TEACHERS
LeRoy B. Smith (to Jan. 9) Grammar Room
Lillian V. Kelly Intermediate Room
Helen S. Chase Primary Room
Laura M. Blizzard Glencliff

A comparison of the figures shows a smaller enrollment than that of last year. If the numbers at Glencliff continue to diminish, it may be advisable to close that school and transport the children to the village. The expense would be less and the pupils would have the advantage of being in larger classes under teachers not handling so many grades. At present there are four grades in Glencliff with only one pupil each, a situation not likely to inspire much effort.

We were sorry to lose Mr. Smith, who joined the army shortly after the Christmas vacation. As yet we have not found a permanent teacher to take his place.

In accordance with the recommendations of the United States Office of Civilian Defense it is planned to keep the pupils in the school should an air raid occur. With the windows protected by sandbags the basement of the village school will be a suitable air raid refuge. The principal dangers we can guard against are air blasts, flying fragments, and broken glass. The first rule given by the Council for adults and children is to stay off the street and get under cover. If the building gets on fire the children will have to be conducted to nearby homes. If other methods or additional precautions are found to be advantageous, the schools will be duly notified.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD A. JANES
