Wolfeboro, N. H., Feb. 26, 1907.

To the Selectmen of the Town of Wolfeboro :

In presenting their annual report, the Board of Library Trustees wish to bring more prominently before the minds of the citizens the importance of the public library and its needs. The present condition of the library, and what has already been done, is most clearly stated in the report of the librarian, hereto annexed, to which we invite your attention.

The strongest preventive of crime is education: and next to the public school system, the public library is the most powerful agent in the world for spreading ideals of good citizenship. Every resident of Wolfeboro is urged to make use of the library, to consult its resources, and to ask advice of the librarian, who will gladly outline courses of reading, either for recreation or study.

With a view to making the library still more accessible, the hours have been lengthened on Saturday afternoons; we hope to take still further steps in this direction as fast as the needs of the public require. When the improvements in cataloguing and delivering, now under way, have been completed, the usefulness of the library will be many times multiplied.

We are extremely fortunate to have an enthusiastic, experienced librarian.

In order for the library to keep pace with the times, new books must be added constantly. A certain sum is fixed by law for the support of the library, but the trustees feel that this amount is not sufficient to get the best results, and they urge that a generous additional appropriation be granted for the coming year.

PIERCE A. HORNE. }
CARROLL D. PIPER. } Library
MABEL E. FULLERTON. } Trustees.

To the Board of Trustees of the Wolfeboro Town Library :

The report of the Librarian for the current year, 1906, and a brief sketch of the history of the library is herewith presented.

The Wolfeboro Town Library was established by vote of the town at the annual town meeting in March of 1900. The first hundred dollars' worth of books was given by the state, and consisted of 108 vols.

During the year 1900, there were added by purchase,	242 vols.
By gift,	1 vol.
From 1901 to 1905, by purchase,	498 vols.
By gift,	71 vols.
During 1906, by purchase,	79 vols.
By gift,	5 vols.

Making a total of 1004 vols.
in the library February 15, 1907. These figures represent the bound volumes only; there are besides, and as yet uncatalogued, several hundred volumes of State and United States documents, and pamphlets received from various sources.

It is impossible to estimate the usefulness of the town library alone since all the records of work done include both the Town and Brewster libraries; indeed the two are practically one library as far as the public is concerned.

During this year, 9041 books have been loaned for home use. These figures do not include the large number of books and magazines used for reference work in the room. Nineteen hundred and six has seen a greater number of people using our reading room and consulting our reference books than any preceding year since the library building was opened. One reason for this increase is the fact that the library has now a fair working assortment of reference books. A new Encyclopedia in 20 volumes has been added within a few months. There are in the reading room a good number of the best magazines and newspapers. These are put into general circulation as soon as they are taken from the reading tables.

Books are circulated in the outlying districts through the schools; but in this line only a small beginning has been made and the librarian is anxious to do more as soon as the number of books on our shelves will make it practicable. For the convenience of people living at a distance, the library is being opened an hour earlier on Saturday afternoons.

Two years ago, all of the children's books were placed in one alcove. The arrangement has proven the best possible both from the children's and the librarian's standpoint, and from seeing the enjoyment of the children looking at books and pictures sometimes for an hour at a time, the librarian has come to wish that we might have a separate children's room and many hundred more books.

For two years past, the library has been able to give some assistance to the women's club by reserving for it a special table, on which has been placed all the material the library could furnish for club purposes.

Twice exhibits of pictures have been hung in the reading room. Along this line we wish to do more Plans are being made to re-catalogue and re-classify the books during the coming months. It is believed that this will place the library on a better working basis and add much to its usefulness by making all its resources available.

We greatly need more books on every subject, both standard works and those of current interest.

The librarian wishes to express to the Trustees her appreciation of their encouragement and sympathy, and their kindly consideration of her suggestions:

Respectfully submitted,

INEZ A. BREWSTER, Librarian.
