ASILOMAR IS FOR YOU

TO THOSE who have never attended a square dance vacation it may seem strange to hear the claim: "In all the world there is no greater holiday!" But it's true. The combination of sharing your hobby for five whole days with square dance friends, plus the pleasure of dancing to and learning from such a wonderful staff (The Helsels, Manning Smiths, Bruce Johnsons and the Osgoods) is indeed unbeatable. Perhaps that's why so many dancers keep coming back year after year and why so many newcomers keep signing up to see what it's all about.

ASILOMAR, located on the California coastline one hundred miles south of San Francisco, is the home of Sets in Order Vacation-Institutes. You'll find the accommodations and food just right and the dancing, fun and friends "Out of this world." The best idea is to attend a session and find out for yourself.

1961 Winter Asilomar comes in two handy packages:

Number One: Regular Session from Monday noon, February 6 through Saturday noon the 11th. The staff: The Helsels, Manning Smiths, Bruce Johnsons and the Osgoods.

Number Two: Special Asilomar Week-end from Friday afternoon February 3 through Sunday afternoon February 5. The staff: The Helsels, Smiths and Osgoods.

THE SQUARE DANCE PICTURE: The place is Diekirch in the country of Luxembourg, that small European nation tucked in between France, Germany and Belgium. The occasion is the International Folk Dance Festival. Dancing in the rain are the Hahn Hicks and Chicks and Heels and Toes, official representatives of the United States. Calling for the group is Harry Charters. What dance are they doing? "I feel wetter all over" — naturally.

Dear Editor:

... We noted an omission of the Golden State Round-Up for 1960, which was held on May 28-29, in your coverage of your May Date Book listings. Thought perhaps you might like a picture of our largest Grand March in history ... We broke all attendance records with over 7,792 dancers ...

We have an excellent square dance picture up this way and rather than a regression of square dancers, numbers-wise, we seem to be on the increase. We have noted also that the dancers are staying in the picture longer due perhaps to the greater experience of our callers, among other factors ...

PRO AND CON

Dear Editor:

The editorial comments about the 9th National in your (August) issue of Sets in Order were very interesting — especially those about many of the experts questioning a year ago that Des Moines would be fortunate if they would attract 5,000 in attendance. I think, perhaps, the so called "experts" did not go deep enough to secure the facts — or they CLIPPINGS coming in from hundreds of daily newspapers continue to keep us abreast of the constantly growing square dance movement. If at one time "breaking into print" was a problem for classes and clubs it certainly seems to have changed in the past few years. Much of the material we read is limited to announcements of club dances and notices of new classes. However there are always a good number of special stories and feature articles that deserve attention.

Occasionally a rather provocative article squeezes in with the rest and causes us to wonder a bit about the story behind the story. One such article came in recently from the Washington (D.C.) Post and was by-lined by a Jean Battey. Mrs. Battey had obviously just attended a Folk Festival at our nation's capital and to say the least she was not impressed by what she saw. Among other things she deplored the lack of proper direction and staging.

"Precisely because the Festival has such potential for awakening awareness of our cultural roots," she wrote, "it is important that the offerings be presented in a way to kindle public enthusiasm . . . the Folk Festival's greatest need now, it seems to me, is to find an Artistic Director with a knowledge of folk lore and — even more important — with firm good taste. to travel around the country and invite groups, exercising needed discrimination over quality and trying to give some sort of balance to the program."

This together with a skilled artistic director would be a "... way of improving what we have. BUT ..." she asks, "what do we have?"

"Our folk songs have a flavor and often a sense of humor that seem quite genuinely and uniquely American . . . I wish I could say as much for our folk dance.

"I have cherished the illusion, heaven knows why, that we are a high-spirited, dancing people . . . the director of the Festival kept introducing the square dance as 'our American national dance.' I am in no position to dispute this but I think if it is so we should keep quiet about it. Dull to look at and to do, the square dance is tame, flat-footed and lacking in style and spirit. It has none of the zest or sly fun of the Croatian, Lithuanian or Norwegian dances that graced the Festival. It is sexless dancing where the men have no individuality as men or the women as women. About on the level of maturity and dancing challenge of children's singing games like 'Paw Paw Patch' (also on the program), it is scant recommendation for us as a dancing country."

Not having witnessed the particular show to which Mrs. Battey refers we can only imagine the type of showcase our American dance was given. The unsmiling, error-ridden and often acrobatic exhibitions on television can be a fair sample. But these, like the performance seen by our Washington friend, are certainly not fair representation of this activity.

In the first place square dancing is not intended as a visual or spectator-type activity. Its greatest satisfaction comes in the doing. Often the dances that are the most satisfying to accomplish are the least attractive to watch. A simple "Texas Star" or "The Route" provide far more visual appeal than the great majority of today's most popular amazers. But this doesn't mean that square dancing cannot be staged and demonstrated as the exciting and inspiring dance we know it to be. For indeed it can.

Unfortunately those responsible for its demonstration are often not aware of the great variety of American dance forms that exist. We remember observing the reactions of the many thousands who filled the high schools and college auditoriums to watch, fascinated, as Lloyd Shaw's Cheyenne Mountain Dancers presented the dances of America. Certainly they did the current forms but also they dug deeply into American tradition and came up with first a slow dance, then a spirited polka. Visual attractiveness was affected by long lines for a contra, then squares for a stately quadrille, climaxed by the wildest collection of cowboy dances imaginable.

These youngsters, and there are other groups who have done well, sent the excitement of the American dance across the footlights and into the hearts of all who were fortunate enough to watch.

Americans are a dancing people. They have descended from dancing ancestors from all the countries of the world. If only in the festivals, and most especially in our cultural exchange programs with other countries, our dancing could be truly representative of the dozens of "flavors" that represent our total dance menu.

Perhaps one day Mrs. Battey may view another folk festival and this time be shown that our square dance does have a sense of humor, that it is genuinely and uniquely American and that it most certainly is not the "sexless" dance she now feels it to be.

One More Step

LOOKING for a good area project? Here is one that is being tried successfully with benefit to dancers and callers alike.

The search for square dance information, particularly for background material and non-current information, often creates quite a problem. The occurrence of television shows, school exhibition and area projects often require background information that is only available in older and hard-to-find books. Some private libraries exist but good libraries available to all are scarce.

We have heard that some public libraries and branch libraries have received enough encouragement from local dance groups to develop a specialized section on the American dance. This is, of course, the ideal situation, for the library is usually accessible to all.

However, in other areas callers' organizations have endeavored to establish a square dance reference library including as many texts, square dance periodicals, magazine articles and records as possible. A tape library has also been a large part of some collections. Once such a project is started it's a fairly simple matter for clubs, individuals, and associations to contribute a rare volume or two out of the profits of some special convention or festival.

This is a good way to put some of the profit back into square dancing in a manner designed to benefit the activity over the years.

About A Square Dance Census

A YEAR AGO we conducted the first square dance census. To say that the project was not a success is our mild way of saying that it just didn't prove a cotton-pickin' thing. If we could have had just a little better response, say about 99% better, we might have come up with some rather earth-shattering figures — only we didn't.

When we published the results we said we'd figure out a new system and do a brand new census within a year's time. It's been a year, as we mentioned earlier, but we haven't come up with the solution. Some one of these days either we, or one of you, will produce an idea that will enable us to count noses. For the present we're just sitting tight.

Report On The Basics

IN JUST TWO MONTHS' TIME the initial experiment of twenty basics will have been in operation one year. In recent months we have had considerable correspondence with callers, dancers, representatives of callers' associations and other interested individuals regarding the project. In several areas callers' groups have taken the basic twenty and rearranged the movements into a more exact sequence of application to fit that area's particular needs. In other spots teachers and callers are working directly from our list while experimenting with current classes. The fact that thirty thousand of the reprints have been mailed out in the past six months is just another indication that very serious attention is being given to the project.

After considerable study we've decided to leave the first list of twenty basics as it is, at least for the time being. On the secondary list (Basics 21 thru 30) a few major changes are undoubtedly in order. By February of 1961 we would like to bring that list up to current usage. In all probability there are several items on the list that did not withstand the test of time. Also among the experimental movements will be some worthy of "moving up" among these basics.

If you would like to help influence these changes, please drop us a note and let us know the reaction of dancers in your area to some of the well-tested movements. Check page 57 of this issue and also future issues for some of the experimental movements which should be workshopped to see if they stand up to the definition of a basic. Thanks for your letters and thanks in advance for suggestions in the first revision!

Reunion To Remember

WE WATCHED a wonderful thing happen a couple of months ago. A group that had learned to square dance at the Nouasseur Air Base near Casablanca in Morocco, the Sherifian Squares, held its first stateside reunion. Coming from all parts of the country, 27 of the dancers, complete with Jalavas (the native costumes of Morocco) descended on the home of Dick and Doc Bayless in North Hollywood, California.

Early in the planning stages the big problem was where should a group of this size stay? (There were 53 of them including their children.) Meals, housing accommodations, a place to dance, all were a necessary part of their requirements. After unsuccessfully checking dozens of hotels and motels, the Baylesses courageously offered the use of their three bedroom home. With rather alarming speed the offer was accepted and the Baylesses' household was transformed into a combination hotel and military camp. All 58, including the Bayless five, somehow managed — thanks to an incomparable spirit of cooperation and true friendliness.

For dancing Dick had constructed a cement slab. For eating and all of the chores a regular bulletin board listed the duties, eating shifts and dance activities. Local newspapers printed the story. Dancers in the area were invited to participate in the fun and on one of the three evenings the entire dancing contingent including the Sherifian's own caller-teacher team, Ina and Lee McNutt, were feted as honor guests of one of the area's oldest clubs.

The result of the whole thing was one of the most unusual and enjoyable square dance weekends we've ever seen.

Tid Bits

WITH ELECTION TIME only a month away it's a good time to remind ourselves that one of the unique factors about this activity of ours is that it doesn't matter how rich we are, or how poor — if we can do our part, cooperatively in a square then we belong in this activity. Our religion, political leaning, choice of profession or amount of education should have no bearing on how friendly and thereby how successful a dancer we may be. Let's be particularly careful of those friendships during this election period and keep politics out of the square dance hall.

The letter from Freda Haddress (August Sets in Order) asking about the profits derived from the past National conventions stirred up considerable activity. Soon after the issue was mailed we received two reports and almost immediately a pair of requests to hold-off in printing the contents. Seems that the Executive Committee is planning to issue one release to all publications in the field at some late date. We're a bit disappointed for the first two we received were lulus.

Never say die department: The square dance commemorative stamp issue is far from dead. Now there's a possibility that one could be issued to coincide with the Tenth National Square Dance Convention in Detroit next summer. Still only a rumor but you never can tell... Tough deal for caller Max Forsyth and square dancers in and around Indianapolis. Fire recently wiped out Longacre Square Dance Hall — burned it completely to the ground. It wasn't only the several thousand dollars loss that mattered so much. A great deal of love had gone into the place and quite a number of dancers felt a tremendous personal loss. Let's hope Longacre Hall the second can be built soon... More and more people are getting bitten by the traveling square dance bug. Latest victims are Johnny and Marjory LeClair who will take a gang to Hawaii this winter.

Overheard in closing:

First Dancer: "How come you weren't accepted in the caller's school?"

Second Dancer: "They s-s-said I w-w-wasn't t-t-tall enough."

PANELS AND THEIR PLACE AT NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

THERE IS MORE TO SQUARE DANCING than executing the figures on the dance floor. There's a lot of work behind the scenes that makes dancing possible and a great deal of it goes unsuspected by the dancers "out front." Some of this work is that of club officers or leaders; and of this the dancers are vaguely aware, at least. But few know much about the panel meetings and discussions which exert great effect on the entire square dance movement.

Panels have become an integral and important part of national and regional convention programs. Participants are usually hand-picked and attend thru invitation, generally because they are skilled or experienced in a particular phase of the square dance picture and can contribute valuable knowledge or information to others.

Help for Future

Out of these panel discussions comes much that is essential to the future of square dancing, including practices that become eventually standards of conduct and policy wherever square dancing is enjoyed. The 1961 National Convention, scheduled for Detroit's new Cobo Memorial Hall on June 29 - July 1, will be no exception. Several meeting rooms have been reserved exclusively for panel discussions where experts from all parts of the country will be invited to exchange ideas and views on many pertinent subjects.

So important are panel discussions considered by some national leaders in the movement that a few have gone so far as to suggest eliminating dancing in favor of panel meetings at conventions.

"You can dance any time," they say, "but when sectional leaders get together, as they do at conventions, they have an excellent opportunity to exchange ideas and formulate policies. This can be done best in panel discussions."

Crowd psychology is the subject of frequent panel work especially aimed at callers and invaluable to newer callers. Another panel of special value to callers is on the use of sound equipment, methods of placing speakers, value of "canned" music, etc.

At one time the question of "hash" calling was debated vigorously in panels. This subject is largely moot today, since practically all callers use "hash" to some degree for experienced groups and the issue is subject to debate no longer.

Leaders — as distinguished from callers — often gain helpful information on the development of clubs and dance groups, while younger leaders may even be trained thru participation in panels. Here the leaders in one part of the country may learn of methods that have proved successful elsewhere. They learn how to start clubs, how to plan programs, how to develop and maintain a good relationship or balance between square and round dancing.

Other panels have been held on methods of teaching square dancing, a highly important phase of the movement which enables dancers from one part of the country to take part, without confusion or difficulty, in dances in other areas.

Another frequent topic for panel discussion is in connection with the manner in which individual clubs should be conducted. This centers on the position of the caller and is intended primarily for the club leaders. Should they — the debate goes usually — have a contract caller whom the club "controls"; should a different caller be employed for each dance; should the caller run the club?

To many local leaders, the panel is the most interesting and important part of a convention. This is the means by which they learn what is going on in square dancing nationally, how to improve their club organizations and how to widen their own horizons. In keeping with these objectives, the 1961 Convention will present a program of panel discussions calculated to stimulate the interest of everyone concerned with square dancing.

Club Rules That Work

By Chris and Claire Mueller, Beverly Hill Billies, Los Angeles, Calif.

WE HAVE A SET of bylaws and a constitution for our club, but many of us on the Board have never seen it. It is our personal experience that a modern square dance club is best ministered without being fettered by formal documentation.

The functions of the Board are considered to be these:

1. To promote the fun and recreational aspects of square dancing, creating an atmosphere of friendliness and a solid club spirit;
2. To increase the club level of dancing, effecting a greater feeling of dancer self-satisfaction;
3. To plan a dance program six months in advance, assuring a varied program for dancer anticipation;

The Sets in Order Walkthru is a special department for the dancer who, as a class, club or association enthusiast is dedicated to his hobby. Questions, suggestions and ideas for this special section should be addressed to Sets in Order, The Walkthru, 462 No. Robertson Blvd., Los Angeles 48, California. We'll be glad to hear from you.

4. To operate club finances on an economical basis and spend any surplus (over $200.00) for the benefit of club members — as free workshops, dinners, etc.

Our Board is composed of these offices and both husbands and wives are considered to fill any position:

1. President . . . presides at club dances, makes announcements, welcomes guests, coordinates activities, etc.
2. Vice-President and Membership Chairman . . . presides in absence of president, takes

- and submits names of those interested in club membership to Board or club, arranges initiation nights.
3. Treasurer . . . collects dues and fees at dances; pays for caller, hall, etc.
4. Secretary . . . takes minutes at Board meetings; handles club correspondence.
5. Social Chairman . . . buys kitchen supplies (i.e. coffee, cream, napkins, etc.) maintains k.p. duty roster, selects two couples for each dance to serve and bring other refreshments.
6. Entertainment Chairman . . . selects theme for each dance; arranges for games, prizes, etc.; is in charge of decorations for big party dances, altho' entire Board assists.
7. Local Association Delegate . . . attends general association meetings, acts as liaison between club and association.
8. Caller . . . is invited to attend Board meetings and his suggestions are welcomed.

We also have these working committees:

1. Club newspaper . . . helps keep club together and promote good will.
2. Lemonade service . . . buys lemonade, keeps punch-bowl filled, supplies ice water.
3. Birthday celebrations . . . wherein the Birthday Girl (appointed) announces birthdays, presents each with individual cake and candle.
4. Refreshment service . . . two couples from club membership on rotational basis.
5. Badge committee . . . sees that new members get badges. Could also be a function of the Membership Chairman.
6. Postcard committee . . . sends announcements for coming dances.

If a club dances twice monthly or weekly, we have found that it works better to have the officers remain in the same office for a minimum of six months — a maximum of one year. Then, we do not entirely change the Board after one year but elect persons to different offices. It is advisable to have "old" board members as well as "new." It takes training to know and understand the operations of a successful club.

As to membership turn-over, there are a certain number of inevitable "drop-offs," but we believe this can be reduced to a minimum by having a high-spirited, well-organized Board which is the core and sparkplug of club reaction.

NEW DANCER'S CORNER

THERE COMES A TIME in your "learning period" when your friend the teacher says you're ready to go and try your wings. This probably means that he has taught you enough of the basic movements and that your reaction time is sufficient to allow you to have a good time with more experienced dancers.

Remember this — while in class everyone in the squares with you was on about an equal footing, some were perhaps a little slower than others but for the most part each person had to think for himself. If one person fell down in all probability the square might disintegrate, at least for the time being. Through this experience you learned that mistakes are part of the fun in square dancing, that the real test is to see how quickly you and the others get back into the routine without spending too much time in trying to figure out what went wrong.

When you visit an established club and dance with more experienced dancers, you will suddenly realize that you are dancing better than you ever danced in your life even though the caller is calling perhaps faster and more complicated movements than you have ever faced before. Don't let this fool you. Chances are there will be 6 or 7 others in the square who are seeing to it that you are "helped" from one figure to the next. Of course this is a thrill but also it can spoil a new dancer. The big lesson we learn in class is to listen. Each new movement we are taught plays an important part in our future enjoyment of square dancing.

So when the invitation comes to spend an evening dancing with experienced dancers, first be sure you are ready and second resolve that though you will be flattered by dancing with more capable people, your class days are not over yet. Most important of all when you get back with your class friends don't be discouraged if they make mistakes and are not able to "pull you through."

(Next month: Accepting and acknowledging invitations.)

TIPS TO ENTERTAINMENT AND REFRESHMENT CHAIRMEN

Looking for an idea for after party amusement? Try the new J-Bar-L, Joe Lewis After Party Favorites album. You'll find it a great help.

The new book After Party Fun written by Ray Smith and Jim White of Dallas, Texas lists 56 ideas for your relaxing entertainment portion of your evening. The book contains quite a few ice breakers and participation stunts as well as a goodly portion of stunts and gags that can be enjoyed while sitting down and watching. (After Party Fun, $1.50, 1509 West Page, Dallas 8, Texas)

Giving away a door prize? Try placing an "X" or some other symbol on the bottom of one or more paper cups to be used at refreshment time. This saves a lot of time in drawing names and those present need only to be told to look at the bottom of their cup and see if they are the lucky winners.

YOUR CLUB — YOUR CLIQUE

Excerpts from an article by Bob Tyler which appeared in Oregon Federation News, Nov., 1959.

CLIQUE is an unpleasant sounding word, hinting at something mysterious, devilish and incomprehensible. Even Webster's definition renders the word disagreeable. He says a clique is a "small, snobbishly exclusive group." This is rather brutal, curt and in my opinion does not convey the real meaning behind a clique. Certainly the word deserves a more lengthy analysis, simply because it involves human behavior.

I believe clique can be described better as, "a group of good friends who have mistakenly, if not selfishly, placed their own interests and enjoyments in preference to those of the group..." Let's go a step further. In most cases the people involved do not, I believe, regard themselves as a clique at all. They say "why shouldn't we be entitled to our own friends" — and rightly so . . . Certainly we were all attracted to our spouses — resulting in little "man and wife cliques."

Another point — when we go to a public dance we never mix with other people nor they with us. Why, then, does it upset us so when this happens at a square dance club? The answer is simple . . . Square dancing is a GROUP activity . . . The non-square dancer would never understand what is being said here . . . But YOU people know — and you know what to do about it. When we go square dancing we have no inner circle of friends . . . We have instead the entire club — the entire GROUP — and all the visitors, as our friends for that evening . . .

Oh, we'll have our cliques all right — at home, our personal friends, our bridge clubs, golfing partners and neighborhood buddies. But on square dance night we're proud to be a part of that tremendous clique known as the square dance movement . . .

MEETING TIME

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE as outlined in the various editions of Robert's Rules of Order has always hinted at an air of mystery to the majority of us who are thrown suddenly into the responsibilities connected with club and association meetings. Calling in the assistance of June Donhoff, active parliamentarian in several local as well as state organizations, we will try to point up each month helpful hints made clear especially for those conducting square dance meetings.

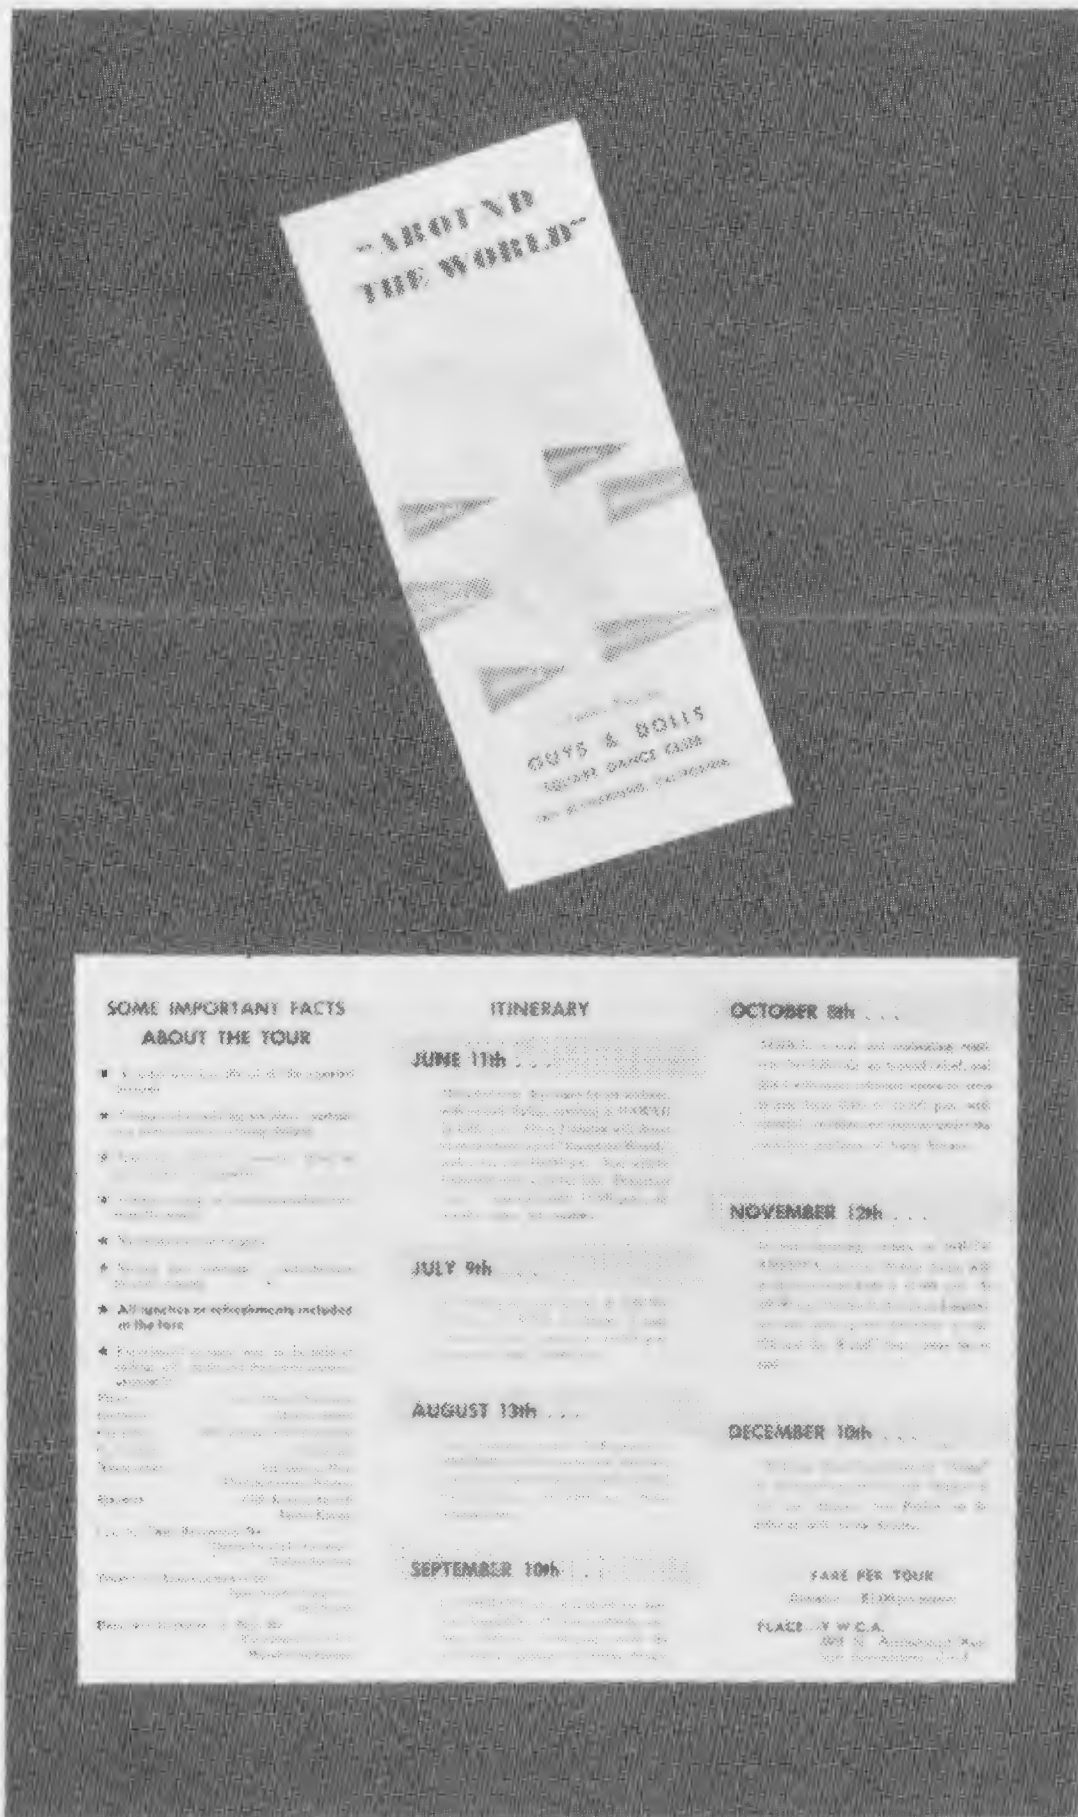

To begin with, it might be wise to review just what is accomplished by conducting meeting in accordance with Parliamentary Law. Quoting from "Democracy in Action": "Parliamentary procedure is an accepted set of rules designed to maintain order, to insure justice and equality, to expedite business and to enable an organization to accomplish the objects for which it is formed. It is founded on courtesy and justice to all, an orderly consideration of one subject at a time, the rule of the majority, the rights of the minority and partiality to none."

It is well to remember the words "courtesy and justice" and as long as no one is being defrauded of his rights and the will of the majority is being carried out, tact and good sense can prevail over the technicality of enforcing some minor point. A combination of this same good sense and a knowledge of parliamentary law will enable a meeting to be conducted happily and business concluded successfully.

LOOKING FOR A NOVEL PARTY THEME?

Here's a season's schedule of dances set up in the form of a tour folder by the Guys and Dolls. Each "stop over" suggests the theme for a party dance. The folder serves as a reminder for dance meeting nights and lists club officers as well.

The WALKTHRU

PARTY TIME

HARVEST PARTIES are the thing right now. Here are some ideas you might want to use at yours. Pick some of those lustrous bronze, gold and rust autumn blossoms and spill them out of a paper or basket cornucopia for a table decoration. Almost everyone responds to the rustle of leaves underfoot, so try sprinkling the floor of your eating area with fallen leaves and surround the area with real corn shocks, pumpkins and other seasonal symbols. Better be sure the eating is after the dance, if you do, as leaves tracked out on the dance floor would quickly lose their charm!

If you wish place cards, try making vari-shaped leaves from construction paper, sketching the veins in lightly and then writing names in color or in gold ink. Apple cider and doughnuts are the old-old standards as refreshments, maybe too old for long-time dancers but how about hot apple pie and coffee? Think how good the pies will smell when you're warming them up in the kitchen.

GETTING OUT THE NEWS

VARIOUS SQUARE DANCE CLUBS and associations find the monthly bulletins their best method of circulating information pertaining to future dances, big events, election of officers, etc. The theory that "folks come to our parties to dance, not to listen to one announcement after another" has encouraged the bulletin idea. Here are two sample bulletins.

The first, "Calls 'n' Cues," is an 8-page, 7x10, offset monthly published by the Washington Area Square Dancers Cooperative Association. It is distributed free to members of affiliated clubs and does an excellent job of listing dances and keeping the dancers abreast of interesting local news.

"Foot-Notes" is the mimeographed, 4-page, 5½x8½ monthly produced by the Beverly Hillbillies Square Dance Club and circulated by mail to its members free of charge. The month's birthdays for members are listed, news of past and coming parties is covered and biographies of different member couples are featured in each issue. Guests to the club are also included on the mailing list and are encouraged by this method to return again.

The Southern Arizona Square Dance Festival Committee is busy making plans for the 13th Annual Square Dance Festival in Tucson on January 20-22, 1961. The festival will be held in the new and beautiful Ramada Inn Convention Hall in downtown Tucson. All square dancers planning a vacation to the southwest this winter are invited to take in this major event, which this year will have, quite appropriately, an Indian theme.

Perfect traveling companions are the squaw skirt and nylon stocking (left). To pack the skirt hold it by the waist band and fold the band together in half (right). Fold again, accordion fashion, smoothing the pleats down carefully as you fold

Hold the nylon stocking by the toe in your left hand and roll it up and inside-out back over your hand and wrist, still gripping the toe (right). Now grip the middle of your accordion-folded skirt band thru the stocking and, holding carefully to the skirt band, begin rolling the stocking down over the band and the upper part of your skirt. Keep your left hand fairly high for easy manipulation of the stocking.

When all of the stocking has been pulled off your left hand, release the toe and grip the top of the skirt with the left hand (left). Work the hose down completely over the pleats, keeping them as even as possible, until the entire skirt is within the stocking (right).

TO PACK A SKIRT

ONE OF THE HUNDREDS of square dancers who travel every year to festivals, institutes, conventions all over the land is Lorna (Mrs. Clark) Smith of Albuquerque, New Mexico. Packing square dance clothes to take to these affairs always poses problems and Lorna has solved one of them by devising a method of packing squaw skirts for transit which she has been persuaded to illustrate for us.

Since most squaw dresses come in two pieces, the separate top is not too difficult to transport easily in a suitcase. The skirt, however, with voluminous pleats and often decorated with heavy braids, is another matter. Here is where Lorna evolved her method of packing each separate squaw skirt into a nylon stocking! It sounds almost impossible to think of getting a full skirt into such a small space but if you follow Lorna's method thru the pictures on these pages, you, too, can enjoy easy traveling with your square dance squaw skirts.

Lorna

Finally, turn the stocking upside down, clip the seam end to a hanger with a clothes-pin and you're ready for business.

Whether you are planning a square dance vacation trip or just looking for a space-saving method of storing your squaw skirts, this idea is worthy of a trial.

THE FREQUENCY FACTOR AS RELATED TO THE TWENTY BASICS

By Col. Arthur C. Thompson

Based in the Orient

WHAT TO CALL? What to teach? Shall we adopt the "20 Basics" plan? If these and related problems have you stumped, try this: make an analysis of current dances to determine which figures each dance has in it and then compute the percentage of frequency against the total number of dances surveyed. The result is a frequency factor that is not arbitrary.

The answer to what to teach is plain from such a study, and from the table it is easy to figure what you can call that will most likely appeal to any group. Not the least benefit is in learning what's in your record cases when you make the study. You may have a case full of dances with lots of the less frequent figures, which could account for some of the "fall-outs" you have had lately.

Two studies over three years apart have been made. In both cases, the same ground rules were used:

1. Figures which are basically the same, whether done left hand or right hand, are classed under one name. For example, box the gnat and swat the flea are classed under box the gnat; both left and right hand stars are simply stars. Do sa do and see saw have, however, been separated.
2. Figures which are basically the same but go by different names are included under one name, even if there are minor differences in execution. For example, do sa do, all around, walk around, sashay 'round are all classed under do sa do. Similarly, dive thru also covers dip and dive.
3. Figures which vary only in the number of participants or in the extent of execution are included under one name. For example, half square thru, three-quarter square thru and full square thru are classed as square thru. Similarly, two ladies chain, four ladies chain, or ladies chain three-quarters are all covered by the name chain.
4. Figures whose actions are not named as a figure are classed under the name of the motion. For example, do paso is classed as a hand swing unless the word do paso is actually used in the call. This was done because we were concerned primarily with what required the dancer's response.

ON THE COVER

• Dances and more dances have been the subject of the special

Sets in Order Style Series which have appeared each month since August, 1954. This month we say a special "thank you" to all of the dancers who have given of their time and selves in posing for the series. To all — our deepest appreciation.

NEXT MONTH

What dances do you teach to youngsters in a square dance program? How old should young people be before they're brought into square dancing? How do you start a teenage dance program. The answers to these and many other important questions relating to young people and their place will be covered in the November issue of Sets in Order. Watch for it.

5. No matter how many times a figure occurred in a given dance, it was counted only once per dance.
6. Certain figures which did not fit any recognized name were classed as "special" and not counted for the table, altho' such a count might have been very helpful. Among the specials we ran across were the footwork in Jessie Polka Square and the ballonet figure in Ghost Riders.
7. Some figures were not counted, such as forward and back, break to a line, turn back, lead to the left or right.
8. The original call as written on the call sheet accompanying the record was used wherever available.

In the first study, made in 1957, 109 dances were tallied. In the second, done this year, 168 dances were checked. Results are shown in the table on these pages.

A quick glance shows that the same figures are predominantly frequent, with several other figures having gained materially in popularity. Star figures, hand swings, box the gnat, cross trails, square thrus and wheel arounds have increased in frequency.

Often either the caller or a dancer wants to divide dances into degrees of difficulty. With a frequency factor table to start with, such a classification can be made fairly quickly. Dances with only figures of high frequency (if not done in unusual positions) generally classify as very easy. As figures of lower frequency appear, or as the number of figures increases, the degree of difficulty progresses thru easy, intermediate, difficult, hard to very hard. These are examples:

Very Easy — Comin' Round the Mountain; Windsor, Author Unknown

Easy — Hurry, Hurry, Hurry; Windsor, Dunkle

Intermediate — Square Dance Melody; Sets in Order, Helsel

Difficult — Maybe; Sets in Order, Helsel

Hard — Squarama; Windsor, Robertson

Very Hard — Deep Six; Black Mountain, the Allens.

Under this classification it is interesting to note that the figures of low frequency and, hence, in the harder dances of 1957 have become sufficiently frequently used to find themselves now in the intermediate and even easy dances. The cross trail is a notable example, being used in only 3% of the easy to intermediate dances in 1957, 29% of the difficult to very hard dances then, and in 31% of all dances now.

Such studies and categorizations will help you make your own decision as to what to teach when, what to emphasize in your teaching and what to call for the best possible "keep 'em dancing" program. Try it!

SOURWOOD MOUNTAIN is one of those southern hoedown tunes that best exemplifies the essential flavor of that type of tune. It's very similar to Sally Goodin and Fire On The Mountain. Some fiddlers get them mixed up, even while in the midst of playing, and they'll slop over a bit from one to another. As I've shown the tune here, there is no "B" part — only the "A" part. Played as music alone, this could well become repetitious, and many orchestras will vary it with an "A" and a "B" part, stealing the "B" from some other hoedown tune, or taking off on invented flights of their own in a sort of rustic theme-and-variations arrangement, sometimes very good. This sort of piece has little melody; it's mainly rhythm. It's the kind of piece that lends itself to the southern mountain style of hoedown fiddling — terrific slurred rhythm, yet lacking what we'd call today a "beat," and, of course, almost totally disregarding punctuation of the phrase. A New England caller, trained on Contras, would lose his mind—especially when the fiddler would occasionally throw in an extra measure or leave one out. It's also the kind of tune that is so well suited to the combined efforts of the fiddle and the 5-string banjo.

The fiddle used to be regarded as the voice-box of Lucifer. Preachers and other right-thinkers condemned it and those who were mesmerized by its fiendish summons. They may even have watched hopefully for horns and a forked, or arrow-tipped tail to sprout on the sprites who fiddled, or danced to the fiddle. But like so many devices of Satan, the fiddle could not be suppressed. The Call Of The Wild was never stronger. One of the tales about Davy Crockett tells us that he was once walking through the woods when he heard the wails and caterwauling of a fiddle. Naturally, he couldn't help himself, and, abandoning whatever he was about, he followed the sound until he came to a roaring creek in full flood. Stranded helpless in the middle of the creek was a preacher in a stalled buggy, sawing and scratching away, playing, they claim, Cripple Creek on the fiddle. Davy recovered from his astonishment and hollered what the Sam Hill was the durn fool doin', a-roostin' in the middle of the flood a-worshipin' The Devil. The preacher said that he figgered he could yell and holler 'till ole Satan come fer him and nary a soul would come to help, but he knew that if he played the fiddle, that if there was a sinner within 20 mile, he'd come a-runnin', and durned if he didn't.

SOURWOOD MOUNTAIN

Chick-ens a-crow-in on Sour-wood Moun-tain, Hi-dee-o-ing, Did-dy-um-day

So ma-ny pret-ty girls I can't count 'em, Hi-dee-o-ing, Did-dy-um-day.

My true love is a blue-eyed dandy, Hi-dee-o, etc.

A kiss from her is sweeter than candy,
Hi-dee-o, etc.

My true love lives over the river,
A hop and a skip and I'll be with her.

My true love is a blue-eyed daisy,
If she don't marry me, I'll go crazy.

Hey, Old Man, I wanna marry your daughter
To chop the wood and carry the water.

HOMES FOR SQUARE DANCING

THE K5 BARN — CUPERTINO, CALIF.

THE K5 BARN, serving the square dancers of northern California in Cupertino, started from blind enthusiasm for square dancing, says proprietor Peep Kenoyer. "I say blind," she goes on, "because if we had known what we were getting into we would never have had the nerve. Getting the loan for the building was nothing but building codes, inspections, permits, came out of our ears. However, when you jump into deep water you have to swim out. Let's say we paddled to shore and opened the doors for the first time in June, 1954, with Buck Creech calling for our Stablemates Club."

Luckily the Barn had good natural acoustics but there were many problems to lick before the proper speakers were found. A good sound man tried to eliminate the "dead" spots; there were times when the Barn's ceiling looked like an upside-down mined field. There was every electronic reason for the speakers to work but they didn't. It took a few square dance callers to set up the system now in use, simple but effective.

A heat problem was eliminated by adding a lounge and huge fireplace which is soon to take on a personal touch with a hearth of tiles from every club in the area. A small kitchen, coffee-makers, soft drink, candy, cigarette and ice cream machines keep everyone satisfied. Tables and benches facilitate eating.

The Barn has an excellent floor. From those first shiny spots the floor has become like a mirror, polished by many leather soles on dancing feet. A large fan keeps the air moving. One sidewall is made up of four large doors that can be opened to make the Barn an open-air dance pavilion.

Most Saturday nights at the Barn are open dances, altho' it is rented to many private square dance parties. The first hoedown given by the Stablemates in the Barn was in July, 1954, featuring guest callers Lou Hughes, Johnny White and Ken Clark. Beginner classes were started the following fall and Bill Castner graduated the first of a series of caller-classes, dubbing it a Calltillion.

Many out-of-area callers have called at the K5 Barn and a redwood frame around the caller's stand has been autographed by the callers featured. Their names are later burnt into the wood.

At the present time three clubs meet weekly in the Barn. The Flying Squares and Boonsie Daisies have Johnny Barbour as caller; Johnny also has a Wednesday night beginner class. Johnny White teaches rounds. The Northern California Square Dancers' Assn. meets at the Barn every three months and the Northern California Callers' Assn. also uses the Barn.

Future plans for the Barn, some of them in progress, will include a recreation center. It is hoped that by late Spring of 1961 there will be barbecue pits, picnic tables, games of various sorts. Instead of the proverbial swimming pool there are real horses.

Starting with a desire to square dance and proceeding to the finished, going Barn, has only increased the Kenoyers' enthusiasm for an activity that brings out the best people and the best in people.

ALLEMANDE A

THE VARIETY of square dance "basics" has changed character over the years. For a while all of the new breaks seemed to reflect the influence of the Allemande Thar. Then there was the period influenced by the Wagon Wheel and then came the combinations of Red Hot and for several years the emphasis was on the "Wheel Around" combinations. Eventually the best of all these trends survive so that variety becomes the keynote.

Here is one of the relative oldtimers among the breaks. Allemande A includes the use of a sashay figure and also a star movement. When done smoothly it is a most enjoyable pattern. Here is the call:

Go right and left, do a half sashay
Re-sashay — go all the way around
Now the four men star across the town
Turn the opposite lady with a left arm round
Give a right to the corner — pull on by Swing with the next and don't be shy

Following a left allemande dancers start a right and left grand. Giving a right to their partner (1) they pull by (2) giving a left hand to their right hand lady. As part of the same movement, left handholds are dropped; dancers face the center of the set and treating this person as a partner they sashay partners half way round (3). As the man moves to the right behind the girl in four counts, the girl moves left in front of the man (4); then they retrace their steps with the lady going to the right in front of the man and the man going to the left behind the girl. To walk "all the way around" each person moves clockwise around his present partner, man moving to the right and in front of the girl while the girl moves to the left behind the man (5). Then the man moves to the left behind the girl while the girl finishes by moving to the right in front of the man (6). From this spot the men star right (7), skipping one girl and turning the person across the set with a left arm all the way around (8). Giving a right to the new corner (9) they pull by this person and swing with the next (10). This person (who was the man's original right hand lady) is now his partner. The figure can be repeated three more times to get original partner back or a portion of the figure may be used in conjunction with other compatible movements to arrive at the desired partner. Caution should be made (at figure 3) not to retain left handholds when doing the half sashay as this definitely limits the movement.

WORKSHOP

FOR LEADERS IN THE FIELD OF SQUARE AND ROUND DANCING

OCTOBER, 1960

THIS IS ON THE LEVEL

By Arnie Kronenberger — Glendale, Calif.

TO THE BEST of my remembrance I have never found an adequate description of "high level" dancing, nor do I think there is one. Degrees of dancing ability vary, yes, but who's to say at what point of dancing ability a person becomes a high level dancer? Ability will vary from one area to another; from club to club or even within a couple.

What, then, makes a — you should excuse the expression — high level dance? Better yet, what makes you enjoy one evening of dancing and not another? There are many factors but 9 out of 10 times it is the caller who makes the evening's dance a success, a flop or just another dance.

This is not to say that the dancers don't contribute greatly to the evening, for they do, but it is the caller whose judgment in calling the dance determines the success of the dancing evening.

Judgment, then, is the crux of the matter. The dictionary defines judgment as, "The act or faculty of affirming or denying a conclusion, whether as based upon a direct comparison of objects or ideas, or derived by a process of reasoning." This last phrase is the part that fits!

Some synonyms for judgment are: thought, understanding and wisdom, three words every caller should keep in mind every time he puts himself behind a mike to call a dance. Thought should be taken as to how long his dancers have been dancing, whether he is new to them. Understanding enters in finding out whether these dancers can take the latest and greatest or the caller should keep the evening relatively simple. Wisdom comes in putting the evening's dance together and building it for the greatest pleasure of all.

Judgment is simply good common sense!

For a caller, the greatest satisfaction he can have is to know that the dancers were able to dance what he called; have enjoyed it because they danced it smoothly and well. They moved with the music and the caller's voice at a comfortable tempo to a call well-timed. This, to me, is Square Dancing.

Over the years I have tried to put into my calling these elements to make enjoyable dancing. I have followed a formula, not mine, but gained from experience and listening to other callers working towards the same goal. It is really a "feeling-out" process, to find the degree of dancing ability that will encompass the majority of the dancers. This is sought early in the evening, maybe at the first tip or it could take two or three.

Check the Floor

Start with the simple expedient of calling basic dances and movements and watching how the floor moves with them. If the floor moves evenly the caller works up to a point where his floor will begin to break down. At this point the caller has discovered his floor and can then plan the type of dance to call for the remainder of the evening.

What and where is the peak to a dance? There should be one and it's hard to define. Each evening is different and the peak may not come at the same time for all the dancers or for the caller. It is a very fleeting thing, a moment of greatest enjoyment, but if it was there each individual will leave the dance remembering something special about it.

And — they should leave the dance still wanting more. If the caller has been pounding the dancers all evening, this is a hard feeling to achieve. So — towards the end of the dance the caller can "dance 'em loose" with nothing too complex — letting the dancers down easily. They relax and can head home for a good night's sleep.

All of the foregoing is possible for the caller who uses good judgment. He must exercise this judgment in programming; in dance design; in tempo; in the amount of new material and the complexity of the dancing. He must use his judgment in letting the dancers dance! And here is the nearest definition for "level" of a dance. It is an indeterminate quality resting in the mind and judgment of the caller and able to be governed by him in judgment so that "level" means enjoyment of dancing; not dancing ability.

CONTRA CORNER

TUESDAY'S CHILD

By Dick Forscher, Greenwich, Conn.

1, 3, 5 active and crossed over
Star by the right with the couple below, (8)
Left hand star come back to place, (8)
Actives down the outside and cut in, (8)
Up the inside and then cast off, (8)
Forward all and dosado, (8)
With your neighbor dosado, (8)
(Now face across and slow square thru)
(Prompt)
Right to the opposite and step, close, step, (4)
Left to the next and step, close, step, (4)
Right to the next and step, close, step, (4)

Note: Most dancers now do the "neighbor dosado" with those with whom they "cast off" i.e. actives and those above them at that moment.

Note: The Back to Donegal contra by Al Brundage in the July issue listed the incorrect record. The proper record should be either Windsor's #7430 or Windsor's #4430. The figure shown is one version of the contra done to this record. Another is Slaunch to Donegal recently recorded by the Armstrongs (Windsor #4183) and also by Manning Smith (Blue Star #1551) . . . While on the subject of contras a caution at this point to those leaders experimenting with this form. Music in contras plays a great part in a successful presentation. While some hoedown tunes may work satisfactorily, extremely well phrased and specially designed records will often prove to be a great help in successfully getting across the contra feeling. Especially in the beginning be sure and choose your contra records with care.

UNPROVEN MATERIAL—USE WITH DISCRETION

The dances in this section will serve as drills for the Dixie Wheel Movement, Example Number One, as described on page 49. As in the case of all new movements careful workshopping in groups small enough to study each phase of the proposed new basic will bring to light any flaws or inadequacies in the definition of in the movement itself. These drills were written by Ralph Kinnane.

One and three right and left thru
Turn on around, do a half sashay
Lead to the right, circle that way
All the way 'round, you're doing fine
The two gents break and form the line
It's forward eight and back you march
Bend the line and the gentlemen arch
Girls duck thru, then "U" turn back

Two gents break to a line of four
Forward eight and back you glide

Once and a half, now turn your Sue
Cross trail with that same old two

One and three do a half sashay simply failed to analyze the situation. We, in Iowa, never doubted that there would be a good attendance . . . The reason for our having this feeling was based on the following:

- 1—Des Moines is located as the hub of the really enthusiastic square dance activity at the present time.
- 2—Des Moines is centrally located in the United States.
- 3—Des Moines is known nationally as a Convention center.
- 4—Iowa has more square dancers than any of our 50 states, except California.
- 5—Iowa was not inexperienced in this type of thing . . . We had promoted three very successful All-Iowa Festivals, with between 3,000 and 4,000 dancers.
- 6—Our Central Iowa Callers' Assn. had promoted 6 or 8 successful Festivals . . .

The thing that pleased us the most was the genuine enthusiasm of those in attendance at the National . . . Personally, I had two of the national "name" callers tell me that there were more people dancing all of the time at the Iowa Convention than at any Convention they had attended.

The measure of success of anything of this nature depends, I believe, on the genuine feeling of the large percentage of those in attendance. While we missed "batting" 1000%, I believe the over-all percentage was real good . . .

M. J. Dwigans, Des Moines, Iowa

As mentioned earlier we have only the highest of compliments for the folks in Des Moines for their hospitality and the way they handled the crowd. You must forgive us if we were a bit surprised at the size of it all. Editor.

Dear Editor:

Regarding the Iowa Convention — your article, "In Retrospect" (S.I.O. August 1960) was perfect. As beginners we had a wonderful time at the 1959 Convention in Denver — tho' we knew no rounds. A year later and, we hoped, more experienced, after three squares we decided to watch only — and do only the rounds. Naturally it was not as much fun. Let's hope Detroit heeds your sincere and constructive criticism. We were not the only ones who found "Discouragement at Des Moines." Let's hope "Detroit Delights" with their program next year.

Dear Editor:

On the cover of S.I.O. it states that this is a magazine of square dancing. True, but lately it seems to be of more interest to callers and teachers.

Furthermore, we are in the New England area, where it has been stated by a well-known caller from the west, in our particular area there are more square dancers per capita than in any other area in the country! And seldom do we see an article written by or for New Englanders.

How about more space on activities enjoyed and employed by clubs — things of interest to the average dancer? One month could be devoted to how different clubs elect officers, how often they hold meetings, pros and cons on caller-run or executive-run clubs, fun nights, fund raising projects, favorite dance halls and what makes them so.

Also, we would like to know about problems arising in clubs and how they were solved. And how about articles on exactly what goes on at conventions, the color, what is covered

Among other features are the following:

- ★ 71 SQUARE DANCES — for the patter repertoire.
- ★ 134 EXERCISES — for calling at class nights for beginners — Recognizing that it is far from sufficient to teach only the names and definitions of basics, these dance exercises are arranged in logical order for a 15 week course. Corresponding to each basic are approximately 3 to 4 dances, each illustrating a different aspect in which that basic may occur.
- ★ PLASTIC BINDING for eye comfort — the pages "lie flat."

Your letter and our September issue undoubtedly crossed each other en route. While it took quite a number of years to come up with a formula we liked, we feel that the new dancer's section "The Walkthru" which we introduced last month will fill the bill. We request most eagerly that those with ideas for this feature send them in. And, incidentally we most certainly want news from all parts of the square dancing world. Someone must send it in, however, so if you'd like your area represented pick up a pen and paper and start writing. Editor.

Dear Editor:

. . . Recently we danced to Bob Brundage, who gave a lot of the new dancers on the floor their first taste of contras — and they loved it! Since most of the crowd had never been told that contras are dull and old-fashioned, everyone got up on the floor and danced to the music. After seeing the results, I am more than ever convinced that contras should be part of the basic teaching if we want to produce dancers who love dancing . . .

I suspect that contras are the spinach of the

But if they are told "it's delicious and you'll enjoy it," they will find joy in it. I know this is true because, many years ago one of my daughters was asked what she would most like for breakfast and she replied, "Spinach and ice cream." We had never told her it was good for her... CALLERS PROPOSE AID TO DANCERS

Probably a "first" of its kind was the action of the D.L.D.V. (Dance Leaders of the Delaware Valley) in Northern N.J. and Penna. in tendering a motion to help organize the square dancers in their area into some sort of federation. The motion was made by caller Buck Fish and the proposal read, in part, as follows:

We have noticed the success of square and round dance clubs in other areas that have banded together in federations. From personal observations of our members plus reports from all over the United States, the areas that have federations are strong square and round dance areas and what is more important they are growing stronger.

D.L.D.V. will finance the initial cost and offer such additional financial support as may be necessary for the formation of a federation for a year or until it is organized and self-supporting. We hasten to add and emphasize that there will be no strings tied to this support. We believe that the federation to be effective must be independent of D.L.D.V.

This letter is the first step. The next step must be yours. Please present this proposal to the members of your club and select representatives to attend the first meeting. Even if you disagree with our action we would appreciate your answer. When we receive enough replies in the affirmative a meeting date will be announced. Except at your specific request D.L.D.V. will step out of the picture except for the financial assistance as outlined above.

gathering approaches in most cities, the police are alerted to expect a lot of commotion and rambunctiousness, to say nothing of downright vandalism. Time after time, however, we hear of big gatherings of square dancers receiving commendations from the local constabulary and other officials wherever they meet. The New Mexico State Federation of Square Dancers met recently in Roswell, N.M. and headquarters was the High School Gym. After the Festival Bill Ramer, Program Chairman, received the following letter:

“I am returning your entire deposit of $100, since everything was in perfect order after your Square Dance Association.

“I wish to congratulate you and your fine group for the wonderful way you took care of our gymnasium, your cooperation, your organization and you personally for our most pleasant relationship.

“Congratulations and best wishes to the New Mexico Square Dance Association.”

Ray and Dorothy Rees — Kansas City, Mo.

IT WAS IN THE SPRING of 1950 that Ray and Dorothy Rees saw their first square dance, as part of the audience at Kansas City's Centennial Celebration. They were inspired to take lessons under Charles Bradshaw who soon urged them to "go out and dance" in other groups. Ray early invested in Dr. Shaw's "Cowboy Dances" and at one of their first square dances, the Rees' were intrigued with a couple executing a version of Cotton-Eyed Joe.

Since they had a background of dancing, Ray and Dorothy took to this new activity, especially the rounds, and enjoyed working out the routines. Soon their counsel was being sought on new routines and they were involved in a round dance program for the City Recreation Dept. In this capacity they have been busy for almost nine years.

Ray served as Vice-Chairman of the Heart of America Federation and both Rees' helped found the Missouri Round Dance Assn., serving as president for three years. In the fall of 1952 they formed the Ballanet Round Dance Club, entirely separate from their classes. The 120-member club meets once monthly and no instruction is given except an occasional "cue-call."

Ray and Dorothy assisted in forming the Folk Arts Council and Ray has been the Council's Treasurer and President. Since 1953 the Rees' have had a Demonstration Group which has performed round dances at many charity and dance functions.

As choreographers, the Rees' have come thru with Rosie O'Grady, Twelfth Street Rag, Doggie in the Window, Silver Moon, Naughty Waltz, Emperor's Waltz and others.

Says Dorothy, "Rounds between the squares make a well-balanced program IF the rounds are kept simple. The more difficult rounds should be used at round dance clubs."

THIS WE LIKED

Wayne Wylie included a succinct definition of round dancing in his "blurb" for the Missouri Round Dance Assn. Festival. It went like this, "A round dance is a couple dance made up of dance patterns taken from folk and ballroom basics, arranged in comfortable sequence and set to a given measure of music. All dancers on the floor do exactly the same movements at the same time which makes round dancing the most beautiful form of dancing to either watch or perform."

CALLER OF THE

Dave Taylor — Roseville, Mich.

DAVE TAYLOR was not coaxed or coerced into calling square dances; he was ordered! It happened when Dave, a Detroit school teacher, was working part-time for the Detroit Parks and Recreation Dept. and assigned to Cannon Recreation on Detroit's east side. In 1953 he was put in charge of Saturday night activities, including teaching children's square dance classes. He refused at first because of lack of experience, but after two other callers had been drafted and flunked out, Dave's supervisor ordered him to get in there and call.

Another Department caller, Bob Tauber, coached Dave and finally he felt as if he were getting the knack of it. After Dave had called for the Recreation Department about a year, he decided to explore this calling thing further. He worked and practiced and within three years was accepting out-of-town bookings. He also M.C.'d a square dance radio program out of Detroit during 1957-58.

As Dave's activities expanded further, he began to appear on the staffs of various institutes and a square dance tour to Bermuda. He was also at Michigan's first square dance camp at Boyne Mountain.

In Detroit Dave keeps busy with two week-night classes (one for beginners; one an advanced workshop) plus eight intermediate and

My true love lives down in the holler,
She won't come, and I won't foller.

Fifteen cents, dollar-and-a-quarter,
Say, Old Man, I'm gonna marry your daughter.

Fifteen cents, dollar-and-a-quarter,
Say, Young Man, take her if you want her.

Ducks on the pond, geese on the ocean,
Devil's in a woman if she takes a notion.

There's a Devil livin' inside of my fiddle,
He'll swack the soul right out of your middle

Back my Jenny up Sourwood Mountain,
So many pretty girls I can't count 'em.

And so, on, and on. Think up some yourself.

EXPERIMENTAL LAB

THIS MONTH we look into the problem of two entirely different movements with the same name. The first achieves the same results as a simple right and left thru or a cross trail with a U turn back. It's perhaps just a bit fancier, but is certainly not necessary.

DIXIE WHEEL

By Ralph Kinnane, Birmingham, Alabama

Called for two couples meeting single file with the men in the lead. Each man gives a right to the other man (1) and walks past to give a left to the opposite lady (2) and pull by. The two ladies take right forearms and go full around clockwise as the two men left face turn to face the center (3). The ladies finish their turn and go to their own partner for a courtesy turn (4) and end facing the other couple.

The other movement using the same title was invented for the singing call "I Wonder Why."

DIXIE WHEEL

By Marshal Flippo, Abilene, Texas

Called for two facing couples. The two ladies take right forearms in the center (5) and move clockwise once and a half. They then give a left to their opposite man (6) to start a Dixie Chain. The men follow their partners giving a right to the other man (7) and move to follow the direction of the next call.

Experimentation shows a decided tendency for the men to attempt to courtesy turn the lady (8) in this latter movement rather than following a Dixie Chain. It is possible to call this same figure without teaching or inventing new terminology. One solution might be: Two ladies wheel to a Dixie Chain.

new model trs-1680 by

Here's the portable sound system that makes the caller King, marks him without question as The Man in Charge. The new TRS-1680 has power that penetrates to the farthest corner, floods the floor evenly with clean, easy-to-understand sound. The TRS-1680 has controls that make the caller Master of any acoustic situation. It's a stereophonic system, or monophonic—depends on how you want to use it and what kind of records you're playing. It can reinforce a live band stereophonically, too. Stereo not only makes music sound more real and lifelike, but it also makes it much more clear and pleasant to listen to. There's an exclusive "Blend" control on the Newcomb TRS-1680 that allows you to get as much or as little stereo effect as you want. The TRS-1680 puts out 40 watts peak per channel—a total of 80 watts peak. You probably won't ever use all that power, but it's nice to know you've got something in reserve in case you need it. There are three mike channels. The one in the center is for the Caller's mike. It's so designed that even though you're playing music full stereo, your voice comes out in the middle as though you were standing right in front of the band. There are volume and tone controls for each mike channel and separate controls for music. We can't possibly tell you all about this wonderful new machine in this little space; you'd better write for your free copy of Catalog TR-5. Read all about it. You'll want to put your order in right now. With the TRS-1680 in your wagon you'll know that no job is too big for you.

Loudspeaker systems have been carefully designed to take full advantage of the tremendous power put out by the TRS-1680. To the left is shown the TRS-1680-NF4 System, your choice when you want highest efficiency combined with compactness and portability.

Each 60 watt peak reproducer consists of a 12" woofer, a 3½" tweeter, and crossover network. Two reproducer systems are supplied in one case that separates into two reproducing units. GALLANT LADY

Friends of Mabel Lindsay up in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, will be happy to learn that treatments which she has been taking for an illness are beginning to have effect and she is much better. Mabel and her caller-husband Jimmy have been identified with square dancing for a long time, having most recently been proprietors of the Hitchin' Post, a supply store for square dancers. A quote from Mabel's letter records a familiar story.

"I must tell you how the square dancers have rallied 'round us in our time of need. Before we moved in our house, a painter did the house from end to end. A carpenter finished off the rumpus room. The girls emptied cupboards and washed dishes then called their husbands to collect them and the dishes and came across here to put the dishes in cupboards again. Other girls helped with packing and unpacking. A gardener planted the planters outside. There was a waxing and polishing bee.

"The day of the move my sister and I were whisked away for the day to where a breakfast

PALOMAR HOSTS CALIFORNIA COUNCIL

Never let it be said that a small association cannot put on a bang-up square dance occasion; Palomar Assn. in Northern San Diego County, Calif. refuted that on August 6, when their 10-square association hosted the Council of California Square Dance Assns., at Palomar Junior College, San Marcos. The set-up for the P.M. meeting was admirable in that Council members, all the California association presidents, were seated at the head of the room; the State Association committee heads were at another table; California publications representatives at still another and each president and group had their own microphone. The room

INFORMATION BROCHURE

The Square Dance Assn. of Montgomery Co. (Maryland), Inc., puts out an excellent brochure which explains to the uninitiated what square dancing is all about. "Square dancing is one of the most natural and simple forms of dancing," it says and enlarges upon this. "Square dancing is easy to learn," "Square dancing is a healthful activity, too," "Square dancing is American folk dancing." Each point is made and explained simply but interestingly. The brochure is accompanied by a schedule of local dance classes. It seems that here is a way an association can put out the word to the great untapped field.

VOX SALTATOR

"What brought you into square dancing?"

Bud Sweeney, Salesman
Lincoln, Nebraska

I got into square dancing by accident. My wife dragged me in but after the first night she couldn't keep me away.

Max Seltzer, Railroad Clerk
Dallas, Texas

The wife had been wanting us to take up square dancing for 3 or 4 years but I wanted to bowl. Then they started a class at the office. We joined. I haven't bowled since.

Albert Hadley, Electrician
Indianapolis, Indiana

I got tired of watching television every night so finally my wife dragged me into square dancing. I'm glad she did.

Marguerite Vondrak, Housewife
Hinton, Iowa

Our neighbors were square dancers and kept after us until we finally joined. We're glad we did.

Edwin Baker, Payroll Accountant
Kingsport, Tennessee

I'm with the Tennessee Eastman Company and when they started a class six years ago I joined up.

Arnold Waltz, Supv. Shoe Store
Chicago, Illinois

We were attracted by a sign advertising classes at our Recreation Park District and signed up four years ago.

Floyd Hammes, Farmer
What Cheer, Iowa

I used to do the old-fashioned square dancing and we got back into it about a year ago when a series of lessons were offered in our town.

S.I.O. X2129—BIG BROWN JUG/THE DEVIL JUMPED UP (hoedowns)

S.I.O. X3115—SWEET GEORGIA BROWN/ANNIVERSARY TWO-STEP (PROGRESSIVE)

(Singing Call) Look on the Good Side (Old Timer 8148 instrumental flip with calls by Johnny Schultz) Key: F, Tempo: 134.

This is a fast-moving "fun" dance made up of movements from the first twenty basics — nothing difficult, just constant motion. Balance between music and voice is very good. Johnny does a nice job on the with-calls side.

(Singing Call) Oh By Jingo (Old Timer 8152 instrumental flip with calls by Bill Castner) Key: A minor to C major, Tempo: 128.

This is strictly for the "high frequency," hobby dancer. Pattern uses the Dixie Twirl and the Dixie Wheel movements. The instrumental, while thin and ragged in spots, is pretty good — or perhaps we should say that it "comes alive" to the masterful calling job done by Bill. This recording must be classed as a novelty type as it uses relative minor key, plus vocal sound effects and it is different! It could go well at patio and basement parties, but we predict that if it is destined to become a hit it won't be in its present form. (Perhaps other callers will come up with more simplified versions for popular consumption as in the case of "Oh, Lonesome Me.")

(Singing Call) Jealous Heart (Lightning S 601 instrumental flip with calls by Tod Williams) Key: C, Tempo: 126.

This long-time western blues favorite gets special square dance treatment by a caller who sounds as though he's quite familiar with this brand of music. It should appeal to quite a few. The calls are well fitted to the music and the patterns, while moving, are not difficult. An alternate break is offered as an ending which features a Dixie Twirl but aside from that a square thru is about as tough as things get.

(Singing Call) One More Time (Lightning S 502 instrumental flip with calls by Marvin Shilling) Key: C, Tempo: 128.

In the Tex Williams' tradition of Smoke That Cigarette here is a rocking patter-type of singing call done quite capably on the flip by Shilling and which should have an appeal to a goodly sized segment of the calling population. The principal figure of the dance is the Suzy Q which gets quite a working over by the time the dance is done. You'll search quite awhile before you discover any melody on the instrumental but there's a nice, steady beat.

(Singing Call) Somebody Else's Date (Blue Star 1557 instrumental flip with calls by Marshall Flippo) Key: D, Tempo: 132.

Another smoothie, this time Marshall comes up with a figure that is a blending of route lines into stars and finally circles. The melody is quite catchy and not at all difficult to master and the instrumental, while offering sufficient melody, is not at all sticky.
