill the position. And under his judicious management and scholarly instruction the school maintains its high reputation, and a larger number have availed themselves of its advantages this year than the year previous. While nearly all are pursuing the regular course, the policy has been adopted of admitting scholars who cannot pursue the full prescribed course, to an elective course; and this policy will serve to invite to the school those who would not otherwise enjoy its advantages, without in the least lowering, but rather strengthening the character of the school.
