Superintendent's Report

TO THE SCHOOL BOARD OF PITTSBURG

I herewith submit the annual report of the superintendent of schools.

The total enrollment is almost exactly the same as that of last year. We have five tuition pupils from Clarksville in the high school and nine in the grades.

The elementary tuition rate was increased this year from $36.00 per pupil to $53.21, since the latter was the actual per pupil cost for 1932-33.

We are glad to welcome Mr. Albert P. Knightly back as headmaster of the High School. Under his able administration, with the assistance of an excellent and experienced corps of teachers, the school is being conducted very efficiently.

At the Danforth School Miss Virginia Park resigned at Christmas to take a position in Laconia. Her place was filled by Mrs. Velma Gray.

SUPERVISORY UNION NO. 7

As a result of legislative action the State Board of Education is compelled to eliminate ten superintendents of school in two years. Six have already been eliminated. This has made necessary a new grouping of school districts into supervisory unions. Union No. 7 now consists of Clarksville, Colebrook Special, Colebrook Town, Columbia, Pittsburg, and Stewartstown. The following statistics give an idea of the size of the union.

School District	No. of School	No. of Pupils	No. of Teachers
Clarksville	2	36	2
Colebrook Special	2	305	14
Colebrook Town	7	127	7
Columbia	5	116	6
Pittsburg	3	155	8
Stewartstown	6	174	8
Total	25	913	45

The former Colebrook union (Colebrook, Columbia, Errol, Wentworth Location) had last year 15 schools, 635 pupils, and 31 teachers. The Pittsburg union had 10 schools, 361 pupils and 17 teachers. The Colebrook superintendent, who now serves the new union, had, therefore, nearly a 50 per cent increase in number of pupils and teachers to supervise and 66 2-3% increase in number of schools to be visited. The union extends from South Columbia to Connecticut Lake, a distance of about 35 miles. Twenty-one of the school are rural schools, a fact which means many miles of travel. Some of them are on back roads which are not open to an automobile in the winter. Therefore travel consumes much time.

The above facts indicate clearly that the superintendent can not visit any one school as frequently as could be done under former conditions. The state has saved some money by reducing the number of superintendents, but supervision in the individual school districts has been very much diluted. Moreover several towns have lost a resident superintendent.

A superintendent can not visit schools every day because administrative duties must also be performed. He must attend to correspondence, reports, bills, pay-rolls, repairs, supplies, transportation, etc. There are teachers' meetings, conferences, school board meetings, and interviews with parents, salesmen, and others. Under these circumstances a reasonable schedule would allow a visit to each school in the revised union about every three weeks. Unfavorable travelling conditions in winter, or an unusual increase in administrative duties (as making out the annual reports) will make such a schedule impossible. It is an open question whether economy is more important than service. But the situation is here and we shall do the best we can to attend to all the many duties as quickly as possible. A clerk in the office to perform all the routine tasks will free the superintendent for visits to the schools. A clerk has been employed this winter, under the C. W. A., for 24—30 hours a week. This has been a very great help.

SCHOOL SUBJECTS

As we emerge from the depression and look down the road which opens before us we see many changes in our social and economic life. These changes can not help affecting the schools.

The most striking fact is the lack of work, resulting in widespread and appalling unemployment. Machines have made unnecessary the employment of many people. Manufacturing and business enterprises have cut down production because people can not buy the articles produced. All employers (including units of government) have reduced their working forces in the interest of economy. The federal government has courageously tackled this gigantic problem and has set thousands to work in C. C. C. camps, on public works, and on various projects under the C. W. A. But even these workers are limited in the number of hours of labor. Therefore folks have an abundance of leisure time. What will they do with it?

This sudden increase in leisure time constitutes one of our big problems. People will not sit idle or sleep all the time they are not working. They will do something, either good or bad. Now it is a fact that many do not know what to do with spare time. Isn't this an opportunity—even a responsibility—for our schools? For years we have, through our practical arts courses, trained pupils to work. Now we find that there is not as much work to be done. What there is usually requires very little training. It is said that most jobs in commercial plants can be learned in three days. Therefore the schools must change the emphasis and prepare pupils really to live, not merely to earn a living. In other words we must prepare children to use happily and profitably their leisure hours. How can we do this?

In the first place men and women will not seek to amuse themselves translating Cicero's Orations, solving algebraic equations, or discussing current topics in French or German. But probably they will take some interest in topics like the following:

1. Reading. Once we have mastered the art of getting ideas from a printed page most of us will spend considerable time reading something. Probably it will not be Shakespeare, Browning, or even our beloved poet Longfellow. We turn mostly to current magazines and papers. There is certainly no lack of them! Which shall we choose? These current magazines should appear in school along with the so-called Classics. Then we can train pupils to read with discrimination and judgment the very articles they will meet in their daily lives, thus forming habits that will be useful in later life. The pupils will, moreover, get some insight into current problems.

2. Economics and sociology. We used to let the bankers handle our economic questions and the professors the problems of our larger social relations. The depression has violently removed the laurel wreaths from the brows of the bankers and a new administration has elevated the professors to the seats of the mighty. The result is that economic questions have escaped from the barred windows of the banks and sociology has burst out of the cloisters of the colleges. Both are right on the front page of our daily newspapers. You and I have read them with frowns, sighs, and despair. Our children must be better prepared in these subjects. This preparation constitutes a second task for our modernized curriculum.

3. Music and Art. People have always found joy and solace in music and art. We are fast becoming a musical nation. The radio has been the largest factor in this development, because it is constantly pouring music into our ears. Hundreds of orchestras and choruses have been organized throughout the land. It seems to be a natural impulse to sing, play some instrument, or even to whistle. Why shouldn't we take hold of this impulse and develop it to the advantage of the individual and the community?

There are two aspects of instruction in music—production and appreciation. Children should be taught to sing and play some instrument. They can then pleurably occupy leisure hours and also help out in the activities of church, Grange, or other community organizations. Many schools furnish instruments for an orchestra or help pupils to secure them. But whether we produce music in any way or not, we all listen to it. What a thrill of genuine interest we feel when we recognize a selection which we hear and can tell who composed it! It is like meeting an old friend. We can all be taught a real appreciation of music. All this should ideally be accomplished under the direction of a music supervisor, but even without one, much can be acquired by means of the victrola and modern books.

Ability to express one's ideas by sketching or painting is a highly-prized talent, for it helps pass away many pleasant moments and brings great satisfaction, if not, indeed, added income. How many of us would be happier if we had acquired this talent in school? On the other hand can we really appreciate a picture or painting which we see? That, too, requires training, which can readily be given with the aid of inexpensive prints of famous works of art and a manual in the hands of the teacher.

I hear some object that music and art are mere fads and frills. Is your automobile a fad? or your fishing-rod? or your gun? Perhaps, but you live with them and enjoy them. Music and art affect people right on the level where they live and are therefore of the utmost importance, regardless of our past misconceptions, especially in the new leisure that is already upon us.

4. Science. The many mechanical appliances which we use daily make it necessary for us to know some science. Therefore at least a general course in science should be given to every pupil. This is already being given in the seventh and eighth grades. It should be transferred to the high school, unless all seventh and eighth grade pupils should go to the Junior high school in the village, because it can not adequately be taught in a rural school without laboratory, apparatus, and a trained teacher of science.

5. Recreation. It is well known that play and entertainment are as necessary for our well-being as food, clothing, and shelter. Without proper relaxation we go "stale" or become nervous wrecks. Pupils who are used to engaging in cooperative sports will easily continue to do so. Then there are hobbies which ought to be introduced and developed so that idle hours can be well employed.

I submit that these five fields of instruction are of fundamental importance to our daily lives. Already the schools are giving attention to them and will give more in the future if they are really going to prepare children for life.

NOTES ON THE BUDGET

"Others Expenses of Instruction" includes graduation expenses, standard tests, tuning the piano, magazines used in the various classes, teachers' plan and record books, victrola records, and reference books. The largest single item is graduation expenses, which may amount to $50.00 if we engage an outside speaker.

The upper room at the Danforth School needs new seats and desks. The ones now in use are of the old unadjustable type and are all too large for the pupils who have to occupy them for six hours a day. The desks are so high that a pupil's work is up under his eyes. There should be at least a foot between the eyes and objects they are looking at. When the pupils write, their elbows are almost on a level with their shoulders. These conditions are bad for the children. This item in the budget (new equipment) accounts for the small increase of next year's budget over the present year's, but the good to be accomplished warrants it.

The budget for 1934-35 is over $1100.00 smaller than the amount spent last year.

I wish to express my appreciation of the cordial reception accorded to a new superintendent and of the cooperation of all members of the school department.

Respectfully submitted,

ALFRED W. SMITH,

Superintendent of Schools.

During the sixth year of the Pittsburg Nursing Association 483 patients have availed themselves of the nursing service. The nurse has assisted with the birth of 12 babies, 5 operations and been of help at 4 deaths. There have been 1,086 visits made to sick people and 1,611 individual school inspections. The people of Pittsburg have been very loyal and thoughtful in the use of this service. Out of town calls have been attended whenever the work in Pittsburg has permitted.

Besides the actual bedside care there is a growing interest in prenatal and infant welfare supervision given free by our service in co-operation with the State program. Prenatal advice and plans, free urine analysis, blood pressure service, also monthly letters and literature issued by the State are available to all desiring this information. Excellent helps in getting baby started on the road to healthy childhood with feeding plans, etc., are also to be had. Each summer, State nurses and doctors hold a free baby clinic in connection with the chest and underweight clinic. This clinic is financed and made possible by the sale of Christmas Health Seals.

Results of the medical examinations of school children show a very good record. The most serious problem that confronts us at the present time is the dental and throat work, for which there is urgent need. Due to lack of funds it has been impossible to conduct clinics. The parents realize the importance of having defects corrected and are eager and ready to do all that is possible under the existing financial conditions. Through the Relief Administration of New Hampshire needy children are supplied with free milk, cod liver oil and noon lunches, this worth while provision will help in building up resistance to sickness.

Public health itself is dependent upon the cooperation of the individual to attain the best results. The community welfare may be put in jeopardy through the indifference, carelessness, disregard, or neglect of an individual who does not observe health measures. Each individual owes it to himself, his family, and his neighbors to conform as fully as possible to all health regulations. "Health is not quoted in the markets, because it is without price."

I extend thanks to the Nursing Committee, Superintendent of Schools, teachers and parents for their loyalty and cooperation shown throughout the year.

Respectfully submitted,

ETHEL SCHOFF STURGIS, R. N.
