There have been nine schools taught by fifteen different teachers, one male and fourteen females. In the selection of teachers the preference has been given to those living in town, other things being equal. The highest wages paid any teacher, $48 per month; the lowest, $20. Paid male teacher, $28 per month. Average wages per month for female teachers, $27.22. The average length of schools exceeds those of last year by eight weeks, not including No. 12 in charge of Troy, and two weeks in No. 7 paid from unexpended money belonging to district No. 7.

White's Arithmetics, introduced in 1878, have been exchanged for Harper's. For the past two years, at least, there has been a strong feeling on the part of our best teachers that new Arith-metics should be placed in the hands of their scholars. The series selected is in two books, and well adapted, it is believed, to the wants of our schools, while it is furnished by the publishers at a less price than the old series of three books. In making the change care was taken to avoid any unnecessary expense, and so in some of the schools the elder scholars, who were about finishing Arithmetic, were allowed to go on in White's. At the beginning of the next year Harper's will be the only Arithmetic used. A copy of Brands' Physiology has been placed in each school for the guide of the teacher in giving the scholars a general exercise in Physiology. In this way those too young to study the subject from a text-book are enabled to get a general knowledge of the structure of their bodies, and the pernicious effects of narcotics and alcoholic stimulants on both body and mind.

The text-books now in use are Lippincott's Readers, Swinton's Speller, Harper's Arithmetics, Harper's Geographies, Hutchison's and Brands' Physiologies, Higginson's Young Folks History of the United States and Swinton's Grammars. It has seemed very desirable to the School Board that the teachers of the different schools should meet together from time to time and discuss matters having reference to the best methods of teaching.

In this way it is thought our teachers will come into fuller sympathy with each other, the younger and less experienced, especially, get assistance which will tend to bring our schools to a common level, and make them what they ought to be, helps to the Conant High School, while at the same time they will be benefited by that school. For various reasons only one such meeting was held during the year. It is to be hoped that in the future it may be found practicable to have these meetings as often as once each term. The School Board in the discharge of their duties have tried to keep several things distinctly in view: first that the interests of all the scholars in town were committed to them: second that some things must be learned by trial, and so they should make no more changes in the schools than the present circumstances imperatively demanded; and that they should acquaint themselves so thoroughly with the wants of the different parts of the town as to know beyond reasonable doubt if the changes made were for the best, if others were required, and if so what they were. Such a course, it was felt, would give those who should have charge of the schools next year a basis to start from that would enable them to go on without undoing any of the work of the present year. Accordingly schools 6, 11, and 13 were discontinued. An effort was made to unite 12 with Marlboro' and Troy. This failing it was given over to Troy for the summer, Jaffrey paying one third of the expense. The school was closed for the rest of the year, but provision was made for the scholars elsewhere. It seems that in some way a school ought to be supported at this point by the adjoining towns.

Although a truant officer was appointed who looked up many delinquents, yet it is plain that not all have been in school who ought to have been there by the requirements of the law and for their own good. From an economical or moral point of view, neither town or parents can afford to let children grow up in ignorance, even if they remain from school to work. With our present arrangement of schools, a little foresight on the part of parents and others will enable them to comply with the demands of the school law, and not have all their children in school at the same time. Experience, however, makes it sufficiently evident that there are a class of children who will not go to school only as they are compelled. A judicious exercise of the law in such cases is demanded for the good of all concerned.

Experience, too, shows that, with one or two exceptions, outside of the villages it is not practicable to run the schools far into the winter unless it be in special cases for the older scholars unable to attend in the summer and fall. With care in the adjustment of terms, the instances will be rare when the proper amount of school may not be secured in the parts of the town where the roads are the worst before the deep snows come. There were reasons, not likely often to occur, for long winter schools the present year. The second term of No. 1 was interrupted by the illness of the teacher, Miss Runnells, who being unable to resume her duties was succeeded by Miss Slason. The second term of No. 3 closed on account of whooping cough. The summer terms of Nos. 8 and 9 were cut short by the illness of the teachers, Miss Pierce and Miss Crowe. Hence these schools shortened in the summer and autumn ran later into the winter than the Board at first intended. Other schools suffered more or less from whooping cough. This together with the severe weather kept many from school who under other circumstances would not have been absent.

The School Board see no further changes to be made in the location of schools unless the old districts 4, 5, and a part of 6 can be better accommodated by concentrating at some point near the meeting of the roads to the west of Addison Adams. Such repairs have been made on the school houses as necessity required. The amount of money expended in this way and for other purposes appears in the statistical report. With comparatively slight expense our school houses may be made comfortable for another year. The Board should have the means of furnishing the school houses, not already supplied, with globes, outline maps, and text-books for the teacher's desk. The expense for these would be but a few dollars, the advantage to the scholars in case of globes, specially, beyond estimate. It is a matter of regret to the members of the School Board that not more parents have visited the schools and seen for themselves the work which was being done. It will greatly assist those having the schools in charge if the parents will use all proper effort to see that their children are neither absent or tardy, and teach them that it is the part of good scholars to promptly and heartily comply with all the regulations of the school.

It must be evident to those who have given attention to our schools during the year that the scholars, as a whole, have had better facilities for education than in the past. One of the Board, who has acted as Superintendent of schools since 1879 with the exception of a single year, is happy to say that in his opinion he has never seen the schools as effective for a given time as they have been for the school year now closing. By generous sympathy and cooperation on the part of all concerned there is every reason to think that during the coming year our schools may increase in efficiency as much as they have in the past year.

Cash paid for books,		19 50
Balance cash on hand,		132 38
		$263 63

Books in the library at the date of the last report,	1024
There have been added during the year as follows :
By purchase.	33
From old library,	3
From United States Government,	3
From State of New Hampshire,	2
From Rev. M. T. Runnells,	2
From Rev. Wm. W. Livingston,	1
	1068
Total number of volumes in the library,	1068

After paying subscriptions to periodicals for the current year there will remain a balance of some $100.00, for the purchase of new books. The magazines for the past year have not been bound, neither have any books been rebound. To meet this expense of binding, and the other necessary expenses, and leave a margin for a few of the more important books desirable for the library, will require an appropriation at least equal to that of last year—$200.00.

The circulation of books for the year has averaged about one hundred and twenty-five volumes a week. The trustees congratulate the town on having the beginning of a good library. And while they do not think all who have taken books have always made the wisest selection, they are happy to say that they know some of our young people have acquired a taste for wholesome reading, to be traced directly to our library which speaks well for their future.

Your trustees had hoped that before the time came for making their report something definite would be known as to the amount the town might reasonably expect to realize from the Parker legacy, but they have no certain information.
