Report of Librarian

The librarian of the Daland Library respectfully submits the following report:

Owing to the severe weather and lack of fuel the library was not opened regularly during February and until the middle of March, 1920, but the record kept of distribution, aside from these months, shows that 3177 books have been taken out, up to February 1921, a large increase in the output.

Gifts have been received of one hundred and twenty five volumes, from the following donors: Mrs. Leslie Boutwell, Mrs. George Auryansen, Mrs. Fannie Murch, Miss May Trevitt, Miss Ellen Crafts, Mr. J. F. Wellington, Mr. Orrin Hubbard, Mr. Arthur Stearns, Mr. W. P. Woods, Mr. John Fox, Mr. J. DeBosque, and Ray Silvernail. We have been most fortunate in having such generous donations. Very few new books have been purchased for the library, as there were no available funds. All of the $200 appropriated by the town having been used for fuel, the librarian's salary, and other necessary expenses. No magazines could have been provided for 1921 had not the money been furnished by the Daland fund. To this source we are also indebted for the very necessary supplies of catalogue cards, card pockets, and all the various things of this kind which are used constantly, the bills for which have amounted to nearly $20, besides the magazines. At present the library table furnishes readers with Harper's Monthly, Century, World's Work, Ladies' Home Journal, Good Housekeeping, and St. Nicholas, while friends provide Asia, the Geographic, and Saturday Evening Post. The children are using the library as never before, some 30 to 40 juvenile books being taken out each time the library is open. The teachers too come for material to use in their school work, and it is a pleasure to know that the library is really helping in the education of the young people and is fulfilling the purpose for which it stands. Adult fiction is at present so well supplied that it needs no increase besides that it constantly receives from interested friends, but the juvenile section is still very inadequate. Some 25 books were given during the past year, but the most of the volumes are old and constantly wearing out beyond possible repair. Something must be done if the interest shown by the children is to be sustained. There is a desperate need of "books and books and more books," if we are to give the children the help they should have in forming the invaluable habit of reading good literature, and all libraries recognize that the children's department is of the greatest importance.

Five large cases of books have been received from the library of Mr. ^{Glimes}~~Grimes~~ of Somerville, bequeathed by him to the Daland Library, and are waiting for warmer weather and more stack room, when they will be placed on the shelves, and will be a valuable addition to the library and a source of pleasure to its readers.

I close my report with the hope that the present year may be as successful as the past.

GEORGINNA W. FLINT

Librarian.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board of Mont Vernon :

I herewith submit my second annual report, the same being the fourth in the series of such reports.

Organization of Supervisory Union No. 40

The grouping of districts remains the same as last year with apportionment of joint expenses arranged as follows: Amherst one-fourth, Brookline one-sixth, Milford one-half and Mont Vernon one-twelfth.

Teachers and Instruction

An entire change in the teaching force was made for this year. Miss E. Vivian Scott of Northwood Narrows, a graduate of Keene Normal School, succeeded Miss Louise Barrett and has charge of 17 pupils in grades V, VI, VII, VIII, in the upper room at the village. Mrs. Helen Perry of Glover, Vermont, an experienced teacher with normal training has charge of 22 pupils in grades I, II, III, IV, in the lower room at the village, replacing Miss Florence Corliss. Miss Hazel M. Plummer of Derry, a graduate of Pinkerton Academy and Keene summer normal school has been assigned to the East school, where the enrollment has varied from two to seven. Miss Viola Jenkins had this school last year. The salary of teachers has advanced materially during the last year or two in all sections of the country. It is not likely that there will be any decrease and there should not be. Instead there must come a raising of the standards of qualification so that incompetent and untrained teachers, who have received, under stress and demand, more than they were worth, will be eliminated in favor of the best teacher material in the country. The raising of standards will occur when the profession is on a plane with other professions.

Proper instruction of pupils requires suitable teachers, books, apparatus and supplies. These we have in reasonable amounts. It further requires a program of study. This we have in the State Program of Study as revised in 1916, and now again in the process of revision. This program is suggestive and not mandatory. It is intended to set forth "the results of the most modern thinking and experience of the country so far as that experience seems to have demonstrated principles utilizable under the conditions of New Hampshire schools."

In its preparation the teachers of the state were given full opportunity to express their ideas, and are always free to report any gaps or inconsistencies which may be found.

A common program of study helps greatly to promote equal opportunity throughout a state, especially since families frequently move from one locality to another.

It emphasizes the fundamental studies with the elimination of obsolete material and provides a definite place for other subjects which should not be neglected.

The thing of chief importance in the first three grades is reading for herein is the key to all the rest. Ability to read means more than ability to pronounce words. It means the recognition at sight of any common word, power to understand and reproduce with accuracy what is read, and a desire to read because reading is interesting.

In the acquisition of this power a great deal of history, geography, physiology or hygiene, nature, thrift and literature can be taught incidentally as there is a wealth of properly graded reading material which treats of such subjects.

Writing follows along daily with the reading and spelling likewise is begun in these first three grades.

Arithmetic here deals with learning the numbers and working to make simple combinations of them automatically mastered.

Music, drawing, plays and games have a place also and serve a very useful purpose for the application and practice of the more fundamental studies mentioned above.

In the middle grades geography, language and grammar, spelling, history and civics are made more formal with constant practice in writing and reading afforded through these subjects. Arithmetic is extended and drills given to fix in mind the harder combinations of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division.

Drawing, music, nature, current events, thrift, hygiene and plays and games all find a place here but do not need to be given full time each day of the week.

It is during these middle years of a child's life that memory functions best and so in the middle grades stress is laid on drill work to master those things which need to become automatically available in after years.

In the two upper years, or grades VII and VIII, the program calls for a junior high organization where feasible. Such a plan does not fit in the smaller towns with only a very few enrolled in the upper grades. Instead it becomes necessary to arrange the work so that pupils will be ready to enter high school. Accordingly the studies given are American history and civics, arithmetic, geography, and English, together with the music, drawing, hygiene, nature, thrift and current events which all the pupils have as explained above.

In history and civics grade VII begins with pre-revolutionary times and continues to about the year 1800. Grade VIII continues the subject down to the present day. History and civics are taught together.

In arithmetic, problems and examples are given to review the previous work in mathematics and to extend the study into those subjects not covered before. The main thing is to see that the fundamentals learned in previous years continue to be usable by using them. Any point that is forgotten should be relearned, but there are many things in advanced arithmetic that are rarely if ever used in every day life and it is a waste of time to try to master them.

In geography some difficulty is experienced because most high schools expect pupils who enter to have had elementary science. For this reason it is necessary to emphasize the physical and economic and commercial side of geography as in this way elementary science can be touched upon. This is feasible, however, as the important facts of political geography can be learned in the middle grades and constantly reviewed through the study of history or any other study as occasions arise.

By English is meant the application of reading, writing, spelling, language, grammar, oral and written composition to all work with special instruction whenever a deficiency is shown. And a definite place should be provided for literature as such.

In every study in every year no pupil should be allowed to do less than his best work with respect to neatness, penmanship and use of the English language. Insistence on this will reveal the weak spots and provides the best instruction possible because it makes such instruction function.

But teachers, books, apparatus, supplies, and a program of study are not all. There must be active cooperation of pupils, parents, teachers, superintendent, school board and citizens if best results are to be obtained.

Attendance

Such matters as regular attendance and punctuality count for far more than is suspected. Last year's record of 300 tardinesses is far in excess of reason, while the per cent of attendance (85 per cent) is much too low. These two things alone are enough to account for failure of promotion. It is the good of the child and not that of some one else that the attendance law considers.

Transportation and Consolidation

This item is a costly one all over the State, but considered from the transporter's point of view the amounts paid are justifiable. The alternative of opening more schools in Mont Vernon is hardly admissable in view of the small number of children in town and the present condition of teacher supply. A more logical plan from a business and educational point of view would be to combine transportation routes and convey all pupils to the village two room building. Children in a small school of few pupils lose the competitive interest and better instruction possible in a larger group where grades may be separated and teachers assigned to that group for which they are best fitted by nature and training.

Noon supervision is essential when several children take their lunches to school. This has been provided by having the teachers take turns in remaining at school during the noon hour. During the cold weather a hot dish has been prepared and served each noon to the enjoyment and benefit of all. A little more equipment, however, would make this feature still better.

Physical Welfare

Physical examination of all pupils is now made twice a year. Notices of defects found are sent to parents as required by statute. Such notices must be sent even if parents know the facts and are having treatment given. Remedial measures have been undertaken by many parents and good results are already noticeable both in physique and scholarship. More remains to be done, however, as the report of the School Physician, which follows this report, indicates.

The recent draft for the war showed glaring physical defects among our American people. A great deal can be done to correct and prevent this condition by regular systematic instruction and practice. To this end physical exercises are being given to all pupils regularly. In suitable weather this takes place out of doors, where conditions are best. At other times the schoolrooms are used, with windows opened for fresh air. The pupils often act as leaders.

Accounting System

School districts that are candidates for state aid are required to use prescribed accounting forms. These have been purchased for Mont Vernon and will last several years before requiring renewal. Under this system all checks are signed by the School Board and forwarded to the District Treasurer before being sent out. The Treasurer enters each item on his book before making payments. Occasion need never arise therefore for delay in payments, or for shortage of funds as the Treasurer always knows in advance the amount required.

Costs

A study of the amount of money needed for schools indicates clearly that Mont Vernon can not support "standard schools" as prescribed by law on a tax of $3.50 per $1000 of inventory, which is the minimum that may be raised. Neither does a $5 tax furnish enough money for this purpose, but as the State Equalization Fund is designed to assist such school districts as are unable to support "standard schools" on a $5 tax, this amount at least should be raised. Under the heading "support of standard elementary schools" certain items may not be included for the purpose of determining state aid. Such items are in the way of statutory requirements or additional sums, and include salaries of district officers, $2 per capita tax on pupils registered and administrative expenses. These are assessed separately. The budget as printed in the report of the school board conforms to the groupings explained above.

What proportion of all the money expended by a town should be for school purposes? The answer is found in part by studying the actual figures of towns throughout the State. These indicate that one third of all public money is not too much to spend for schools. Some towns spend even more with the idea that the children shall have every advantage that can be provided. Mont Vernon seems to be below this percentage, which indicates that schools are not receiving an undue part of the public money. The cost of schools has risen less than the cost of the common things which all of us use in everyday life. While the cost of such articles will probably drop somewhat, the cost of schools will not decrease correspondingly because of salaries which have lagged behind for so long and now are scarcely catching up.

It is wise policy to spend every cent possible for the improvement of instruction for boys and girls. Events which are daily occurring in these troublous after-war times point out most clearly that the hope for America lies in this direction. Our expenditures are an investment in Americanism.

Respectfully submitted,
 HAROLD C. BALES,
 Superintendent of Schools.

REPORT OF SCHOOL PHYSICIAN

Amherst, N. H., Feb. 7, 1921.

To the School Board of Mont Vernon:

I herewith submit my first report of physical examination of the Mont Vernon schools. This subject is by far the most important matter connected with education today as can be seen from the physical examinations carried on in our connection with the war. Let me report from one examination in Massachusetts (Milton) that out of the entire number examined 47 per cent were found with conditions which would in time render them physically unfit to enter military training. These conditions can be greatly corrected if taken care of during school life.

In the following table as compiled by Miss Charlotte Smith, School Nurse, you will note the number of unnecessary ailments that can be taken care of if followed up by her.

Number pupils examined	30
Teachers examined	3
Un-vaccinated	16
Nervous Disease	1
Defective Vision	3
Anemia	2
Pediculosis	1
Enlarged Tonsils	5
Enlarged Glands	3

It is most gratifying in my own connection with the children of the town to see the number of cases that have been cared for (I report in particular teeth and tonsils.) On my next examination I will undoubtedly find cases treated also that do not come under my care in the homes.

As medical inspector of the buildings I am glad to report a great change in the lighting of the schools as compared with the old method. This was a great necessity.

One point I would like to bring out is the cooperation of the parent and School Nurse. This is very necessary in order to get results in the follow up examinations by her, which I would advise being done frequently.

Respectfully submitted,

OSCAR BURNS, M. D.
