A HISTORY OF WHITEFIELD

By Kim Nilsen

The howling wilderness had been broken. Settlers moved north along the Connecticut River and carved small villages into the black forests of Coos County. Settlements sprang up in Dalton, Lancaster, Jefferson, Carroll, Northumberland and Stratford. These settlements were close to the important transportation routes. The Connecticut served as a water highway and roads into and through the notches linked the north country with Portland. One large land tract, destined to become the town of Whitefield, was avoided as "the land that nobody wanted."

The nearly 20,000 acre wilderness bordered by Dalton, Lancaster, Jefferson and Carroll was literally what was left over after the surrounding townships were surveyed. The arrowhead shaped area drew little attention from early settlers because it was removed from the river and the notch roads. It was not until 1802 that the first hearty settlers felled trees for housing and pasture in this no man's land.

Charter

The charter of the land known as "Whitefields" was granted on July 4, 1774, to one Josiah Moody and a large band of proprietors from Massachusetts. Settlement of the area was not carried out and the New Hampshire Legislature confiscated many of the land holdings from the original grantees. In the same year Henry Gerrish and Jeremiah Clough surveyed the township. Eight years later the few remaining proprietors held a meeting in Dunstable, Mass., for the purpose of raising taxes for the land and for the sale of property. It was not until three years later that one Jonas Minot became the recipient of a gift of 2,600 acres of land on the condition that he would buy up most of the remaining taxes. Soon after, the great landholder began the sale of land to prospective settlers. Most could not afford the few cents per acre so a compromise was worked out. The land could be had in exchange for grain.

In 1802, two trail blazers and their families pitched in what is now Whitefield. John Burns and John McMasters were the first, followed by the Reverend Stephen Peabody, Jonas Blake and Jonas Minot himself. The men were farmers and they tended subsistence farms, as did most of the early settlers. The town remained agrarian until the great Civil War when the Brown brothers developed enormous lumber mills along the Johns River and hurled Whitefield into its greatest period of affluence and prosperity.

Growth in the early years was extremely slow. By 1810 the population was holed up in a few family dwellings and numbered only 51. The pioneers maintained only a few oxen, cows and fewer horses. Taxes in 1818 amounted to the staggering sum of $270.07.

Grain was the staple of the pioneer and the grist mill was the only vehicle in which to grind grain. Mills were operating in Dalton, Apthorp, Lancaster and north, and the settlers lost no time establishing one in Whitefield. A prominent man in the early history of the town, Asa King, erected the first mill and in 1813 he built a second one directly across the Johns River from the first mill. Along with the grist mills came the first lumber mills, little industries that turned out handfuls of clapboards and shingles. The first such enterprises were barely profitable because Whitefield still remained remote and cut off from the major roads and rivers.

Roads were needed badly and within the first three years of the town's settlement provisions were made to cut the first road out of the wilderness. Human labor was valued at $.07 an hour and oxen were hired at $.06 an hour. The road, stretching from the McMaster farm to Bethlehem, was supposed to be built in the same year but it was not completed until 1814. Two years later a second road to Dalton and the river was constructed and several throughways were punched through to Jefferson and Carroll. The roads, however, did not bring prosperity to the region. It was not until the coming of the mills and the railroad that Whitefield progressed.

By 1805 Whitefield had grown enough in population to warrant the construction of a school house. It was constructed of logs and the first teacher, Priest Catlin, dealt out the three R's. He took a room in several houses about the area and his board amounted to $.96 a week.

By the 1820's, Whitefield was entertaining a doctor by the name of Dains Garney. He migrated to the north from Dartmouth Medical school and became a much loved and desperately needed addition to the wilderness community. Like most of the pioneer doctors of the day he would ride long miles on horseback, often only on footpaths, and in worst weather to tend to a stricken patient.

As the era progressed towards the Civil War, mills became more plentiful along the Johns River. The lumber industry, controlled by a R. D. Dunn, flourished only occasionally. Mills were constructed to the east, in the Hazens area, and steam was introduced. The common potato found a home in the first potato starch factory in 1850 but it was a complete failure.

It was at this time that the village came into existence. Asa King opened and operated the first roadside tavern to shelter and feed bone-tired travelers. In 1823, one of the pillars of the community, William Dodge, joined King in town and he established the first store. His little business became the social center of the area and Dodge himself served as postmaster, town clerk and Representative to the General Court. Also on his list of activities was his potash works. His "ashery" burned wood to ashes and they in turn were leached to produce lye, a common ingredient in soap.

Yet the little town did not change the nature of the community. Subsistence agriculture prevailed until Alson and Warren Brown set up shop in town at the close of the Civil War. Their enterprises changed the face of the community over night and 35 years later they would contribute to the decline of the area as well.

Brown Company

Brown Co. was the largest lumber mill in the state with 40,000 acres of timber holdings. Its founders, the Brown brothers, were skilled businessmen and active in politics. Their huge mill employed hundreds of workers who turned out such diverse products as butter tubs, furniture and door moldings.

The rapid expansion of the mills and the depletion of the natural resources close at hand necessitated the construction of a railroad spur and line. The brothers enticed the Boston and Maine Railroad with a "gift" of $4,000. The railroad opened up a spur line to the factory but by the time it was complete the need for greater resources had prompted the brothers to construct the Whitefield and Jefferson Railroad. The little rail line served the mill and Hazens and brought timber in from the surrounding towns. Primarily a freight line, it carried as many as 12,265 passengers in 1885.

Any sudden expansion of industry brings in new faces eager to gain employment. Brown Co. attracted immigrants from Canada and during the heyday of the mill operations French-Canadiens made up one half of the total work force.

And they were paid well. Average state wages at the time were around $350 dollars a year but the Brown brothers paid as much as $200 higher. The high wages were reabsorbed by the company, however, as the town was wholly converted into a mill town with company housing and company stores. The wages were spent on company goods and services, on company recreation and luxuries.

Successful businesses attract other business as well as workers. Several smaller lumber companies sprouted in the area as did a garment manufacturer and the inevitable potato starch mills. With all the new capital floating about, the Whitefield Savings Bank and Trust Company was founded in 1891 and it prospered. It withstood the depression of the 1890's and occupied a three story building in 1898.

Agriculture

Farming in the region also increased substantially. Farms became commercial operations and produce from the land was valued at $100,000 in 1874. The most prominent and wealthy farmer was Louis Hazens, who eventually owned early 20,000 acres of cleared grazing land. He was a cattle farmer and sustained as many as 500 head. He was politically inclined as he was seated in the General Court.

On his farm a second village, named appropriately Hazens, was established. Grist and saw mills abounded, housing was constructed. The town sustained a post office and stores, a telephone company and the first silos in the north country were erected on the farm.

The farming community was prospering and in 1896 the Maine Condensed Milk Co. constructed a creamery. Business was booming. In 1902 the company sold out to Bordens Inc. and they boosted production. By 1908 the company was spending $11,000 in milk purchases and pay checks a week.

Collapse

The dawn of the 20th century brought economic collapse. As the new century was ushered in, Brown Co. was sold to Blanchard and Twitchell of Berlin and they pulled out of Whitefield leaving the mills empty. For eight years the agricultural community was enjoying fine markets when on July 12, 1908 the Borden creamery burned to the ground. It was uninsured and the company pulled out. The town was ruined and the only glimmer of hope lay in the growing tourist industry that had its roots planted at the end of the Civil War.

Tourism

The Dodge family had their first taste of tourism one rainy night in 1865. A stagecoach bound for Montreal was directed toward their farm house so that the travelers might find refuge from the storm. The Dodges welcomed the travelers and lodged and fed them. The next day the visitors asked if they could stay on several extra days to view the magnificent mountains in the distance. They stayed, and the Dodges opened their house to travelers from that night on.

The Mountain View House grew out of that damp beginning. By 1876 as many as 50 guests could be housed at one time and in 15 years the number had tripled. Band concerts, carnivals, theatre, swimming and polo attracted thousands of visitors to the hotel. President Grant journeyed to Bethlehem during the rise of tourism and the resulting publicity brought waves of wealthy into the White Mountains playground. The Mountain View House expanded until it supported hundreds of rooms and employed as many people. Its very existence attracted others who constructed hotels and playhouses. The Spalding family constructed the fine Spalding Inn in 1926 and ex-New York Times theatre critic, William B. Chase, converted an old barn into a top notch summer theatre.

Economic Problems

Tourism, however, did not solve the chronic unemployment that plagued the town when her stable industries died away. The summer trade brought summer jobs but once the summer months grew cold the tourists left and the jobs dried up. In an attempt to attract new industry, the town purchased the old Brown Co. mills for $29,000 and leased them to the Bernard Tanning Co. before the first World War. They employed hundreds of people and solidified the economic base until a diseased batch of foreign hides brought the industry to a sudden halt. Anthrax is a deadly cattle disease and it was transported into the area in a shipment of European hides.

At flood time, waste hides were washed downstream by the Johns River and some infected hides were carried out onto farm fields and infected them. Since anthrax is a spore former that can withstand drying and live for many years, there was no known way to restore the fields to safe use. As a result, lawsuits thrashed the company out of existence.

In 1925 the Whitefield Shoe Co. set up operations in the old Brown Co. mills, but a disastrous fire and the depression soon closed their doors. Snow and Baker Co., the nationwide famous manufacturer of railroad overalls, that surfaced in the heyday of Brown Co., closed down its shop in the late 50's due to lack of sales.

In 1933 the Mellin-Quincy Furniture Manufacturing Co. began operations, survived the depression and lived into this modern era. Again the town had a major stable employer but on September 19, 1954 lightning struck the building and it roared to destruction in a blaze that many local people still remember. Over 120 people lost jobs and a payroll of $500,000 ceased.

Still the local businessmen refused to say die. They formed the Whitefield Industrial Corporation and offered Mellin-Quincy a new mill at no cost. The offer was not accepted. Several years later the corporation secured a $180,000 State Industrial Park loan and constructed a modern factory to house industry. There were no takers until Manchester Knitted Fashions, housed in the old Snow and Baker building, opened a factory outlet in the structure. But the building was too large for the MKF Company and they discontinued the factory outlet, confining their operation to manufacturing in the old Snow and Baker building.

Since 1966 Nuroco Woodwork Inc. has occupied the building erected to attract new industry. Originally engaged in the manufacture of institutional furniture, the company more recently has specialized in manufacturing high quality domestic pine furniture. Nuroco employs 40 to 50 people.

In 1967 Miles Pond Inc., a subsidiary of the well-known S. Bent & Brothers Inc. of Gardner, Mass., erected a square stock mill at the industrial park area, adjacent to the regional airport. Miles Pond provides employment for about 30 people.

The Present

As the fifties rolled into the sixties, Whitefield, like many of the towns in the area, witnessed the exodus of their young people. Few opportunities were open to them and so they left for southerly regions.

Today the exodus has been stayed. Out of state young men and women, disenchanted with urban and suburban life, have migrated north to seek employment in the North Country. Quick and inexpensive motor car transportation has allowed these new young people to live in the community and take jobs in the larger job centers such as Littleton, St. Johnsbury, Vt., and Berlin. The interstate highway system has brought downstate closer to all people of the region. Increasing opportunities in recreation and education have attracted some.

The village nestles along the Johns River much as it did over 100 years ago. Hazens has disappeared and a regional airport has taken its place. Rail service has slowed, although the residents are always conscious of the numerous freight trains that rattle back and forth through town.

As this bicentennial year opens, residents will find the town a little darker and chillier than in previous years because of the energy problem this country is facing. Yet the lack of fuels probably won't dampen the spirits of the people as they celebrate their 200th with a summer long chain of suppers, parades, horse pulls and a woodsman's holiday. No date for the events has been set but as the year progresses the plans will be cemented together by the bicentennial committee and the town ought to have one big fine happy birthday.

We gratefully acknowledge the books given to the library in memory of Mr. George O'Bertin by Mr. Lowell Paro, and in memory of Mrs. Mary Nevers by Mr. and Mrs. William Ashley, Mrs. Priscilla Hawker, and Hal and Helen Stevens. We are also most appreciative of a book dedicated to Mrs. Cecil House, former librarian for many years, and donated in her honor by Mr. Lowell Paro.

Once again we express our thanks to the many friends who have contributed books and magazines. Such contributions are very helpful and always most welcome.

During the past few months the library has been fortunate in having the services of Mrs. Janet Bennett as assistant to the librarian.

Circulation for the year increased substantially over 1972 and your librarian and trustees hope this indicates a trend which will continue. The librarian and assistant will be pleased to help people obtain any books which we may not have. The State Library is very accommodating in this respect.

As the town celebrates its bicentennial we feel that a few observations concerning the history of the library will be of interest. Whitefield's first library was organized in the 1840's by Edmund Burke, Whitefield lawyer, and kept by Postmaster Dodge. By 1872 a Whitefield Union Library Association had been formed with public subscription of $103.50 and 208 volumes. This library rotated among Whitefield homes, with the library chores falling upon the host family. This collection was later housed in the Town Hall. At town meeting of 1893 an appropriation of $100 was voted to create a free library. The free library continued to be housed in the Town Hall until the present brick building was constructed in 1904 with the aid of a donation from the Carnegie Library Association.

MORRISON HOSPITAL
ADMINISTRATOR'S REPORT

Although Morrison Hospital today functions primarily as a Special Hospital devoted mainly to the care of geriatric patients, it seems fitting, in the light of its history as a municipally owned and now a private non-profit institution, that a brief resume of its activities during 1973 should be described.

Dr. David Bishop and Dr. John Lewis have been practicing since last February in the Morrison House, adjacent to the hospital. Their practice has continued to grow, and, we hope, to a point where one of them will be able to be in this office every day. Dr. Jorge deVillafane continues his practice in the hospital.

The hospital is fortunate to have a dedicated staff of professional nurses, technicians, and aides to care for our patients.

A new blood chemistry machine was added to the equipment in our clinical laboratory—it provides results in minutes which would have taken hours previously. Overbed tables have been added to rooms where needed. A hospital bed was donated from a fund provided by the nurses who graduated from the Morrison Hospital Nursing School. Much of our building fund was spent last year in redecorating and refurbishing the Morrison House for the two doctors. Necessary maintenance has been done and patient rooms have been decorated and painted.

Outside financial help and support continued to be given during 1973 both from municipal and private sources. Few, if any, private, voluntary hospitals can be self-supporting today and continued assistance will be energetically sought.

The Ladies Auxiliary had a most successful Hospital Fair this past summer. With the proceeds from this fair were able to donate much needed linen.

Morrison Hospital is the focal point of Whitefield's community health needs. The entire staff, Trustees, and associated agencies stand ready to serve.

REPORT OF AMBULANCE SERVICES

Emergency Calls	39
Routine Transfers (non-emergency)	27
	66
Total	66

We are licensed in accordance with the provisions of RSA 151-B under the Department of Public Health and Welfare and have all the required equipment on board at all times.

This past year a new ambulance cot was purchased giving us two, one of which would be used in a station wagon in the event of a disaster. An arrangement has been made with the towns of Lancaster and Littleton to provide back-up service when the ambulance is on a call.

The following is a list of equipment that is carried on board:

1. Portable oxygen
2. Portable Suction apparatus
3. Hand-operated BAG-MASK ventilation unit with adult, child and infant size masks, capable of use with oxygen supply.
4. Oropharyngeal Airways—all sizes
5. Mouth to Mouth Airways
6. Blood Pressure manometer, cuff and stethoscope
7. First-Aid Equipment
8. Inflatable Splints

All of this equipment has been purchased out of subsidized funds, with the exception of the oxygen supply apparatus.

The estimated subsidy request for 1974 is $3,400.00 and reflects the anticipated fuel increase over last year.

WHITEFIELD REGIONAL AIRPORT
COMMISSIONERS' REPORT — 1973

Having completed another active year, The Whitefield Regional Airport Commissioners submit this short resume of its activities to the various towns that it serves.

The budget that is published on the following pages will indicate that actual income exceeded anticipated income by $3,815.22. This was due to an unanticipated increase in state funds, a first-time appropriation from the Town of Northumberland, plus the fact that Diamond International Corporation and Georgia-Pacific Corporation has joined Timberland Machines Inc. as a contributor to our airport.

The Regional Airport continued to serve the region in many ways. Some of which are listed below:

1. Headquarters for the Civilian Air Patrol.
2. Provided a base of operations for the Air National Guard search and rescue helicopters.
3. Served as a site for National Guard Maneuvers.
4. Provided summer Air Line Service, Air Freight, Air Ambulance Service, Flight Instructions, and Scenic Air Flights.
5. Used by many commercial and industrial interests.

This past year, we completed renovation to our ticket office and waiting room. We have added a septic tank system that permitted us to install new toilet facilities. We extended the apron to serve the private hangar area and ran a new water line from the old to the new hangar area.

The air line service investigation has been completed but, as of this writing, no decision has been made as to whether or not Delta Air Lines will serve the North Country.

We think that to continue serving the North Country, as an airport should serve, we must not only maintain our present good standing but we must gain the reputation of being the best small airport in the north east. One of the methods chosen by your commissioners to accomplish the aforesaid is to erect a much needed hangar that would house seven to ten planes. A glance at our budget will show a fund established for this purpose. If all goes according to plan, we should be able to erect the hangar without any increased financial burden to the several towns.

The new hangar will also enable the commissioners to find a Fixed Base Operator. It is our opinion that before we find someone who will man the airport for a full working day, we must give him a place to work in. The hangar would provide space for sales and service, as well as rental space to transient planes.

Recently, the governor and council approved the installation of a partial instrument landing system. The equipment called a "Localizer" will be installed this summer at a cost of $40,000.00, all of which will be paid by State and Federal funds. The new equipment will provide a horizontal guide to aircraft and will increase the number of hours that the airport is usable.

Finally, your commission feels that the airport has truly become regional with all towns having a voice in its operation and participating in its financing. We thank everyone for their cooperation and respectfully request its continuance.

Our service continues under the leadership of the Public Health Nursing Committee composed of volunteer members representing each of the communities covered by the service. These members have generously given their time and efforts to the program throughout the year. The officers are:

Chairman: Mrs. Robert Quay
Vice-Chairman: Mrs. Roland Kimball
Secretary: Mrs. Benjamin Blodgett

There were a total of 2991 visits in 1973 as compared with 2280 visits in 1972. Listed above are the classification of visits for 1973. These include nursing and physical therapy visits.

Within the past year, visits of health promotion have increased. These visits are concerned more with stability of emotional problems. In most cases, the physicians feel that much progress has been noted with these patients under our care. These visits usually do not entail actual physical care but require conversations with patients allowing for voicing of problems and possible solutions.

We appreciate the assistance of organizations throughout the year. The Emmons Smith Fund has helped with some badly needed equipment. White Mountain Community Services have been a constant source of aid for individual problems of patients. Crippled Children's Services and the Department of Welfare have also been very useful. All of these services are becoming increasingly valuable to us.

The loan closet is in constant use. We appreciate all equipment donated and wish to express our thanks to those people responsible.

Our agency is starting to make improvements on the referral system from the hospital and our increased caseload is beginning to prove its worth.

We still continue with our Groveton contract concerning Medicare billing, which is apparently working very well at the present.

Special clinics and classes held during the past year include:

- I. Diabetic and Glaucoma Screenings Clinic. This Clinic revealed many new cases and was considered quite successful and rewarding for patients and physicians. This clinic was attended by 386 people for diabetic testing and 340 people for glaucoma testing.
- II. Pap Smear and Breast Examination Clinic. This clinic was attended by 68 women and considered very successful by the American Cancer Society.
- III. Series of Pre-Natal Classes. These were attended by five women reporting the classes to be quite informative.

Future plans of our agency include expansion of services in all communities, continuation of pre-natal classes and family oriented health services.

Child Health Station:

The Child Health Station was held every third Friday of each month with local physicians serving on a rotating basis. A total of 514 children were immunized. Immunizations included were DPT, Sabin Polio, Measles, Rubella, Mumps and Tuberculin testing.

Following is a schedule of state recommendations for immunizations for your own use.

Age	Immunization(s)
2 months	DPT - Polio
4 months	DPT - Polio
6 months	DPT - Polio
12 months	Mumps, Measles, Rubella Tuberculin Testing
18 months	DPT and Polio Booster
4 - 6 years	DPT and Polio Booster Tuberculin Testing

The immunization program is sponsored by the Mahaney-Brisson Post of the Lancaster American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary. The immunizations are provided by the State Department of Health. Members of the Public Health Committee have assisted at the clinics during the year.

I would especially like to thank the Medical Staff of Beatrice D. Weeks Memorial Hospital; Dr. James Ferguson for serving on our Medical Advisory Committee; the Public Health Nursing Committee; Miss Eleanor Kenney, R.N.; Mrs. Stewart Foss, Secretary; Mrs. Jacquelyn Sawin, R.N.; Mrs. Mary Fitch, R.N.; Mrs. Diantha Rochefort, R.N.; Mrs. Carol Haas, R.P.T.; and members of our communities for their guidance and assistance during the past year.

SUMMARY PROGRAM OF THE WHITE MOUNTAINS REGION ASSOCIATION
1973 (36th Year)

Your Region Association, through its promotional and financial responsibilities, was one of the principal organizers of the White Mountains Art and Music Festival. This Festival has been acclaimed as a truly significant contribution to northern New Hampshire and in 1974, with a much larger budget, the program is expected to expand markedly.

Your Region Association also helped to set up the Hotel-Motel training program at the Waumbek, Jefferson, N.H. Because your Association has for many years promoted the region's hotel-motel industry, the directors felt this training program would effectively compliment these on-going promotional activities. The responsibilities incurred by your Association were: a questionnaire designed to answer "Is there a need for the program" and assistance in employing graduates of the program in the region's hotel-motel industry. Additionally, your Association set up meetings with hotel-motel owners and managers to work out any problems and to exchange ideas.

Other activities for 1973 included: completion of a canoe and kayak folder (designed for promotional purposes), a State requested survey of flood damage to the private sector of northern New Hampshire's economy, representation at the Eastern State Exposition in Springfield, Mass., presentation of 4-H awards in Grafton and Coos Counties and annual subscriptions of the 4-H National News Magazine to club leaders, and the annual solicitations of listings for the New Hampshire Accommodations and Dining Directory and the Where to Stay folder. Additionally, your Association's executive director acted as secretary of the N.H. Council of Region Associations, an organization which works closely with the State's Office of Vacation Travel.

Your Association for its 1973 annual meeting set up a panel discussion on the subject of "Wilderness in the White Mountain National Forest." Panelists included representatives of the N.H. Snowmobile Association, the Appalachian Mountain Club, the Society for the Protection of N.H. Forests, Sno-engineering, the wood products industry in northern New Hampshire, the Sierra Club, the State's Bureau of Off-Highway Recreation Vehicles, the U.S. Forest Service and the North Country RC&D Project, Inc.

With regard to legislated matters your Association supported House Bill relative to Open Space. In large part the directors saw this bill as an attempt to help preserve our farmlands here in the region. Furthermore, your Association supported House Bill #10 relative to Off-Highway Vehicles with the exception that the majority of directors felt snowmobilers should ask the permission of the land-owners during periods when there is adequate snow cover.

Finally, the executive director spoke on Association activities both on radio and before several chambers of commerce and rotary clubs in the region.

Inquiries for the year totaled 5,000.

Wrote 27 news releases, 2 newsletters and 140 personal letters.

REPORT OF THE FOREST FIRE WARDEN AND DISTRICT CHIEF

The New Hampshire Forest Fire Service is represented in every town, city or unorganized place in our state by the forest fire warden. Anyone wishing to kindle an outside fire when the ground is not covered with snow must first obtain the written permission of the fire warden. Except for cooking fires, no fire can be kindled between 9:00 A.M. and 5:00 P.M. unless it is a commercial or industrial burn or it is raining. The fire warden is assisted in his work by the District Forest Fire Chief who works for the Department of Resources and Economic Development Forest Fire Service.

Fire prevention was, again this year, the most important part of the Forest Fire Warden's job. Fire statistics show the need with 72% of the fires caused by smoking, debris burning and children. Smokey the Bear is an important prevention tool but he still needs much help from the public. Parents should warn their children of the hazards of playing with matches. Children tend to forget that a lighted match held in their hand is a potential forest fire.
