The Declaration of Independence is generally regarded as one of the most famous documents in the history of the world. On June 10, 1776, the Continental Congress appointed a committee, consisting of Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Roger Sherman and Robert R. Livingston to draft a Declaration of Independence.

Jefferson wrote out a rough draft of the Declaration, which was carefully revised by the committee and presented to Congress for adoption. After some further slight revisions by that body, it was adopted on July 4, 1776, at Philadelphia.

The parchment with the original signatures was deposited with the Department of State when the government was organized in 1789.

The original Declaration of Independence is now on public exhibition in the Library of Congress at Washington, D. C. It was transferred from the Department of State by direction of the late President Warren G. Harding.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

MADE BY THE ORIGINAL THIRTEEN STATES IN CONGRESS AT PHILADELPHIA

UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED JULY 4, 1776

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed, by their Creator, with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established, should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people should relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected, whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither; and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy, scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation. He has constrained our fellow citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms: our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disayow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do in the name, and by authority of the good people of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies, are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connexion between them and the State of Great Britain, is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that as free and independent States, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent States may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honour.

The United States Constitution is the oldest federal constitution in existence. It was so well framed that it has served as the basis for this government for a century and a half. Only once has it been seriously endangered, this being during the Civil War. Many of its principles have been adopted by other countries.

The Constitution was the outgrowth of a convention of delegates from the different states that met in Philadelphia in May, 1787, Rhode Island not being represented. George Washington presided over the convention, which lasted from May to September.

The Constitution was then submitted to the then existing states for ratification, with a provision that it should become effective when ratified by nine states. New Hampshire was ninth state to ratify, June 21, 1788, and the Constitution went into effect in 1789.

The states ratified the Constitution in the following order: Delaware, Dec. 7; Pennsylvania, Dec. 12, and New Jersey, Dec. 18, 1787; Georgia, Jan. 2; Connecticut, Jan. 9; Massachusetts, Feb. 6; Maryland, Apr. 28; South Carolina, May 23; New Hampshire, June 21; Virginia, June 26, and New York, July 26, 1788; North Carolina, Nov. 21, 1789, and Rhode Island, May 29, 1790.

THE UNITED STATES

The United States is composed of forty-eight states, one district, and eight non-contiguous territories and possessions, including The Philippines, a commonwealth, whose independence will be recognized after a ten-year transitional commonwealth government, which was inaugurated November 15, 1935 (act of Congress signed by President, March 24, 1934).

The republic originated in the rebellion of the British Colonies of North America, Canada excepted, in 1776, and in the Declaration of Independence, the thirteen colonies in revolt styled themselves "The United States of America."

The Canadian boundary line is 3,900 miles in length, the Mexican boundary line being 1,975 miles in length. The total ocean, lake and river boundary is 10,758 miles. The greatest length from the Atlantic to the Pacific is 3,100 miles, while the greatest distance north and south is 1,780 miles.

According to the 1940 Federal Census, the first basic re-measurement of the land and water area of the United States since 1880 showed a total area of 3,022,387 square miles, consisting of 2,977,128 square miles land area, and 45,259 square miles inland water area.

The 1940 Federal census gave the United States, and all territorial possessions, a population of 150,621,231, Continental United States having 131,669,275; territorial possessions, excluding Philippine Islands, 2,595,956; Philippine Islands 16,356,000.

The Capitol of the United States is at Washington, D. C. The corner stone of the original building was laid on September 18, 1793 by President George Washington. The original building was finally completed in 1827, its cost, including the grading of grounds, alterations and repairs up to that year, having been $2,433,844.13.

Creation, date of admission, area and population

There is no specific form of procedure provided in the United States Constitution for the admission of new states to the Union. Different methods of admission have marked the addition of the thirty-five states to the original thirteen. For admission, however, certain conditions must exist. The community must be organized with a population in numbers and character capable of upholding self government and Congress is the final judge as to these requirements. The decisions of Congress, however, have frequently been influenced by party reasons, and in 1872 it was enacted that no state should be admitted thereafter unless it had the necessary population entitling it to at least one representative, according to a ratio of representation fixed. To gain admission, a petition is presented to Congress, which grants an enabling act if the request is favorably received. When all the terms of the enabling act have been complied with, Congress, by resolution, or the President, by proclamation, declares the new state admitted to the Union.

[ART.] *2d. All men have certain natural, essential, and inherent rights-among which are, the enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing, and protecting, property; and, in a word, of seeking and obtaining happiness.

[ART.] 3d. When men enter into a state of society, they surrender up some of their natural rights to that society, in order to ensure the protection of others; and, without such an equivalent, the surrender is void.

HISTORY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

GEOGRAPHICAL LOCATION

New Hampshire is situated the most northern of the thirteen original states and lies between latitude 42-40 and 45-18 north and longitude 70-37 and 72-37 west. It is about 180 miles long and 50 miles wide, although the extreme width is 93 miles.

It is bounded on the north by Quebec province in Canada, on the east by Maine and the Atlantic ocean, on the south by Massachusetts, and on the west by Vermont. The Connecticut River is the western boundary.

"MOTHER OF RIVERS"

Geographies sometimes speak of the state as the "Mother of Rivers." Five of the great streams of New England originate in its granite hills. The Connecticut River rises in the northern part, and for nearly one hundred miles of its winding course hems the shores of the state with a "broad seam of silver." The Pemigewasset River starts in the Profile Lake in the Franconia mountains and joins the Winnipesaukee at Franklin to form the Merrimack, which at one time turned more spindles than any river in the world. The Cocheco and Salmon Falls rivers join at Dover to form the Piscataqua. In addition, two of the principal rivers of Maine, the Androscoggin and the Saco, have their beginnings in northern New Hampshire.

"THE GRANITE STATE"

New Hampshire is commonly known as the Granite State, and of late years by some writers is called the Queen State—"Queen by right of her natural beauty; queen by her native hardy spirit; queen by her diversified industry; queen by reason of her motherhood of great men. She is enthroned on hills of granite, diademed with sparkling waters and sceptered with industry."

The state entertains annually over a million summer visitors, who resort in the mountain, lake and seashore scenery,—in fact it has been estimated that a million automobiles cross our borders annually! The soil is suitable for fruits, flowers and vegetables. The forests of pine, spruce and hard wood add beauty to the landscape and wealth to the land.

The White Mountains are the natural feature which has the widest fame. There are over two hundred bodies of water, which cover one hundred and fifteen thousand acres and vary from small ponds to Lake Winnipesaukee, which is twenty-two miles long and eight miles wide.

No state grows apples of finer flavor than come from the hillsides of New Hampshire. Horticultural shows have no better exhibits than are presented from towns in the southern part of this state, where the orchards have been sprayed and treated by the latest scientific methods. Strawberries, blueberries, peaches and products of the garden are grown in great quantities and shipped hundreds of miles.

Dairying is a large business and in recent years the quality of the herds has increased tenfold. There are 5,779,840 acres of land in the state, 1,960,061 acres being in farm land, with the number of farms estimated at 16,554, according to the 1940 farm census. There were over two and one-half million acres of timber land, which contained over thirty billion feet of merchantable timber, but the disastrous hurricane of 1938 has sadly depleted the standing timber in New Hampshire's granite hills.

FINE SUMMER RESORTS

It is estimated that every year more than four million dollars is permanently invested in the purchase of land and the construction of buildings in the rural districts. Nearly every town has some summer visitors. Winnipesaukee shores are lined with cottages and hotels; Sunapee has a summer population of over five thousand, who enjoy its beauties.

The state has a seaboard of about eighteen miles. Hampton and Rye beaches have been famous summer resorts since the days Whittier pitched his "tent on the beach." The salt waves of the Atlantic lap the sometimes sandy, sometimes rocky coast into one continuous pleasure ground, where surf bathing and scenic beauty enchant the visitor. In the early fall of 1915 a disastrous fire at Hampton Beach destroyed many of the hotels and places of business there, but the resort has since been rebuilt from the ruins until it is larger and more attractive than ever. The recreational area at Hampton Beach has greatly improved the appearance of that part of the coast. The state maintains a large public bath house and a parking area there. The erection of a sea wall in 1934 not only improved the property along the coast, but was a necessary measure against coast erosion.

Portsmouth, the only sea city, has an historic past and a prosperous present with its large navy yard. New Castle is a place of romance and aesthetic beauty and adventure. A large part of the Isles of Shoals in Portsmouth harbor belongs to New Hampshire, with their cottages and hotels. The state highways are as fine as any state can boast of and are kept in excellent driving condition the year round. New Hampshire is open to visitors, from the coast to the mountains, twelve months in the year.

FISH AND GAME

In 1865 New Hampshire joined the vanguard of American science by establishing a fish and game department, the first one of its kind in New England. Since that date, some eighty years ago, the efforts of this department have been devoted to the propagation and conservation of fish and game.

In modern times the cultivation of fish and the protection of wild life have demanded the application of scientific methods quite as much as any other element of our life. It is a known fact that while European countries have found vast resources in their shore fisheries, the United States is by no means able to rely on her coast fisheries, and has thus been obliged to develop her inland waters to meet the needs that otherwise could have been met only by importation from other countries. Moreover, while Europe's supply is bound to lessen in time to come, our supply will continue to increase.

Herein lies the purpose of the state department of fish and game, to see that New Hampshire stands in the van, not in the rear, of developing her natural resources.

The state department is using many methods. In the first place, it is trying to secure the co-operation of the people, without which no department can succeed. It advocates the formation of sportsmen's clubs and the active interest of its members. Already there are seventy clubs throughout the state with the promise of new clubs forming each year. The state maintains four hatcheries; Colebrook, Warren, New Hampton and Laconia, and the federal government two, at York Pond and Nashua. In addition, there are four rearing stations; Whitefield, Richmond, Greenland and Newmarket. From these sources millions of fish are distributed each year. The department is active in securing legislation to avert the destruction of all wild life in New Hampshire and to foster a sound conservation policy. With its numerous sanctuaries and refuges,—there are thirteen in the state—and the whole-hearted co-operation of the sporting clubs, New Hampshire is truly a sportsman's paradise. Deer have never been reported more plentiful since the time of the Indian.

"COME TO NEW HAMPSHIRE"

New Hampshire believes in progress and development in every direction. She invites the whole world to visit her mountains, the "playground of America." Those seeking opportunity for profitable farming will do well to write for further information to the Commissioner of Agriculture, Concord, N. H.; sportsmen are invited to send for literature and advice to the Fish and Game Director, Concord, N. H.; those looking for business openings, either in manufacturing enterprises or in the retail field, should correspond with the New Hampshire Planning and Development Commission, Concord, N. H.

The Boston & Maine Railroad Publicity Bureau at Boston, Mass., the New Hampshire Manufacturers' Association and the New Hampshire Historical Society, Concord, N. H., are other sources from which information not given in this volume may be secured.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

New Hampshire was one of the thirteen original colonies which revolted from English rule and founded the United States of America, one hundred and seventy years ago. When this continent was settled, New Hampshire was a part of a grant made in 1620 by James I, King of England, to the Plymouth Company, a commercial organization formed to develop the "new world." This was three hundred and twenty-five years ago.

The name of New Hampshire was first given to this section of the country in 1629, when the Plymouth Company gave a grant of part of its colonial possessions to Captain John Mason, a gentleman of Hampshire in England. New Hampshire in those days was roughly described as "that part of the main land of New England" between the Merrimack and Piscataqua rivers. It was more than a hundred years before the boundaries of the province of New Hampshire were definitely fixed, but once settled upon, in 1740 on the south and east and in 1764 on the west, these lines have remained practically intact to this day. There was, however, a longstanding dispute between New Hampshire and Vermont over the boundary line, a difference of opinion aggravated by the changing bed of the Connecticut River, which was definitely settled in 1936 thus ending a long legal dispute that lasted from 1915 to the time the markers were completed in August of 1936. The New Hampshire-Vermont boundary is described as "a line beginning at the apex of the granite monument which marks the southeast corner of Vermont and the southwest corner of New Hampshire, erected in 1897 under the supervision of commissioners of the two states, at low water mark on the west side of the Connecticut River and extending thence northerly along the western side of the river at low water mark, as the same is or would be if unaffected by improvements on the river, to the southerly line of the town of Pittsburg, New Hampshire. Such low water mark is hereby defined as the line drawn at the point to which the river recedes at its lowest stage, without reference to, and unaffected by extreme droughts, but subject to such changes as may hereafter be effected by erosion or accretion."

In 1622 a grant of part of New Hampshire was given by patent to Captain Mason and a partner, Sir Ferdinand Gorges, by the council of Plymouth. Robert Gorges was appointed the first governor, and he came to America two years later and assumed his office. Five years later the patent of Laconia was granted to a company of traders, but the extent of the company's jurisdiction was not definitely settled upon.

In 1629, the same year that the Laconian patent was granted,

Captain Mason and his partner reached an agreement whereby Captain Mason took over the whole of New Hampshire and relinquished to his partner his rights on territory in Maine east of the Piscataqua River: The Council of Plymouth confirmed this division of territory.

In 1635 the Council of Plymouth re-issued its patent to Mason and then dissolved. A document purporting to be a charter directly from the king of England to Captain Mason, issued that same year, giving the captain the New Hampshire territory then held by him, is in existence, but whether or not this document is authentic is a question among historians.

The first settlement in New Hampshire was in Rye (then called "Little Harbor" and afterwards called Portsmouth,) in 1623, the second settlement at Dover in 1628, the third at Exeter in 1638, and the fourth at Hampton in 1639. The objects of these adventurers into the primitive wilderness of New Hampshire were to clear the land for cultivation, to seek for the mineral wealth which was supposed to exist, to establish and carry on fisheries on the rivers, which teemed with fish, and along the coast, and to barter with the native Indian tribes of the locality.

The Massachusetts colonists had come to America to found settlements where they might have freedom in religious worship—a freedom which, however, they were unwilling to grant to any not of their faith. It was a day when religious opinions were paramount, and politics and legislation were subordinate, when creeds claimed precedence over rights. Unless a person subscribed unreservedly to the established creed he was a heretic. In such a class were the Quakers, Roger Williams, Anne Hutchinson and her brother-in-law, Rev. John Wheelwright, a man of superior endowments and high culture, who, disenfranchised and banished from Massachusetts, led forty of his exiled adherents into the wilderness of New Hampshire and settled Exeter in July, 1638.

Underlying these early settlements was a deep religious conviction, perhaps not so radical as in Massachusetts, but still present, which again manifests itself when the people of the state, while formulating a frame of government, gave the religious idea so prominent a place in the Bill of Rights.

CAPTAIN MASON'S EFFORTS

Charles I, for political and religious reasons, had granted Mason extraordinary rights and privileges. Mason had been not only a faithful adherent of the king, but also a devout and zealous supporter of the Church of England. It was inevitable therefore that his ideas of government and religion should be distasteful to the Massachusetts colonists so near at hand.

Mason's colony was, however, solely a business venture. He established no government over it. The settlements were under the immediate direction of agents commissioned by and answerable to the proprietor. They were ruled as a body of workmen are ruled—just as the Hudson Bay Company governs through its factors.

Mason died in 1635, and while his early efforts to occupy the lands allotted to him were persevering and meritorious, the founding of colonies was a matter requiring the expenditure of large sums of money, of which neither Mason nor his descendants had command, and his plans with regard to the colonization of New Hampshire failed of execution.

There was no provincial government in those days, but each town maintained its own government. Religious differences prevented as years went on the development of a central government, and in 1641 the New Hampshire towns resigned their jurisdiction to Massachusetts and became a part of Norfolk county of that province.

BECOMES ROYAL PROVINCE, 1679

After thirty-eight years as a part of Massachusetts, New Hampshire became a province of itself in 1679 by an order of the king of England, which was preceded by a decree of the English courts to the effect that Massachusetts had no right to extend its jurisdiction over New Hampshire.

King Charles II issued a commission to John Cutts of Portsmouth in that year to be president of the province and to govern it under the king, with the aid of a council and assembly. This was the real beginning of constitutional government in this territory, which has continued without serious interruption to the present time.

The commission of the king reserved to him the right to veto all the acts of the provincial legislature and the right to dissolve the legislature at his pleasure. The New Hampshire settlers did not like this arrangement as well as they did the jurisdiction of Massachusetts.

The governors sent to the province by the king proved to be avaricious tyrants. Even the Lords of Trade in England would not uphold them in some of their actions, and time and again, at the instigation of the heirs of Captain Mason (the Masonian Proprietors, so called) the royal governors tried to force the people to surrender their titles to lands and take leases from the Masonian Proprietors.

THE MASONIAN CONTROVERSY

In 1690 the people, mindful of their former pleasant relations with Massachusetts, resolved on a second union with their old ally, and sent a petition to William and Mary of England.

Through the influence of Samuel Allen, who had bought out the interests of the Mason heirs, the king failed to grant this request, and the union, which had been accepted by Massachusetts, was short lived.

Allen was appointed governor and his son-in-law became his deputy. In this way were the claims of Mason's heirs, so abhorrent to the people, continued until the death of Allen's son early in the reign of Queen Anne. These suits and claims were finally settled in 1787 by compromise.

"There is probably no controversy on record that involved so many parties, continued so many years, and created so many lawsuits as Mason's claim to New Hampshire. Kings and queens, nobles and plebeians, proprietors and counsellors, courts and legislatures for nearly a century were constantly agitating the question of the right of soil of this wild, rough and rocky state. Generation after generation of claimants died, but the controversy lived. Judges of the king's bench and of the state courts again and again decided cases at issue, but still the spirits which avarice had conjured up would not down at their bidding. The people outlived their prosecutors and the fire went out for want of fuel." (Sanborn, History of New Hampshire.)

For forty-three years, from 1698 until 1741, New Hampshire and Massachusetts were under the same governor, although each province maintained its identity. At the expiration of this period a new arrangement was made by which New Hampshire had one of its own sons, Benning Wentworth, appointed governor, and the provincial legislature was given increased authority.

He served for twenty-six years during an era of good feeling such as the colony had never before known. He was a benefactor of Moor's Indian School, which under his successor was chartered as Dartmouth College.

He was succeeded by his nephew, John Wentworth, in 1767, who also was well received by the people and by the assembly. As governor, he granted a charter to Dartmouth College and endowed it with forty-five thousand acres of land.

"He was universally beloved by the people. He had uniformly endeavored to promote the general public welfare by encouraging commerce, constructing highways, establishing courts and fostering learning." (Sanborn.)

But in 1774, as representative of King George III, he assisted General Gage in his work on fortifications in Boston. This brought down upon him the intense dislike of the revolutionary party and he fled from the state to Boston, where he might have the protection of General Gage. Still retaining the title of governor, he returned for a time to Fort William and Mary, from which place he issued a proclamation dissolving the assembly and shortly afterwards set sail for England. He was the last of royal governors.

Before Governor Wentworth quit, the provincial legislature took official action in regard to the revolution, and a committee safety was organized. This committee summoned a revolutionary assembly, which met in Exeter and was known as the First Provincial Congress. Four other congress of similar character followed.

The last meeting of the old provincial assembly took place in 1775. The same year the American Continental Congress gave the New Hampshire revolutionists the right to set up a new government.

THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR

About one-half of the soldiers at the Battle of Bunker Hill were New Hampshire troops under the command of such leaders as John Stark, James Reid, and Enoch Poor. Throughout the struggle for independence the revolutionary state government, under the direction of the committee of safety, of which Meshech Weare was president, furnished troops in large numbers.

General John Sullivan distinguished himself on many battlefields, and the exploits of General Stark at Bennington are incidents of renown. It was largely the New Hampshire forces which brought about the surrender of Burgoyne.

With the close of the Revolution this state entered actively into the organization of the federal government. John Langdon, one of the early governors, was the first president of the United States senate, and was nominated for vice-president of the nation.

In 1780 a petition by the slaves for freedom was circulated in this state. Dartmouth College began to develop about that time and the legislature gave the college the right to raise money by a lottery. In 1792 the first bank was chartered to do business, and the year before, the State Medical Society was founded, with Governor Joseph Bartlett at its head. In 1796 the first turnpike and state highway from Concord to Portsmouth was chartered.

SECOND WAR WITH ENGLAND

When the second war with England broke out in 1812 Governor John Langdon drafted thirty-five hundred men at the request of the president. The state militia at that time was in its most flourishing condition and consisted of three divisions, six brigades and thirty-seven regiments.

William Plumer succeeded to the governorship before hostilities had advanced, and he organized the first regiment of New Hampshire volunteers, which later became part of the regular army. In 1813 there was a political overturn, in which former Governor John T. Gilman defeated Governor Plumer for re-election. Governor Gilman was head of the Federalist party in the state, and its return to power was celebrated by abolishing the courts and turning out the judges and other officers. The Federalists were opposed to the war, but all the people, regardless of party, became afraid of English invasion and were solid in defense of the state. The inhabitants of Portsmouth in particular were frightened on several occasions of a British landing and attack, and Governor Gilman summoned the entire militia to the defense of that city.

A native of New Hampshire, Lewis Cass of Exeter, achieved military distinction in Michigan. He was later a senator from that state, candidate for the presidency in 1848 and then secretary of state under Buchanan. In 1814 a secessionary gathering was held at Hartford, Connecticut, at which delegates were present from most of the New England states. Governor Gilman was blocked in his efforts to secure New Hampshire representation at the convention by three of his councilors, who were Democrats.

DARTMOUTH "UNIVERSITY"

In 1815 a very destructive tempest occurred. That same year there was a political tempest, when former Governor Plumer was returned to power and the judges and office-holders were again addressed out of office. The state house was located on its present site during the 1815 administration. A controversy arose over Dartmouth College, which for several years was a paramount issue in state politics. The legislature changed the name to Dartmouth University and reorganized the government of the institution, but the United States Supreme Court ruled that the legislature could not overturn a charter that had been granted by the king.

In 1817 President James Monroe visited the state, and there was an era of political good feeling which lasted for many years. In 1819 the use of the power-loom was commenced at the Amoskeag Mills in Manchester, and from that time these mills developed until they became the largest in the world. A most destructive freshet in 1824 destroyed the bridges over the Merrimack river and damaged a good deal of property.

General Lafayette visited the state in 1824 and was received with the greatest enthusiasm. In 1833 President Andrew Jackson rode on horseback into Concord, accompanied by his vice-president, Martin Van Buren, his secretary of war, Lewis Cass, who was a native of Exeter; and his secretary of the navy, Levi Woodbury of Portsmouth. Partisan feeling was bitter in those days and the celebration was indulged in principally by Democrats.

DEVELOPMENT OF INDUSTRY

In 1835 and subsequent years railroads were chartered and constructed in all parts of the state and a period of great commercial development was inaugurated. This led to the growth of several towns on the railroad into cities. Chief among these was Manchester, which had a fortunate location at Amoskeag Falls, and in 1846 it was incorporated as a city.

The war with Mexico broke out that year, and although there was no great enthusiasm for the war in New Hampshire, many sons of the state, such as Franklin Pierce, John Bedell and Dr. John D. Walker, took a prominent part in the military activities. After the war many other young men emigrated to the fertile prairies of the West.

In 1850 the entire expenses of the legislative, executive and judicial departments of the state government amounted to only $36,000.

During that year a convention was held to revise the Constitution, and Franklin Pierce was its president. Two years later he was elected president of the United States, receiving the support of all but four states in the Union.

Before the Pierce administration was through the Democratic party lost control of New Hampshire. In 1855 the American or Know-Nothing party elected Ralph Metcalf governor and John P. Hale senator. From this party there developed the Republican organization, which was in power through the Civil War and for nearly twenty years after. St. Paul's School in Concord was opened in 1856 and is one of the most select preparatory institutions in the country.

THE CIVIL WAR

In 1861 the Civil War broke out. During the first year of the war New Hampshire sent eight regiments of the infantry to the front, and during the second year nine more, and in 1864 still another. Altogether about thirty-nine thousand men went from this state to fight for the preservation of the union. Nineteen hundred were killed in action or died of wounds, twenty-five hundred died of disease and two hundred and eighty-five were missing. About sixteen hundred men re-enlisted after their first term of service.

In 1866 a railroad was built up Mount Washington. The following year the department of public instruction was established and from that time the state has enjoyed universal common school education. In 1874 the Democratic party obtained control of all branches of the government for the first time since the war, and there was a complete overturn in offices. In 1878 there was a revision of the laws of the state, the new prison was built, and the militia was reorganized. Biennial elections were substituted for annual elections by an amendment to the Constitution that year. In 1887 there took place a very bitter railroad struggle in the legislature between the Concord railroad and the Boston & Maine railroad. This was followed by an organization of the Boston & Maine system throughout northern New England on a basis of leases, the New Hampshire railroads all leasing to the Boston & Maine. An attempt to reorganize the railroad by modifying or breaking the leases in 1915 and 1916 failed, and in the latter year the road went into receivership.

The history of the state since 1888 is within the memory of the generation now living and to recite it would be beyond the scope of this legislative manual, which is designed more to preserve facts concerning the early days of the state's history. For the past fifty years New Hampshire has grown in every way. Her industries have flourished, her population has increased, her churches, schools, and colleges have expanded, and her attractions as a summer resort have become known to all the world.

THE STATE HOUSE

The seat of government is at the state house in Concord and has been for over 135 years although the present capitol building is only 129 years old and has been twice remodelled. Twice have strenuous efforts been made to remove the capital to Manchester, the largest city in the state.

_ During the Revolutionary War the seat of government was at Exeter and all the sessions of the provincial congress or convention and the colonial house of representatives were held in that academic town. The first six sessions of the state legislature assembled at Exeter also. In 1777 the legislature met at Portsmouth for a change and again in 1780, but all the other meetings took place at Exeter until 1782, when Concord became the capital. From then until 1807 the legislature met at various places, including Concord, Exeter, Portsmouth, Hopkinton, Charlestown, Dover and Amherst. Concord sessions in those days and in the later period from 1807 to 1819 took place in the old town house that stood on the site of the Merrimack county building of today.

The state house was built in 1816 to 1819 and cost $82,000. On Tuesday, September 24, 1816, the corner stone was laid. The building was completed, and the legislature first convened in it, in June, 1819. The lot of land, consisting of about two acres, was given by the town and the stone for the building was taken out of "Rattlesnake Hill" and dressed by convicts at the state prison. At the first legislature that sat in it there were twelve senators and one hundred and ninety-two representatives.

During the Civil War the state house was too small to accommodate the legislature and officials. Manchester offered to build a new one to cost $500,000 and give it to the state for the honor of becoming the seat of government and one of the greatest and closest battles in the history of the legislature was fought over this proposition. Manchester was defeated and instead of moving, the state decided to enlarge and remodel the old building, which was done in 1864-66.

The building was remodelled after the architecture of the Hotel Des Invalides in Paris and from that day to this it has been regarded as one of the most meritorious structures from an architectural viewpoint that there is in the country. The government outgrew the building again in 1909 so that an addition was built onwhich placed the state house in its present form. Before the addition was made Manchester made its second attempt to become the capital by offering $1,000,000 to build a new building. The struggle between the two cities was fought all over again with the same result.

The cost of the first remodelling of the building was about $200,000, and of the second, $400,000.

One of the interesting attractions in the state house is the gallery of portraits in the principal offices and corridors. These portraits are of famous sons of the state, including the heroes of civil and military life, former governors, senators, secretaries of state and others.

Another noted attraction is the hall of flags in the foyer of the state house. Here are displayed many of the old provincial banners and the regimental colors of some of New Hampshire's finest. Some of these old flags were actually carried in decisive battles on the bloody fields of a hard-won independence and are an integral part of New Hampshire's interesting background.

By 1937, with many of the state's large and important departments scattered over the city of Concord in privately-owned buildings, it became increasingly evident that additional offices were a growing necessity. In the past two decades, state and federal government had grown by leaps and bounds and once again the state house was no longer adequate to house its rapidly growing and increasing family.

Governor Francis Parnell Murphy, in his message to the incoming legislature, on January 7, 1937, recommended the construction of a state office building adjacent to the state house, pointing out that the constantly mounting cost of rentals for outside space would go far towards defraying carrying charges and amortizing bonds for a new structure. He stressed the increase in efficiency of the departments and the reduction in costs of operation with the state government under one roof, so to speak, whereas many of the departments were fully half a mile away from the state house at that time. Furthermore, the general public, seeking contact with the various branches of state government, would find it decidedly more convenient to find their government all in one place rather than so widely scattered and so difficult to locate.

On July 21, 1937, the legislature appropriated $600,000 to be expended, together with such sums as might be received from the federal government, for the erection of a state house annex. The governor and council commissioned Wells, Hudson and Granger, Architects of Hanover, New Hampshire, to draw plans and specifications for a state office building or annex.

An application for federal assistance was immediately made by Governor Murphy, but the federal public works administration had already allocated all grants for aid on such building projects and it looked doubtful that New Hampshire would receive an appropriation although the application was pending. The project was dormant until early in 1938 when Governor Murphy again made personal appeal for assistance when it became known that additional appropriations had been granted for the federal works building program.

By extraordinary good fortune this project became number one on the list for the entire nation and, in June, 1938, New Hampshire received a grant of $288,000. Later, a credit on the sums invested in the building site was granted, making a total grant of $327,000.

The corner stone for this newest addition to the state house was laid by Governor Murphy on October 25, 1938 and the building was completed on October 27, 1939. The first department to take up quarters in the new annex being the New Hampshire state police department. The building was officially dedicated on January 18, 1940. It houses twenty-one separate department offices with upward of 450 employees and is connected by an underground tunnel with the state house.

As parts of Massachusetts Bay Colony (1641-3 to 1679) the towns of Hampton, Exeter, Dover, and Strawberry Bank were comprised within Norfolk county, which was one of the four shires, viz., Essex, Middlesex, Suffolk, and Norfolk, into which the Bay Colony was separated from "3d month, 10th day 1643."

The Province of New Hampshire agitated the subject of county establishment for years previous to decisive action in 1769, one plan, which came to nought in 1755, being to make two counties, Portsmouth and Cumberland, with the Merrimack as the dividing line.

The act which passed April 29, 1769, contained the provision that it should not take effect until "his majesty's royal approbation thereof be known," and the further provision that "said counties of Strafford and Grafton shall be for the present annexed to and deemed and taken as parts and members of the County of Rockingham * * * until the governor by and with the advice of the council shall declare them respectively sufficient for the exercise of their respective jurisdictions and no longer." Governor John Wentworth, in a message to the house of representatives in March, 1771, said "It gives me great pleasure to inform you that his majesty has been graciously pleased to approve and confirm the act for dividing this Province into counties." The existence of Rockingham, Hillsborough, and Cheshire counties began on March 19, 1771, Strafford and Grafton having received authority to exercise and enjoy county privileges, as set forth in Governor John Wentworth's message to the house on May 28, 1772, their separation from Rockingham became effective on June 5, 1773, by the terms of the act of February 5, 1773, "fixing the times and places for holding courts in * * * Grafton county," four months being allowed for the building of "prisons, court houses," etc.

The division of 1769, by the "Act for dividing this Province into Counties and for the more easy administration of Justice," was as follows: "The bounds of the first County to begin at the mouth of Piscataqua River and to run up the same to the Easterly corner of Newmarket including the River, and from thence Northwesterly by the Easterly and Northerly sidelines of Newmarket, Epping, Nottingham, Chichester and Canterbury to the River, and down the same line of Concord including the River, then round the Westerly Lines of Bow, Concord and Pembroke to Merrimack River, thence down the same to the North west corner of Derryfield, thence by the Easterly lines of Derryfield, Litchfield and Nottingham West to the Province Line, thence by said line to the Sea, thence by the Sea to the bounds first mentioned, including all that part of the Isles of Shoals which belongs to this Province.

THE COUNTIES

When New Hampshire was a part of the colony of Massachusetts Bay, from 1641 to 1679, the principal towns of New Hampshire were part of Norfolk county in Massachusetts. New Hampshire did not divide herself into counties, however, until 1769, six years before the Revolution. In that year the five counties of Rockingham, Strafford, Hillsborough, Cheshire and Grafton were established.

Coos was the sixth county, established in 1803. Merrimack was established in 1823, Sullivan in 1827, and Belknap and Carroll in 1840. Since the original division into counties the legislature on twenty occasions has amended and changed the layout. Among the early settlers whose descendants still live in the town, or did until recently, were Jacob Burbank, Ebenezer Spaulding, David Loweli, Ephraim Severence, John Safford, Samuel Copeland, Jonathan Brockway and Simeon Farnsworth. The town was in Cheshire county until 1827, when it went into the new county of Sullivan. The town was surveyed originally as five miles square, divided into ten ranges of twenty lots of land each. Each lot was 160 by 80 rods. In 1762 the town was incorporated and the name changed to Wilton after an English town. In 1768 the tenth range of the town was taken to help make the incorporation of Temple. Ancestors of Reverend Lyman Abbott of New York City, a famous editor and preacher, lived in Wilton as early as 1765, one member of the family inventing a machine for making starch in 1811 and conducting a business in Wilton. The Masonian Proprietors at an unknown date annexed part of Lyndeborough to Wilton. In 1869 a freshet carried away every bridge in town, with mill and dams, and did a damage of $150,000. Hillsborough county, second congressional, fourth councilor and twelfth senatorial districts.

Winchester was granted in 1733 by the Massachusetts Colony to Josiah Willard and others, and was first called "Earlington." Later, for some cause yet undiscovered, the name was changed to "Arlington," which later was changed to "Winchester," after an English city, from which some of the ancestors of the grantees are said to have come. As originally granted, the township was of the contents of six miles square, and it was shaped like the block letter L, and "lay to the eastward and northward of Northfield." Its southeastern corner was established practically as it now is, while its northwestern corner was at the Connecticut river, where Brattleboro, Vt., now is, and at the present corner of Hinsdale and Chesterfield at this point. In 1744 "the New Province line" was established between Massachusetts and New Hampshire, This line severed from Winchester about two thousand acres, which later became a part of Warwick, Mass., and divided the township of Northfield nearly in the middle, leaving a portion in each province. In 1753 New Hampshire granted to Josiah Willard and his associates all that territory lying between Winchester's east line and the Connecticut river, under the name of Winchester, with the proviso that the township so incorporated might be divided. This provision was promptly (in the same year) acted upon; and upon the petition of Col. Ebenezer Hinsdale and others the township of Hinsdale was set off. The southwesterly corner of Winchester was fixed at a point in the New Province line eighty rods eastwardly from the Connecticut river, and thence Winchester's westerly line ran due north, "by the needle," till it intersected the original east and west line on the north boundary. By this, Winchester received a large portion of the old Northfield grant on its southwest corner and lost a considerable area on its northwesterly border. This allotment of territory continued unchanged for ninety-seven years. In 1850 a small triangular corner was taken from the northwest corner of Richmond and annexed to Winchester. Cheshire county, second congressional, fourth councilor and eleventh senatorial districts.

Windham was set off from Londonderry and incorporated in 1741 and named after an English town. The first grant of land in what is now Windham was one of five hundred acres made by the legislature of Massachusetts to Rev. Thomas Cobbett of Ipswich, Mass., in 1662. The exact location is not known, but it was on the shore of what is now Cobbett's Pond. The first settlement was made about 1720. John Waddell occupied the first house. David Gregg and Alexander McCoy settled the following year. The line between Windham and Salem was established in 1752, part of Windham being annexed to Salem. Part of Londonderry was annexed in 1777 and another part the following year. The line between Londonderry and Windham was established in 1782 and an additional part of Londonderry was annexed in 1805. It is one of the smallest towns, both in area and population. Hillsborough county, second congressional, fourth councilor and ninth senatorial districts.

Wolfeboro was granted in 1759 by the Masonian Proprietors to William E. Treadwell and others. This grant was taken from a large tract of land called "Kingswood" and named "Wolfborough" in honor of General Wolfe, the hero of Quebec. Nearly a century afterwards, by special act of congress, the spelling was changed to Wolfeboro. Four additions have since been made to the town on the sides now bounded by towns of Alton, Wakefield and Tuftonboro. Wolfeboro was incorporated in 1770. Not until 1768 were there any permanent inhabitants. Among the early settlers were Benjamin Blake, William Fullerton, Ruben Libby, Ebenezer Meader, Thomas Piper and Henry Rust. In 1858 a small part of Tuftonboro was annexed. Wolfeboro was the summer home of John Wentworth, the last provincial governor, and he did much for this new settlement. The foundations of his commodious manison still remain and are visited by tourists. Brewster Free academy, a preparatory school of recognized standing, is located in Wolfeboro. Carroll county, first congressional, first councilor and fourth senatorial districts.

Woodstock was granted in 1763 to Eli Demerit and others and incorporated with the name "Peeling." It was regranted in 1771 to Nathaniel Cushman and others and the name changed to "Fairfield." The national census of 1790 (first census) increased this to four, the second census of 1800 to five and the third census of 1810 to six seats. The census of 1830 reduced it to five, that of 1840 to four and that of 1850 to three. The census of 1870 reduced it to two, but the seat taken away was restored until the next census of 1880, since when the state has had two representatives.

Article 60 of the second part of the constitution provides for an executive council of five men to advise and act with the governor. Before the constitution there was a council both under the temporary constitution of the Revolution and under the provincial government. Since 1913 councilors have been elected by plurality vote to represent population but previously to that they were elected by majority vote to represent property, and in the colonial days they were appointed.

The following is a complete list of all the councilors since the Revolution giving the name and address of each and the year in which he was elected or appointed.

THE SENATE

The senate began under the constitution and first met in 1784. There were at first twelve senators who represented the five counties that then existed, five senators from Rockingham county, two from Strafford, two from Hillsborough, two from Cheshire, and one from Grafton. In 1793 senatorial districts were created to take the place of county representation and each district elected one senator. The elections during the early years took place in March and the legislature met in June annually.

The senatorial districting of 1793 was changed over in 1803 and several times subsequently. In 1878 the senate was doubled in size. In 1915 the senators were elected by plurality instead of majority vote. The following is a complete list of the senators from the beginning, showing the name and residence of each member of each senate, arranged in the order of districts from 1793, when the districts were created, and previous to that year, in the order of counties.

FEDERAL CENSUS OF 1940

Population of the State. New Hampshire was one of the original thirteen States. The rural areas grew faster than the urban areas in the ten-year period between 1930-40, according to final figures of the Sixteenth Decennial Census, issued by the Federal Census Bureau. This period has thus reversed a trend towards greater concentration of population in urban areas, which lasted from 1820 to 1930.

The final count of the Sixteenth Census showed that on April 1, 1940, New Hampshire had a population of 491,524, an increase of 26,231 over the 465,293 residents reported in the 1930 census. This change represents an increase of 5.6 per cent as compared with 5.0 per cent between 1920 and 1930.

The population increase in urban areas from 1930 to 1940 was 3.7 per cent, as compared with 8.4 in the rural sections. Urban residents accounted for 57.6 per cent of the State's population in 1940, as compared with 58.7 per cent in 1930. In 1940, residents of urban areas numbered 283,225, while the rural population amounted to 208,299. The census bureau considers as urban areas the incorporated places of 2,500 or more. In New Hampshire, however, it is not the practice to incorporate the towns (townships) until they attain a much larger population; hence in this State the thickly settled towns are also classified as urban on the basis of special requirements. The remaining territory is classified as rural.

There were nine cities of 10,000 or more in New Hampshire in 1940 and two cities of less than 10,000. There were also seven towns classified as urban under the special rule. Fifteen of the eighteen urban places gained population between 1930 and 1940. Rochester, with an increase of 17.7 per cent, was the fastest growing city of those having 10,000 or more population.

All of the ten counties shared in the State's increase between 1930 and 1940. Strafford County, with an increase of 12.9 per cent, had the most rapid growth.

The first census of New Hampshire was taken in 1790, returning a population of 141,885. The population has increased with every census since that time except that of 1870, which showed a slight loss as compared with 1860. The population passed 200,000 between 1800 and 1810; 300,000 between 1840 and 1850; and 400,000 between 1890 and 1900. From a long-range point of view, population growth in the State has tended to become less rapid, although there has been a slight acceleration since 1920. The present population represents a density of 54.5 per square mile. New Hampshire's total land area is 9,024 square miles.

Minor civil divisions.—Table 4 shows the population of each county by towns, cities, and other minor civil divisions. The more thickly settled counties are divided into towns and cities, but in Carroll County there are 2 "locations" and in Coos County there are 8 "grants," 6 "purchases," 6 "townships," and 3 "locations." Of the civil divisions known as "grants" and "purchases," 7 have had no population returned at any of the last three censuses and so are omitted from the list of minor civil divisions in Table 4.

Seven civil divisions of this county for which no population has been returned at any of the three censuses are not included in the table; these divisions are as follows: Bean's grant, Chandler's purchase, Crawford's purchase, Cutt's grant, Hadley's purchase, Low and Burbank's grant, and Sargent's purchase. Figures for Pittsburg town in 1920 include population reported for Colebrook Academy grant (15), Hubbard township (358), and Webster township (51.)

STATE EMBLEMS

- 1. Flag. The state flag shall be of the following color and design: The body or field shall be blue and shall bear upon its center in suitable proportion and colors a representation of the state seal; the seal shall be surrounded by a wreath of laurel leaves with nine stars interspersed. When used for military purposes the flag shall conform to the regulations of the United States.
- 2. When Displayed. It shall be displayed above the state house whenever the legislature is in session and during meetings of the governor and council when expedient, and upon such other occasions as the governor may designate.
- 3. Flower. The purple lilac, Syringa vulgaris, is the state flower of New Hampshire.
- 4. Seal. The seal of the state shall be two inches in diameter, circular, with the following detail and no other: A field crossed by a straight horizon line of the sea, above the center of the field; concentric with the field the rising sun, exposed above the horizon about one third of its diameter, the field encompassed with laurel; across the field for the full width within the laurel a broadside view of the frigate Raleigh, on the stocks; the ship's bow dexter and higher than the stern: the three lower masts shown in place, together with the fore, main and mizzen tops, shrouds and mainstays; an ensign staff at the stern flies the United States flag authorized by act of Congress June 14, 1777; a jury staff on the mainmast and another on the foremast each flies a pennant; flags and pennants are streaming to the dexter side; the hull is shown without a rudder; below the ship the field is divided into land and water by a double diagonal line whose highest point is sinister; no detail is shown anywhere on the water, nor any on the land between the water and the stocks except a granite boulder on the dexter side; encircling the field is the inscription, SEAL . OF . THE . STATE . OF . NEW HAMPSHIRE, the words separated by round periods, except between the parts of New Hampshire; at the lowest point of the inscription is the date 1776, flanked on either side by a five-pointed star, which group separates the beginning and end of the inscription; the whole form and design to be as follows:

RECOUNTS AFTER THE PRIMARY

After the primary seventeen recounts of ballots were conducted by the secretary of state, four of these being Republican contests, and thirteen Democratic contests. Six of these recounts resulted in changes in the nominees, as shown by the following tabulation. In two cases nominees were involved in ties, which were drawn in accordance with the statutes. These were in Manchester, ward nine and Colebrook. Other changes were in the nominee for Hillsborough County Sheriff; representatives in Manchester, ward eight, Berlin, ward four; and inspector of checklist in Nashua, ward eight.

PARTY ORGANIZATIONS 1944

REPUBLICAN ORGANIZATION, 1944

The Republican state convention met at Concord, July 28th, 1944 and adopted the following platform:

THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

In the stress and tragedy of total war we, Republicans of New Hampshire, have assembled in State Convention on this twenty-eighth day of July, 1944, to discharge duties devolving upon us as citizens under our free constitutional government. We recognize the solemnity of the hour and the high responsibility which rests upon the Republican Party. We take this opportunity to render our homage and to express our lasting gratitude to the New Hampshire men and women engaged in the world struggle for freedom. To the families of those who have fallen in the service of the nation we express our deep sympathy.

The War and World Peace

We pledge our united support to the prosecution of this war to a decisive victory over all our enemies. We favor responsible participation by the United States in a cooperative organization among sovereign nations to prevent military aggression and to attain permanent peace founded upon justice.

National Affairs

We here dedicate ourselves to uphold the Federal Constitution and the Bill of Rights upon which our civil liberties and economic freedom depend. In the coming election the old New Deal in a new guise, but with policies unchanged, seeks four more years of power. We condemn government by executive directive, the invasion of civil liberties, the packing of courts, the dictation to Congress, the gross extravagance, the unlawful assumption of authority which have characterized the New Deal. In contrast with the Democratic National Convention which was responsive to the will of one man, the Republican National Convention was untrammeled and free. We take deep pride in the Republican candidates for President and Vice-President and endorse without reservation the Republican National Platform. Under these great Americans, Thomas E. Dewey and John W. Bricker as President and Vice-President, the war will be vigorously prosecuted, our free institutions and American way of life maintained, and the nation safely guided in the post-war world.

The Republican Record in New Hampshire

The Republican party in New Hampshire stands upon its record. Efficiency and economy and sound fiscal policies have been distinctive features of successive Republican administrations. We take just pride in these Republican administrations, including the two administrations of Governor Blood, and in their impressive record of notable achievements. We commend our Republican members of Congress for their distinguished and patriotic service. In our candidates, Charles M. Dale for Governor, Charles W. Tobey for the United States Senate, and Chester W. Merrow and Sherman Adams for the House of Representatives, we present experienced legislators and executives who in these offices will maintain the high standards established by the Republican party.

Agriculture

The basic importance of agriculture has again been emphasized by the World War. We commend our farmers, their wives and families, for the increased production of foods in spite of labor shortages and impractical price and production regulations. We recognize the duty of the state to aid in the development of agriculture by providing adequate funds for the efficient administration of the Department of Agriculture, by the control and eradication of poultry and livestock diseased, by the stimulation of markets for our farm products both within and without the state, and by a fair allotment of public funds for the improvement of farm to market highways. We favor the expansion of the extension service of the State University and the adequate support of the College of Agriculture to provide vocational training and education for farmers. We pledge continued support of our farmers in their efforts to provide through cooperation essential services and supplies and improved facilities for marketing their product.

Business and Industry

Our industries have made impressive contributions to the war effort. We pledge our assistance in the re-adjustment of business and industry to peace time pursuits. Small business is the base of our industrial economy. We shall encourage the establishment and growth of small industries and the diversification of industry through the State Planning and Development Commission and other public and private agencies. We favor the elimination of unnecessary and arbitrary restraints upon business and industry.

For the protection of the public and for the security of millions of policyholders, we favor regulation of the insurance business by the state rather than the Federal government.

The development of an adequate air transportation service is essential to the future prosperity of the state, and we favor a progressive policy for the development of needed airport facilities and the establishment of regular air routes to all sections of the state.

Labor

We acknowledge with deep gratitude the magnificent productive effort of labor during the war. The Republican Party from its inception has supported the cause of free labor. We condemn the conversion of Federal Agencies, ostensibly established to settle industrial disputes, into instrumentalities to shackle labor and deprive it of the power to bargain collectively. We reaffirm the right of labor to bargain collectively without coercion through representatives of its own choosing. We pledge ourselves to preserve the rights of labor under existing laws, to secure fair and adequate administration thereof, and to enact such legislation as may be necessary to effectuate the liberal policies upon which our labor laws are based.

Recreation and Natural Resources

Our recreational industry is one of the most important sources of income to our citizens. We favor the conservation of our scenic resources by state planning and developing and the intensified promotion of our recreational industry through discriminating advertising.

The varied opportunities for fishing and hunting afforded by our extensive woods, lakes, ponds and streams should be maintained and developed by a co-ordinated program of fish stocking and wild life conservation supported by the state. To the extent that the funds received from license fees for hunting and fishing may be inadequate for such program they should be supplemented by special appropriations.

We recognize growing wood and timber to be a great potential, natural resource and favor such legislation as is necessary to promote its fullest development.

Equal Rights

The Republican Party has unfailingly insisted upon equality of opportunity regardless of sex, race, color or creed. We, therefore, favor equal opportunities in the post-war world to men and women alike without discrimination in rate of pay.

The Veterans

The policy of the Republican Party was established by our greatest war President, Abraham Lincoln, who, in his second inaugural address, declared the public obligation "to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and his orphan." We approve the recently enacted serviceman's (G. I.) Bill of Rights sponsored and supported by our members of Congress and also the measures for the assistance of veterans enacted by our own legislature, but the costs of these ought to be met from general funds rather than from a special poll tax. We deem it a primary duty to assure employment and economic security to the men and women who have served in the defense of the nation.

Post-War Period

No program can now be developed with assurance that it will meet the requirements of the post-war period. In the critical period after the war we shall with the cooperation of public and private agencies advocate such measures as are best designed to promote the common prosperity and general welfare. We recognize that our reconstruction to insure real happiness cannot be based alone on the improvement of standards of living, but must also be based upon the character of our people, their religious faith, education, industry and morality.

We solemnly pledge ourselves to devote our best efforts to the development of the principles and the performance of the promises contained in this platform.

DEMOCRATIC ORGANIZATION, 1944

The Democratic State Convention met at Concord, August 1, 1944, with Hon. Josaphat T. Benoit as presiding officer. The following platform was adopted:

DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM, 1944

We, the delegates to the Democratic State convention assembled in Concord on August 1, 1944, adopt the following statement of our beliefs and recommendations and pledges which we purpose to fulfill:

Providentially Franklin Delano Roosevelt was given to us as our President in 1933 to guide our country safely out of the mire of economic chaos into which it had been tossed during the administration of President Hoover. The same allwise Destiny continued him as our foresighted national leader, with the fortuitous result that he is today commander-in-chief of the best trained, the best equipped army in the world, the most powerful navy in the world, the greatest air force in the world, the largest merchant marine in the world. These weapons mean but one thing—victory for the A lied powers over the Axis nations. We extend at this time greetings and gratitude to our beloved President, with assurance of our undiminished allegiance, respect and admiration, and pray that God will spare him to conclude his noble work vital to the establishment of world peace, and a guarantee of well-being within the borders of our country.

We pledge our support to the Atlantic Charter and the Four Freedoms, and approve a union with the other United Nations forming an effective international organization to preserve peace.

G. I. Bill of Rights

New Hampshire's sons and daughters are numerously represented in the armed forces and of their record in the far flung fields of battle we are justly proud. Many have made the supreme sacrifice for their country, and to their gold-star families we send our sincere sympathy. Upon the return of our boys and girls from war service, it will be the state's first duty to assure employment and economic security to every one of them. Undoubtedly, many will wish to acquire homes under the provisions of the 100 per cent loan arrangement proposed in the G. I. Bill of Rights passed by Congress and signed by President Roosevelt. The G. I. Bill of Rights is the greatest document in behalf of veterans ever conceived in world history, and we favor immediate action upon the assembling of the legislature to make the necessary changes in state laws to enable our banking institutions to comply with the 100 per cent loan feature.

We favor giving our ex-soldiers as careful preparation for peaceful pursuits as they received in the art of warfare. They should have vocational training, and an opportunity to follow the calling for which they express a preference. We favor establishment of convenient service centers, at which they may obtain free of charge, full information relative to benefits to which they may be entitled, assistance in making out necessary papers, or help in securing jobs.

Labor Legislation

We point with pride to the record of our party in labor legislation and pledge our continued support to the cause of labor, whose wonderful contribution to the war effort and thereby to victory commands our unstinted approbation. The ideals of labor have always been those of our party, for we are the party of the common man, the working man, the children of toil who earn their bread at the sweat of their brow. We pledge our best efforts to provide jobs and a living wage for returning veterans, and for civilians displaced by reconversion of war industries.

Agriculture

We favor extension of rural electrification and development of broader domestic and foreign markets for the products of our farms.

In advertising our state's assets, we must not forget agriculture. Our high quality cattle, our apples and blueberries of unsurpassed flavor, and the outstanding breed of poultry bearing the name of our state must be called to the attention of a greater number of potential buyers. Livestock is our basic agricultural industry and merits the effective cooperation of the state in its development, and for the future welfare and prosperity of our people as a whole. We pledge our party to a continuation of a fair allotment of regular and postwar highway moneys to be used in the improvement of farm to market roads.

Full reciprocal privileges in the operation of motor trucks make for a freer flow of trade which is essential to the prosperity of our state and therefore should be continued by its inclusion in permanent legislation.

Pay for Teachers

Inasmuch as the state requires towns to furnish high school education to those desiring it, the state must assume the responsibility for providing equalization money for such towns as are unable to raise the necessary funds without undue burden of taxation.

Cities, towns and villages alike are suffering by the loss of experienced teachers in their schools. We call for adequate pay in order that competent teachers may be employed, and are in favor of adequate funds to aid towns and cities where the maintenance of standard elementary, and high school courses cause an undue burden of taxation on real estate.

We deplore the partisanship which has caused paid OPA officials in New Hampshire to be chosen almost entirely from the Republican party.

Likewise, we have observed many inequities under a so called merit system for state employees, and the legislature should correct these grossly unfair ratings.

We also favor a sound retirement plan for state employees.

Against Poll Tax

Since revenue from liquor and the race track may be enlarged at will by legislative action to offset possible loss of moneys from other sources, we recommend still another forward step—namely, the complete abolition of the poll tax. We are against the five dollar poll, we are against the three dollar poll tax, we are against the two dollar poll tax. The reports as to the state's income from liquor and racing make it apparent there is no need of any poll tax upon either men or women at this time.

We recognize that recreation has become one of the principal industries of our state and that we have been blessed by nature with unlimited natural resources. We are aware of the large amount of money expended in our state in the enjoyment of these natural advantages, and we favor a progressive program of conservation supported by legislative appropriations sufficient to guarantee a living and adequate wage for state employees engaged in this work, to provide for intelligent and practical stocking of our streams, and a comprehensive program of game propagation.

Inasmuch as from 75 to 80 per cent of New Hampshire consists Inasmuch as from 75 to 80 per cent of New Hampshire consists of woodlands we believe there should be better management and long range conservation methods to restore our depleted forests.

Small Business

We believe small business should enjoy the same opportunities for research as are open to giant corporations, and we advise the manning of the industrial laboratory at the University of New Hampshire with this object in view, thus carrying out the plans of the late President Engelhardt, which were interrupted by his untimely death this year.

We favor legislation assuring equal pay for equal work regardless of sex.

We deplore restrictions on the activities of our state industrial agent as disclosed in a recent editorial in the Keene Evening Sentinel, a Republican newspaper, and particularly the failure of this state to advertise in appropriate outside media, the many advantages it will have to offer industries after the war. The election of Hon. Josaphat Benoit, able president of this convention, today, as mayor of Manchester last fall after he courageously raised the issue of obtaining new industries that would insure a better standard of living for Manchester workers and their families, emphasized the correct and positive convictions of the residents of our largest city on this timely subject.

In many other communities there are manufacturing sites, including usable vacant buildings, which might be filled advantageously, if the state industrial agent did not find himself hampered and obstructed at every turn when he attempts to seek new industries.

Mica mines which were opened in this state as a war emergency should be assisted to become a permanent peacetime industry.

Action on Pollution

Pollution of Great Bay and the Merrimack, Connecticut and Ammoonoosuc rivers has reached serious proportions. We take the position that this situation should no longer be ignored by state authorities, that our neighbor states should be consulted forthwith to bring about concerted action, and that plans be in readiness to take advantage of available funds to end the pollution menace in the postwar reconstruction period.

We favor adoption of recommendations of the Civil Aeronautics Board for improvement of New Hampshire airports, and the addition of a number of suitable landing fields throughout the state to keep New Hampshire abreast of developments in aviation.

Some of our New Hampshire troops have been overseas more than two years. When peace is declared these veterans should be among the first to return home. We promise them and their families to do everything possible to bring them home without delay, when that return is permitted.

The Democratic party provided social security, including old age pensions. We believe that due to increased costs of living payments to the old people should be reviewed and increased where circumstances require it.

In the State primary July 11, Lieut. Col. James J. Powers, U. S. Medical Corps, was nominated for governor; Hon. Joseph Betley for United States Senator; Hon. Fortunat E. Normandin and Hon. Harry Carlson for United States Representatives, all honest, able men, all men of purpose and action, and we pledge to them our unwavering support.
