SCHOOL REPORT.

The following report of school work for 1880-81 is respectfully submitted:—

DISTRICT No. 1. Money, $249.03.

N. B. GOLDSMITH, Prudential Committee.

Teacher, Miss A. M. Greeley of Londonderry, N. H.

This school has been well governed, and steady progress made during the three years Miss G. has had control. The opening of the academy has called many of the older pupils from the school, and brought the number to a reasonable average, thus benefiting alike those who attended both schools. In the choice of future committees let the good sense of the district select a person who, having the welfare of the school (not a personal or pecuniary interest) in mind, shall make a selection of a competent and experienced instructor, who shall continue, and possibly improve upon, the work so well done by the last teacher.

DISTRICT No. 2. Money, $150.92.

C. N. FITZ, Prudential Committee.

Teacher, Miss N. M. Moore of Derry, N. H.

The committee was well pleased with the selection of teacher, following out the suggestion in a former report, as well as the teachings of experience, that the best is the cheapest. It is gratifying to witness the general interest manifest in parents and friends, as is shown by their repeated visits and presence at examinations.

Especially in arithmetic did the school excel.

DISTRICT No. 3. Money, $183.68.

W. P. W. WHITEMORE, Prudential Committee.

Teacher, Miss N. B. Sleeper of Chester.

In no school in town has there been so marked and beneficial a change. Listlessness has given way to attention, indolence to activity, and, in consequence, good recitations and sure progress are seen. Especially did the examination show improvement in reading. A continuation of similar work will yield pleasing results.

This school was favored with more weeks of schooling than any other district, for which pupils and parents should feel gratified.

DISTRICT No. 4. Money, $69.83.

D. S. WEST, Prudential Committee.

Teacher, Miss A. M. Marsters of Chester.

Miss M. carries her peculiar energy into the school-room, and with a larger field the results of her labors would be more apparent. General satisfaction was expressed, and the examinations showed satisfactory progress.

Thoroughness is and has been here a missing quality, and, until special attention shall be given it, full and lasting returns for labor and money may not be expected. Future teachers should be instructed to make this a prominent factor in the problem of school work.

DISTRICT No. 5. Money, $59.75.

MARTIN L. BUTTERFIELD, Prudential Committee.

Teacher, Mrs. M. J. Dolber.

Mrs. D. enters into her work with a motherly interest, with quite satisfactory success. Every teacher should preserve a certain dignity in the school-room which shall demand the respect of her pupils, and at the same time command their attention and esteem. The unusual brightness of some scholars in this district calls for the best teachers, to whom corresponding wages must be paid.

Examination exercises were very interesting.

DISTRICT No. 6. Money, $61.18.

B. F. SPOFFORD, Prudential Committee.

Teacher, Miss Myra Gillingham of Chester.

A great improvement is very noticeable in Miss Gillingham's methods of discipline and school work, bringing with them more satisfactory returns.

This school appeared better than ever before during my term of office.

DISTRICT No. 7. Money, $88.78.

B. A. FOLLANSBEE, Prudential Committee.

Teacher, Miss Mary E. Wilcomb.

It was the universal testimony of those interested and informed, that the year's work has been fruitful in much good. Judging from examinations, my conclusions coincide. Much of every teacher's success depends upon the heartiness with which pupils and parents second her efforts. Often good teachers fail for want of home influence, and every teacher fulfills her task more cheerfully and satisfactorily when she is assured of its potent power.

DISTRICT No. 8. Money, $83.46.

HORACE E. TRUE, Prudential Committee.

Teacher, Miss M. F. Haselton of Chester.

Miss Haselton made a good successor to a good and efficient teacher, and the committee will run great risk in making a change next year. Good reports come from all as to the interest awakened and work done.

DISTRICT No. 9. Money, $69.54.

AMOS SANBORN, Prudential Committee.

Teacher, Miss Minnie D. Smith of Chester.

This school is so small it taxes the ingenuity of the teacher to devise ways to most profitably improve her time, and allows her great opportunity to give personal instruction and explanation in recitations, by which means scholars make the most progress. Miss Smith made every effort to improve her charge, and well did she succeed. Some of the pupils should be given the advantages of a high school.

DISTRICT No. 10. Money, $47.42.

HENRY KNIGHTS, Prudential Committee.

Teacher, Mrs. J. A. Hooke.

The usual gratifying results accompanied Mrs. Hooke's labors. Her roll of honor shows five out of ten scholars who have not been absent a single half-day during the year.

ACADEMY.

The trustees were very fortunate in securing as principal the services of Mr. W. I. Smith of Manchester, N. H., a graduate of Dartmouth College, who has entered upon his labors with earnest zeal and discretion. It is a settled question, that with competent instructors and a continuous school Chester Academy can be nearly, if not quite, self-supporting. During the year new seats of the most approved pattern have been placed in the school-room, and altogether the place is pleasant and comfortable. With the present large and efficient board of trustees, it would seem impossible to want for means or methods for a permanent school.

It is quite common for persons interested in, but unacquainted with, the working of our public schools in rural towns, to find fault because more is not accomplished by the teachers hired to teach them, and criticisms quite harsh are often made, which are unjust. If such persons would inform themselves in regard to the matter, they would find it a very difficult problem. It has long been a question among leading educators how to make the most of the money raised in country towns to be applied to schools, and legislation has tried, with partial success, to solve the problem. Many complain because the teacher is not what they would like; but comparing the wages with the work I find they generally correspond. It is very probable that at the next session of the legislature some bill will be passed having for its aim a more systematic supervision of public schools, probably by county commissioners. During the year some of the schools have been broken up by measles and the extreme severity of the weather, in which cases much injury to the general result has been done. It is my opinion that the schools of Chester, on the average, are fully up to, if not above, the average of the past few years. In every district the same teacher has taught through the year, a very unusual thing. A great hindrance to a statistical table of the averages of attendance, etc., is the imperfect manner in which registers are filled out by teachers, rendering a perfect summary impossible; and I would remind prudential committees to look up the law, and not pay teachers in full until a certificate from the superintendent is shown them, certifying they have complied with the requirements of the law, by which much labor would be saved to the committee, and a more full and comprehensive account rendered to the citizens.
