REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the Members of the School Board:

The year ending June 30, 1922, and covered by this, my third annual report, is marked by definite changes in organization and improvement in building equipment.

Organization

The maintenance of a junior school at the Mills to accommodate the fourteen seventh and eighth grade pupils of the town relieved crowded conditions in the Corser Hill school, enabled several pupils to accomplish sufficient work for double promotion, and exempted the town from payment of junior high school tuitions. Of the nine pupils enrolled in the seventh grade four received promotion to the eighth, two received partial promotion to the ninth grade (first year high school), and three received full promotion to high school. Two of the five eighth grade pupils left school during the year; the three remaining gained full promotion to high school.

The organization of the other three schools on a basis of six instead of eight grades considerably reduced the expense for teachers' salaries.

Teachers Employed 1921-22

School and Name	Professional training	Previous experience	Salary annual rate
Bashan Plymouth Catherine Mock	Summer	None	$600.00
Corser Hill Mattie L. Reardon	None	27 years	650.00
Mills (junior) Elsie M. Gove	Keene graduate	8 years	850.00
Putney Hill Sara B. Pope	Plymouth Summer	None	600.00

Building Improvement

The changes made in the Corser Hill schoolhouse place it in a leading group of remodeled one-room rural school buildings. In type of heating, lighting, and toilet facilities it compares favorably with similar buildings in other progressive communities of the state. The attachment of woodshed and toilet to the main building, so that entrance is made directly from the schoolroom, has proved of much value in maintaining the health and consequently the regular attendance of school children. If an enrollment of the present number, twenty-four pupils, is to continue, the installation of a second chemical toilet would add much to the convenience of the pupils.

There is greatly needed at Corser Hill a suitable teachers' desk with adequate facilities for the filing of pupils' notebooks, drill papers, etc. Individual and adjustable desks for the pupils would be an asset to the health and efficiency of the school. In some communities these facilities have been given by an interested individual as a memorial to a family or to a group of old schoolmates.

In addition to minor repairs a chemical toilet has been placed in the main building of the Bashan school. This removes the worst condition of outbuildings among the schools of Webster.

Putney Hill is now the only school in session where outside toilet facilities are continued. These with some minor repairs and painting are well kept and satisfactory. I find this schoolroom now the most difficult and irregular in heating, and would recommend that at a cost not exceeding fifty dollars there be installed a heater jacket and ventilating flue similar to those in use at Corser Hill.

Attendance

The total school enrollment of Webster children was seventy. Six of these attended the Hopkinton high school and one the Warner high school. There was also one tuition pupil from Warner enrolled at Corser Hill.

Attendance 1921-22

Instruction

Distinct changes in instruction were confined to the junior school. Elementary agriculture was given to the combined classes of the seventh and eighth grades. This was correlated with a course in every-day science and included the study of soils and other plant food sources, history and application of farm and household appliances, and scientific methods of food preservation and marketing. Simple sewing projects in completion of club work were conducted with the girls. Simple home and school appliances were made by the boys of the manual training class. Their final project was a large book and supply closet made of hard wood and now in use at the Putney Hill school. It may be interesting to know that the material had been available but the Putney Hill school had waited three years for a builder of the much needed closet. To the boys of the junior school belong the credit of solving the problem.

The study of American history and civics and language drill work followed the same course as that of the corresponding elementary grades. Extra period drill was given in geographical location of current events, in spelling and in penmanship. Daily instruction in mathematics included applied arithmetic, algebra of the equation in problem solution, and the use of concrete geometry in the solution of arithmetic problems of dimension.

When twelve or more seventh and eighth grade pupils can be enrolled in the same school, I feel convinced that the junior school is an educational asset to the town. With an enrollment of less than twelve pupils such a school necessitates a large cost per pupil and is of doubtful educational advantage.

Health

Since the report of last year nineteen corrective treatments have been secured.

Following is the report of the medical inspection made by Dr. L. H. Cogswell.

Year	1921-22
Number of pupils examined	43
Number of teachers examined	4
Defects
Defective vision	5
Defective hearing	3
Anaemia	1
Cardiac disease	1
Pediculosis	3
Defective teeth	29
Hypertrophied tonsils	9
Unvaccinated (without proper excuse)	3

The fact that over 61 percent of those examined have defective teeth leads me to repeat a recommendation made last year that some provision be made to bring dental treatment within the reach and means of the school children. In the majority of homes I find the parents able and willing to pay for the necessary treatment if it can be brought into the town. A dental clinic maintained by the local Red Cross or Community Club for a period of three or more days each year would contribute much to the mental and physical efficiency of those who go out from the schools.

Conclusion

As I travel back and forth among your schools and catch the gleam of faces young but eager in their tasks I have a feeling that your teachers are building well that which makes for men and women. I want to commend these teachers for the splendid professional spirit in which they have accepted my criticisms and have adopted suggestions. Their suggestions have also been of value to me. It has been a pleasure to share with the School Board and other citizens some part in the progress of your schools.

Respectfully submitted,

GEO. H. HARMON,
Superintendent of Schools.
