Report Of The Superintendent

To the School Board and the Citizens of the School District of Pittsburg

FOREWORD

The public schools are organized to perpetuate and improve the American way of life. To do this, schools must teach children to assume their civic and social responsibilities and help them to develop high moral and cultural standards.

Children must be equipped to meet many new challenges which will confront them in a world that is forever changing.

Good teaching has always been personal teaching. But the fact is that society now recognizes that an education is more than the acquisition that it once was. Helping children to grow in moral, cultural, civic, and social stature requires that the school focus its attention on the individual child. The school must understand the processes and rates of each child's learning, as well as the ways in which his environment affects him.

The public school system is the foundation of our democracy. It is also the product of our democracy - something which parents, business leaders, statesmen, and even teachers sometimes forget. In praising or condemning today's education, they forget that good public schools foster a democratic society, and that a democratic society produces good public schools. The nation's schools constitute the one magnificent synthesizer of all the American people. The church, fraternal orders with their many separate branches, and even the Democratic and Republican parties are exclusive clubs in comparison with the schools. Schools mean equal opportunities for all, regardless of race, religion, or social background. Schools provide all children with opportunities for self-realization. It is no accident that where public schools are impoverished, where teachers are poorly prepared, and where educational standards are low, corruption, low health standards, and extremes of poverty will be found.

Schools necessarily reflect their communities. There is a limit beyond which they cannot move in advance of the intellectual, social and moral standards of their public. If the strongest pressures in the town are toward athletics and entertainment, stadiums and auditoriums will supersede classrooms on the building agenda. Financially, the limits of the public schools are as precisely defined as is a tax statement.

Teachers are a cross section of the community. The school, its children, its parents, and its teachers ARE the community. One cannot point to a school as one would to a pipe factory, saying, "In there our education is being done by 40 teachers and 1,000 children". Children are the raw material of the schools. They are no better material and no worse than their heredities, their homes, and their communities have made them.

The school in a community is at least as much a thing of the adults as it is of the children of that community. Where one finds the best run public schools doing the most effective job for children, one finds behind them a school-conscious, informed, and actively cooperative public. Supervisory Union No. 7 has had such a public to a high degree. Maintaining and strengthening this liaison between the public and its classrooms is a responsibility of teachers, administrators, and, in fact, all school personnel.

Many people ask, "What should the schools teach?" Would that there were a simple answer to this question that would satisfy everyone. But there is none - no more than there was in the days of Aristotle. About 2,300 years ago Aristotle, one of the wisest men who ever lived, wrote. "From the present mode of education we cannot determine with any degree of certainty whether to instruct the child in what will be useful to him in life, or what tends to virtue, or what is excellent for him to know. All these things have their separate defenders." Aristotle's question about what to teach has never been fully answered by anyone.

The schools in Supervisory Union No. 7 try to teach well all the three areas mentioned by Aristotle. They teach the basic skills - the 3 R's - for these are necessary and useful. They try to develop character, for only through good character can we survive. They try to pass on to pupils much of the world's accumulated knowledge.

Schools, then are organized to help boys and girls to be competent, well-trained, law-abiding citizens.

Respectfully submitted,

RICHARD W. HISLOP

Superintendent of Schools

SCHOOL HEALTH

The objectives of a school health program are to perform the necessary functions to maintain and promote good health of the pupils in our schools. This contributes to the overall success and happiness of the students and enables them to perform better academically.

Services performed include: pre-school clinics every spring for in-coming first graders; checking height and weight of each student at the beginning of each year; testing vision and hearing of all pupils yearly; physical examinations for all students in grades 4, 8, 11, and athletics; immunizations as necessary; annual skin tests for T. B. in grades 1, 4, 8, 12, and personnel; and continuous supervision of general health.

Beginning last year, a dental health clinic was initiated, whereby children in the elementary grades of low income families are able to take advantage of dental care for filling of permanent teeth and/or extractions for relief of pain. This clinic is held one morning a week and five children are cared for each time. Since several schools are involved, the clinics are rotated among them.

Generally speaking, the overall program of school health in this area is adequate, but as in all things, there are areas for improvement. It is hoped that by everyone working together these can be realized to the mutual benefit of our students and community as a whole.

Respectfully submitted,

DOROTHY L. DUCRET, R. N.
School Nurse
