TO THE SELECTMEN OF THE TOWN OF LACONIA:

The Trustees of the Public Library hereby present their third annual report. During the year 220 volumes have been added to the Library, 38 have been donated, and 182 have been purchased. The Library now contains 2428 volumes, classified as follows:

Juvenile,	350 volumes.
Fiction,	834	“
History,	171	“
Travels and Descriptive,	129	“
Biography,	108	“
Miscellaneous and Complete Works,	234	“

Greatest number books taken out any day,		364
Average number taken each day,		188
Greatest number out at any time,		695

Of these the average taken each day has been as follows:

Juvenile,	32
Fiction,	114
Historical and Biographical,	18
Miscellaneous and Complete,	14
Educational and Scientific,	11

It will be seen by the Treasurer's Report, appended, that nearly $50 of the annual expenditure has been for rebinding books, notwithstanding all of the books have been in use only about two years, and very many of those rebound, less than one year, — and from present indications this annual expense will be largely increased in the near future. The committee would once more earnestly suggest careful usage of books on the part of readers. As an experiment, it was decided not to cover the books added to the Library the past year, it being the opinion of some of the best librarians in the country that the additional cover only tends to hasten the destruction of the books, and that the books when covered were as a rule, subjected to harsher treatment, by careless readers, than when left in their original covers. Many of our public libraries have adopted this method.

Report of School Committee.

To the town of Laconia:

I herewith submit the report of the schools in district No. 1, for the year ending March 1, 1881, as made by the Board of Education:

To the School Committee of the town of Laconia:

The Board of Education for School District No. 1 herewith submit their sixth annual report:

The number of schools, and course of study in each, have been the same this year as last, with the exception, the past two terms, of classes in Latin, French, and English literature, in the High School, under the instruction of Miss Mary E. Rowe. The schools for the year past, and especially for the last two terms, in point of excellence, have been fully up to the standard of preceding years. There is need, however, of further improvement in promptness and regularity of attendance. Nothing is so detrimental to the progress of a school, as absence from recitation; it discourages the pupil absent, and is a drawback and hindrance to the rest of the class. The cooperation of parents and guardians is most earnestly solicited to supplement the efforts of teachers in every attempt to remedy this great evil of our school system.

There were several changes of teachers at the commencement of last fall term. In the High School, Miss Josephine A. Robinson took the place of Mr. Bowker; in the North Grammar Miss Julia M. Robinson succeeded Miss Hersey, and Miss Philbrook followed Miss Doe in the North Intermediate; in the South Grammar Miss Bennett took the place of Miss Ayles, and Miss Freese the place of Miss Chapman, in the South Intermediate.

The new teachers have all proved themselves fully up to the average of instructors, in their several departments. Some of the methods of instruction pursued by the teacher in the North Grammar School, are worthy of commendation, and the school in many respects was successful, and would have been a complete success, had it not been for the rude and insubordinate conduct of some of the larger boys. Miss Bennett thought best not to return after the close of the fall term, and Mr. Walter S. Peaslee was engaged in her place. Mr. Peaslee brings to his aid quite a large and successful experience as teacher, and succeeded, the past term, in bringing a tolerable degree of order out of partial confusion. The Intermediate schools have been so far successful, as to maintain their good reputation earned in former terms, of being fully up to the average in deportment and recitation. The Primary teachers are the same as last year. Some of the most satisfactory work in our schools may be seen in the lower rooms.

In no department is the art of teaching more critically tested, than in the instruction of small children. To suppose that any one can teach a primary school is a mistake: in some respects it demands the highest order of talent. Difference in scholarship results more frequently from methods of instruction, than from any difference in the mental capacity of the pupils.

The last annual examination of the Grammar schools, was not entirely satisfactory. Those proposing to enter the High School, had not thoroughly mastered the common English branches: they lacked comprehension and did not know how to think and work independently. This was not wholly the fault of the pupils, but was attributable in part to want of method and thoroughness on the part of the teachers. The last examination was not wholly exceptional to those of preceding years. It is not unfrequent that a scholar has a creditable verbal knowledge of the text-books, and at the same time is sadly deficient in comprehension of principles. It is the duty of teachers to so instruct as to remedy this defect, but in this, more than in any other particular, they are inclined to shirk, unless constantly watched. Teachers, like other employes, will bear watching, and the more carefully they are looked after, the more faithful they will be in the discharge of duty.

As was suggested in the report of last year, it is impossible for the Board of Education to give that personal time and attention to the supervision of the schools, necessary to obtain the most satisfactory results. Consequently it was thought best at the commencement of the fall term to employ a principal, to have supervision of all the schools, visit them all daily, or as often as necessary, and see that proper methods of instruction are pursued, and the entire work of the school-room in all its details is properly and thoroughly done.

Accordingly Miss Mary E. Rowe was engaged for the position for the present year, at a salary of $15 per week. Miss Rowe is a ripe scholar, and has had large experience in teaching, and thus far under her management, the schools appear to be making more efficient progress than before. Besides having supervision of the schools, arranging examinations, etc., Miss Rowe, as before stated instructs classes in Latin, French and English literature in the High School. She also has occasionally taught in the other schools during the temporary absence of the regular teachers.

The plan of placing all the schools under the charge of one person, as principal, has been adopted in some towns in Massachusetts where the schools are the best, with most satisfactory results. We feel quite confident judging from the past two terms, that the plan which at first was experimental with us, will prove a success, in elevating the standard of scholarship, and securing better and more efficient work on the part of both teacher and pupil.

The whole number of different scholars attending school in the public schools of the district two weeks or more during the year was 427, of whom 213 were boys and 214 girls. Of those reported 9 boys and 5 girls were over 15 and all the others between 5 and 15 years of age. The whole number of children in the district between 5 and 15 years old, as enumerated by the selectmen last April, was 509, of whom 254 were boys and 255 girls. The number of children between 5 and 15 years of age, not attending school during the year, in a district containing more than 500 such children on the first of April and many others in the course of the year, cannot be accurately reported without an amount of labor greatly disproportioned to the importance of the information when obtained. But the number within those ages not attending any public school, as near as we have been able to ascertain it, may be stated at 150, of whom 76 are boys and 74 girls. Of this number it is estimated that about 100 children within these ages (55 boys and 45 girls) have attended St. John's Parochial School during the year, while others who have attended the public schools two weeks or more have also attended the parochial school a portion of the time. If the foregoing estimates are correct, there have been 50 children (21 boys and 29 girls) within the ages prescribed who have not attended any school during the year.

There have been during the year in the High School, a grammar school class, in the South Grammar an intermediate class, and in the South Intermediate a primary class. The crowded condition of some of the schools on the south side of the river has rendered it impossible to grade them according to the course of study without the transfer of classes. An additional primary school would obviate this difficulty and will ere long be demanded.

A statistical table is annexed. School committees are required by law to report to their respective towns the number of pupils attending to each study in the several schools. Until a recent period the school register provided for teachers contained appropriate blanks for this purpose, and it was largely from this source that the desired information was formerly obtained. But in the elaborate and complicated registers now in use, which teachers who have not graduated at a commercial college often find it difficult to understand, the blanks referred to have been omitted; the space once devoted to obtaining the number attending to reading, spelling, penmanship, arithmetic, geography, grammar, composition and history is given up to subjects of minor importance, respecting which school committees are not required by law to report to the town at all. For this reason a portion of the statistics given have been obtained under difficulties and we cannot vouch for their perfect accuracy. Our school year began with the fall term; the statistical table, therefore, embraces as heretofore, the third term of the last, and the first and second terms of the present year.

I also submit the following report as required by law: Our schools outside of the village district will compare very favorably with previous years in prosperity. Good progress has been made by certain classes in each school, while want of punctuality has hindered others. This is one great fault in our schools, and needs the cooperation of parents to correct it.

In districts Nos. 4 and 5 the same teachers have been employed through the year, while in district No. 3 a different teacher for each term has been employed.

The whole number of children between the ages of 5 and 15 years in the town, as enumerated by the selectmen, April 1, 1880, was 559, of whom 275 were boys, and 284 girls.

A statistical table furnishing the information required by law is annexed.
