REPORT

OF THE

SUPERINTENDING SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

DISTRICT No. 1.—DIMOND'S CORNER.

The summer term was taught by Miss MARY J. BATES. This was her first experience in teaching. Not being able to visit the school at the close, we cannot speak definitely of its success. The order has been, for a number of terms, below the average. More than common ability was needed to secure the desired state of discipline. The record in the register states that "some of the scholars made very good progress in their studies."

The winter term was taught by Miss ACSAH L. CHENEY, of Bradford. The reputation of Miss Cheney as a good disciplinarian and instructor was well sustained. Order was soon secured, and the best part of it was that the scholars enjoyed the order much better than former years of disorder. The new Readers were made to do good service. The vocal elements were well taught, and the drill in the fundamentals of arithmetic, geography and grammar were thorough. Miss Cheney took a deep interest in all her scholars, and we think the district have good reason to congratulate themselves in having secured such a teacher. There was one sad deficiency where all else was so well done,—a register imperfectly kept.

DISTRICT No. 2.—LOWER VILLAGE.

The summer term was taught by Miss HATTIE G. HEALD. This school has been very much reduced by the removal of one half of the scholars from the district since last year, and but two have come in to supply their place. Though small, the term was pleasant and successful.

The winter term was taught by Miss SUSIE A. SAWYER. If patience and perseverance are desirable qualities in a teacher, we think Miss Sawyer may be considered as ranking among our best teachers. The school was orderly, and the examination showed good progress in the branches taught.

DISTRICT No. 3.—NORTH VILLAGE.

The summer term was taught by Miss JOSEPHINE A. SAVORY, a young teacher of much promise. Although ill-health would not permit her to use her whole energy, yet she worked hard, and the examination was creditable to both teacher and scholars.

The winter term was taught by Miss JUNIA S. BARTLETT. The school was a success. The exercises in elocution were good, and showed a thorough drill on the sounds of the letters. The selections in reading were good and well read. Map-drawing received its proper share of attention, and one large, beautifully colored map of North America, drawn by Miss Marietta Osgood, adorned the walls.

DISTRICT No. 4.—SCHOODAC.

This school still contains some of the best scholars in town in reading, arithmetic and grammar. The first term was taught by Miss SUSIE A. SAWYER, with good success,—the examinations giving good evidence of application, being very creditable both to teacher and scholar.

The second term was commenced by Miss JENNIE ABBOTT, of Webster, who is a superior scholar. Miss Abbott taught seven weeks, and failing to secure the good-will, and consequently the obedience, of the larger boys, she became discouraged and left. Energy and perseverance will enable Miss Abbott to write "Success" upon her banner.

The term was finished by Miss RHODA W. BARTLETT, with very general satisfaction to the committee, parents and scholars. The examination was one of much interest, showing a progress that indicated that time and money had not been wasted. One class of two small boys showed thought far beyond their years, and gave good promise of well sustaining the high character of the school in the future.

DISTRICT No. 5.—PUMPKIN HILL.

One term of eleven weeks, taught by Miss MARIA P. OSGOOD. The chief drawback upon this school is the very small number of pupils in the district. During part of the term several attended from Burnt Hill district, which increased the interest of both teacher and scholars. This was Miss Osgood's first term of teaching. Her scholarship is unusually good, and she is fitted by her kindness and the animation of her manner, to awaken an interest in pupils. With experience, we think she will make a superior teacher. A criticism should perhaps be made of some degree of irregularity in the hours of opening and closing the school. However small the number of pupils, absolute uniformity of hours should be observed.

DISTRICT No. 6.—BURNT HILL.

A summer term of eight weeks, and a winter term of ten weeks, both taught by Miss ANN W. HEATH. There is, among most of the pupils of this school, a spirit of diligence and of genuine interest in study, which is highly commendable. Let them aim high, and resolve, by industry in school and out, to obtain a thorough education. Miss Heath is well known to our citizens as a well qualified and faithful teacher, much interested in the advancement of her pupils. We commend this school for the fewness of instances of tardiness during the first term, though the record for the second term is not quite so good.

DISTRICT No. 7.—KIMBALL.

Both terms were taught by Miss ADDIE M. SARGENT. The school and scholars are small,—there being but seven, and but one of these over eleven years of age; but seven were obtained from another district, most of the time, making a passable number. This was Miss Sargent's first experience, and she proved herself well able to fill the place. Order was good and the improvement satisfactory. More promptness and animation in recitations would have improved the examination.

DISTRICT No. 8.—BURNAP.

One term of eleven weeks taught by Miss HELEN J. EASTMAN, of Henniker. One peculiarity of this school has been the good proportion of older scholars in attendance. This is most commendable. Pupils leave our schools at a much earlier age than forty years ago, and too often at the very time when they are best fitted to improve their opportunities. Before taking this school Miss Eastman had taught only five months. At the commencement of the term there was not quite enough firmness in government, but this error was afterwards corrected. She evinced good scholarship, was kind and faithful, and the progress of her pupils, as well as the testimony of both parents and children, proved her success.

DISTRICT No. 9.—WATERLOO.

A summer term of eight weeks, and a winter term of twelve, both taught by Miss HELEN F. COLLINS. No school in town has been more satisfactory during the past year than this. The appreciation of Miss Collins's services by the district is shown by the fact that she has now taught the school for three successive terms. They cannot do better than to employ her still longer. We give this school the high commendation of saying that every scholar, without exception, appears interested and studious. Parents and friends have shown their interest in the school by visiting it during the terms and at the examinations. They have also done a good act by purchasing, at a cost of $13.50, a set of Guyot's Wall Maps. The value of the study of geography to the pupils is doubled by the possession of these maps.

DISTRICT No. 10.—COLLINS.

There was but one term of school, which was taught in the winter by Miss PRESBY, of Bradford. The school is very small, but there are some good scholars, and Miss Presby tried hard and we think succeeded in awakening a good degree of interest among the three or four pupils.

This and No. 18 should unite and build a new school-house; by so doing they would have a school and means to sustain it, second to none in town. In each of these districts it costs over one dollar per week for tuition per scholar. If the districts were united it would cost less than half that sum. Enough could be saved in five years to pay for a new and commodious house, to say nothing of the advantages gained by the good influences it (the new house) would have on the minds of the scholars.

DISTRICT No. 11.—TORY HILL.

Summer term was taught by Miss ANNA L. CLARK, of Grantham. Miss Clark worked hard for the interest of her pupils, and by her untiring energy, patience and firmness, and her aptness to teach, she won the love and respect of her scholars. The examination showed that thoroughness, rather than "going through the book," was the object most to be desired.

Winter term,—taught by Mr. WALTER SARGENT. Mr. Sargent's success was all that could be desired. The elements in reading received a thorough drill, and the selections were read with marked good taste, and according to elocutionary principles. Good order was maintained, and the scholars made good improvement in their several studies.

DISTRICT No. 12.—COUCH.

The first term was taught by Miss DORA A. ELKINS, of Salisbury. This school has well sustained its former reputation for studiousness and order. What is wanting is more confidence and life in the recitations. Scholars should be trained to think, and to think quick.

The second term was taught by Miss RHODA B. THOMPSON. The classes did well at the examination, especially those in arithmetic. Miss T. labored hard for the good of her scholars, but the attendance was interrupted by circumstances beyond her control. The order was good, and success fair.

DISTRICT NO. 13.—CENTRE VILLAGE.

Higher Department.—A summer term of eleven weeks, and a winter term of ten and a half, both taught by Miss M. F. UNDERWOOD, of Newport. Miss Underwood came to this school with a high reputation as a faithful and successful teacher. During the summer term she gave general satisfaction. During the winter term some difficulties arose in regard to the discipline of the school, which are fresh in the minds of the district. It could do no good, but only harm, to enter into the details of these difficulties. Let us rather seek that the causes which produced the evil may not continue to exist. The remarks of the teacher are as follows: "There has been much in my connection with this school that has been very pleasant to me. The majority of my pupils have been respectful and kind, and have shown a deep interest in study, and in many I see marked improvement. One thing which has particularly pleased me in the last term, has been a desire to understand the subjects about which they were studying; not merely for the sake of what they should seem to know at examination, but for the actual use it should be to them. I think they have endeavored to be rather than seem. There is room for much improvement in many particulars. The attendance record speaks for itself. There have been a great many instances of tardiness. It seems to me that in this, the parents of the children are chiefly responsible. And for the future good of the school, and the children, in whom I feel a very deep interest, I ask that hereafter teachers shall be cordially supported by parents and all concerned, and if the teachers have objectionable modes of government, that they be reasoned with, before it be made a subject of town scandal."

The judgment of your committee upon the school may be expressed as follows:

1. Miss Underwood is a highly conscientious and capable teacher. She is not content with dull routine in the school-room, but aspires earnestly after the best methods, and the greatest improvement, both mental and moral, of her pupils. The order was not what it should be, and yet she taught a good school, and if she had been properly sustained by the whole district, it would have been a valuable one to all the scholars.

2. It is nevertheless true that experience proves the importance of having a male teacher in this district during the winter term. For younger scholars a female teacher is superior; but for boys of the age of the oldest who attend this school, the authority of a male teacher is ordinarily needful.

3. The chief trouble arises, not from the teachers, but from ourselves. When all, or nearly all the citizens of this district can be united in determining that the authority of the teacher and the rules of the school shall be maintained, and not before then, can we have a first-class school. Suppose a parent, or other citizen, is dissatisfied with the teacher's management: is the proper course to denounce the teacher in public places, where his own children and other children will hear him? Not unless he wishes to ruin the school. The proper course is to visit the school, and if he is then dissatisfied, to converse privately with the teacher. And it should be a first principle with every good citizen, that so long as a teacher occupies her position, she is entitled to his support. The best of teachers, too, may be discouraged and thwarted, if parents will not co-operate in maintaining good rules. Take, for instance, the matter of tardiness. The number of instances of tardiness during the past year has been (we blush to record it) during the summer term, 138; winter term, 320! During the winter term the number of scholars was 37, of whom only one has the honorable report of not having been absent one half day. In Burnap district, with eleven pupils, two were not absent one half day; in Burnt Hill district, with twenty-one pupils during the winter term, six were not absent one half day; in Millville, out of twenty-eight pupils, four have the same good report; and in some other districts the attendance has been fully as praiseworthy. Parents of this district, are you content to have other districts surpass you so greatly in these respects? Could you teach a good school if such irregularity were allowed? Can we not have an honorable enthusiasm aroused, which will lead to an immediate and thorough change?

Many of the scholars have done themselves great credit during the year, by diligence and good scholarship. New desks have been put into the school-room, the school-house painted, and other repairs made. Through the kind effort of friends, curtains and a new clock have also been obtained.

Lower Department.—Both terms taught by Miss MARY HOLMES, who took a deep interest in the improvement of her scholars. She obtained a number of Wilson's School Charts, which aided to secure the attention of the children. Her animation of manner, and kindness in the treatment of her pupils, secured in return their affection and improvement.

DISTRICT No. 15.—GORE.

There was but one term, taught by Mrs. BAKER, an experienced teacher. Good order was maintained, and good improvement made in the several branches taught, although the school is small and lacking in many of the elements of inspiration possessed by larger and more advanced schools.

DISTRICT No. 16.—DAVISVILLE.

Miss M. ANNIE ALLISON taught both terms with complete success. The order was about as near perfect as it is permitted to mortals here below. Not a whisper during either term! Bravo! scholars. The banner school for order is No. 16. You have honestly gained it. Now keep it. The instruction was as perfect as the order. All pertaining to the school was of one pattern. Every class was thoroughly taught. What was learned will never need to be unlearned. The evidences of an increased interest in the district are plainly seen in the window-shades, the newly papered walls and a set of Guyot's school maps. You have done well. Go on! Now new seats and a painted room.

DISTRICT No. 17.—MILLVILLE.

Summer term taught by Miss P. C. JONES, who, as in former terms, gave excellent satisfaction. As we received no notice of the opening or close of the school, we are unable to speak more particularly.

Winter term, taught by Mr. HARRY C. HADLEY. Mr. Hadley has himself earnest feelings as to the importance of thorough education, and labored diligently, and with a good degree of success, to inspire those feelings in his pupils. Especially he sought to lead them to enquire into the reasons of things, and not to be content with going over them as a matter of dull routine. In many of the scholars a decided improvement was evident during the term. We trust this district will, during the coming year, adorn the walls of their new school-house with a set of Guyot's Outline Maps. They have done well in the interest manifested in the school. Let their motto be "Constant Progress."

DISTRICT No. 18.—COLLEGE.

Miss MARILLA HAWLET, of Bradford, taught the summer term. Good order was maintained, and fair improvement made.

Miss MARY E. COLBY taught the winter term. It gives us pleasure to be able to speak of this school in terms of high commendation. The closing examination evinced much labor on the part of the teacher and scholars. The examination in mental arithmetic showed intellects susceptible of high culture in the arts and sciences of mathematics. We hope the district appreciate the services of Miss Colby enough to secure them for the coming year; and hope it will also take steps at once towards uniting with No. 10.

DISTRICT No. 19.—MIRICK.

No summer school. The winter school was kept by Mr. OLIVER A. NEWTON, of Henniker. This was Mr. Newton's first attempt. He entered upon his duties with a determination to succeed. He aimed to be thorough and practical in his instruction. Good order was preserved, and from what we can learn the school was a success in every particular. A severe rain storm prevented us from being present at the examination, but the report of the Prudential Committee is, that the scholars and teacher acquitted themselves commendably.

DISTRICT No. 20.—ROBY'S CORNER.

Two terms of seven and a half weeks each, taught by Miss IDA F. BARNARD, of Sutton. This school, though small, is a pleasant one. A spirit of good order, industry and desire for improvement seems to prevail. The past year has been no exception in this respect. Miss Barnard, who is a new teacher, has made a good beginning. She both controlled and instructed the school exceedingly well. During the second term, among the seven scholars from Warner, (there were also five from Sutton) there were only seven instances of tardiness. This was doing well; let them strive to do still better.

DISTRICT No. 21.—HOWE.

Winter term only—Miss ANN M. PIERCE, teacher, a young lady possessing many fine qualities for an excellent teacher. The school commenced late in the season, and is yet in session, but from what we have learned from enquiry we predict a successful termination. We would remind the district that their school-house needs a little purification. The disgusting objects on the walls of the room are enough to contaminate the minds of any scholar, and sicken the sensibilities of any young lady of refinement. The house in its present condition is a shame and disgrace to the district.

DISTRICT No. 22.—NEW-MARKET.

Summer term taught by Miss Mary C. Colby, who failed in no respect, but made it most evident that when a district gets a good teacher the best way is to retain her as long as possible. But the district failed to do this, and placed the winter school under the instruction of Miss MARILLA HOWLETT, who was disposed to do her duty, but her efforts to secure order were not very successful, and the interest of her pupils in their appropriate work was slight.

But one term, taught by Miss MINNIE L. BARTLETT, and was her first experience. Miss B. has some qualities very desirable in a teacher. She secured the good will of her pupils. At the first visit we found order deficient. At the close there was some improvement, but still room for more. The habits of earnest study are wanting. Some progress was made, but success was not complete.

GENERAL REMARKS.

On the 22d of December, the Annual Meeting of the Merrimack County Educational Association was held in the Town Hall. The afternoon was occupied by interesting discussions, which were continued in the evening, when an address was also given by Mr. Hardy, Superintendent of Public Instruction. On one evening of the following week, a lecture was given by Prof. Orcutt, of West Lebanon, on "School Discipline." These meetings were quite well attended, but it would give a new impulse to the cause of education if our citizens generally would come out, and crowd the hall on such occasions.

During the early part of January, a meeting was held in the Town Hall one evening, of the schools from several districts, for an exhibition of their progress in reading and declamation. The exercises were highly creditable to both teachers and pupils, and interesting to the large audience. Since that time, Mr. S. T. Conlee, of Hanover, has given instruction to a class in elocution. Everything of this kind tends to increase the interest in good reading, which is one of the most important branches of education.

The National Series of Readers and Spellers has during the year been introduced into all the schools of the town. Some of the questions in the New Hampshire School Register are these: "What books of reference belong to the school? What Mural Maps and Charts? Has the school a Globe or other apparatus?" It is to our discredit that in most of our districts the reply must be "None of these important helps to a good school are owned." In Districts No. 9 and 16, during the past year, sets of Guyot's wall maps have been purchased at a cost of between $13 and $14, and will be a permanent improvement to those schools. The knowledge of Geography which pupils will thus acquire, and retain all their lives, is far more clear and correct than it could otherwise be. In many of our districts, let some one person set out resolutely to obtain money enough to purchase for the school a set of wall maps, or a Webster's Dictionary, and he will succeed. All that is needed is some one who instead of waiting for others, is willing to make the effort himself.

Respectfully submitted.
