WONJU, KOREA

Dear Elz:-

Glad you liked the Kimona and other items. Incidentally the tea set is of pure silver and bears the Korean govt. insignia of genuineness.

You may tell Marilyn that I will send her and Gretel a colorful Korean ~~cost~~ native costume if she does well in school. Korean clothing worn by women are multi-colored and pretty even though the styling is quite ancient and oriental. They cannot be purchased inexpensively because inflation is loose in Korea. The Korean money is called WON (pronounced WAUN). Six thousand (6,000) WON can be purchased for one American dollar - legal rate. The black market rate is three to four thousand (3000 to 4000) for one American dollar. So you can see the BM is practically non-existent in Korea.

However a child's uniform or native dress may be had for 60 to 75 thousand won.... Perhaps a little more. You may tell Marilyn that one of these attractive and pretty colored dresses will be hers if and when she does well in school. Ask her what colors she prefers. Tell her you will write and tell me when to send the dress.

We have just been warned to prepare for a hurricane expected within the next 24 hours. There is nothing we ~~can~~ can do except pin down our tents and hope for the best.... because we have no underground shelters.

Your letter mentioned Martha writing and telling me all about Selton's marriage. So far I have not heard from her. But what is it all about? What is the strange and inferred truth about it? I'm naturally curious.

You may dress up your apartment to your hearts content. However I'd feel much better about it if the house were our own. It seems as if we'll never own a home of our own. You ought to continue looking around for one - a bargain - and something you really want
