REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD

There have been several changes in the personnel during the past year.

The school board will miss the valuable services of Mr. Fred Saltmarsh, for many years a member of the board. Mr. Everett Farnum was elected to take his place.

The resignation of Mr. Henry S. Roberts, superintendent, after twenty years of service was accepted Aug. 31, 1933.

We were very fortunate in securing Mr. Lester Badger as our new superintendent, who is co-operating with the Board with splendid results.

Miss Bertha Irving, principal of the Suncook School, resigned. Mr. Howard Wheeler was secured for this position, also to have charge of Manual Training.

Miss Marion Brown has charge of fourth grade and Domestic Arts, filling the vacancy caused by Mrs. Alberta Bailey's resignation.

The Borough School was reopened this Fall at the urgent request of the neighborhood. This was an added expense to the district.

The Board appreciates the faithful work done by the teachers and superintendent.

FOSTER WARREN,

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board and Citizens:

I herewith submit my twenty-first annual report of the schools of Pembroke, for the year ending June 30, 1933.

There were maintained during the year, nine schools, for a school year of 37 weeks, with no change in the teaching force.

The school enrollment was 205, with a daily average attendance of 96.5 per cent.

The schools were in session on an average of 356.44 half-days.

Our teachers were faithful to their duty and diligent in their work; they were well trained professionally and competent in organization and school management. They were mindful of the needs of the pupils while in the school rooms and on the school grounds and wisely cautioned them of the need of care while traveling on the public highway and were also interested that all the children might have warm clothing and proper food. These efforts of the teachers are worthy and should receive the commendation of all good citizens, yet more praiseworthy was the earnest desire of the teachers to give to each boy and girl higher ideals of life and the worthy ambition to become good and useful citizens.

It is commendable to be a leader in industry or finance. It is commendable to administer a system of schools or other social organizations. It is my belief that it is greater still to deal directly with children, inspiring them with ideals and putting into them the lofty desire to become honest and useful men and women. One noted educator writes: "Next to that of creating a democracy is that of maintaining it, as teachers are doing in the schools at the present time. Teaching may not pay so well but it is the highest type of service in the world."

The work of the Special Instructors has been creditably done as the results show.

Miss Kate Smith has continued her good work in the schools as Music Supervisor. She planned her work with care and received the earnest co-operation of the teachers and pupils.

The work of the pupils in Domestic Science has been well done under the guidance of the Instructor, Alberta Smith Bailey. Mrs. Bailey so guided the work in foods and clothing that it gave to the girls the desire to become helpful members in the home and the ability to solve problems relating to foods and clothing by improving the manner of their preparation and by raising standards for food and dress. The opportunity for bringing the school and home into closer relationship was improved by having the girls take home specimens of their work in cooking and sewing. This furnishes to the parent a more tangible evidence of the work done in the school room than can be offered by any other type of school work.

Henry Lovejoy has been Instructor of Manual Training for the year last past. He was faithful and industrious in his work and helpful in aiding the pupils in selecting the right project. The exhibit at the close of the school year showed the excellent work done by the pupils.

The School Nurse, Miss Adonia Douillette, has continued her excellent work in our schools. Added to the regular school calls she has made many home visits in the interest of the children's health and welfare. She has exercised every care that the children might have proper food and comfortable clothing; she has been successful in soliciting aid from local organizations and charitable citizens and has generously furnished free transportation to children at clinics and for other remedial work.

Your attention is called to the several reports.

The original purpose of the American school—to completely prepare the child for the life he is to live remains unchanged but the procedure and policies for securing this aim must of necessity be ever changing.

In the early history of our country, education, consisting mainly of the three R's was fairly adequate for a sparsely settled country engaged mainly in agriculture and discovery. Machine production, increased wealth, congestion of life in the city, the multiplication of occupations for men and new economic opportunities for women have compelled a radical change from the original procedure of education. It has made necessary the introduction of the study of music, fine arts, science, domestic and industrial arts and also health education including courses in hygiene, health examination, dental clinics, balanced diet and visits to homes by nurse and teachers for the well-being of the pupils and of the neighboring community.

Again, our educational policies have been greatly modified by the change in the number of children employed in the industries. From 1880 to 1910 large numbers of children were employed in factories. Since 1910 when 18.4 per cent. of our children were employed, the trend of the employment of the children has been downward, for in 1930 only 4.7 per cent. were employed. In 1930 the total enrollment in all our schools and colleges was about 29,500,000, and 1,000,000 teachers gave instruction in these institutions. This means that about one-fourth of our population was directly engaged in educational activities.

The enlarged material equipment necessary for carrying out the present-day school program; the construction of the modern school buildings, containing laboratories, gymnasiums, swimming pools, auditoriums, lighting and ventilation; the expansion of the school yard equipped with apparatus for play and physical exercise has greatly increased the cost of education.

The 1900 the total national expenditures for public primary and secondary schools was $214,965,000. In 1930 it was $2,316,790,000. During this period the total value of all school property increased from $550,069,000 to $6,211,327,000.

The cost of maintaining the schools and the cost of maintaining the state and national governments has caused an excessive tax burden and has made it difficult to obtain sufficient funds to adequately finance the school system, especially in sparsely settled communities where the real estate valuation is low. Many of these localities have been obliged to seek financial assistance from either the county, state, or federal governments. To equalize educational opportunities in these districts and lower the cost of schools, two devices have been utilized. The first is that of enlarging school administration units by consolidating school districts. This resulted in the consolidation of 16,232 school districts by 1930. The second device is that of using state funds to supplement local resources. Despite such efforts and the earnest endeavor of educators to secure equalization of educational opportunities, there still exist marked failures in some localities.

After being engaged in educational activities for more than fifty years and desiring more time for reading, travel and leisure, early in June I sent to the State Board of Education my resignation to take effect on August 31st, 1933.

For the twenty years last past I have enjoyed my work as superintendent of the schools of this Union and have received the loyal support of the State Board of Education and of the school board members, teachers, pupils and citizens. The cordial assistance given to me by all of the State Commissioners of Education has been encouraging and helpful.

I wish to thank all for the assistance given to me in making better schools.

Respectfully submitted,

HENRY S. ROBERTS,

Superintendent.

REPORT OF MUSIC SUPERVISOR

With every school room open and well filled with alert and eager children the music supervisor is busy. A new book in the eighth grade is very welcome and adding new interest to the pupils. A course of appreciation raises the standard.

Music is an essential part of the life of everyone, and only as we educate the child in its best forms can we hope to have musical communities. With victrola rhythm, band and harmonica and vocal instruction we are striving to lay a foundation and create an incentive to each child to take up the study of some branch of music.

To Mr. Roberts and the teachers who so ably co-operate I extend thanks.

Respectfully submitted,

KATE L. SMITH.

REPORT OF MANUAL TRAINING INSTRUCTOR

---

Mr. Henry S. Roberts, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir:

This is the annual report submitted of the work done in the Manual Training Course of the Pembroke School.

The boys showed much interest in their work and progressed in a very capable manner. Each boy was taught the correct use of the different tools such as the saw, plane, hammer, marking gauge and try square. Principles of construction and accuracy were also stressed.

The schedule for the seventh grade was mostly instruction work for the beginning and each boy worked on the same type of project such as the bread board, game board, foot stool, broom holder and neck-tie rack. Later as the boys progressed in their work, they were allowed to make whatever projects they chose under the supervision of the instructor.

The eighth grade class could be called a project and repair class. Besides making whatever projects they choose, the boys did much work around the school building such as repairing desks, chairs, cloak hooks and windows.

The following projects were made: Footstools, table lamps, book cases, smoking stands, medicine cabinets, magazine stands, wall book cases and plant stands.

The boys in each class showed a great deal of interest in their work and I think that the practical knowledge learned in manual training will be of great use to them in their future lives.

Through the kindness of Mr. Hillman, an exhibition of work done in Manual Training was held in his shop window in June. I feel that the co-operation given us by the parents and citizens of Pembroke has done much to further the interest shown by the pupils in this subject.

Thanking the members of the School Board, Superintendent and parents, I respectfully submit this report.

HENRY M. LOVEJOY,
Instructor of Manual Training.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Herewith I respectfully submit for your consideration a report on the schools for the present school year up to the present time and call your attention to some of the problems that may be faced in the future.

Several new adoptions have been made in textbooks this year with resulting changes in methods of instruction. In the first grade there has been adopted a new series of basal readers in which the children are greatly interested. Closely correlated with the readers is a set of workbooks which give the child extensive practice in silent reading, and incidently in handwork, art, arithmetic, and handwriting, and help greatly in solving the problem of keeping the first grade children profitably employed.

The fourth grade is using a new textbook in history which is written with a well graded vocabulary and is not only highly interesting but definitely helps the pupil to understand and appreciate the present through his study of the past.

As the seventh and eighth grades in the rural schools had very few textbooks, new books were purchased for those pupils in social science and English composition. These social science books that we are using are generally conceded to be the finest textbooks published today dealing with human relationships and, if there was ever a time in the history of our country when our boys and girls needed to be taught to think clearly about our social, political and economic problems, it is in this generation. The English composition books, as well, have the point of view of the modern junior high school and contain much material that is effective in teaching boys and girls how to speak as well as write comprehensively and intelligently.

The new music books in use in the seventh and eighth grades in the Grammar school are greatly enjoyed by the pupils.

These books are full of songs that adolescents love. As far as possible the old worn-out books were returned for credit toward the new ones and credit memoranda have already been received for over $75.00 for supplies and books so returned.

Closely related to the development of reading abilities through the new system of reading is the use of current events papers in all grades except the first. These papers, which are entitled "My Weekly Readers" for grades three to seven and "The Junior Review" for grade eight, give an opportunity for valuable practice in the mechanics of silent reading and contain material that is most helpful to children in forming worthwhile attitudes towards concepts of our present day social and economic problems. Pupils and teachers are very much interested in them and many parents have spoken to me of the value of this material.

There is a great need, which could not be supplied this year because of the lack of funds, for health books in all grades, literature books in grades four to eight, social science books for the seventh and eighth grades in the Grammar school, a series of silent or study type readers for the intermediate grades, geographies for the third, fifth and sixth grades, new spelling books for all grades, language books for the fourth grade, music books (and other equipment for teaching music appreciation) for all of the rural schools, and some new dictionaries. The budget should be so planned as to meet many of these needs next year.

FEDERAL MILK

Beginning November 6, 1933 one hundred half-pint bottles of milk are being delivered at the Pembroke schools each day for undernourished children. The milk is being furnished by local farmers and paid for by the Federal government. This service means a great deal to the health and physical development of these children.

BUILDINGS AND EQUIPMENT

In general the Pembroke school buildings are in a very good state of repair. Considerable work was done on them during the summer and at the Grammar school much has been done this fall, using C. W. A. funds. A partition has been put up in the basement and the manual training equipment moved into the room thus made; some new benches have been made and a few new vises purchased and installed for the manual training class; the fourth grade desks and other equipment have been moved into the old manual training room and the domestic science equipment, including the sink, moved into the room that had been occupied by the fourth grade, the lavatories in the corridors have been moved to the basement and replaced by drinking fountains; the waste pipes and drains which had become clogged have been cleaned out and new floor drains put in; many of the desk tops have been smoothed and varnished; the old leaking air relief valves have been replaced by new ones, and, since the Christmas vacation, all walls and ceilings have been cleaned and painted. Some improvements have also been made at Community House.

If the North Pembroke, Borough, and Pembroke Hill schools are to continue to be used, better facilities should be provided there for supplying drinking water and for washing hands. At the Grammar school another oil stove and a few more cooking utensils are needed for the domestic science class, and some more tools are needed for the manual training class. It is recommended that $125 be raised for these purposes.

ADULT EDUCATION CLASSES

Americanization classes in Suncook have been organized with about 125 in attendance, all adults who wish to improve their ability in the use of the English language. They are divided into five groups which meet for one and one-half hours twice each week. The first class, with thirteen present, met Monday, January 9, 1934, from four-thirty to six P. M. at the Pembroke Grammar school. Three of the five groups are meeting in Pembroke and two in the Allenstown public school building.

These classes were promoted by the John J. Maguire post, American Legion, and are directed and supervised by the school boards through the superintendent of schools. Albert Gauthier of Franklin has been engaged as the teacher and is being paid by the Federal government with Civil Works Administration funds. Mr. Gauthier received his Bachelor's Degree in Education from the Keene Normal School and his Master's Degree in French from Middlebury College. He has had two years' experience in teaching and is admirably suited, through training, experience, and personality, for the position. He is enthusiastic over the work and appreciated the fine spirit shown by his students.

The instruction is in speaking, writing, and reading English and in other essentials of American citizenship.

About one hundred more people have expressed a desire to receive instruction to enable them to obtain their naturalization papers and it is hoped that some provisions can be made for them.

Much credit is due the American Legion for bringing to the foreign born residents of Suncook this opportunity to become American citizens. Your superintendent has spent much time in the organization of this activity and believes that it is a very valuable accomplishment for the community.

If the Federal government does not continue to supply funds for it, I believe the taxpayers can well afford to make a small appropriation to meet the expenses of continuing the undertaking.

FINANCES

The increase in the total of the school board's budget over the one presented last March is due chiefly to the operation, which was not planned, of the Borough school, and to the estimated amount needed for operating Community House. It seems only logical that if the school board is expected to meet the expenses of the latter building a special appropriation should be made for the purpose.

REORGANIZATION OF THE SUPERVISORY UNION

The New Hampshire Legislature, at its last session, required the elimination of some of the supervisory unions in the state. In the reorganization by the State Board of Education that followed, Gilmanton was removed from the Pittsfield union and Loudon was added. This change became effective July 1, 1933. As the legislature also required that more supervisory unions be discontinued next year, when Superintendent Henry S. Roberts of the Suncook union resigned on August 31, 1933, the State Board of Education divided his union among the neighboring unions, putting the school districts of Allenstown and Pembroke onto the Pittsfield union. This change became effective September 1, 1933. This supervisory union now consists of the school districts of Pittsfield, Allenstown, Barnstead, Chichester, Loudon and Pembroke. This large increase in territory, teachers and pupils has made it necessary for the superintendent to spend less time in each school than formerly but the added load has been somewhat lessened by the providing of some clerical assistance in the superintendent's office. It is likely that, because of the policy of increasing the size of the supervisory unions which the legislature forced upon the State Board of Education, this supervisory union will continue for some time with about its present size.

FACING THE FUTURE

When a group of small boys gather to play baseball in a vacant lot or a neighbor's pasture they first decide on the location of the home plate and first base. After a few minutes' play they may wonder if first base is in the best place. Our boys and girls in school have run well from home plate to first base but it may be worth our while to wonder if first base is in the best place if the goals we are setting up for them are the most desirable.

There is no question that the kind of life for which our present educational system was designed to train is radically different from the life American people find themselves now living or from that which they are likely to live during the next few decades. No one can tell with any degree of certainty what problems will be faced by the children now in our schools when they are adults, but our present-day leaders are unanimous in the opinion that those problems will be radically different from those the present and past generations have been facing. The best we can do is to look to these leaders for the determination of our objectives, so I respectfully request that you give your attention to some of the remarks relative to education made recently by President Roosevelt and some of his closest advisers, and to what it seems to me are some of the most vital implications of those remarks of our local schools.

President Roosevelt recently said, "Our present educational provisions do not meet the needs of all children up to sixteen. Newer, more significant, types of preparation for satisfactory living must be evolved in our school system, so that if we prohibit the employment of children up to sixteen, we may at the same time provide fruitful experiences to fill these years and turn out more valuable citizens to the State and to industry when they do enter on their productive years." There are too many vital things today for our children to learn to make it profitable for them to learn things just for the sake of knowing them. One of the great weaknesses in our present-day social order is the inefficiency of so many homes in the proper training and care of children. Why do we spend the time of the future mothers in teaching them how to figure bank discount, which they will never use, and teach them nothing about budgeting the family income or the relative values of fresh and canned orange juice when they would use such knowledge all their lives? Why do we teach boys whether to use who or whom in this sentence, "He is fortunate who or whom the king favors," and make no provisions for teaching them the value of direct sunlight in healthy growth?

George H. Dern, Secretary of War, recently stated, "In a country where the people rule they must be enlightened in order to rule wisely and well. It is the task of the teacher to enlighten them, and hence it depends upon the teacher whether or not this country shall have good government in the next generation." I ask you then, "What kind of teachers are needed?" Is the ability of one to do examples in arithmetic without mistakes worth more than the ability of another to get children to direct their own activities, both independently and collectively, happily and intelligently? As Claude A. Swanson, Secretary of the Navy, stated in a recent report, "Ambition lies dormant in the young mind until some teacher fans the fires of aspirations and makes them flame with the hope of achievement."

The enlarged responsibilities of the schools are in the mind of Harry L. Hopkins, Administrator, Federal Emergency Relief, when he says, "There is a responsibility for developing a program for leisure time. After all, we are going to acquire some new values. The day for people to make enormous sums of money is over. A new situation has developed. School music will have to teach something more than making a living." Music, art, literature and games have important places in the schools of today.

Whose duty is it to give the child an opportunity to receive an education and see to it that he makes use of the chance? Jesse H. Jones, Chairman, Reconstruction Finance Corporation, says, "The enlightened world, after centuries of progress, has concluded that every child is entitled to the opportunity for education. Failure to grasp this opportunity is one of the greatest handicaps to which anyone may subject himself, no matter what line of endeavor he may intend to enter." It is the duty of organized society, or government, to see that the child, every child, is educated to the limit of his capacity.

Does the education of yesterday fit the needs of today and tomorrow? "In a rapidly changing world with a rapidly increasing body of significant human knowledge, education cannot be static," recently said Arthur E. Morgan, Chairman, Tennessee Valley Authority. The solutions we have worked out for our old problems are not sufficient for present or future problems because the problems we are now facing are not like those of the past. If our society is to endure, our schools must change with the changes in our social order. The reading, writing and arithmetic that met our needs a generation ago will not meet the needs of the next generation. Our society is getting more complex and our schools must be broadened to meet its needs.

CONCLUSION

In closing I wish to thank the school board, teachers and other citizens for their cooperation this year.

Respectfully submitted,

LESTER B. BADGER,

Superintendent of Schools.
