SCHOOL REPORT.

Report of the Superintending School Committee for the Year ending March 1, 1885.

DISTRICT No. 1.—The summer and fall terms were taught by Miss Annie E. Giles, a teacher of much experience. She was embarrassed by the irregularity of attendance and tardiness, for which this District is somewhat notorious, but I think the progress made in the various studies was fair. As last year, for the winter term, Mr. George W. Ransom was secured. The school was very successful; Mr. Ransom maintained a firm discipline, which is much needed here, and his teaching was marked by vigor and thoroughness. Several scholars from other Districts attended, making the school quite large. At present writing the term is not closed.

DISTRICT No. 2.—Plenty of money, but no school for want of scholars. There are but two children of school age who reside in this District during the whole year.

DISTRICT No. 3.—This District had but fifteen weeks of schooling. The two terms into which it was divided, were taught by Miss Lydia Jenkins, who performed her duties faithfully and conscientiously. The closing examination of the second term, however, was quite poor. Some of the scholars were apt to answer without giving any thought to what they were saying, and thus were more liable to be wrong than right. The highest success demands the co-operation of teacher, children and parents.

DISTRICT No. 4.—Miss Emma Clarke had the directing of the summer school. Her work has been highly commended heretofore, and this term also appeared to be a satisfactory one. A good degree of interest on the part of the pupils was manifest. Mr. Charles C. Haines, who has taught three terms previously, took the winter school, which he made very successful. I was especially pleased with the examination in Hygiene, which was the best I have heard. The scholars seemed diligent, and anxious to do well, and the teaching was full of vim.

DISTRICT No. 5 —Miss Emma Chapman had the first term. As most of the scholars were not ambitious, and the teacher failed to manifest firmness and energy, the school was not very satisfactory. The second term was taught by Mrs. Mary E. Thompson, who had better success. A larger school and more competition, might arouse the ambition of the pupils, but, as it is, the meagre results of the District system are manifest here. Mrs. Thompson is a good teacher, and did well.

DISTRICT No. 7.—Miss Florence W. Weeks, who had charge of both summer and fall terms, secured the good will of her scholars and was quite successful as a teacher. Her school appeared very well upon all my visits.

DISTRICT No. 8 —Miss Sadie A. Rowe never taught before, but starting out with the intention of being thorough, attained sufficient success to be entrusted with the fall school, also. The scholars made good progress.

DISTRICT No. 10.—The summer term was taught by Miss Effie Furber. Number Five, and an adjoining District in Lec, having no school at the time, sent several scholars, which made the attendance much larger than is usual in this District. Miss Furber kept good order, was well liked by her scholars, and her school had a remarkably large number of visitors. Miss Lizzie E. Goodrich was employed for the fall term. The other schools being in session, the attendance was small. Miss Goodrich is a good teacher, and, though she had some difficulties to contend with, she acquitted herself creditably.

REMARKS.

In accordance with the new law, which requires the teaching of Hygiene, with special reference to the effects of stimulants and narcotics upon the human system, I have introduced into the schools a text-book called Hutchison's Laws of Health. The subject can be studied from a book to advantage by the older scholars only, and if the study were limited to these, very few would receive the benefit which the law has in view. It therefore seemed to me that the best plan was to require the teachers to give talks upon the subject, taking the text-books as a basis, and then to question the scholars upon what had been told them. I thought that the older scholars would learn the main points in this way, and the younger ones, if unable to answer many questions, would learn something from listening.

The plan has not met with as much success as was hoped, but it is doubtful if any other plan would have done as well. Much depends upon the teacher's grasp upon the ideas, and his ability to present them well. Some teachers did not take hold of the matter earnestly enough, some complained that the scholars were not much interested, and others that there were too many other classes to allow time for this exercise. This last objection is a serious one, I think, in most district schools.

But if a little time can be obtained, it seems to me that a good teacher can make the exercise interesting to the average pupil.

In looking over the field, I become more dissatisfied with the present state of the schools. In most of our towns the district system has outlived its highest usefulness. When one district stands second in amount of money, has not children enough to have a school, and is in a quandary as to what to do with the money; when another district has only fifteen weeks of schools and must pay the lowest salary offered in any district to have even that; and when only the village has over twenty-four weeks of educational privileges—the question whether $1,400 is being used wisely in these eight districts, admits only of a negative answer. If anybody managed his own business in a similar way, he never would accomplish much. The truth is, that in old times, when each district had a good number of scholars, the district system did well enough; but now, for the children's sake and for the sake of a wise expenditure of the money, there ought to be combination. Reduce the number of schools, and those remaining will be more interesting and more efficient. The matter is before you to be acted upon at the coming town meeting.
