Report of Librarian and Trustees 1969

Circulation from the 3,152 volumes in the library, the 2,703 volumes from the Keene Bookmobile, and the 123 recordings in the library, totalled 5,528 for the year. As one of the 191 libraries in the Statewide Library Development Program we received a grant-in-aid of $100 for reference books. Since the N. H. Cooperative Book Buying Program was discontinued as of June 20 because of reduction in federal funds, our discounts on book purchases were reduced and our funds on deposit were refunded. However the librarian attended five meetings in Keene, Claremont, Newport and New London to review new books to be purchased. Miss Amy Kermeth, a retired teacher and librarian staying at Millen Pond for the summer, offered to conduct a story hour for children during July and August on Tuesday mornings at the library. Some ten children were enrolled and enjoyed the program with this graduate of the University of Birmingham (England) with a library degree from Carnegie Institute (Pa.). The Trustees attended meetings of the N. H. Library Trustees Assn. in Plymouth and Concord, and a meeting of the N. H. Friends of the Library in Manchester, and are represented on the Southwest District Advisory Council for Libraries which met in Keene, Meriden and Hanover, and on the Executive Board of the N. H. Library Trustees Assn. A new portable typewriter with card guide for cataloging and a large oak desk to provide more space for the librarian were added to the library. RCA sent us 75 record albums valued at nearly $300, bringing our collection to 123 recordings that can be borrowed to play at home. We received another gift of 15 large print books from the State Library for use by people with poor eyesight. Mrs. Earl Chandler of the Claremont Library who summers at Highland Lake gave us 36 books, and 17 other books were donated by others. The latest statewide statistics show that the Shedd Free Library had the second highest per capita book circulation, 33.3, for 1968, compared with a state average of 6.59, among the 218 public libraries in New Hampshire, indicating we really use our library. Please continue to do so, remembering it is open for you every Wednesday from 2 to 4 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 in the evening.

REPORT OF THE FOREST FIRE WARDEN AND DISTRICT CHIEF

The 1969 fire season was a quiet one in this area. Frequent rains kept the danger to a minimum and there were few violations. Your Forest Fire Warden's job would be easier if everyone understood the State laws that govern the kindling of outdoor fires. A synopsis of these laws follows:

Fire Permit

A fire permit is needed for all outdoor fires in or near woodland anytime the ground is not covered with snow. This includes household waste burning, even if in an incinerator, grass burning, garden trash as well as brush burning. Such burning is restricted by regulation to be prior to 9:00 a.m. and after 5:00 p.m.

Exceptions

Commercial or industrial burning is allowed anytime under normal conditions with permission of the District Chief and a permit from the Fire Warden.

Camp or cooking fires are allowed on your own property with permission of the Fire Warden. On another's property with written permission of the landowner and permission of the Fire Warden. The Warden can forbid such fires if in a hazardous area. Permits for cooking fires in the White Mountain National Forest can be obtained from the Laconia Office or at the Ranger Stations. Permits are not required in public camp or picnic grounds where fireplaces have been built for this purpose.

Penalties

1. For kindling a fire without a permit. Maximum of $200.00 fine; or imprisonment for not more than 60 days.
2. For kindling a fire by any means wilfully or recklessly that shall endanger woodlands the maximum fine in $500.00 or one year's imprisonment.
3. For failure to totally extinguish a camp or cooking fire before leaving it the same penalties as in (1) above.
4. For dropping inflammable material in or near woodland maximum fine of $25.00.

Fire prevention is a personal matter and a good habit.
Keep our town free from smokes in 1970.

Planning Committee Report 1969

The committee met June 3 and elected Donald Crane chairman and Preston Rolfe clerk and treasurer. They found that $2,010.60 was available for cemetery improvement and started once more to try to locate a local contractor to rebuild the cemetery wall.

At the July 9 meeting Ronald Houghton of Windsor Construction Co. agreed to work on the wall as far as funds would allow, although he was very busy.

At the August 13 meeting Robert Niven was invited to discuss standards for accepting roads in subdivisions and he suggested a variance provision should be included in any article pertaining to that subject.

At the September 17 meeting the committee started work on a map to show official names of roads in the town by ordering the preparation of a base map by the Dept. of Resources and Economic Development whose only charge to towns is the cost of an enlargement of the USGS topographic maps of the vicinity.

At the October 8 meeting an article for the town warrant on standards for accepting roads in subdivisions as town roads was approved.

At the November 5 meeting it was reported that Windsor Construction Co. had completed about 50 feet of the front wall of the cemetery at a cost of $351.00 but would be unable to do any more work until next season.

At the January 7 meeting it was voted 4 to 1 to put an article in the town warrant for the voters to consider having the selectmen's office in the Center Fire Station. It was also voted to invite the public to bring to the February 4 meeting any suggestions they might have for the committee to study and discuss during the year ahead, and to hold a public discussion of the Town Warrant at the March 4 meeting.

In addition to the activities already mentioned, the planning committee considered such items as developing the Heald triangle for public use, painting the bandstand, repairing the railing around the soldiers' monument, painting the town hall, developing a playground if land could be acquired, making a town map available to individuals, the long range effects of the growing number of subdivisions in the town and future cemetery improvement.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

Sometime in the long, dim distant past someone conceived the idea that the superintendent of schools should write an annual report to be published in the annual school report. The content of most of these reports has been pretty much as the term conotates i.e., a recitation of past happenings, and I don't use that term in the sense it is presently being used by some segments of our society.

I have never given it much thought, but a review of my reports, over the years, will reveal that I have ignored the strict interpretation of the word "report," but instead have spent my time gazing wistfully into the future, predicting ominous happenings — there goes that word again — and occasionally prognosticating accurately the dire consequences of procrastination.

I feel no compulsion to change my strategy as I approach the conclusion of my tenure but I will attempt to look back as I look ahead. This assumes that I will be temporarily blessed with much greater physical capabilities than Cyclops.

Education used to concern itself with the Three R's or what is now called the basics and for the agrarian society of the early days of our country the ability to read and cypher a bit was adequate. However, little by little the great strides in technical knowledge began to make life more complicated and educators, in an attempt to meet the needs of society, changed their emphasis from basic education to educating the whole child.

It was at this point where we ran into trouble. At first educational proponents of change had little trouble in selling new ideas in teaching. We dropped phonics for sight reading, we joined History, Geography and other basic courses in the social science areas and taught social studies, we adopted the so-called new-math, we ungraded classes, we involved the Joplin Plan, we departmentalized our elementary schools, we instituted CBA Chemistry and PSSC Physics and made a raft of other assorted changes in an attempt to keep abreast of the needs of mankind in this ever changing and growing complex world. As our changes were put into effect we learned at least one thing and that is that there is a great deal of truth in the old adage, "that which is good for the goose is not always good for the gander." We have known right along that all youngsters are not alike but in too many instances we tried to place them in the same program and while some youngsters profited from their new experiences an equal number suffered from them. Today we have almost as many answers to educational problems as we have educators and probably the answers are correct when we talk about a particular child or a particular group of children.

There are those who would say that educational practices have gone from slight confusion to chaos but I don't quite buy that. Educators have made a sincere effort to improve the product of their efforts but lacking specific goals and the present desires on the part of parents and student to achieve beyond their capacities to do so have confused the picture to the extent education is probably overly criticized.

It may be that educators in an attempt to solve the complexities of the learning process have taken themselves too seriously and need to go back to the basic education philosophy and use the knowledge gained during that period of "great experimentation" when and where there is merit in doing so.

The above was written with full knowledge that in many instances that is just what we are doing. We find phonics has returned to its rightful place in the teaching of reading; we have found that the new math isn't for everyone and are adjusting to its use; we have found out that the new emphasis in several subject areas has merit for certain youngsters but that the old emphasis provided a better contribution to a sizable group. What I am saying is that educators the same as scientists have to experiment with new ideas; but unlike science which can usually be worked out by formula prior to experimentation, children are individuals and rarely react the same to the presented motivation even though often similar. Educators are not as confused as to where they are going and how they are going to get there as it sometimes may appear but are moving forward even though at times it appears to be in a somewhat disorderly fashion.

If given a chance, I predict that the next twenty-five years will see great progress on the part of the educator to improve the learning process and I regret that I shall not be a part of it.

Some of the above was written with "tongue in cheek." It was an attempt to express some truths, to make light some of our experimental errors and to express confidence that education is progressing as fast as most segments of our society outside of the field of technology.

In closing, I do want to express my gratitude to the many school board members with whom I have worked;

the excellent office staff with which I have always been blessed, the hundreds of teachers with whom I have been associated, the citizens, without whose support our schools could not have operated and last, but certainly not least, Polly, who never complained once about those hundreds of evenings she spent alone while I attended meetings, for making my tenure enjoyable; a simple and sincere THANKS!

ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

The Sixties in all their acclaim — good and bad — had their effect on schools as they did all other segments of our society. And as people look to the Seventies for some ray of encouragement for things in general, so do those of us in schools. It is easy, as one reflects on what has transpired in recent years to become somewhat pessimistic and hold out little hope for the future of public schools. One merely needs to quickly list such things as student unrest, teacher militancy, inflation, increasing standards for schools, narcotics, etc. to easily see why such an attitude could prevail. Yet, to quickly relegate all to the pessimistic heap is to ignore the good that has been done and what, with reasoned effort, can take place in the future. The increasing efforts of teachers to develop better ways of meeting the educational requirements of their students, the improved quality of some of the materials now available to us, and the willingness to face up to the challenges to our school system tends to ward off feelings of pessimism and bring about a feeling of accomplishment.

I am tempted to relate to you the kinds of things we are doing that I feel hold promise for the years to come. No doubt I will slip a little in that direction, but for the major part of this report I would like to direct my efforts to an overall discussion of some of the ideas that will lead us into the Seventies. Often times we are accused of overworking the idea that what we need is for the good of the students when we are attempting to get a budget or a program passed. And although at times this tack is overplayed, it nonetheless should be a basic motivating purpose to what it is we are attempting to accomplish. Schools are a part of the society and they serve the needs of the society. This is a responsibility we recognize. Yet, they directly serve the needs of the young people who attend and who, in time, will make up our society through not only by being around, but more so in the way they go about fulfilling their responsibilities as members of the society. And it is this ultimate consideration that must be kept in mind as we go about the business of developing the school system.

It was our concern for the type of educational opportunity we were offering our young people that prompted the development of the CAPE Project. The acceptance of this program by all concerned has resulted in a new concern for what it is we do for children. For those teachers directly involved in the project a renewed vigor has been created.

Within many of our schools we have committees studying the reading programs we now have in a concerted effort to bring about greater coordination, a more unified program, a program that will eliminate those gaps that cause many of the child's reading difficulties and explore the utilization of some of the new programs developed for teaching children how to read. This represents an ambitious undertaking, but if we are to do the job in reading as we should then it is a high priority item. CAPE has also seen the attempts of teachers to try new approaches in other areas. Most noteworthy is the process of team teaching that has been tried this year. This is simply an effort by a group of teachers to use their talents to the best advantage in planning an educational program for the children in a certain grade or subject area. Also, a number of our materials have been made available through the CAPE Project for classroom trial. Rather than base materials selection on the plaudits of advertising companies, we are trying these items out in actual practice. We hope that this will lead us to make better choices in the types of materials we use for instructional purposes.

The coming year will see a concentration by CAPE in the area of vocational education. With the apparent imbalance in our curriculum in programs for students with various needs and abilities, the importance of a good and relevant program in the vocational area ranks high in importance.

The new Elementary Standards are going to pose a number of dilemmas for our area. For each community it will require a thorough examination of its elementary program, and the development of a plan that will provide for meeting the requirements that are part of the new standards. Briefly scanning the list of requirements we note:

1. New services such as guidance, library facilities and materials, health and special education.
2. Subjects offered to include — in addition to usual things — physical education, art, and music.
3. Facilities to house these required programs, if not currently available.
4. And then a number of related items such as class size, inservice education, school philosophy and adequate staff and administration.

Obviously we have much to do. At this point we have developed a survey form to determine how our schools stand in relation to these standards. From this we will prepare recommendations as to how we may best approach this problem. Although we have not completed our work as yet it seems reasonable to say that our thought will be to develop a phased program that will space itself out over a period of time rather than to attempt a crash program that will yield little and cost much.

Now to look ahead with a one-man brainstorming session. The preceding topics are with us. They are fact. Yet the methods of achieving some of our needs is a point requiring much thought. I know that if I were to mention the word cooperative it would raise some eyebrows. Yet for some, this still may be an avenue of approach. Be that as it may, the fact still remains that because each of our districts is small we must pursue a course that will allow us to provide a reasonable program at a cost that is not prohibitive. One approach that seems worthy of consideration at this juncture is shared services. By this I simply mean the sharing of programs and services by the districts within this Union. The first example of this is the proposed sharing of a program of special education for the mentally retarded child by all the communities in this Union. This proposal is something upon which you will be asked to vote at your Annual Meetings. It is this kind of approach that may help us to meet some of our needs in lieu of other ways. Let me suggest some other areas in which the idea of shared services may be explored.

First, we all share a vital concern about the many apparent problems we have in reading. We hear much about the need for a remedial reading teacher. I submit that the need for such a highly specialized person is not so great as is the need for a person who has the expertise to develop and supervise a sound reading program that will meet the needs of all concerned. Such a person would be expensive for one community, but might be something on a shared basis that could help us in this area.

A second area is that of vocational education and/or related programs. We now have a tremendous duplication of facilities among our schools as well as a concern that what our programs are providing may not be as relevant to our students' needs as they should be. Thus, the idea to perhaps share facilities and personnel. That is, each school might offer different programs, and for a certain part of a day students could attend the program they have elected in the school where it is available. This, obviously, would require considerable study. The CAPE committee this year will address itself to this as well as other topics on this subject.

Finally we are rapidly approaching the era (for lack of a better word) of the extensive use of audio-visual materials. These are rather expensive items — both the teaching materials and the equipment with which to use them. At the same time the preparation of materials that fit into our programs and the technical use of some of the equipment requires time and training that we do not have an abundant supply of. Here again we see an area of possible shared effort something on the order of the Institutional Materials Center in Hampton, N. H., whereby we could produce materials, have a distribution center for various items and have a person with the technical know-how to assist teachers in the use of this material.

The point of these thoughts is to say to you that with the costs of education being what they are, and the relatively small size of our school systems it seems logical to explore ways in which we can still provide a sound program and yet not become economically inefficient in so doing. You will hear more from us on this topic in the near future.

Our intent is to develop the kind of school system that will do the best possible for each child in it. This rather idealistic statement is really what it is all about. The moment we lose sight of it, then any of the recommendations we put forth will lose a great deal of their meaning and significance. We believe in the individual child and much of our direction is aimed at meeting his particular needs. He needs discipline, but he also needs compassion and understanding. It is towards this degree of understanding that we are moving. For some reason schools seem to lag. We are trying to overcome that lag through a reasoned approach.

In closing, I would like to call your attention to a small booklet published by the American Association for School Administrators entitled A Climate For Individuality. It contains much that causes one to think. Two short paragraphs that don't necessarily relate closely to this report nonetheless leave one with something on which to ponder. (The opening sentence refers to the book not this report.)

"Perhaps some who read this will see in it an image of a soft, 'idealistic' world where children are petted, pampered, and given too much. We are so accustomed in these days to the harsher strains of talk of forced growth, and a frenzied pressure upon youth, that anything else sounds weak and mild. Many adults, frightened by a world they themselves have created in major respects, are frantically determined to set rigid patterns of content and common standards of achievement which are unsound, unrealistic, and dangerous.

They seem determined to impose on the next generation rigid standards which border on a sadism born of fear and frustration.

“But our image is of another sort. It is an image of a child with a secure base to operate from as he forays out into a world that may be tough; a child with an accumulating reserve of experience that carries him courageously into new and risky ventures; a child with a concept of himself that nerves him to dare. It is anything but a soft and sentimental picture. For it assumes that life takes strength, and it is based on faith that a rugged inward strength can grow to a level of power most men never know they have.”
