Join us and our Semester in the City partners, College for Social Innovation, for the fall cohort

Showcase of 3-minute "ted talks". Their stories are sometimes about their internships, about what they learned in class, sometimes about their personal development or about their favorite foods -- but all the time, they are heartfelt, powerful, and an amazing culmination of their experiences living, interning and studying during their time at Semester in the City in Boston.

While yet again, COVID-19 prevents us from gathering in person, our fully virtual showcase last semester was (perhaps surprisingly) touching, intimate, and at many points, humorous. We are confident that this semester's event will be as well! Not only do you get to hear these stories straight from the students, but they get to see you in the "audience" and know you support them. For many students, knowing they have a team of faculty and staff from their home institution rooting for them will mean the world!
