Dear Liz:

Business as usual today. No developments on the dependent front -- unless you want to call the filing of my application for dependent travel O'seas something new.

You know we're not suppose to file them until we're here 5 months. The fact that I filed today simply means that they'll be held in suspense until the 5th month rolls around unless dependents are permitted to return to Trieste - in which case I have avoided the rush of filing applications.

I will go to a staff meeting tomorrow in place of the T.O. who is going to Leghorn for 3 days. If there are any developments there on dependents, I'll get it first hand and report to you forthwith.

Just completed the registration of my car with Trieste authorities. Cost a total of 1900 lire + an additional 2400 lire for my international drivers license. There are 600 lire to the dollar. Figure it up. It took more than 1 day to get it done and I still have more to do before completing.

Talking about red tape, the States have plenty of it.

Can your check account stand a $100⁰⁰ crimp. I want a typewriter, portable. The one I have eyes set on is a portable Royal costing $85.50. I won't buy it till I get the money from you or save it. At the rate our expenses are skyrocketing, I just am able to hang on by practicing stringent economy. It can be the family's Xmas present to me. I'll ask nothing more except your expedited travel to Trieste if schools can be open in February. Of course this could happen.

Am enclosing another tourist info pamphlet. Your + the children's present should be pretty close to Ayer-Road by now love to all. Hubby
