The Library District meeting was held at the Rochester Public Library on June 8. An interesting program and an opportunity to inspect the new High School were the high-lights of the day. The New England Regional Conference was held at the Wentworth Hotel from June 19 through the 22nd with many prominent educators, librarians and authors as speakers. Attendance upon two days' sessions at the Book Fair held this year at the Boston Garden was a real treat.

Book Week was observed by displaying the poster "Books Around the World" and by the distribution of the "Magic Carpet," a newspaper printed especially for children.

The following periodicals are in the Library: American Magazine, American Boy, American Girl, American Legion and Auxiliary Magazines, Atlantic Monthly, Baseball, Better Homes and Gardens, Bird Lore, Child Life, Children's Activities, Christian Century, Commentator, Consumers' Union, Current History, Exeter News Letter, Flower Grower, Ford News, Fortune, House and Garden, Hygeia, Jack and Jill, Ladies Home Journal, Life, Mercury, Nation, National Mechanics, Popular Science, Readers Digest, Roscirusian, Rural New Yorker, Saint Nicholas, Saturday Evening Post, Scientific American, Telephone Topics, Time, Union Signal, Wall Street, Woman's Home Companion, World Horizons, Yankee and Yankee Pilot.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board of Hampton, N. H.:

I have the honor to present to you my ninth report as superintendent of schools. This report covers the statistics for the last completed school year. In order that a more immediate picture may be obtained, I shall devote a portion of the report to the organization and plans of the current year. Also will be included somewhat of an overview of the New High School from the scholastic side of its future activities.

The Hampton school population is increasing year by year. The September enrollments for the past six years follow.

SEPTEMBER ENROLLMENTS BY YEARS

Year	1934	1935	1936	1937	1938	1939
Pupils	325	341	336	370	378	392

To take care of the four-year increase in 53 pupils, in 1938 an additional teacher was employed. When, last September, a further increase of 14 pupils took place an assistant teacher seemed the only satisfactory solution under the current budget. The situation was unique since the heaviest enrollment was in the lower grades, grade one with 43 and grade four with 45. The assistant was, for this reason, assigned to divide her time between these two rooms. With the ninth grade moving to the new high school building an added room will be available for future increased enrollment.

The Hampton schools are developing a morale which is seldom equalled. The spirit of cooperation and earnest endeavor is evident to any visitor in the school. The percentage of attendance remains about 95. This is a good average. It is of significance, as showing the interest of the pupils in their work, that the number of children with perfect attendance increased from the 26 of the previous year to 32 of last year.

Three attributes are necessary if a school system is to be successful in its important work of preparing future citizens for America—teachers who can and do teach the work assigned them, suitable buildings, equipment and supplies to enable them to work to their maximum efficiency, and a businesslike administration by which money is spent wisely. To our children the teachers are the most important of these three. They must understand children that they can impart to each from his own viewpoint the definite knowledge, through the current year. That our teachers are doing this is constantly proven by the results of standardized tests given, usually twice a year. These tests are identical with those given in a large majority of schools throughout the country. They are written by no local person.

THE TEACHING STAFF

The teaching staff at both the Academy and the Centre School remains as last year with the exception of the Domestic Arts teacher. Miss Eleanor Janvrin resigned at the end of the school year after nine years of valuable service to the Hampton District. To carry on her work, Miss Margaret Tobey of Hampton, was employed. She is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire with four years' experience in the schools of Vermont. She has already won the respect of her pupils and the confidence of all connected with the school system. Miss Ruth Richardson, a graduate of Keene Teachers' College was employed as assistant teacher. Her help has been invaluable to teachers and pupils in our overcrowded rooms. Not only has she helped to analyse pupils' difficulties by individual care but she has helped those who have been absent for a period of time to "catch up" with their group. Frequently she has taken classes when the teacher felt she herself could be better employed with a small group. If the entering classes are to continue large, it seems that an assistant will be needed next year.

The teacher is the center about which all successful schools are built. A good teacher means a good school for she is the one in continual contact with the pupils. I believe Hampton should be proud of the teaching staff and try as far as possible to keep it intact. Upon the three lower grade teachers, Miss Marston, Miss Philbrick and Miss Norton falls the responsibility of implanting in the children a social sense which will enable them to find their place among other fellows. These grades teach the mechanics of reading and introduce the pupil to arithmetical processes. They are important grades. Too much credit cannot be given these three teachers.

The fourth, fifth and sixth grades must take the material of the lower years and with it impart to the child the complete minimum education required for adult life. Miss Perkins, Miss Whitney and Miss Bartlett are continuing notably successful work toward this goal.

I am glad to report that Miss Janice Newton is again with us as instructor in Art. Her work is highly valuable in bringing out latent abilities which children may possess. The training in careful observation, in accurate expression, in neatness and carefulness develops characteristics of value in all activities of the school. The so-called fundamental subjects need, and can use, these same abilities and are to that extent closely allied with art instruction.

In order that the citizens may have definite data concerning the teaching staff the following table is printed.

THE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

In the junior high school a beginning of differentiation of courses is made. This necessitates careful guidance lest the pupils enter classes for which they have little capacity and perhaps little interest. Your junior high teachers must be students of child mentality and development. A mistake here may have serious consequences. I believe Hampton is fortunate in its junior high staff. The new organization of the high school will necessitate changes which must be made with care. Teachers of successful experience will be required.

Mr. Hazen states in his report that the loss of the ninth grade in the Centre School will leave a distinct gap in the organization and that many things will be impossible without the older group. He prophecies a time not far distant when it will be necessary to have two rooms for each grade. The following two paragraphs are quoted from his report.

"It has been necessary to divide the seventh grade in home economics into two divisions for laboratory work. This divisioning must be continued another year as it is a physical impossibility to handle so many girls at one time in our laboratory. A class with an especially large number of boys would necessitate divisioning for manual arts.

“Last year I was able to report, as the thing I was most pleased about, a great improvement in discipline. This year the thing I am most happy to report is a further step along the same line, an improvement in the attitude of our boys and girls, a general feeling of civic responsibility toward the school. The attitude of many children of ‘Let’s see how much we can get away with’ has largely changed to ‘I want to do the right thing.’ Our boys and girls are frequently careless, often noisy and occasionally lazy, but almost never mean, roudy or impertinent. This is a change which I value beyond all others. It means the development of a GOOD school.”

THE MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Hampton has long been known for its excellent work in music. Mrs. Esther B. Coombs has been the inspiration and motivating force behind this important activity. Her work with our children is based upon a clear understanding of the child mind, its interests and its aptitudes. There follow excerpts from her report to the superintendent of schools.

“We have sought to make music a socializing influence in the lives of all the pupils of all the schools, in accordance with the viewpoints of modern education. It is a subject peculiarly adapted in its many phases, to self-realization through self-expression, because of its universal appeal.

“In grades one, two and three, work is presented in rhythm, tune and tone and appreciation. Rhythm can only be taught through physical activity. Many children can ‘keep time’ that entirely miss the underlying rhythm. We are having some very happy experiences with the pupils, in motion songs of a new type—simply physical activity during singing of songs.

"We continue to have very few monotones, owing to the faithful individual work given by our primary teachers. In the fourth, fifth and sixth grades we are trying to develop a lovely tone quality through the child's sensitiveness to the spirit of the music. We are trying to develop ability to read in accordance with the individual capacity of the pupils. We are also bringing to the child the beautiful works of fine composers. In the sixth grade particularly, we have material in music that correlates easily with the work in geography and history of that grade.

"Grades four, five and six are having the Damrosh Appreciation Hour every other Friday afternoon.

"The Junior High School is having a well-rounded course in music. The pupils are being taught to read in four parts, in three classes, each grade by itself. A chorus of all classes meets for a short period each week to enjoy singing familiar songs together. Music Appreciation is presented to all pupils of grade seven through the Damrosch program, and an elective course in Appreciation is presented for grades eight and nine.

"In the Academy three classes are presented: Girl's Glee Club, Boy's Glee Club and Mixed Chorus. We hope soon the groups may have more practice in singing for the public. The pupils need this in order to gain valuable and necessary poise in performance. The orchestra and band are doing well. New material for their use has helped to put new life into the organizations.

"Last year representatives from our organizations were sent as usual to both New England and the New Hampshire Music Festivals. The orchestra, as a group played at the State Festival.

"I wish to thank the teachers for their cooperation and help in the presenting and carrying out of the program of music."

THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

The physical health of our school children is the care of Miss Frances Smith, our school nurse. She is in the school building every day and visits each school room. The parents may be assured that the children are as carefully watched as a faithful and efficient nurse is able to do. Her report follows.

“Following is a report of health work at Centre School for the past year.

“The yearly examinations have been completed. Results may be seen in the figures below. Grade one and six, the football team, and certain other pupils about whom advice was needed, were examined by the school physician, Dr. Wayne Bryer.

“The dental clinic was resumed this year with Dr. Harold Pierson as school dentist. Two hundred and forty-seven children took advantage of the dental examinations at school. There were thirty-two children who had need of no repair, and eighty-six children have their dental work completed. There are forty-six more to be done this year. The dental work is being done in Dr. Pierson’s office.

“We are grateful for the very generous contribution of the Red Cross and the Parent-Teacher Association for the dental work.

“The only widespread disease of this school year has been mumps. Home visits have been made as often as possible in checking on communicable diseases, and also in an effort to correct as many defects as possible.

“This year some excellent health posters and new material for classroom use has been added. There are posters suitable for all age groups.

"The Parent-Teacher Association has again given toward the cod-liver oil fund for the school children. The Association has also recently given money so that some of the children who are in need of extra nourishment may have hot lunches throughout the cold weather. This is of great benefit and is greatly appreciated.

"The Monday Club and the Mothers' Club have also contributed toward the cod-liver oil fund, and the Mothers' Club toward the hot lunches. We are also grateful to a number of private individuals who have given toward both of these funds.

"Following are examination figures:

HAMPTON ACADEMY AND HIGH SCHOOL

While we are all looking forward to the new high school we would not forget that Hampton Academy has, this year, continued its work of educating its students. The work of several departments has been strengthened by the adoption of new and up-to-date texts. The commerce department has the most modern text books for the work in Stenography. The books, as well as the course in Sociology, are entirely new. New French books have also been purchased.

If the standing of last year's Academy graduates is a test of high school work, Hampton Academy is accomplishing its full task. As a result of tests given at the beginning of the year three of our former pupils attending business college were excused from further English work. We find uniformly satisfactory work in other subjects as well. We are proud of the fact that our graduates are receiving recognition at the hands of their new classmates. One pupil is president of his class in a recognized commercial college while a second pupil is vice-president in a liberal arts college.

The extra curricular activities are more important than is commonly realized. The class organizations, with their various officers and committees offer valuable training in community citizenship. The class plays furnish drill in English work, in self-control and in social adaptability. The publication of the little magazine "The Script" is a motivating force for all the departments of the school. The mechanics of printing the paper are handled by Miss Wolstenholme and her business training classes, but all activities are represented in its pages. That the new building offers increased facilities for these valuable objectives is self evident. The headmaster in a special report has emphasized this point as follows:

"Each class will be assigned a home room having its officers and committees taking over a large part of the routine work by conducting their own activities. Each room might have its chaplain who conducts the morning exercises, a scholarship committee that keeps an honor roll of those highest in their studies and encourages those who have difficulty, an attendance committee, etc. Thus the home room will serve as a device for facilitating the transaction of the administrative business of the school and will promote a democratic pupil participation in school affairs equipping the pupil for citizenship. Carrying the thought even farther representatives from each home room might serve on a student council who would assist in the control of the school both in matters of policy and in routine things such as passing in corridors. The whole purpose would be to teach the democratic way of governing."

As regard the new auditorium Mr. Russell writes :

"The new auditorium-gymnasium with its stage, projection booth, dressing rooms, showers and lockers opens up a whole new field of activities. It will be possible to carry on a complete physical education program as soon as the authorities can see their way clear to do it."

The new building is arranged admirably from the administrative point of view. The activities of each department are kept together as a single unit. For example, the entire work of the commercial department is done in two adjoining rooms. The English room and the Library are also adjoining rooms apart from the other activities of the school. This is the general plan throughout the entire building. Such a grouping leads to economy of time and materials, increases the ease and speed with which work can be done and brings about a more centered interest for the activity at hand. Since there is adequate space in the new building for a mechanic arts department, I sincerely hope that the time is near when Hampton will have such a course. As the machine comes more and more into control of modern life an ever increasing number of our pupils will turn to it for a livelihood. We tend in our high schools to train too many boys and girls for jobs which do not exist for them. If a large proportion of our graduates are to do work with machines why not educate them along those lines? The girls of our school have several courses from which to choose but the offerings to the boys are limited.

We shall have two years of Latin in the new curriculum but once again this is training for a limited number. With the introduction of Biology we shall be taking a decided step in advance but the same criticism exists as in the case of Latin. Under the new organization, athletics can be expanded to include more boys and girls. This is approaching the ideal of participation by every pupil. Mr. Sulloway has kept before the boys the ideals of sportsmanship and fair play. The result is not always victory but always a game of which no one need be ashamed. We are all proud of our athletic teams.

Thanks is due the Hampton Community Club for its generosity in allowing us the uses of its building, both for practice and for scheduled games.

The schools of the Union are cooperating with the Surplus Commodities Distribution by placing at the disposal of our pupils such products as may be delivered to us. While the time of delivery and the kinds of produce are not uniform, the fruit received has proven of some value. Oranges, apples, grapefruit juice, peaches, etc. can always be used. We shall continue this service as long as it is available.

The Hampton Parent-Teacher Association continues its active work as a common ground of mutual helpfulness between teacher and parent. Its interest in the schools and their continual improvement is proven by services rendered. The association should obtain the support of all friends of the school. Its influence for the welfare of our children is strong in proportion as it is upheld by all citizens interested in the welfare of the town.

Hampton is a rapidly growing town. A growing town continually presents new problems of administration and supervision to its school authorities. With an organization as greatly changed as ours of next year, new situations will inevitably arise. These will tax the skill of our teachers. I have every confidence that our present staff will be equal to the task and that next year will witness a most successful term of study.

Let me again express my appreciation to the School Board of Hampton for their advice and help in the duties of my office. To the teachers and principals my most sincere thanks for an enjoyable year of service with them. While the present standards of teacher employment are maintained there need be no fear as to the standing of the Hampton schools.

Respectfully submitted,

ROY W. GILLMORE,
Superintendent of Schools.
