STATE ROAD ACCOUNT.

Under Chapter 29 of the Laws of 1899, towns are required to raise one-fourth of one per cent of their valuation for maintenance of roads, provided, however, that no town is required to raise an amount exceeding $50 per mile of road. The valuation of the towns for 1908 and the actual mileage of roads in each town cannot be definitely stated at this date, hence the amounts opposite "A" and "C" below are approximate only.

Subject to the above statement, the following amounts relate to the town of Warner:

B. Additional amount if town applies for state aid,	350 50
C. Total minimum amount required to be raised for highway purposes if town applies for state aid,	2103 46

If no application for state aid is made in 1908, the town is required under Section 3 of Chapter 35, Laws of 1905, to set apart and expend for permanent improvement the sum of $701.00.

If the town does apply for state aid under the above-mentioned law of 1905, a joint fund for the town is formed, the items of which are as follows:

Set apart by town under Section 3,	$701 00
Set apart by town under Section 4,	350 50
Apportioned by state under Section 5,	420 40

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

There has been no general epidemic of any nature in our town the present year. One case of diphtheria was reported in the fall; it proved to be a mild form and the family was released from quarantine after two weeks.

In all cases requiring disinfection the matter has been attended to with disinfectants approved by the State Board of Health.

The water of our public supply has been analyzed at different times during the year at the State laboratory and has been reported to be in good condition. Private supplies from wells have also been analyzed and in some cases have been reported to be unsafe for drinking purposes. The water from old wells has come to be regarded with suspicion as a large per cent. of samples tested has proved bad.

We have noticed an increasing interest among our inhabitants in matters pertaining to health, and conditions that have been considered unsanitary have frequently been reported to the board by interested citizens.

Pure air, pure water, pure food properly prepared, hygienic care of the person and the wearing of clothing adapted to the erratic changes of the weather are matters that should have the thoughtful attention of every one.

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Education does not lie altogether between book covers, and in small schools with small classes the stimulus of emulation is almost wholly lacking. The maintaining of schools where there are but three or four pupils is to be deplored, and should only be done where conveyance to another school is impossible. Association with other children and a new trend of thought are valuable educational assets and necessary adjuncts in the moulding of character.

The matter of grading is of utmost importance and an absolute necessity to the best advancement of pupils. To properly grade a school of three or four pupils is difficult, and very trying to the pupil who, by himself, constitutes a class, a grade, and must work alone with no stimulus except his own ambition, and this, alas, is often lacking.

Under the supervision of our experienced and efficient superintendent, Mr. J. A. MacDougall, the pupils are getting well in line and are being graded and placed where the subject matter will be best assimilated.

The children are now started on a definite course which, when duly completed, will give admission to the high school, and leave them in condition to make the best of whatever opportunities may come to them.

This cannot be accomplished without a well considered plan of study from the primary school up through all grades to, and including, the high school.

In this line of work reading naturally comes first, and it is on this subject that much of the work of the past year has been done. The methods employed have given excellent results and marked progress has been made. The children are as far advanced in reading in one term under present methods of instruction as they were in a year under the old methods.

Music has been taught in the village schools the last 2 terms by Miss Lincoln, who kindly gave her services, only charging expenses of conveyance. These music lessons have been most enjoyable and helpful to the pupils of these three schools. All have done well, while the progress of some has been marked.

The conveyance of pupils from a distance to village schools has been satisfactorily accomplished. The children have been far more comfortable, not to say less exposed to danger, than when plodding alone along the wooded roads to reach the small schoolhouse in the forest, and they have also gained much by association with others of different temperaments and ideas.

During the past school year of 30 weeks schools have been maintained as follows: Davisville, Schodac, Lower Warner, Burnt Hill, Waterloo and the three village schools have had three terms of 10 weeks each. Melvin's and Collins have had two terms of 10 weeks each; Liberty Union and Joppa one term of 10 weeks, the pupils being conveyed to village schools during the rest of the time. Tory Hill pupils have also been conveyed to village schools through the entire school year.

Last year Hopkinton, Bradford and Warner composed a supervisory district. This year Bradford dropped out, and the town district of Concord united with Warner and Hopkinton to form a district. Mr. MacDougall was retained as superintendent, and under his careful and intelligent supervision our schools are showing the good results of consolidation and systematic instruction along advanced lines.

Pupils often lose much valuable time from not being properly classed, and this classification is one of the great benefits to be derived from expert supervision.

The school board has held monthly meetings and has met at such other times as the needs of the schools demanded, and several teachers' meetings have been held. The work has been entirely harmonious, superintendent, school board and teachers working together for the benefit of the pupils, and it is not claiming too much to state that even in this short time excellent results have been obtained.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT.

TO THE SCHOOL BOARD OF WARNER:

I herewith submit my second annual report as Superintendent of schools of Warner.

In my report of last year I gave a brief outline of what I considered the chief work of a superintendent, also stated briefly my general plan of work. This plan I have followed during the past year and beg leave to report a good degree of progress. The work has been more nearly systematized; the teachers are working along the line of a common plan or programme, and greater stress has been laid upon the work in the more important subjects. Most important of all, the teachers have greatly improved in their methods of teaching.

The plan followed is that outlined in The State Programme of Studies. This programme is excellent, and is used sometimes with slight modifications, by almost every superintendent in the state. It lays particular stress upon reading during the first three years of a child's school life, at the end of which time he should have mastered the mechanics of reading, and should have had sufficient practice to enable him to read smoothly, readily and with understanding any ordinary easy prose. If this be accomplished he can from this time onward make much greater progress with his work. Most of the difficulty which children have with their studies grows out of the difficulty they have in reading this work, and understanding what they read. If one half of a child's mental energy is expended in getting the pronunciation and meaning of common words he can get very little thought out of his reading.

In language and grammar the programme emphasizes the importance of giving the child, during the earlier years of his school life, the ability to express his thoughts in good, plain English, and, in the last years, the fundamentals of English grammar.

In arithmetic, it aims at securing rapidity and accuracy in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division; common and decimal fractions—including the different phases of percentage, as taxes, commission, interest and commercial discount; denominate numbers and the tables of weights and measures and facility in solving easy problems bearing on these and upon practical subjects. Arithmetical puzzles and difficult problems that will seldom, or never, be of practical use to the pupils, are eliminated, or postponed till the last year of the high school when their reasoning powers shall have become stronger.

In writing, the work aims to give the children the ability to write with a fair degree of rapidity in a neat, legible hand. This calls for freedom of movement, rather than beauty of writing, in the lower grades, form and speed coming with practice.

The work in history and geography is designed to give pupils a knowledge of the world and its peoples, with special reference to their relations to the United States. The chief purposes of this work is to develop a healthy patriotism, and to fit boys and girls for good citizenship.

The purpose of the teaching of physiology is to make the children acquainted with their bodies and their common functions; to teach them how to use and care for them, and to teach them the injurious effects of evil habits and of poisonous drugs.

The fact that this programme is so extensively used throughout the state is much in favor of its use in any town, for in school matters no town can afford to stand aloof, and deny responsibility for general educational conditions. If our town neglects to do its duty in providing for the education of its children, other towns will suffer with it for its neglect, for these children soon grow to maturity, and from among them is recruited that class of undesirable citizens who shuffle aimlessly from town to town, finally settling down to send forth another generation of underdeveloped citizens, if not a generation of criminals. Hence if our state is to maintain its high standard of citizenship, each town must perform its full duty.

The aim and object of our work from beginning to end, therefore, is to fit the children to take their places in the world as useful, intelligent citizens, and so far as we can, fit them for whatever measure of success their ambitions and natural qualifications may lead them to acquire.

As I stated in my report a year ago reading was the subject calling for the most attention, and through the year we have worked to remedy this condition, and the results have been fairly satisfactory. We have almost entirely eliminated from among the beginners the "stupid" pupil who "cannot learn to read." Occasionally there is such a child who is mentally deficient, or very slow in developing, but they are very rare. The most of such cases are the result of poor teaching during the child's first years in school. The child who does not learn to read during the first three years of his school life will in all probability never learn it, and, if he does not learn to read, other avenues of learning are closed to him.

After the child has become fairly proficient in reading most of his work should be for the purpose of gaining information and of making himself familiar with good literature. A certain portion of his time should be devoted to securing good expression, but all the child's school work, and all his home reading, tend to make him more proficient in this greatest of all human invention—the recording, translating and communicating of thought. In this matter we have made good progress. The beginners do better than those of last year at the same time. Each grade, in fact, shows greater power than its predecessors of a year ago.

In language and grammar the same thing is true. We less frequently hear pupils express a dislike for this work. Language is naturally correlated with reading, and, in school work, must be so correlated.

The arithmetic work is much better than last year. This is due partly to better teaching and partly to a change in text-books. The thoroughly trained expert teacher can teach a subject and get good results, regardless of text-books, but the untrained teacher needs the best.

This brings me to the most important phase of a superintendent's work—finding the right teachers for village schools. "As the teacher, so is the school."

The highest salary paid to any of our teachers below the high school is $300 a year; the lowest $180; while the average is $250.80. For this salary it is not possible to get trained teachers with successful experience. For $280 to $300 we can sometimes get recent graduates of some normal or training school; possibly a graduate who has not been successful elsewhere, but who is quite likely to do well under changed conditions. In either case the school authorities take a risk. Then there remain for us two classes—first, those who have taught, possibly for years, but who, on account of lack of tact or good judgment, or, through lack of education, and failure to study and make good this lack, have failed to hold a position for any length of time, but have been moving from town to town, doing some things fairly well, but others very poorly (though sometimes proficient in hiding their failures under a cloak of popularity;) second, the promising, untrained high school graduates who have had experience in district schools. These young women have acquired poise and good judgment in their district school work, and for this reason are most likely to succeed in the grammar schools. But in the primary schools where the demand is for good methods of teaching rather than executive power the recent graduate of a normal or training school is to be preferred.

The fact that our New Hampshire Normal School sends out annually only one graduate for every eleven new teachers in the state renders our chances of getting a New Hampshire normal school girl very remote. Finally the choice of a teacher is made largely through the young woman's apparent force of character and personality.

A young woman, to be a good teacher, must have the power of leadership. If this power is natural, her task of learning to teach is made much easier, but, whether natural or acquired, she must have it or fail. To many young women, the necessary self assertiveness is repugnant, but this feeling must be overcome. She must assume the leadership of her school, and direct its activities, both of the school as a whole, and of its individual members. Hence good students do not always make good teachers. Sometimes the stress of the position takes the young woman's nerve, and control is gone before she realizes it; in others this same stress will call into activity latent powers to a surprising degree. It is impossible to always be sure beforehand which result will follow.

In our district schools we must generally employ recent, untrained high school graduates and train them, as fast as we can, into efficient teachers.

This has been a very important part of my work, and to do it I have visited the schools as often as possible, watching carefully for opportunities to show the teacher where she might improve her work; taking the class for a few minutes to show her how to teach the subject better. After the class has been dismissed, I have usually spent a few minutes in pointing out to the teacher her failures and methods of avoiding them, and in helping her to arrange her work to the best advantage for economy in time and for securing results.

In general I have found teachers responsive to these criticisms and suggestions. They have come to realize that their work is not "keeping school;" neither is it listening to the children's efforts at telling what they learned from their books, and scolding them for their failures, but that their work is to teach—to so present the subject to the class that the minds of of the children can receive it.

Along these lines we have made a good degree of progress. Towards this end teachers, school board and parents have aided by their loyal support and co-operation and for this I offer them my sincere and hearty thanks.

J. A. MACDOUGALL, Superintendent of Schools.

SIMONDS FREE HIGH SCHOOL.

The school year has been one of advancement in several directions. There has been no change in the faculty. Principal C. L. Joy has continued his faithful and efficient administration of the school and its interests, which he successfully began last year under especially exacting conditions. He has won the respect of pupils and townspeople as an instructor earnestly devoted to his calling. Miss Marian D. Leach continues to show ability and fidelity in her work as assistant, which has been such as to cause her to receive promising opportunities to teach elsewhere. Mrs. Florence T. Davis has met the expectation awakened by her work last year, in succeeding Miss Teasdale in the Commercial department. She is a teacher of tact, experience and skill. Her methods of instruction have increased the value of her department to her pupils.

A sermon before the graduating class was preached in the Cong'l church, June 9, 1907, before a large audience, by the Rev. B. R. Harris of Bradford, the pastor of the Baptist church conducting the services. On June 13 entrance examinations were given 28 candidates, of whom 5 passed the required average of 70 per cent in the seven studies, and 9 in three or more studies. At the fall examination, August 29, there were 12 candidates, of whom 5 passed the requirements and 6 were admitted on conditions. On June 14 a class of 10 received diplomas in three departments, Latin-Scientific 2, English 5, and Commercial 3. The annual alumni entertainment and reunion held in the evening was attended by a large number. Music was furnished by Nevers's 2d Reg't orchestra of Concord, and Edward Elliott of Boston gave a successful rendition of "The Lion and the Mouse" by Charles Klein.

The total number of pupils connected with the school during the past year is 88, young men 44, young women 44. The attendance has been as follows: Spring term, 1907, 36 young men 33 young women; fall term, beginning Sept. 3, 34 young men, 40 young women, of whom 20 were new students and 25 tuition students from Sutton, Bradford, East Concord, West Concord, Webster, Sunapee, Dunbarton and Newbury; winter term, 33 young men, 40 young women. It will be noticed that there has been the loss of only one pupil since the school opened last September. This may be attributed in part to the uniformly good health which fortunately has prevailed among the scholars during this year.

The lyceum continues to furnish an opportunity for social and literary training and has been well supported. Two entertainments by outside talent have been given in the town hall. A junior recital was held April 30, which was a worthy successor of preceding recitals. These have become a popular feature of the school year. Athletic sports have received due attention. But, in this direction, the great need of a gymnasium for practice work during the winter months is keenly realized.

The school has received several gifts during the year for which in its behalf I desire to make grateful acknowledgment. From the Alumni association $25 for pictures and from the class of 1908 for the same $14, from Mrs. Emily R. Dow $15 towards the encyclopedia fund and from the lyceum $15 towards the same, and biological specimens from Mr. Joy.

Special appropriations have wisely been made for the better equipment of the laboratory. New shelving has been put in, old instruments repaired, new ones bought, including a first-class compound microscope, the chemical supplies rearranged and labelled, and a beginning made for a biological cabinet. A fine edition of the International Encyclopedia, 21 volumes, a standard work and very much needed for reference, has been purchased. The committee seconded the efforts of the officers and school by a generous appropriation. The several new pictures, carefully selected by a committee, will add very much to the attractiveness of the school room. It would be a source of encouragement and increased interest in our work if parents and friends of pupils would visit the school more frequently and see these improvements.

Recent graduates of the school are pursuing courses of study at Durham, Massachusetts Agricultural college, Yale and Ohio State university.

The curriculum of studies remains the same as last year with these exceptions. French is a required study in the second year English, and English and mediæval history in the third year

English; rhetorical are required of juniors and seniors one period a week during the year; political economy has been added to the commercial studies and a third year offered commercial students. More emphasis and time have been given to mathematics and to distinctively English branches.

The need of a better preparation of candidates for admission, especially in English, arithmetic and physiology, will be apparent from the per cents obtained last year. Of the 28 applicants in June, only 6 obtained more than 70 per cent. in arithmetic, 10 in grammar, 11 in physiology and 5 in spelling. A preparatory year would enable us to meet the requirements of the present much better. So also, on this account, the two years' Commercial course, to be more serviceable to its graduates, ought to be preceded by one or two years with the studies in the English course.

The requirements made by the state department have occasioned much study and planning in order to keep our school on the accepted list. The necessity of teaching certain studies a definite number of times each week, and also of including these studies in the several courses, obliges us to divide the time during school hours into eight periods daily. This calls for constant concentration and frequent change of classes on the part of teachers and scholars alike. Our teachers find nearly all this time in school taken up with class work. We cannot very well change studies or periods and still offer three courses. The need of more teachers was mentioned in last year's report. This need is more apparent today. An addition to the faculty would enable us to do more thorough and satisfactory work. It would lessen the tension which comes from efforts to meet new conditions. The teachers are not expected by the state department to teach more than eight periods daily. This limit has been reached. And, while, in case of addition to our teaching force, some arrangement for another room would be necessary, I think this need could be met.

The school has certainly made progress during the year. But, in these days, no educational institution can rely wholly upon its past record. It must meet the calls of its own day. You will wisely plan for the future if this is done. As a separate district from the common school district of our town, and so not included in the supervisor's jurisdiction, it makes it more necessary to keep our school abreast of the times in teaching forces, courses offered, text books, methods and equipment.

By doing so it will continue to meet the needs of a constituency wider than Warner, and preserve the school's worthy reputation for service in education.

In concluding this report, somewhat lengthy from the variety of the information desired by the school's constituency, I wish to express an appreciation for the co-operation of pupils, officers and friends of the school in the year's work.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. J. CLOUES, Superintendent.

REPORT OF LIBRARIAN FOR YEAR ENDING FEB. 14, 1908.

To the Trustees of the Pillsbury Free Library:

You are so much in touch with the library, it seems almost unnecessary to do more than give you the statistics and remind you of things that you already know.

Of course the great event of the year was the installation of electric lights, so long talked of and so much needed. Those persons who have so often wondered that this was not done before will be surprised to learn that we are not so far behind some of the big libraries—Concord, for instance, has only this last year put electric lights into its city library.

Next in importance are the new catalogue (or the fourth supplement), which came out in December with about 900 titles, and the purchase of a fine up-to-date atlas in two volumes, which contains not only the usual maps, but a vast amount of information which one would ordinarily have to look for in gazetteers or cyclopedias.

Other valuable acquisitions are An Index to Poetry and Recitations, containing over thirty thousand titles, and Doctor Conn's New Hampshire Surgeons in the War of the Rebellion.

Among the 156 books purchased are some of exceptional value—Race Life of the Aryan Peoples, the Literary History of Philadelphia, Mexico in the Twentieth Century, the Life of Isabella Bird Bishop, most of whose volumes of travel are in our library, and two of individual interest, The Pulse of Asia, by Ellsworth Huntington, and Gen. Eaton's most enjoyable reminiscences.

The request for books about the South has been complied with as far as possible.

Unlike the custom of some libraries, whose books are bought only once a year and of those that wait for "marked down" and "bargain sales," this library keeps up the satisfactory practice of buying several times a year. Our patrons expect recent books. A sharp lookout is kept for announcements, and it often happens that orders are sent in before the books are fairly "out."

The accession catalogue numbers 9,630 volumes.

We have had the usual Government and State publications sent, and 25 books given by individuals—Hon. F. W. Rollins, W. B. Flanders, Mrs. C. A. Pierson, Miss Annie L. Sawyer, a friend, Mrs. Blanche Nelson Abbott, Mrs. Oliver Bailey, Wm. B. Howland of New York city, M. B. Harris, and those who never fail to make an annual donation, Mrs. J. D. Bradley, Mrs. M. T. Ela, Paul T. Page, Dr. Page, F. M. Colby and E. H. Carroll. Pamphlets have been received from the U. S. Government, N. H. College of Agriculture, Mrs. Olive Rand Clarke, Mrs. Mary N. Chase of Andover, and Rev. Mr. Cloues.

306 books have been used for reference in the rooms. Cards have been issued to 424 persons. 6624 books and 836 magazines have been taken out for home reading.

The original purpose of loaning magazines to those who can not come to the reading room is being carried out more than ever, many persons at a distance availing themselves of the privilege.

One fact worthy of note is the increasing number of children becoming interested in reading. Some come a mile or more, even on the most inclement days, to exchange their books. They are getting to understand more and more that it is their library, as much for them as for the older people.

It is gratifying to have a small boy ask for a book about machinery, and another for a history of the Civil war. One little fellow thinks Hunting Trips of a Ranchman fine, and another became much interested in a recent biography because "the man liked Uncle Remus." They are always respectful, always appreciative, always orderly, and it is a pleasure to have them there. Nothing makes children happier than to be allowed to go into the alcoves, stay as long as they please and select their own books.

We have received from the publishers, Independent Statesman, Weekly Union, Mirror and Farmer, Newport Argus and Spectator, Little Folks, Kearsarge Independent and Times.

Mrs. George Dow has sent the Universalist Leader, Mrs. M. A. Burke Watson's Jeffersonian Magazine, John W. Clement the Christian Science Monthly, Laurence G. Mitchell Our Paper, Miss Harris Our Dumb Animals, and miscellaneous periodicals.

The library subscribed for the Atlantic, Century, Scribner, Forum, Harper's three publications, Collier's Weekly, Cosmopolitan, Ladies' Home Journal, McClure, New England, Outing, Review of Reviews, World's Work, Scientific American, St. Nicholas, and eleven copies of Little Folks.

A report from the two branch stations and the children's branch service is appended.

MARY BARTLETT HARRIS, Librarian.

MELVIN'S MILLS BRANCH STATION.

During the past year, from Feb. 1, 1907, to Feb. 1, 1908, 23 borrowers were served; and the number of books loaned was 250, of periodicals 65—a total of 315.

DAVISVILLE BRANCH STATION.

During the past year, from Feb. 1, 1907, to Feb. 1, 1908, 46 borrowers were served; and the number of books loaned was 519, of periodicals 141—a total of 660.

CHILDREN'S BRANCH SERVICE.

On account of changes in the schools, fewer cabinets have been in use than formerly and so fewer books loaned. During the spring term 11 cabinets were in service, during the fall term 9, and during the winter term 8—and most of these cabinets, outside the central village, were in use during the winter and summer vacations. While the total number of books and magazines loaned during the past year has been less than during the year preceding, the number loaned in some of the schools has increased. The teachers and vacation custodians report the usual interest of the children in the books and magazines.

During the year, from the beginning of the winter vacation in February, 1907, to the end of the winter term in February, 1908, besides the use of books and magazines at the Friday book hour, and in various ways in connection with the school work, 795 books and 271 magazines were loaned for home use—a total of 976.
