

49 T T CO
APO 301

SUWON, KOREA

8 March 1951

Dear Clz:

I sent the application for registration tags direct to Harrisburg with a ^{$10.00} check yesterday. It should get there about the same time you get the letter I mailed yesterday. I thought it would save you a little time which you will no doubt appreciate To say nothing of the ~~$~~1000 you will cling on to.

My convoy took part in a bit of psychological warfare within the past week. Cannot reveal details - and you'll probably never read about it in the papers till the war is over.

Got a card from former Lt. but now Capt. Fred Haynes. He was with us in the last war in Germany + France. He got out of the Army + was recently

49 T T CO
APO 301
SUWON, KOREA
8 March 1951

Dear Elz:

I sent the application for registration tags direct to Harrisburg with a $10.00 check yesterday. It should get there about the same time you get the letter I mailed yesterday. I thought it would save you a little time which you will no doubt appreciate.... to say nothing of the $10.00 you will cling on to.

My convoy took part in a bit of psychological warfare within the past week. Cannot reveal details – and you'll probably never read about it in the papers 'till the war is over.

Got a card from former Lt. but now Capt. Fred Haynes. He was with us in the last war in Germany + France. He got out of the Army + was recently called back as a Captain. He is now in Korea someplace. He has the same APO as I, but could be more than 200 miles away. He must have just gotten here for I never ran across his outfit before nor heard of it before.

2/

Rumors about rotation back stateside are all about — but have little meaning to most of us. Most of it is just fuss for the newspapers and the glamor boy marines who,
incidentally, merely have better publicity
agents — but are just average GI's. I know of cases where the marines couldn't crack thru over here, but the Negro 24th Inf was thrown in and not only broke thru but dented the enemy lines so thoroughly that they were halted, pulled back, and the marines put back again to take the final objective. Of

2/

called back as a Captain. He is now in Korea someplace. He has the same APO as I, but could be more than 200 miles away. He must have just gotten here for I never ran across his outfit before. Nor heard of it before.

Rumors about rotation back stateside are all about – but have little meaning to most of us. Most of it is just fuss for the newspapers and the glamor boy marines, who, incidently, merely have better publicity agents – but are just average GI's. I know of cases where the marines couldn't crack thru overhere, but the negro 24th Inf was thrown in and not only broke thru but dented the enemy lines so thoroughly that they were halted, pull back, and the marines put back again to take the final objective of