Superintendent's Report

To the Members of the School Board,

Enfield, N. H.

Gentlemen:

The purpose of this report is almost wholly to explain through you and the press to the public financial matters pertaining to the school board's report and the budget of next year. The financial report accompanying this statement shows a larger balance than usual which was carried over to this year. It was larger than usual because certain expenses for which allowance was made in the budget of a year ago were not met out of the appropriations of that year and were carried over and paid out of the current year's money. These items were in part a portion of the coal bill, not ready for payment at the close of the last fiscal year; a portion of the tuition due to the Plainfield School District for our share of the support of the Methodist Hill School. There were also savings made through the year not anticipated two years ago,—all resulting in a rather large fund of ready cash. By consulting the budget for the present year, herewith presented, it will be seen that most of this balance has been applied to the reduction of the money necessary to be raised this annual district meeting. In fact we have been having favorable experience on the whole in operating our budget for two or three years past, our actual expenditures falling below the amounts which were expected at the time of raising the school money.

The consumption of fuel in the high school building is but little more than used to be experienced in the old and much smaller building with the old system of heating then in operation. This lower fuel consumption is due in part to a more efficient heating system, but a great amount of credit for fuel savings is due to the interest which our present janitor takes in his job and to his skill as a fireman.

It would seem that the items of the financial report sufficiently explain themselves without further comment; probably it would be of more interest to discuss the budget for the ensuing year. In the budget of the ensuing year it will be noticed that a total saving of $1,500.00 has been effected over that of last year, the amount asked for this year to balance the school board's budget being $19,000.00. Immediately the question will rise in the minds of interested people; will this amount maintain our schools at their present high level of efficiency? The answer is that we see no reason why it should not do so although it should be plainly understood that we are shaving pretty close to the margin of safety. We are sacrificing pretty nearly all of the cash balance usually carried over to pay the expenses of the schools through the summer months. This of course will not affect us this coming summer but it will during the summer of 1933. Furthermore the district will have to expect to raise more money at the March meeting on 1933 for the next ensuing year or cut into its schools. But all that is another year and perhaps business affairs will take an upward turn by that time.

To take up the detail certain items and means where savings are expected to be made may interest the voting public.

In the first place it is proposed to increase no salaries during the ensuing year. Neither is it proposed to reduce any of the existing salaries now being paid in spite of the fact that certain districts are becoming alarmists over the present situation. New teachers will be hired at a decrease from the salary scale which has heretofore been paid.

We have on hand a considerable stock of Scholars's Supplies which have been bought within the year at low prices which will enable us to reduce expenses a little there,—also less text books will be needed as our equipment has been brought up to a better level than ever before.

Averages of the expenditures in items in which the costs vary considerably year by year have been taken for the past seven years and these averages have been used to forescale our probable expenses in these same items for the year to come, resulting in some saving. Fuel, all but coal, is cheaper; paper stock has reached a new low level. The price of textbooks has not been reduced much but some.

Repairs, under which item come cleaning the schoolhouses, repair of furniture, minor items of property maintenance, have averaged $481.85 per year for the past seven years but have been entered on our budget as $400.00. Right here it should be stated that we believe it poor policy not to begin some upkeep repairs on our new school building to prevent deterioration. A little paint in time is a wonderful expense saver later on. However there is the item. An average of $251.10 has been our cost per year on Insurance over the past seven years, probably a sum well-spent.

In the item of Transportation of Pupils an amount has been allowed which is the present rate of expense. Here it should be understood that no one can foretell what that item may be from one month to another. But we believe it good business policy not to try to forecast this expense for the future but to raise money for what transportation is in sight. If there be any unexpected increase let the district raise it as a deficit at the next annual meeting. In that case we will know exactly how much money is needed and will not have to raise money on taxes in any year in excess of what is needed.

In the item of school nurse we have not allowed as much money as we should. The way our nursing is arranged at present is giving rise in the minds of our school officials to dissatisfaction. We are "sold" to the idea of the school nurse. Our nurses in the past few years have demonstrated the value of school nursing. There is no longer any doubt in the minds of informed people that this money is well spent. But here is the territory over which our present nurse has to spread herself,—Enfield, Canaan, Grafton, Danbury, Orange, Alexandria, Hill, Sanbornton, and two widely separated schools in Bristol. She has to examine all school children, visit childrens' homes whenever necessary, attend clinics, carry children to hospitals, and a lot more. It simply can't be done with any degree of efficiency. The present nurse reported to me an amount of travel in one day this Fall of over 100 miles. What we need to do is raise enough money for school nurses to enable us to hire a nurse for a fewer number of districts. It may be said here that the state has reimbursed us thus far for all such money we have paid a nurse on account of our elementary schools.

Respectfully Submitted

H. HOWARD PRATT.
