REPORT OF SUP. SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

DISTRICT No. 1.

Prudential Com., M. H. Barstow.

Two terms of school during the year,—Summer and Fall. Both were taught by Miss Grace Darling, who last year gave good satisfaction in the same District. She fully maintained her reputation as a successful teacher.

DISTRICT No. 2.

Prudential Com., A. D. Burnham.

For the entire school year of three terms, the Primary Department was under the wise and efficient management of Miss Mary C. Morris, who has now completed her 14th engagement with this District.

The Higher Department was under a separate instructor for each term. The Summer Term was taught by Mrs. D. M. Strong, her first experience in the District. Some unruly scholars detracted from the interest and order of the school, which was on the whole, but fair.

The Fall School was instructed by Miss S. A. Bryant, so long and favorably known in the town as a good teacher.

Mr. E. W. Goodhue was engaged for the Winter Term. Coming a stranger to the town and the school, many will yet remember him as an exceedingly thorough and ambitious instructor. The Com. can but speak in high terms of his efforts to instruct his pupils both in school hours and out.

DISTRICT No. 3.

Prudential Com., Mrs. John K. Butnam.

Miss M. Millie Miller was engaged to teach the entire year of three terms. The school has greatly improved under her careful and continued management, and suggests the thought that greater excellence in scholarship can be secured by the constant employment of one good teacher, than by the frequent changing of instructors.

DISTRICT No. 4.

Prudential Com., Bradley T. Stockwell.

During the past year the Dist. has erected a new and neat school building, the old one having been destroyed by fire some time since.

The Winter Term, (the only one), was taught by Chas. J. Mason, who succeeded finely in his efforts. We are the more pleased to state this fact, because it is so great a change from the school of last year.

DISTRICT No. 5.

Prudential Com., H. E. Bliss.

Two terms, Fall and Winter—both taught by Miss Kate J. Colby. The Fall School, composed of small scholars, was a successful one. The Winter one, owing to various causes, to be found out of the school house, as well as in, was a failure; only 2 scholars out of 13 attending at its close, making the average attendance but 7.

DISTRICT No. 6.

Prudential Com., C. H. Farnham.

One term, Winter, 12 weeks, taught by Miss Emma F. Burroughs. A small school—only two scholars—present every day, and made good improvement, showing that both the teacher and the taught were true to their duties.

DISTRICT No. 7.

Prudential Com., Frank F. Pinney.

Teacher of Summer Term, Miss L. M. Owen, a teacher of much and varied experience. School was small, but profitable.

Teacher of Fall Term, Miss Emma J. Barker—her 2d term of service in town, and she gave good satisfaction. The interest of the scholars in the school was manifest, as the average attendance was almost perfect, and the application close.

DISTRICT No. 8.

Prudential Com., Wm. O. Bosworth.

Three terms, Summer and Fall—taught by Miss Addie J. Hersey—a good school, though small. Scholars regular and punctual in their attendance, and deportment excellent.

Winter term, taught by Miss Hattie A. Hersey—a teacher of experience—school still in session.

DISTRICT No. 9.

Prudential Com., E. M. Heath.

Two terms. Summer Term—taught by Miss E. J. Barker—her first school. Her aims were high, and she made a good beginning.

Fall Term, taught by Miss Kate A. Storrs. The school appeared well—studious and orderly.

DISTRICT No. 10.

Prudential Com., L. Colburn.

Two terms. The Committee are still of the opinion expressed last year—that it is the most difficult school in town to teach. The Summer Term was taught by Miss M. E. Mahan, who, with a school of 27 scholars, preserved her reputation of the past.

The Winter school was taught by Roger Smalley, of this town. The character of the school changed very much from the Summer, both in regard to the age and attainments of the pupils. The number also increased to 41, the average attendance being 37 1-4. On account of a trouble arising about the middle of the term, the Committee often visited the school, fearing an unfavorable result for the Winter's work, but were most happily disappointed—perceiving at once a marked change for the better, in the closer application of the scholars, who, under the plain and practical guidance of the instructor, had made rapid progress in their studies. The instruction received was most thorough, as evinced by the scholars undergoing a very critical and lengthy public examination at the close of the term, at which every scholar fully satisfied the Committee and citizens that his or her time had been well and profitably employed.

DISTRICT No. 11.

Prudential Com., Chas. P. Freeman.

Summer and Fall schools, taught by Miss Nina L. Gile, who gave her usual satisfaction to both parents and scholars.

Winter Term, by Henry B. Shattuck—his first effort at teaching. Was a very conscientious teacher, devoting all his time—both inside and out of the school-room—to the welfare of his scholars. He succeeded in pleasing both the Prudential and Superintending School Committees.

DISTRICT No. 12.

Prudential Com., Geo. A. Freeto.

Two terms, Summer and Winter, both under Miss Luthera Jones, who always was pleased to exhibit the attainments of her pupils. It is quite a large school, of many classes, and demands much care and labor. It was a good school.

DISTRICT No. 13.

Prudential Com., L. D. Merritt.

Three terms. 1st. and 2d. terms taught by Miss Hattie A. Freeman, who carried on her work with her usual success.

Winter term, under instruction of Miss Mary J. Briggs, whose methods of instructions were good. Her efforts were so well appreciated by the District, that the term was protracted some two weeks.

DISTRICT No. 16.

Prudential Com., John Lahaye.

One term of ten weeks only in this District, though the Committee understand that the pupils have attended school elsewhere. School under instruction of Miss Rosa Manahan. Small school. Fair success. A better feeling seems to be manifested in the District than formerly.

CONCLUSION.

In submitting this report of the various schools of the town of Lebanon for the past year, we are happy to be able to state that, as a whole, there has been a great improvement over the preceding one. Many of the older teachers have been wisely retained, and where a change has been made, in most cases, it has been for the better. The various Prudential Committees and the inhabitants also, have exhibited a greater interest in the welfare of the schools, and, as a result, the punctuality, average attendance, and deportment of the pupils have been better—thus insuring greater and more lasting benefits to the instructed.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

FOR LEBANON HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT.

The High School has been continued under the charge of Prof. Earl W. Westgate during the whole year. Mr. Westgate has fully sustained his former high reputation as a teacher. On examination, his school appeared to excellent advantage, especially at the close of the winter term, showing marked improvement in studies, and in general deportment.

The First Grammar School was under the charge of Miss Lizzie Cushman during the spring term. Miss Cushman taught with a good degree of success, though it was evident that the labor of teaching this large and somewhat difficult school, was too severe for one in her condition of health. She was succeeded by Miss Adeline F. Walcott, who had large experience and many excellent qualifications as a teacher, but was perhaps better adapted to a school requiring less discipline. The third term was taught by Miss Pauline S. Miller, who succeeded admirably in arousing the ambition and interest of her pupils. This is at present the most difficult school in the district to control, but the Board were not disappointed in Miss Miller's ability in that respect.

The Second Grammar School was taught during the first and second terms by Miss Pauline S. Miller, who was then transferred to the First Grammar Department, and was succeeded by Miss Hattie A. Freeman, who taught during the third term with good success. Under Miss Freeman, this school was well governed and made good progress.

The First Intermediate School was in charge of Miss Georgie

M. Dudley during the first term. Miss Dudley was as usual, successful. Her successor, Miss Emma L. Chapman, was equally successful, showing admirable tact in the government of her school and in other respects.

The Second Intermediate School during the first term was continued under the charge of Miss Mary E. Hall. This school made good improvement under Miss Hall's instruction, though there was a lack in discipline. During the second and third terms Miss Helen M. Hough was the teacher. Miss Hough was a graduate of the New Hampshire State Normal School, and we wish to speak in commendation of the merits of that Institution as exemplified by her style and manner of teaching.

The Primary School continued under the charge of Miss Addie F. Straw, during the first and second terms. Miss Straw was well adapted to a school composed of small pupils. She was succeeded by Miss Georgie M. Dudley, who taught the third term.

The School on the West side of the river was in charge of Miss Ellen F. Smalley during the spring term. She was succeeded by Miss Ruth Houston, who taught during the remainder of the year. This school made good improvement under both teachers.

The work of grading the schools has not been easy or, as perfect as we could wish, owing in part to a predominance in numbers, of pupils of certain ages and grades. The schools have never appeared to better advantage than during the last winter term. The teachers have been energetic and interested in their work, and the schools have made more than usual improvement. Where all have done well, it would be unjust to discriminate. We urge parents and friends of the schools to manifest an interest in the same, by making more frequent visits.
