During the past year there has been laid 1,425 feet of 6-inch pipe, 470 feet of 2-inch pipe, 550 feet of 1-inch pipe, 750 feet of 3-4 inch pipe, and 2 new hydrants have been added to the service.

The cost of extending the water service from Spickett River bridge to the residence of S. T. Stewart was $800.85, which returns an income of $81.00.

The cost of extending the service from the residence of C. H. Allen to schoolhouse No. 1, including hydrant, $250.60 returning an income of $24.00.

The cost on Pleasant Street from the residence of Walter Woodbury to that of Mrs. Gilman Kelly, $75.00, income $8.00.

The cost on the turnpike from the hotel formerly owned by Peter La Court to the residence of Thomas Olson, $23.00; income, $6.00.

The cost on Granite Street to the house of Fred W. Allen, $144.00; income, $12.00.

There has been added during the year 17 services, so that the gross income is $3,742.84.

There is a call for the extension of the service to the residence of P. K. A. Richardson, near the "Fairmount House," about 1,200 feet; on Millville Street, about 1,500 feet, and on the Lawrence road, Salem Centre, to the residence of Edward Kelley, about 2,300 feet. In order to meet these demands it will be necessary that you permit your water commissioners the privilege of hiring sufficient money to complete the work, and we would recommend that the water service be extended where a return of 6 per cent. on the investment can be realized.

There are no outstanding bills.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH'S REPORT.

The board has received its usual quota of complaints regarding cesspools, piggeries, sink drains, and the like.

In each case we have investigated and tried to remedy. We say, tried, because that is about all we can truthfully say in some cases.

In case of anyone having a piggery, the income of which furnishes the main support to his family, the board does not feel like saying that such piggery can not be allowed to continue, and yet even in a farming district, there are others whose rights must be respected; and it is not right that these neighbors should be obliged to withstand the unpleasant odors arising from piggeries.

And while we do not feel like interfering with another's business yet we must ask those conducting piggeries on their places, to be very careful about the sanitary conditions of the same.

We have received complaints that there are those who go in bathing at Canobie Lake. The town can hardly afford to police the lake, night and day, but it seems as though there were enough of our Salem people living at the lake summers, so that with their moral support we should be able to bring this much talked-of lake bathing to a close.

During the past year there have been six cases of measles reported, four of scarlet fever, and seven of diphtheria, with one death from diphtheria.

There has not been any deaths from tuberculosis during the year. This is rather unusual.

The total number of deaths for the year, 33; population, 1910, 2,120. Rate per thousand, 15.56+.

REPORT OF TRUSTEES.

The trustees of the Salem Free Public Library respectfully submit their annual report for the year ending February 15, 1912:

The trustees organized April 1, 1911, with the following officers: President, Clinton L. Silver; treasurer, Lorenzo F. Hyde; clerk, Christie A. Bodwell.

The regular meetings of trustees have been on the first Saturday of the month. The present year has been one of improvement for the library building.

The trustees would recommend one coat of paint for the outside of the building, as it is in a very bad condition and should receive prompt attention; also that one hundred and fifty dollars be raised beside the amount required by law.

We would acknowledge the efficient manner in which the librarian has performed her work the past year.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the Committee of Salem:

I have the honor to submit my fifth annual report.

The first place in any school report should always be given to that for which, before everything else, the schools stand, namely: the schoolroom work of teaching the common school subjects, the English language, comprising reading, writing, spelling, language, and grammar; arithmetic; geography; history; physiology; civics; and music. I am pleased to report that never before has this work been so well done in our schools. This has been possible principally for the reason that we began the year in September with our corps of teachers practically intact, and because, with one exception, this corps of teachers was made up of experienced women trained for the work. Furthermore, there has been a noticeable improvement in the teaching coming as a direct result of clearer ideas on the part of the teachers as to what good instruction means. The waste of time due to memorizing and the correlated waste of time formerly spent in attempting to teach a mass of information which is useless to children because it is either too technical or impractical, has been largely stopped. In such subjects as physiology, history, geography, arithmetic, grammar, and civics, teachers follow one of two courses. They may attempt to teach the text-books entire, forcing upon their hapless victims everything that comes along, be it technical, impractical, or absurd. Or they may strive to develop intelligence among their pupils by systematic study of the common-sense essentials of the school subjects, wisely selecting under the guidance of the program of studies and the superintendent, only such topics as are suited to the needs and the capacity of young children to comprehend. Much has been done along this line to better the teaching and more may be done as time goes on if it remains possible for us to keep our teachers year after year.

I have noticed an improvement all around in the discipline. The order in the rooms has been excellent almost without exception. I am convinced that this has been brought about in a large degree because of the attention given to organized plays and games. A great deal of credit is due the teachers for the splendid work they have done along this line. They have been generously supported in their efforts by several public-spirited citizens who have recognized the value of such work. The Centre school has an excellent playground where games are in progress during out-of-school hours and the teachers have been on the ground taking part. A tennis court has been built at the Depot school, net and racquets were provided from the proceeds of a play given by the children. Number eight school has secured several simple pieces of apparatus and the teachers there have organized and conducted the games with most admirable tact and in a genuine spirit of fun. More and more our teachers are realizing that the matter of organized and properly conducted plays and games is a part of their work that may produce most excellent results in the form of good behavior, good health, and good morals.

The compulsory school age is from the eighth to the fourteenth year, but children are admitted at six and allowed to remain after fourteen. The question of attendance has been given more careful attention since it has become a matter of dollars and cents. It seems a reasonable request to make of parents, who have children between the ages of six and eight, that such children be sent regularly or not at all, and of parents, who have children above the age of fourteen, that such children be properly imbued with the idea of going to school for business, of which one of the essential components is good behavior. The per cent. of attendance in each school for the year was as follows: Number one, lower school, 92; number one, upper school, 94; number three, 82; number four, 93; number five, 88; number six primary, 87; number six intermediate, 93; number six grammar, 94; number nine, 94; number ten, 86. These figures are significant. Three out of the five mixed schools stand considerably below 90, while six out of the seven consolidated or classified schools stand well over 90, the single exception being the primary school at the Depot building where the falling off to 87 per cent. was caused by the absences of children between the ages of six and eight. It is regrettable that the excellent showing of the consolidated schools should fail to receive due credit in the general average because of the poor attendance in three of the mixed schools. The distance that the children in the mixed schools have to go is not the reason for the poor attendance. The five mixed schools in the neighboring town of Atkinson, where the children walk, on an average, farther than our children, had a per cent. of attendance as follows: 94, 95, 95, 92, 91. The average for the year was 94. It seems to me that our poor showing compared with this is clearly due to negligence on the part of parents. If we are to maintain an average of well over 90 per cent. for all schools together, a mark that may easily be reached every year if the mixed schools do their part, the parents in these sections must see to it that their children are in school at every session as the law requires.

Through the fall and winter months an evening school has been in session at number eight school where a considerable element of our population of foreign birth have been given instruction in English, arithmetic, and history. Such a movement confers high honor and credit upon those who started it and gave to it freely of their time and strength as teachers.

For some months at the Depot grammar school instruction in sewing and drawing has been given. It would be an excellent thing if more teachers would follow the example set here and conceive their schoolrooms to be workshops in which they and their pupils are working together in the process of developing full, rounded-out, intelligent, and useful characters.

I have introduced for use in the schools the Thorndyke scale for rating handwriting. It has served us admirably in this subject, where results may now be tested and stated with almost mathematical exactness. The scale is on the wall of every schoolroom and is especially useful in determining the marks for the monthly report cards. I have rated the handwriting of all the pupils above the fourth grade and can say that the results were sufficiently good to justify the statement that in the seventh and eighth grades the average pupil can write well enough to meet fully all the needs of the common affairs of life.

I have required every teacher throughout the year to send in to me a weekly report of affairs in the schools regarding attendance, absence, tardiness, temperature, books and supplies needed, sessions taught, etc. The reports are simple, are on postcards, and are in no sense a red tape burden to the teacher. They have been of great service in keeping me in close touch with the affairs of all the schools. They are also valuable as records. In addition to this, I have required each teacher to keep, on suitable blanks provided her, an accurate account of all supplies furnished. These records are readily accessible, being pasted into the registers. Their use in preventing waste is apparent.

This is our first year of work with the schools on an eight-grade basis, the change from a nine-grade system having been made by vote of the committee last spring in time for such pupils in the eighth grade, as were prepared, to graduate in June with the regular ninth grade pupils. Coupled with this wise measure was one raising the entrance age to six years. I advised these measures in previous reports. Events have justified all that was said in favor of them. Six-year pupils have done in one half year fully as much as five-year-old pupils did in a whole year. We can now come close to accomplishing the work laid down in the program of studies for the first year. This had 'never even been approximated before. I predict that many of these pupils now beginning school at six will complete the grammar school course at thirteen. The elimination of the ninth grade with its algebra and Latin will not only save a whole year to the children, but will actually result in fitting them better for the high school by restricting the number of studies to the common school branches. The problem of fitting children for high school is not primarily one of years or particular studies either. It is rather one of ability to do high school work—a question of mental development—and experience is showing here, as it has elsewhere, that children can fully reach this point in eight years of study under competent teachers.

For the benefit of those who may not be conversant with the school laws recently enacted relating to state aid to towns, I give here the gist of such laws with their bearing upon our schools. These acts were designed to equalize school privileges, that is, make it possible for children living in sparsely settled or poor towns to enjoy equal school advantages with children living in the more populous or richer towns. Now a town is poor if it has little taxable property and a large number of children to educate; but, if such a town bestirs itself and shows a disposition to do its best in the cause of good schools, the state aid laws operate to supply money enough to place such a town on an equal footing with the cities and larger towns. The law provides that to towns of not over 3500 inhabitants a sum of money per school week is paid for every 25 pupils of average attendance, this sum varying according to the town's equalized valuation. This means that poor towns are aided but in proportion to the efforts they make themselves to have pupils regular in attendance and in proportion to the length of the school year. It is further provided that such towns can draw $2 per week for every normal graduate employed, or teacher holding a state teacher's certificate. The amount allowed to the town of Salem last December for attendance of pupils was $542.55, and for approved teachers was $552. Both of these figures will be increased next December because of better attendance and the employment of more approved teachers. The principle of this most excellent legislation is stated exactly in the words of the Scripture: "He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully."

The work in music has been carried on most successfully under Mr. Hartwell's direction and instruction. The results in the mixed schools have been very creditable indeed. Mr. Hartwell's report follows. I have prepared and added to this report such tables of statistics as are well worth the careful perusal of all who are interested in schools.

I wish to assure the committee and all other citizens who have put forth efforts in the cause of good schools, of my most sincere appreciation of their help in the work.

Respectfully submitted,

J. E. WIGNOT,
Superintendent.

To Superintendent Wignot and School Board of Salem:

Your supervisor herewith submits a brief report of the work accomplished by the pupils in the schools of Salem in the study of music during the past year. This has been the most successful year in many ways since the present instructor has been at the head of this special department, which indicates that interest in this subject is on the increase. Marked improvement is shown by the intelligent manner in which the pupils have taken up advanced work in all the schools.

There are now four schools in this town where the pupils are successfully doing three and four part singing. These are the grammar grades at the Depot and the Centre; at No. 9, near the Methuen line; and at the brick building in North Salem. The pupils in these schools have passed through a very rigid training during the past two years in rhythmic work from the second reader in the New Educational course, aided by the French time-language, and these have easily overcome all obstacles encountered.

The same thorough course referred to above is now being taught the pupils of the grammar grades at No. 8 and No. 3 schools, as well as to the intermediate grades at the Depot. The supervisor is satisfied that it is only a matter of a short time when these schools will be quite up to the high standard of the other grammar grades.

The Millville and No. 10 schools are accomplishing more satisfactory work than heretofore, which will necessitate a higher grade book in the near future.

The greatest rivalry and interest in the several schools, however, is found in the first four grades, both at the Depot and at the Centre—their work being mostly individual effort. Surely nothing but improved conditions will be the result.

A course of special study in the different modes of the minor scale is being given at this time in the upper grades, which is proving to be instructive to the pupils, and cannot fail to add interest to the higher grades of classical music.

My thanks are due to an excellent corps of teachers and pupils for that co-operation which makes possible this commendatory report; and to Superintendent Wignot and the school board for all needful supplies.

Respectfully,

W. E. HARTWELL,
Supervisor of Music.

HAVERHILL, MASS., February 9, 1912.

REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD.

Our schools in general have had a very satisfactory year.

The attendance has been very good which shows the interest both pupils and parents have in their schools.

Through the kindness and generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Capronic our schools were presented with three Relief pictures which he had placed, two in the halls of the Depot school, and one in the hall of the Centre school

The building at the Depot needs repairing and painting. We recommend that a sufficient sum be raised for this purpose.

There is a question before us considering the school building in District No. 7. Shall it be repaired or sold? It looks at present as though there would be no further use for it and if we can get anywhere near its value to sell it.

An appropriation was made for a new well at No. 5 schoolhouse, but the old well was cleaned out and a sample of the water sent to Concord and found to be pure. A new pump was put in and everything seems to be satisfactory. The district met with a heavy loss when the building at the Center was burned. The committee thought best to lose no time so there were three men asked to assist in selecting plans and letting the contract to rebuild. Mr. C. L. Silver and Mr. K. M. McLaughlin accepted and it was decided to rebuild as near like the old building as possible making improvements where feasible. The cost of the building will be found in the building report. The amount of money required to be assessed by law has been lowered for our district from $2,715 to $2,430. It will therefore require us to add this difference to our amount to be voted on.

We recommend the following amounts to be voted on:

In addition to amount required by law,	$3,200.00
Salaries of school board and treasurer,	125.00
Insurance,	90.42

To the Honorable Board of Selectmen:

We, the school board, hereby notify you that the following amount be assessed the coming year:

Books and supplies,	$500.00
High school tuition,	500.00
Flags and appurtenances,	15.00
