REPORT.

FELLOW CITIZENS :

In presenting my seventh annual Report, I find the condition of our schools quite satisfactory ; and shall, therefore, be brief in my comments. More than usual progress has been made during the past year ; a fact that I attribute, largely, to the employment of experienced teachers. The instruction has been eminently practical, and but little attention has been paid to “cramming” for a couple of hours’ show on examination day. I believe that our schools will compare favorably with the best in the State, and know that they are far superior to many. Nearly all the pupils have rendered a cheerful and willing obedience to wholesome regulations, and a few have been compelled to submit to needed discipline.

Some introductions of new books have been made during the year, which I believe will prove highly beneficial. In the South and Centre Districts, “Swinton’s Language Lessons” have been introduced, and they are as much of an improvement over the old grammar, as a steam-engine is over a wheelbarrow. Indeed, they are, in my opinion, the best books ever printed for the use of young pupils who are commencing to study the English language. The books are full of systematic common sense, and, in the hands of a skilful teacher, will be the means of creating a revolution in our methods of learning Grammar. I hope to see the introduction completed in the remaining schools.

I have also introduced Guyot’s new Physical Geography, which I regard as a very excellent and systematic work for advanced pupils.

A Union School Exhibition was given, under my direction, on the evenings of May 5th and 6th, 1874, which was largely attended, and productive of much pleasure to those who took part in the exercises. It was a pleasant and profitable recreation for the pupils, and served to make them better acquainted with each other, and to unite them in a closer friendship.

The Schoolhouse in the South district has been newly plastered, and other needed repairs made upon it, until it is once more in good condition.

Nothing, as yet, has been done towards establishing a High School, which is very much needed. Hundreds of dollars might be saved, annually, by having a good High School in town wherein all our advanced pupils might receive instruction in the higher branches.

There are two ways by which we may establish a High School. One by separate and direct appropriation, and the other by taking a certain percentage of the school money, as provided by the State law.

The latter method has proved very unsatisfactory in many towns where the experiment has been tried, and I would by no means recommend its adoption. A few hundred dollars appropriated, directly, for the support of a High School, is exactly what is needed, and would, I think, prove as profitable an investment as the thousands of dollars we squander in building roads and bridges in out-of-the-way places.

The State laws have been altered and amended somewhat during the past year, and as much done in setting back the cause of popular education as seemed possible for hasty and blundering legislation to accomplish. The abolition of the Board of Education, and the Teacher's Institutes, was a direct blow to educational progress; the more so as no other system was suggested or desired. As matters now stand, our noble old State with a third of a million of people, has its great educational interests represented by one man, who can do nothing but send a few printed circulars to the town committees, and prepare his report as required by law. There is no State Board, no County Board, no County Supervisors, no County organizations, nothing that would indicate to a stranger that the State government takes any interest in the education of the people. This one step backward should be retraced as speedily as possible ; failing in which the people will apply the remedy.

The average attendance during the Winter term has been somewhat reduced, in consequence of sickness and the exceptionally cold weather.

The Spring and Fall terms in the South District are united in the statistical table, under the head of "Summer Term."

In the South District the Spring and Fall terms were taught by Miss Josie Foye, of Rye, whose school I found quiet, orderly and remarkably well instructed. The primary classes, particularly, showed evidence of having received thorough and systematic drill.

The Winter term was taught by the author of this report, a fact that precludes further comment.

In the West District the Summer term was taught by Miss Mary Alice Aldrich of Rye. So far as good scholarship and effort on the teacher's part was concerned, neither was wanting ; but there was a pre-existing determination outside of the schoolroom to make the school a failure if possible. This fact was so open and notorious, that it came to my knowledge several days before the commencement of the school. Under such circumstances no school can be a perfect success. It is only when parents and teachers co-operate that the greatest good to the greatest number is attainable.

The Winter term was taught by Mr. Nathan R. Goss of Rye, and was one of the best and most successful ever taught in the district. The excellent progress made by all the classes, is a more flattering comment than any words that I can pen.

In the Centre District both terms were taught by Miss S. Paulina Aldrich, of Rye, who, with the present term, completes a continuous service of two school years. I have always found her school under the best of discipline, and take pleasure in adding my testimony to theirs who appreciate her faithful services in the schoolroom.

In the East District, the Summer term was taught by Miss Etta Y. Remick of Rye. This was Miss Remick's second term in the district, and her classes exhibited the results of careful instruction. The very large number of young pupils rendered the task quite monotonous, but the close of school showed that the time had been well improved.

The Winter term was taught by Miss Ella A. Clark, of Plymouth, N. H., whose excellent education and experience admirably qualify her for the duties of a teacher. The school has made remarkably good progress, and the parents and pupils of the East District owe Miss Clark a debt of gratitude for her faithful services.

The number of visitors in the South and Centre Districts will probably be somewhat larger than indicated by the statistics, as neither school is finished at the closing of this report, (March 1st.) In the item of "Length of School in weeks," the full term is given. The "average attendance" is complied to date.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
