Auditors.

REPORT OF ALMONERS OF THE FOSTER FUND

FOR THE YEAR ENDING FEB. 1, 1918.

The twentieth report of the almoners of the John Foster fund in dispensing the annual income of said fund for the distressed and sick of the people of Warner, tells the same story of benevolence and thankfulness as our former reports. Fourteen different families have received aid from this source during the past year, and more than that number of people benefited. We only wish that the amount was larger to be dispensed, for some worthy people have not received what they really needed to be comfortable. Nevertheless, the amount of good the little fund annually does is incalculable, and in many homes there are those to rise up and call the name of John Foster blessed.

The following is a record of receipts and disbursements:

Balance from last year,	227 33
Received from trustees of trust funds,	202 53
		429 86
Disbursements,	222 46
Present balance,	207 40
		429 86

Respectfully submitted,

FRED M. COLBY,
 MARY E. WADSWORTH, } Almoners.
 JOHN B. RAND,

Warner, N. H., Feb. 1, 1918.

This is to certify that we have examined the accounts of the almoners of the Foster fund and find the same correctly cast and properly vouched, with a cash balance on hand of $207.40.

RALPH F. PRATT

To the Trustees of the Pillsbury Free Library:

Friends:—Nearly every year we have something special that sets it apart from other years; this one is marked by two important gifts.

Mr. William D. Chandler of Concord presented the Library with a life-size oil portrait of his father, Hon. William E. Chandler, the most distinguished citizen Warner has ever had. It was painted when the Senator was in the prime of life—at the time he was Secretary of the Navy—and is a very handsome portrait, with a most elegant frame. It is very gratifying that the Senator knew of its final destination and that it was brought here while he was still in town. He and the late Mrs. Chandler felt great interest in the town and the Library. We are under much obligation to Mr. W. D. Chandler for giving the portrait to us, when so many other towns would be more than glad to have it.

The late Mr. John Foster of Manchester left in his will for our Library a complete set of Mark Twain in twenty-three volumes and Charles Dudley Warner's "World's Best Literature," in thirty-one volumes, the finest gift of books we have had since the set of Luther Burbank.

Mr. Foster, like Mr. and Mrs. Chandler, was fond of the town and had given quite a number of books. He often came to the Library and his familiar face has been much missed. Some of us who knew him best associate him with Abou Ben Adhem's "Write me as one who loves his fellow men." One cannot imagine him as having even a hard thought against anyone.

We have also had a box of books from Fred Heath, some of which went right to the table for required readings; some were at once catalogued and others will be of use to some of the advanced pupils in chemistry, geology, etc. Books have been received from Dr. George T. Page, Charles Graham, one unknown, several relating to the war, and the usual public documents.

Last year we were much pleased that our circulation was larger than it had been for a long time. Now we have to report quite a falling off; the number of books given out, 7701, about a thousand less than last year. It is readily accounted for when we remember that in addition to the deaths that have occurred the removals from town and the unusually large number of our people who are away for the winter, and of those who are left many of our most constant readers are doing a great work for the Red Cross.

The number of borrowers has been nearly the same, 490—fifty-eight being new. Many of the families of the lumbermen and those who are here for a short time, avail themselves of the library at once. One family of five took out from five to ten books a week.

We have purchased only 151 books. Our June quarterly allowance was not used on account of the extra expense for the new furnace. So much for the material part.

There is a deal of unwritten history connected with the Library. Let me give a bit of that of last year. When the spring and summer days come and you are reminded of the long tramps you used to take you think of the lines,

"The flower that on the lonely hillside grows

Expects me there when spring its bloom has given,"

And a feeling of sadness comes as you wish you could go again—and then a young friend appears with a happy, smiling face and a big bunch of Mayflowers, larger and pinker blossoms than you ever found; and another comes with violets, and still another with her gift of all the wild flowers she had been able to find; and on one of the dreariest days, cloudy and cold, a box of such lovely flowers as one doesn't often see outside a greenhouse is quietly handed you. And from the same hand later in the season another box of the most delicious fruit; and by and by, to your great surprise, one after another, cans of strawberries and raspberries, with the remark, "I want you to have some of these; I picked and canned them myself."

These are only a few of the pleasant things that come to one, and you feel that after all there are compensations all along through life, and that the pleasures of a Librarian are as interesting as the "Pleasures of Hope" and the "Pleasures of Memory," and you say with the immortal Pippa,

"God's in His heaven, All's right with the world!"

Respectfully submitted,
MARY BARTLETT HARRIS, Librarian.

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD.

During the past school year ten schools have been maintained and the School Board has tried as far as possible to keep 36 weeks of school in each and every case. However, there are schools that have not kept this length of time on account of sickness and reasons beyond our control. In the village, the Grammar, Intermediate and Primary schools were held in the Village school building, and district schools were kept at Davisville, Tory Hill, Lower Warner, Burnt Hill, Schoodac, Joppa and Melvin.

The last school census report showed 169 scholars; of which 71 were boys and 98 were girls. Of that number there were at the four village schools 102 scholars, or some over one-half the total membership during the year.

Four rooms have been maintained in the Village school building instead of three as formerly, which has worked out with good results, and has been of great benefit to the pupils.

The State Program of Studies has been followed by the teachers as far as practicable, and on the whole the work of the scholars has been satisfactory. This program having been recommended for a period of years after thorough investigation, and the teachers having been trained in its use, enables them to accomplish uniform results throughout the State.

Much attention has been given to instruction in Physiology and Hygiene relative to the effect of alcohol and tobacco, and this will be followed up by further lectures. This is also true in the matter of Supplementary Reading matter concerning the Constitution of the United States and New Hampshire, thus enabling the scholars to become familiar with their government and laws.

Since the 1917 appropriation for the use of our schools was most liberal you have a right to ask in what ways we have aimed to make the past year's schooling of increased value to the children.

First, by the purchase of new text-books to replace many that from long usage had become badly soiled, and thus a menace to the health of the children using them. Each year sees a distinct advance in book making and in the adaptation that the writers are making to the needs of student minds. The new geographical readers, the physiologies, the histories and the supplementary readers for all grades, make the work of teacher and student infinitely more attractive than ever before.

The Home Garden Project and Boys' and Girls' Club work deserves mention here since the start came through the schools and also because it is an undertaking that should have the heartiest support, particularly during these years of food shortage. Last year Mr. Bence, whose unflinching interest in all that pertains to the welfare of children gave an incentive to a well-finished piece of work by the offer of cash prizes to the boys and girls whose faithfulness to the work in hand showed the best garden results. Four of the five prizes offered were won by the elementary school pupils. Herbert L. Chase earned the $5 for the best boy's garden and $5 for the best garden whether boy's or girl's. Alfred Anderson earned the second prize of $3 for boys and Marian Davis the second prize of $3 for girls.

The teacher in a little one-room school works under a heavier handicap than many people realize. "Competition is the life of trade," we recognize as a familiar quotation. The teacher in a community and school by herself lacks that competition which is one of the strongest spurs to high and sustained endeavor. This condition, perhaps, can never be entirely overcome, but this year has been somewhat ameliorated by frequent meetings which have given the teachers an opportunity to see each other at work, to compare methods, to discuss the Program of studies, and to develop the spirit of co operation, which is reacting most helpfully upon our schools.

Each year proves the increasing value of medical and dental inspection to our children. It is a matter of regret that the tremendous importance of this part of the work is still very imperfectly understood by so many of our tax-payers. We must constantly bear in mind that unhealth means inefficiency and that wide spread inefficiency in a farming community means less farm produce and a consequent higher cost of living. The habit of unhealth also means a serious deterioration in the human stock of the country. This year our medical inspector in addition to the work required by law is delivering at our regular teachers' meetings a course of lectures on subjects vitally connected with the health of the children. By this method the teachers are kept constantly interested in a sympathetic study of the children and are being trained to do some of the "follow up" work that falls upon a school nurse in towns and cities where one is employed. The teachers, who are becoming sensitive to these health problems must feel that the school children of today are the men and women of tomorrow, and by trying to instill into their minds the great principles of public health, will be doing much for the future of preventive medicine.

The room used for feeding the children at the village building has proved to be of great assistance and help in making it more pleasant for the pupils, and the results noticed by better recitations has been very pleasing.

We have been especially favored in securing Mr. Ralph Pratt as a teacher of drawing, and his faithful work in that direction has interested the scholars, and it is hoped that the work may be carried on in the future.

We have carefully considered conditions of the school houses and each year at least one school house is equipped with modern sanitary surroundings. This is also true in regard to improved facilities as to light and heat, and as far as possible these improvements are being obtained. This is done by removing the windows in front and at the right of the children and placing them at the rear and left, and removing trees that may be obstructing necessary light.

While possibly the placing of snow guards would not come under this report, it might be well to advise the citizens that as voted at the last annual meeting suitable snow guards have been placed on the roof of the village building with good results. The usual fire drill is still part of the routine at the village school building, and should be followed up at various, unexpected times as has been the plan in the past.

Any suggestion will be welcomed, and teachers will be glad to receive visitors who are interested in improving conditions, and the School Board wishes that all parents would come more often and get better acquainted with the teachers and their work. We expect criticisms, but those who do not visit the school are certainly not acquainted, and cannot from hearsay make an honest complaint. As stated in a former report the State Department instructs the School Board as follows:

"There should be but one answer made by the School Board member to a complaining citizen. 'Put your complaint in writing, sign your name to it; our Board will give you a hearing and if you substantiate your charges appropriate action will be taken'."

MEDICAL INSPECTION.

The third medical inspection of school children and teachers of the graded schools in town finds improved general conditions. Modern sanitation, better ventilation, more attention to personal hygiene and extension of the school lunch system have shown appreciable results. Parents are interested, as shown by inquiries and willingness to aid in treatment suggested; teachers are enthused, as evidenced by their suggestions and assistance; and the scholars themselves are eager, as told by questions concerning improvement in their physical condition. These activities tend to create an efficient medical inspection through the co-operation of parents, teachers, scholars and inspector. Medical inspection in the graded schools during the past three years has been of value, and, as expressed by one well versed in educational affairs in town "is productive of more results than could be obtained from supervision."

The following is a summary of the medical inspection work in the graded schools during the past three years. This summary does not include work done in the high school.

	1916	1917	1918
Number of children examined	143	134	136
Defective vision	17	10	22
Defective hearing	14	6	4
Anaemia	4	1	1
Nervous disease,	1	2	2
Hypertrophied tonsils	48	35	23
Adenoids	11	6	1
Defect of breathing	7	4	3
Unvaccinated	51	6	16
Treatment secured		8	8

The number of eye defects is larger than previously, due to the greater proportion of eye conditions among the new teachers, and to several cases of eye strain among the scholars admitted this year. Hypertrophied tonsils are not as prevalent as formerly, due in a large measure to the universal betterment of teeth conditions among the scholars. Adenoids are small in number on the summary, but several known cases were not examined, due to not being present at time of inspection, although enrolled as pupils. The increase in the number of unvaccinated is occasioned by the newly admitted pupils and to poor results from vaccine.

Treatments secured during the year were for the relief of eye defects by the use of glasses, and as a result marked improvement in the school efficiency of the scholars is noticed. One case of defective hearing also received treatment.

DENTAL INSPECTION.

This year's inspection of the school children's teeth shows a decided improvement over the past year's. It is evident that the yearly examination tends to influence the children to brush their teeth and keep their mouths in better condition.

Teeth that are brushed thoroughly are less apt to decay and without decay there is less opportunity for germs to multiply and to cause disease.

Most of the children in the schools are using the tooth brush, and two-thirds of this number are brushing the teeth conscientiously, due to the training of the last two years.

Below is the statistical record of the examination. Please study carefully and compare with last year.

Number of pupils examined,	183
“ “ mouths in good condition,	57
“ “ “ fair “	103
“ “ “ bad “	23
“ “ “ need cleansing,	156
“ “ “ do not need cleansing,	27
“ who use tooth brush,	171
“ who do not use tooth brush,	12
“ with some teeth filled,	102
“ without any teeth filled,	81
“ of permanent teeth need attention,	341
“ of baby teeth need attention,	304
“ of abscessed teeth,	3

(Condition of first permanent molars not included in above.)

Each child should have four first permanent molars. They erupt at about six years of age and are exceedingly important teeth.

Number of first permanent molars lost,	51
“ “ “ “ with crowns gone,	32
“ “ “ “ with cavities,	197

9 other permanent teeth with crowns gone.

8 other permanent teeth lost.

DRAWING.

During the past year an advancement in drawing and its branches has been made by both teachers and children.

New models have been studied, color and the first principles of the mixing of colors have been taught. The first rules of perspective have been taught—in out-door sketching classes.

Talks on arrangement of pictures and flowers in the home have been given. During the year talks of reproductions of some of the world's famous pictures have been given. The children often writing short descriptions of these pictures with a biography of the artists.

Lessons in modeling were given in grades 1 and 2.

At the close of the spring term about 200 drawings from the school were exhibited at the graded school building. While these drawings may have been lacking in picture interest, the careful study of line, form and arrangement was very evident which showed a sound foundation for future work in drawing.

We, the undersigned, having examined the accounts of the School Board and Treasurer of the Warner Town School District for the year ending Feb. 15, 1918, certify that we have found them correctly cast and properly vouched, with a cash balance in the hands of the treasurer of $1,488.22.

ALFRED S. CLOUES,
CLARENCE W. ADAMS,
Auditors.

Simonds Free High School.

This report begins with the last few weeks of the winter term of 1917. The school faculty was composed of Chauncey W. L. Chapman, B. S., of the University of Maine, Head Master and instructor in the Agricultural course; Florence T. Davis of the Worcester Normal, Pierce School of Business of Philadelphia, Phonographic Institute of Cincinnati, instructor in Commercial course; Eleanor Hoffmann, a graduate of Radcliffe College, instructor in Classical course; Pearl A. Grant, B. S., a graduate of Simmons College, instructor in Domestic Arts course.

With the above well-equipped and efficient faculty the school progressed to the end of the year in June without friction, and was kept on the list of approved schools.

Graduation exercises were held in the town hall on Thursday afternoon, June 21, the graduating class consisting of fifteen members: Harold Farnum, Edna Amanda Hill, Mary Frances Martin and Mary Elizabeth Kerr in Academic Course; Jennie Lucretia Bryant, Marjorie Frances Forsaith, Lena Frances Mitchell, Olive Eleanor Morgan and Richard Warren Walton in Commercial Course; Oscar Alonzo Colburn, Harold Wright Dow, Blanche May Palmer, Evelyn Clara Rowe and Ruth Alvera Stafford in English-Commercial Course; Sarah Maria Flanders in General Course. Salutatory, Blanche May Palmer; valedictory, Edna Amanda Hill; class ode, Evelyn Clara Rowe; class motto, "Work for character, not for fame." Music by Randall-Greeley orchestra.

The annual alumni reunion held in the evening was well attended. Dancing followed an interesting program.

At the close of the school year in June Miss Eleanor Hoffmann, a thoroughly-equipped teacher, accepted a desirable position elsewhere; and Miss Pearl A. Grant, an excellent teacher of domestic arts and history for two years in our high school, was offered inducements by Merrimack County Farm Bureau to be their home demonstration agent. In this position Miss Grant has been admired for the clear understanding and concise presentation of her subjects.

The fall term of the current year opened September 11, with Chauncey W. L. Chapman, head master and instructor in agricultural course; Florence T. Davis, instructor in commercial course; Margaret C. Lawlor, B. A., graduate of Mt. Holyoke college, instructor in academic course; Nettie V. Eastman, B. S., graduate of Simmons college, instructor in domestic arts course; Veira Hardy, graduate of N. H. State college, was assistant up to February 22, and is now teaching in Stevens high school at Claremont. The enrollment of students at the beginning of the current school year was sixty-eight, thirty-two boys and thirty-six girls; tuition students twenty-nine.

The four courses of the curriculum receive the patronage of the out of town students—the commercial course leading in number. The studies can be correlated so that four teachers can carry along all of the class work.

If measures are taken to provide a warm lunch for those who remain at the schoolhouse during the noon hour, I am sure the teachers will find the students more animated and reciting their lessons better.

The lyceum has served as a means of recreation and to improve the participants in their essays and debates.

ACADEMIC COURSE.

The Academic Course is the liberal or cultural as opposed to the vocational training for the high school student. It presupposes that by the study of certain subjects general mental qualities can be developed, which aid a student in his future life, whatever his vocation may be. However, there are many students from other courses who must take academic subjects. For this reason the work has been outlined as nearly as possible to fit the needs of all the students. In each subject has been an attempt to combine what is of practical value for the Domestic Arts, the Commercial or the Agricultural student, with what is necessary for the training of the Academic student.

In English, since the beginning of the year, there has been a great amount of emphasis placed on composition work, both oral and written. The fundamental problems of written composition have been studied by means of text books and by means of written exercises. Oral theme work has been introduced for its obvious value in English work itself, and as a means of developing poise and of bringing out the individuality of each student. In the study of literature the aim has been not only the understanding of the subject matter of the book, but the appreciation of the author as an artist. In the more advanced classes magazine study has been introduced to arouse in the student an interest in the affairs of the present time, and to make him acquainted with the value of the good periodical.

Latin has been conducted with its importance as an aid to the better understanding of English constantly in mind. Whenever possible English and Latin grammatical constructions are compared. The composition of Latin words themselves and of English words which come from the Latin is made an important feature of the Latin work.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT.

Probably at no time in its history has the importance of commercial education been so clearly recognized as it is at the present time, when our government has called thousands of business trained young people into the service of their country and is still calling for more; urging, "as a patriotic duty," men and women with this training to enlist in the service. And this demand for young men and women with business training will continue for several years after the war.

While the average high school graduate is not, as a rule, old enough to qualify for the United States Civil Service, a commercial training fits him to supply the help needed in the ordinary business office, thus releasing the older and more experienced man or woman for the work of the government. Many of our graduates are now holding responsible positions in banks and business offices.

The work of the commercial department this year is substantially the same as that of last year. Shorthand and stenography are both being taught in the junior class, and the study of "Economics of Business" has been introduced into the senior year of the course.

Some members of our senior class this year are regularly employed in business offices out of school hours, there supplementing theory and school work with actual business practice.

DOMESTIC ARTS DEPARTMENT.

In Domestic Arts I the first six weeks were given over to canning. This year, for the most part students furnished the article to be canned, the condiments, sugar, etc., needed, and the jars in which to put the finished product; and the school did the work. A variety of products were exhibited at the Hopkinton fair and a much larger exhibit was given at the school fair. The cooking and sewing is carried on much as formerly, although in cooking war-time economy is strictly observed.

Domestic Arts II takes up household appliances along with sanitation which applies directly to the home and its surroundings.

Domestic Arts III has been discontinued during the second term owing to the withdrawal of students due to illness.

Domestic Arts IV consists of millinery—this aims to give the student a working knowledge in the covering, remodling and trimming of hats. Dietetics—which has to do with the composition, digestibility, function and value of food constituents—menu making—body requirements, etc. Household economics—dealing in particular to household accounts, household budget and shopping.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

The Agricultural course now offers four years of instruction. Never before has agriculture in the public school been put to such a test as at the present time. We are indeed fortunate that our school offers this opportunity to our boys. The existing conditions in the present crisis have brought farming to the front. We must hasten our efforts to increase our production. Boys wishing to enter the agricultural course must be willing to undertake and carry out home projects. Success in any course depends upon the interest and the earnestness of the student.

The course includes both instruction and practice in benchwork, blacksmithing, study of soils, fertilizing, rotation of crops, animal husbandry, poultry raising, judging, dairying, horticulture, small fruits, tree planting, pruning, grafting, forestry, gardening for profit, road building, farm law, farm management and allied subjects. The aim is to put more science and system into New England farming, that the farmer himself may be a greater man and secure larger financial returns.

The work is rearranged to secure the Federal aid so that the agricultural instruction may be retained for summer inspection of home projects.

Our high school is in excellent condition from the fact that it has a highly educated, efficient and progressive corps of instructors. It is hoped that they may be retained in the positions in which they are doing excellent work.

Respectfully submitted,

EDMUND C. COLE,

Local Superintendent.

REPORT OF HEALTH OFFICER.

The health of a community depends upon the enforcement of certain sanitary regulations which often interfere with individual rights and privileges. The old idea that a persons health was his own business is not now recognized as a good sanitary rule to follow. Health officers are now vested with the power to control and prevent epidemics of communicable disease, thereby protecting the welfare of the individual and improving the health of the community. Efforts to secure the best results along these lines must be made in three directions.

1. Notification—complete reporting of all cases or suspected cases of communicable disease to the health officer.

2. Investigation—study of the origin, causes and means of spread of the disease reported.

3. Sanitation—means employed to control the disease and prevent its spread.

The free assistance of the public of the community is essential to the proper working of this plan. Early reporting of cases brings the attention of the health officer to bear upon the case; complete answers to his inquiries concerning personal habits, water and milk supply of the patient aids much in understanding the cause of the infection; and prompt compliance with quarantine regulations assists materially in controlling the spread of the disease.

A few cases of measles and whooping-cough complete the list of contagious disease occurring in town during the past year. Early recognition and prompt quarantine in the former, isolation and use of prophylactic vaccine in the latter, prevented an epidemic of either disease.

Whooping cough is an infectious disease caused by the bacillus pertussis which is found in the discharges from the mucous membrane of the larynx and bronchial tubes of the infected person. The disease is transmitted by contact with the person afflicted, or with cats and dogs who are susceptible to the disease. Whooping cough is particularly communicable in the early catarrhal stages before the whoop is present, but is probably not to be transmitted two weeks after the whoop develops. Spread of the infection is controlled by early recognition, isolation of suspected cases, use of prophylactic vaccine, exclusion from schools and public gatherings of those infected, and in some cases by disinfection of the premises. The best preventive measure is to avoid association or contact with those showing catarrhal symptoms with cough.

Good public health is essential to victory in the war in which the United States now takes the important part. Whatever threatens the health of the people lessens the support of the Army and Navy and thereby aids the enemy. More than ever the rules of health should be obeyed. Of these rules the most important have to do with food, its digestion and assimilation. Instruction in food values, the balancing of menus, the cooking and serving meals should be of prime consideration. Horace Fletcher says: "Chew your food more, and you will want and need less." An excellent idea in conservation of food and preservation of health.

A proper amount of food well selected, well cooked, well chewed and regularly eaten by the public will do much to preserve their health and indirectly more to win the war than an abundant supply of ammunition to the soldiers. All food contains proteid as meat, carbohydrates as sugar and starch, fat, salt and water. Carbohydrate and fat furnish heat and energy and can be used in varying proportions as the needs of the individual demand; proteid repairs and builds up the tissues and with salt is necessary to maintain life, and in consequence is not replacable but should be constant in all diets. The best proportion of proteid, carbohydrate or fat in food is known as a "balanced ration" and should contain 100 grammes proteid, 450 grammes carbohydrate, 105 grammes fat, 35 grammes salt.

Preserve your health by eating less food and using more care to digest it and thereby contribute your share towards winning the war.

Respectfully submitted,
L. H. COGSWELL, M. D.,
Health Officer.
