REPORT OF LIBRARY TRUSTEES.

---

The librarian reports the total number of books taken from the library, 5,475; magazines, 781. During the past year it has been made possible for the magazines to be circulated the same as books after they have been in the library one month. The following is a list of the magazines now in the library:

American Boy.
 Boy's Magazine.
 Cosmopolitan.
 Everybody's.
 Harper's Monthly.
 Good Housekeeping.
 Ladies' Home Journal.
 Literary Digest.
 Little Folks.
 McClure's.
 National Geographic Magazine.
 Outing.
 Outlook.
 Overland.
 Popular Mechanics.
 Rural New Yorker.
 St. Nicholas.
 Scientific American.
 Scientific American Supplement.
 Scribner's.
 World's Work.

The interest of the Fanny Carpenter fund which must be used for the purchase of books and nothing else, has been used to buy juvenile books and a few others which were in demand, for circulation.

Fred J. Marvin was chosen treasurer of the library funds at a meeting held January 11, 1911, and herewith makes his financial report.

Respectfully submitted,

FRED J. MARVIN, Chairman,
SARAH J. FISH, Secretary,
JOHN P. KEMP,
C. J. NEWELL,
FRANK DEWING,
LUCY A. LINSLEY.

REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD.

---

A very important problem of popular education today is the better adaptation of the work of the rural schools to the needs of rural life. The schools must make the people more intelligent in regard to the life they are to live.

Both for culture and practical utility the course of study in these schools should conform more closely to the environment of the child and the future work of the man. This can be brought about only by teachers educated and trained for the task.

The part of our educational system that has received least attention in the immediate past is the rural school. Much good work has been and is now being done in the reorganization of courses of study, in training teachers, in planning for material equipment, and all the various details that make an efficient school system. While these efforts have been well directed and are in a large measure being carried out, they have been nevertheless inadequate for surviving the rural schools. A vast amount of teaching ever so well done misses the high mark of its influence.

One of the chief reasons lies in the fact that the course of study is ill-adapted to rural life in all of its relations. It is too much like the course that is taught in the city schools, in fact it has been modeled to fit the needs of the latter without consulting enough the ends that are to be attained in the former.

Rural interests and rural problems are not like the city interests and its problems; and educators everywhere are coming more and more to believe that the course of study adapted to securing the most efficient rural life is radically different from any other course of study. The elementary school must, if it fulfills its purpose, minister to the needs of the community in which it resides. To do this a course of study coordinated with rural life is needed, together with a corps of teachers trained to put in operation the work that the country districts need. We have quoted this much from high authority, thinking it might be suggestive to those interested in the education of our children.

The schools have the pupils from 8 to 14 years of age. The time being so limited, the curriculum should be clean cut without a frill; severely practical, and one of the first things to inculcate is the righteousness of industry. Competency to do comes by doing and there is nothing that will render a pupil more scholarly or so improve a school as persistent, well directed, hard work. Work without direction in the school room breeds chaos, and direction under whatever system, falls upon the teacher. We have been quite fortunate in the past year in securing a good corps of instructors and much good work has been done, but there lies just ahead something of a task to be accomplished before our schools can assume the rank in scholarship that should be theirs. We have expended in the past year $500 or more on house No. 4 and there is more funds needed to complete the work. We suggest raising $2,000 for general appropriation, $100 for supplies, $150 for repairs and $125 for salaries of officers.

C. L. LINSLEY,
FRED PRENTISS,
GEO. A. MAYO,

Members of Board of Education.
