The NH Social Venture Innovation Challenge (SVIC) was founded by the University of New Hampshire in 2013 in partnership with Nobel Peace Prize winner, and father of the microfinance movement, Professor Muhammad Yunus, who was also the inaugural keynote speaker, attracting over 700 people, and serving as the inspiration for the UNH Social Innovator of the Year Award. Now in it's 10th year, this signature event invites college students from across the state to identify a pressing sustainability problem (as defined by the UN Sustainable Development Goals) at the state, national or global level, and develop innovative, sustainable, business-oriented ideas to solve them.

The SVIC is generously supported by community partners dedicated to helping to grow the next generation of changemakers and problem solvers. Register to join us December 1 for a day of inspiration and innovative ideas.
