Special Edition April 1, 2004

Through a recently discovered photo, Jon Cavicchi finds that he and Ellen Galvin are related. Here we see a photo of their great-great grandparents. Grandpa Russell lost his leg in a chicken fight.

Cindy Landau wins million $ in the Iraq lottery

Totally shocked and awed, she will get $1.00 a year for one million years!

Congratulations Cindy!

Librarian deported

When Melanie was born her mother, a Canadian citizen, forgot to fill out the proper paper work. The INS and Canadian Royal Mounties finally caught up with her and carted her off in cuffs. Thanks to King, who sniffed her out, she will be spending some time in Guantanamo until her status is cleared. We'll miss you Mel. Write, if they let you have paper.

Wizardry

Library Director, Judith Gire, is accepted into Hogwarts's Graduate School of Witches and Wizards. She will spend the entire summer there, as well as next Halloween. After receiving her WWWC (Wicked Witch and Wizard Certificate) she will teach a class here at Pierce Law on legal charms and spells, (formerly, Legal Skills.)

Students Mooned Staff members get bum rap

Security cameras caught the culprits who have been offending students in the library by mooning them from outside the first floor windows.

Bum prints on the window were matched to three library staff members we will not name here...(but you can get all three names for a dollah. See Ellen Galvin.)

It was recently discovered that each of us has a unique bum print that can be used as evidence in a court of law.

If the three don't act butt headed and get cheeky with the judge they might get off by the seat of their pants, or else they could spend some time in the hole!

Librarian's pose for 2005 calendar to raise money for new library. See page 4.

Giant alien mutant killer bees attack Assistant Library Director!

Cindy was able to fight them off by swatting them with her ALWD. It is believed that they entered through an open window in Jon's office and were looking for something sweet.

Disgusting shot of the day

Seems some people really do have butterflies in their stomachs, and, as this candid shot shows, Jean Everson has a real taste for them.

We bought it for a dollah!*

Jon Cavicchi wins prize

Entering on a whim, Jon sent this picture to "contest" at ModernLibraryoffices.com and won first place in the "Eclectic Office" category. He won a free year of service from "Roach-B-Gone Extermination Service," and his office will be featured in the next online edition.

We hope it doesn't go to his head! Oops too late!

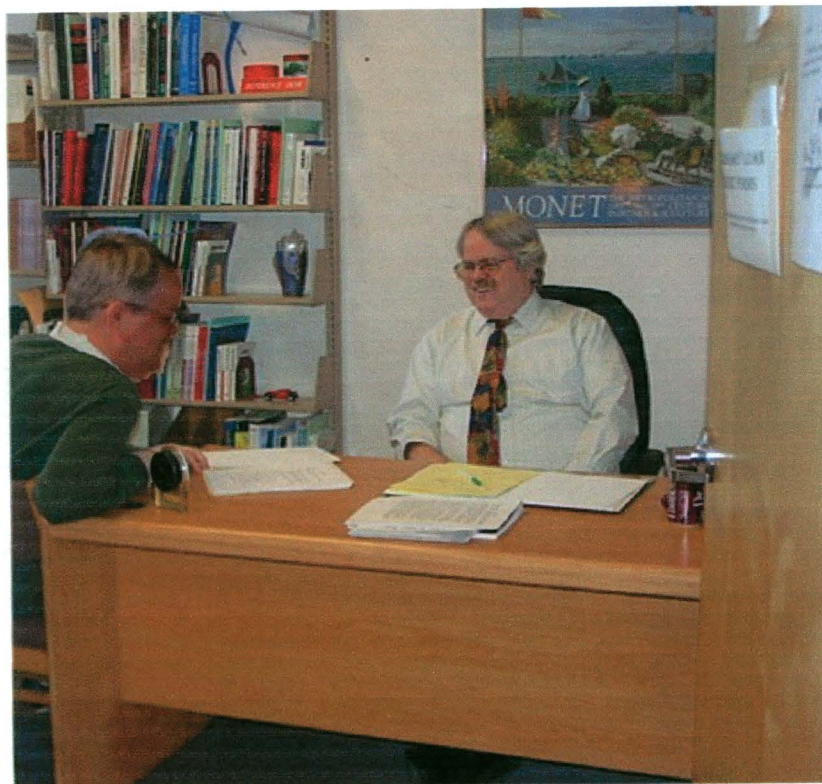

Jean steps out!

Jean has been seen with a new "friend." Who could this handsome devil be?

Free 3 week trip to France, all expenses paid, if you can answer this trivia question: What 2 words in the English language do not rhyme with any other English words? Hint: both are colors-one is also a fruit.

Official entry form required...see page 9.

Barry Shanks meets twin brother!

Barry and Harry were separated at birth when Harry fell off and rolled under the delivery table and no one noticed. Harry was found by the cleaning crew and grew up in the hospital basement. Recently on an internet dating service they saw each other's pictures, and DNA tests proved they indeed are twin brothers.

They also found that they lived parallel lives. Barry earned a law degree and one in library science and Harry stole books from the local library to pursue his drug habit, introducing him to the law. Barry is well traveled, and Harry keeps his drugs inside a globe in his room. (The country of Iraq lifts off.)

Now they are planning a family reunion with their parents and Harry's 13 children by 14 different women. Harry and 9 of the kids are staying with Barry until the extradition matter is settled. Barry is trading his Z4 for a minivan.

Library staff members can bare it!

Sandy and Jean went on a trip to "Florida" but it seems they never got that far. They stopped at a nude singles beach in Virginia and decided to spend all their time just hanging out.

How did this editor find out? We had put a "bug" in Jean's auto and heard everything they said ...about everyone of us!

Copies of the CD is one dollah. See Ellen Galvin for ordering.

Mary Cogswell retires to new home.

After nearly 9 years Mary is getting her wish. She will soon retire and move into new digs, a boot with all the conveniences of a luxury home.

There is a spa in the toe, and kitchen in the heel, where Mary can enjoy her favorite: baked sole. The top is reserved for a master suite with bedroom, large bath, sitting room, library, and sound room. The foot print of the home is quite unusual.

A low heeled pump will "garage" her auto, and "Hush," her new puppy, will love the new home.

NEW action figure

New action figure for sale. For only $10 you can have your very own "Judy" action figure that appears to choke herself when you push a button on the back.

Prilly Byfield, friend of the library, will be featured on the calendar cover.

Library to publish 2005 calendar to earn money for a new library.

The 12 librarians will each represent a month, with Prilly Byfield on the cover. See picture at left.

Miss January: Judy behind a scantily filled book truck.

Miss February: Melanie holding a very big beach ball.

Mr. March: Jon with Landis on Patents in his lap.

Miss April: Cindy with three cans of diet soda.

Miss May: Mary with a shoe...yes...only one.

Miss June: Roberta behind her web site.

Mr. July: Barry with a 6-pack of Dr. Thunder.

Miss August: Jean with "one" of her lovely violets.

Miss September: Ellen with three government fiche.

Miss October: Sandy behind a small box of pocket parts.

Miss November: Bonnie and three pieces of 3rd class mail.

Miss December: Paula lounging on the circ desk behind the plant.

Bonnie's husband suffers attack

Colon suffered a fainting attack after Bonnie "got hot" for him and lap danced in a leather bustier, 5" heels, and black lace stockings.

Colon is recovering, as is Bonnie who may have had a little too much sugar! It is rumored that Colon has bought stock in Krispy Cream inc.

Sheep in library?

Several sheep were found in the lower floor of the library near the Shepards. No one know why or how they got into the library.

Judy Gire said, "Someone is either a wolf in sheep's skin or they are trying to pull the wool over our eyes!"

The sheep were counted, several times as the staff kept falling asleep, then they were herded out of the library.

Roberta publishes book

The book, Pierce Place: The Librarians at Pierce Law and Their Dirty Little Secrets, hit the book store shelves with a bang! Ms. Woods didn't pull any punches as she reveals what many only suspected in their hearts; that the seemingly upright and respectable library staff members at Pierce Law have a lot to hide.

Read about: Sandy and her house of cats, Cindy, known as "Sindy" by most of her Chester neighbors, Mary and her little lamb, Ellen's "I'll do it for a dollah" scheme, Jon and Barry's excellent adventure, Paula's secret life of cockroaches, and is Mel's weight gain really caused by too many Krispy Creams-not pregnancy.

Ms Woods even dug up some dirt on Jean and Judy. Seems they are co-owners of an adult toy store for women in Portsmouth, called "Girls Just Want to Have Fun."

The book made the "Books Most Read by Voyeurs and Bonnie Morrison" list!
