REPORT

OF THE

SUPERINTENDING SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

FELLOW CITIZENS,—In presenting our report we congratulate you on the success of your schools during the past year. The several districts have been very successful in securing the services of competent and efficient teachers. With one or two exceptions the schools have sustained a high character for good moral discipline, and a thorough and effective method of instruction. This results from the fact that we find the character and usefulness of the school depends chiefly on the character and qualifications of the teacher, in connection with our own sympathies and co-operation, and we are fast learning that to have effective and energetic schools, we must manifest more zeal in their behalf. We are fast finding out that we have other duties to perform than merely calling a school meeting once a year, and simply complying with the requirements of the law. Yet there are too many who still think that when they have done this they have done their whole duty. Look about you, Fellow Citizens, and tell me how many school-houses there are in town that are unfit and unworthy the name. And why is this? Because a majority of the legal voters in the respective districts refuse to build new ones. But the idea that anything will do for a school-house, and the person we can obtain for the least money will do to keep the school, is fast wearing away; and we hope to see three new school-houses, “built in modern style,” go up the coming season.

Only three male teachers have been employed the past year in town, and the notion that women cannot govern our common schools is being overwhelmingly refuted by past experience. The best disciplined schools we ever visited were taught by women. The woman who is generously endowed with the right qualifications, namely, love, affection and kindness, is better able to govern than the man of harsh voice and angry aspect, and it may be very safely asserted that school-mistresses at $3 a week, may be selected in preference to school-masters at $5 a week.

All summer schools should commence before hot weather comes on in earnest; and winter schools in season to close before the middle of the winter. The pernicious result of continuing the schools in our back districts through the inclemency of mid winter is to endanger the health and defraud the smaller scholars of their share of the school. If our schools are ever what they should be, we, ourselves, must make them so; and it is to be hoped that our mothers will discuss the school question at their firesides, and our fathers with their business, that the result and action may make us all proud of our common schools.

DISTRICT NO. 1.—DIMOND'S CORNER.

Both terms were taught by Miss Luella E. Straw, the first term, we think, a profitable one; the teacher exercising all the energy necessary to good order. The scholars were attentive and quiet, and had good recitations.

The winter term was, in the main, satisfactory. The teacher is evidently a very fine woman,—but we may not be far off the mark when we say that, though she may not have too much softness of heart, there was a little more of the iron heel needed. The educational standard here,—though some fine scholars—is below the average.

DISTRICT NO. 2.—LOWER VILLAGE.

The summer term was taught by Miss H. M. George. We had the best opportunities for observing the character of the school during its progress, and are able to say that she maintained the high reputation as a teacher, she had formerly secured. She felt the weight of her responsibility, was “busy as a bee,” and secured good order, and at the close of the school could reasonably feel that she had not labored in vain.

The winter term was taught by your junior committee, and the results reached by his efforts can fairly be left to the judgment of others. The executive, prudential and superintending duties being centered in one hand, that hand would, perhaps, be prohibited from shaping the character of the school. He would, however, by way of duty to others say, that all who tried made good progress,—and they almost all tried. The teacher felt that he had an agreeable and profitable school. There are excellent scholars in this district.

DISTRICT NO. 3.—NORTH VILLAGE.

Here we find a district which is prominent in all that pertains to the educational interest of the young. Those who have no intelligent ideas about the rights and duties of teachers—what pertains to the order and discipline of a school, have no influence here. Happy fact! The walls of the school-room present the refreshing sight of a map.

The summer term was taught by Miss Olive F. Wheeler. It was her first effort and it proved quite successful. She was energetic rather than quiet in her discipline. We listened to some first-rate recitations, and saw little to criticise.

The winter term was taught by Miss Junia S. Bartlett—a teacher of large experience, and whose uniform success is too well known to need comment here. She is a good scholar and thorough in instruction. It would be impossible to speak too highly of her as a teacher. Quiet in her discipline, she secures order easily. Having asked a question, she knows when and how to wait till the mind of the scholar has had time to perform a complete revolution and eliminate an idea of its own. She sees and measures the different avenues of the minds of different scholars. If they are narrow, she knows it; if they are wide, she knows it; and we have observed with admiration the charming skill with which she gets possession of the little “dome of thought.” Six scholars were not absent one-half day. Examination admirable.

DISTRICT NO. 4—SCHOODACH.

Summer term taught by Miss Marcia A. Stevens. Both visits to this school found it orderly and the teacher performing her duties in an easy common sense way. At our last visit, we found that the school, as a whole, had done well. Some did finely.

Winter term taught by Miss Mahala Rand. She will maintain order and move forward, relying wholly on her own resources, where some men would lapse into despair and disorganization. The standard of education here is high—not second, perhaps, to the North Village school.

A taste for the higher mathematics, has, we think, been too much cultivated. The mission of the common school is to lay the foundation. No matter how high the superstructure, but by all means let us have the foundation first.

DISTRICT NO. 5—PUMPKIN HILL.

One term taught by Miss Etta L. Couch. This is a small school of six scholars, but Miss Couch's untiring energies gave it a high standard among the schools in town. Good order was observed, although one scholar, a “big boy,” showed a little rebellious spirit and rather than comply with the rules of school, left. We earnestly hope he will see and feel the evil of his course, and, in future, be an obedient scholar. The school was a decided success.

DISTRICT NO. 6—BURNT HILL.

Summer term taught by Miss Junia S. Bartlett. All that was said of this teacher in District No. 3 might be repeated here, but it would be superfluous. From a chronic restlessness, this school has become orderly. It passed examination well—all did well. F. G. Clough and J. L. Bishop were not absent one half day.

Winter term was taught by Miss Achsa L. Cheney, who has for a long time exerted her energies with success in this town. The school was all that its most zealous friends could expect. All did well—large and small. The examination was alike flattering to both teacher and scholar. Book keeping taken up with success. School stands forth covered with honor—redeemed. May it long sustain the position it has taken.

DISTRICT NO. 7—KIMBALL.

One term taught by Miss Lydia J. Morgan. This lady was found, on examination, to be proficient in none of the branches required to be taught, by a school mistress in the district schools of this State; but, owing to peculiar circumstances, she was permitted to go on with the school, which she had commenced previous to applying for examination. The district furnished her with four scholars—Joppa with one and the Lower Village with one; so she had half a dozen (till death took one) bright eyed little scholars—all, of course, in the rudiments of the school books. At the examination the school was exhibited to such advantage, so many useful items had been learned, and the general progress so commendable that your committee was moved, by a sense of duty and justice, to express unqualified approbation.

It is desirable that prudential committees should have some positive knowledge of the teachers they hire.

DISTRICT NO. 8—BURNAP.

Both terms taught by Miss Frank Redington, who, although not long before the public as a teacher, has earned a high place in the opinion of the committee. She is a sound scholar, and we bespeak for her a bright future, in the sphere in which she is now engaged. And we think we hazard nothing in saying that whatever district may secure her services it will be fortunate. The scholars all tried hard, with marked success. They were drilled thoroughly, minutely and accurately. The teacher worked hard. The examination at the close of the second term evinced marked proficiency in all the branches taught. First term, nine not absent one half day. Second term, thirteen not absent one half day.

DISTRICT NO. 9—WATERLOO.

Both terms were taught by Miss Louisa C. Dowlin. Miss Dowlin fully sustained her former reputation as a successful teacher. The several classes were prompt in their answers. The class in history is particularly worthy of mention; the readiness with which they repeated several chapters, verbatim, is an indication that the time was occupied in hard study. We were happy to meet some of the parents at the close of both terms, and we think they cannot help agreeing with us, that the scholars are worthy of a better house. For truly such another ungainly pile of old shingles, clapboards, broken doors and windows cannot be found in town.

DISTRICT NO. 10—COLLINS.

One term taught by Miss L. C. Dowlin. At the examination the school, though very small, appeared well, and showed that the teacher had exercised her energies through the term. The scholars, large and small, were well drilled in reading. We have no hesitation in pronouncing this school entirely successful.

DISTRICT NO. 11—TONY HILL.

Both terms taught by Miss Sarah J. Nichols, of Bradford. Miss Nichols is a "spicy" teacher and kept a "spicy" little school. The scholars are all young, but we found them well seasoned with all kinds of "spicy" knowledge. The demonstrations at the black board showed that principles had been taught as well as rules. Some excellent specimens of map drawing were exhibited on the board. Order and neatness pervaded the whole room, and the teacher spared no pains in making the school a pleasant resort for the young minds confided to her case.

DISTRICT NO. 12—COUCH.

Summer term taught by Miss Etta L. Couch. Here we find another small but interesting school; the teacher evidently working for the interest of the scholars. The several classes passed their examination creditably to themselves and teacher.

Winter term taught by Miss Anna M. Heath. Miss Heath is a fine teacher and the district is sensible of it, as they have had her services for several terms. There are some excellent scholars in this school, and they have made rapid advancement under the guidance of Miss Couch and Miss Heath. But there is one thing lacking, and we hope the legal voters in this District will agree to build a new and commodious school house the coming season; it will only take a sheep apiece to put in place of the present disgraceful structure, a building that you can point out to the stranger and say, with pride, "that is our school house."

DISTRICT NO. 13—CENTER VILLAGE.

Lower Department—Summer and Winter terms taught by Miss L. A. Campbell, of Henniker. Miss Campbell is manifestly a highly successful and accomplished teacher. She spared no pains, and worked with untiring zeal to make her school pleasant and attractive to her little flock. We have never visited a school that was marked with a higher tone of success in every particular; nothing that could be done was left undone, and it seems almost impossible that one person should have such perfect control over thirty little girls and boys, all under the age of ten years; and as one person remarked at the examination, "she seems to govern, as it were, by a sort of magnetic influence, and these pupils seem to drink in her every wish at a glance." The reading was excellent, the recitations perfect, and the melodious music poured forth from those thirty little throats, rapturous.

Higher Department—Summer term taught by Miss Rhoda B. Thompson. Under Miss Thompson's instruction the school made good advancement, especially those who attended regularly. We think she labored hard and accomplished much, but still, if regular attendance had been observed by the scholars, much more might have been accomplished. The Register shows, and Miss Thompson remarks, that "many of the scholars have attended very irregularly, and some have been often tardy. I think, if parents could realize the loss occasioned by a day's absence now and then, they would try to secure a more regular attendance." She also says, "A number were obliged to leave school two or three weeks before the close, and a few, who were out, were in at the close, which apologizes for their lack in recitations examination day."

Winter term taught by one of your committee, S. C. Pattee, and with what success we leave it for those present at the examination to say. There are a few scholars whose habits of study are below mediocrity, and it requires considerable effort, on the part of the teacher, to get good lessons from them. Attendance with one or two exceptions has been very regular, and comparatively very few cases of tardinesses have occurred during the term. Most of the scholars, manifestly, have amiable dispositions, and have invariably treated me with marked respect. The parents in the district are deeply interested in both departments, as their frequent visits will attest, for which they have our sincere thanks.

DISTRICT NO. 15—GORE.

One term taught by Mrs. Carrie M. Frazier, who has had considerable experience as a teacher, and the examination of her school showed that she had worked hard, and, with her little flock, had made good advancement in the several studies pursued; good order was observed at both visits, and we congratulate the district on having so good a school.

DISTRICT NO. 16—DAVISVILLE.

Both terms were taught by Mrs. Augusta G. Chase. In consequence of delay in notifying the committee, the first term was not visited at its commencement. But from what we know of the teacher, and the appearance of the school at the examination, we were convinced that all must be satisfied with the progress made. On our first visit to the district at the beginning of the second term, no school was in session. A slight conflagration, the day before, having rendered a little repairing of the school house necessary. But at the close we have, on the whole, seldom witnessed a more satisfactory examination. The scholars read remarkably well. Grammar class admirable. First term, seven not absent one half day.

DISTRICT NO. 17—MELVIN'S MILLS.

Summer term taught by Miss Mary Thompson, an accomplished and successful teacher. The school appeared in good trim at our first visit, and we predicted a successful term. We were prevented from visiting at the examination by a severe rain storm, therefore are unable to report as to advancement made, but are happy to learn that the District was well pleased with the school.

Winter term taught by Miss Mary E. Cilley, a lady of high literary qualifications, apt to teach, and evidently labored hard for the interest of the school. The remarks in No. 4 will apply here. We found Latin, Robinson's University Algebra and Greenleaf's National Arithmetic in the school. We have no objection to a teacher's teaching one, or all of these, if it does not detract too much from the minor branches, which we hope, and have reason to believe it does not in this case. Of course, there are excellent scholars in this school, or we should not find the higher branches taught here. A goodly number of parents and friends were present at the examination, which shows that the deep interest they have taken for the last few years, is not flagging. But the "Old Calico," "though mangled, hacked and hewed," yet stands a ghastly sight in this otherwise beautiful and thriving village.

DISTRICT NO. 18—COLLEGE.

One term was taught by Miss Martha Patterson. Ill health, on the part of the teacher, caused her school to close sooner than was expected; consequently your committee was not present at the examination. Miss Patterson is a famous teacher, having taught seventy-two months with uniform success. She is a live teacher. Her school was small, her order was excellent, and her scholars were all doing well at our first visit.

None not absent one half day.

DISTRICT NO. 19—MIRICK.

First term taught by Miss Nellie Colby. It was her first effort; she was quite young, and, although exhibiting some of the qualities of a good teacher, we think it would have been better had she waited a year longer before accepting the responsibilities of the school room. The school cannot be said to have resulted in entire success. Still we bespeak for this young lady success in the future. This is one of the most agreeable districts in town. The school is governed with the utmost ease; scholars docile.

Winter term taught by Miss F. Redington. On our first visit to the district the school was not in session, and soon after the day had been fixed for the examination, we learned that the school had closed in consequence of the ill health of the teacher; therefore your committee are unable to speak of this term from personal examination. But from what we know of this teacher in District No. 8 we have full faith that she rendered an equivalent for her pay.

DISTRICT NO. 20--ROBIE'S CORNER.

Both terms taught by Miss Carrie Watson with great success. The examinations at the close of both terms were rigid, yet the scholars passed through the several recitations highly creditable to themselves and teacher. The recitation in history was excellent. We were also much gratified with the exercises on the map of New Hampshire. We think the school ranks among the first in regard to thoroughness in the rudiments of education.

DISTRICT NO. 21—HOWE.

One term taught by Freeman E. Colby, of Hennifer. This school, on our first visit, was found to be in a very backward condition, but not for want of heads on the shoulders of the scholars; the material is all right. Prior to this term we fear there has been but little progress made for some time. We regret exceedingly that events beyond our control prevented a second visit. Everything was moving right at our first visit. The teacher, in his report, says that "the various branches pursued have been studied with a zeal seldom witnessed in a common district school." He also tells us that the only fault he has to mark is that "some scholars have been absent more than I could have wished, though the fault, perhaps, belongs to their parents, who seem to think that the finishing off of 'sole feeting' is of more importance than school."

DISTRICT NO. 22—NEW MARKET.

Summer term taught by Miss Clough. No register returned. Prudential committee failing in his duty to notify us, the school was visited but once, when the few scholars present were doing very well. Scholars deficient in punctuation.

Second term taught by Miss Mattie A. Morrill. She never taught before. We think she failed in order. The school was not successful. The teacher remarks that "after the first few weeks the scholars became very unruly; I found talking to be of no avail, and tried corporal punishment with little better success; some days, however, they behaved quite well." She also reports "trouble about wood provided for the school and much unwillingness on the part of the boys to build the fire." This speaks for itself.

DISTRICT NO. 24—JOPPA.

Both terms taught by Miss S. M. Bartlett. We regret that we were unable to attend the examination at the close of the last term, as we intended to do, until the day it occurred; but we could not, and therefore are unable to report the progress made. The teacher in her report says, "punctuality is indeed commendable, I have scarcely an instance of tardiness. Nine of the scholars this last term have been neither absent nor tardy, and in recitations, they have all answered with precision and accuracy."

All of which is respectfully submitted,
