ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE TUESDAY NIGHT

Amphitheatre and Baseball Field Are Two Important Projects to Be Handled by Students—Men Divided Into Squads—Seniors to Act as Captains—Extensive Plans Indicate Success of Past Years

At two enthusiastic meetings held during the week which were attended by students representative of the various campus interests and by members of the faculty, the fifth annual New Hampshire Day was set this year for April 27.

PROF. WHORISKEY CHAIRMAN

The plans formulated by Professor Richard Whoriskey, chairman of the New Hampshire Day committee, and his corps of assistants of whom E. A. F. Anderson, '21, is the head, are elaborate and everything seems to indicate that the institution as well as the students will have many things well worth remembering when the day's activities are over. An all-college show, which will start the spirit necessary for the success of the project surging through the veins of all who attend, will be staged in the gymnasium on the night before. This phase of the work is in charge of "Andy" and many different groups have already signified their intention of taking an active part in the affair. The students look forward to this part of the program with great eagerness since it is the one time each year when they have an opportunity for letting others know what they think of them as well as of the members of the faculty.

MANY PROJECTS PLANNED

Although the project last year was a greater success than was anticipated, a survey of the different things that are to be attempted this year indicates that more far reaching results will be obtained than at any previous time. The opening work on the proposed amphitheatre will be started this year while the new baseball field built a year ago and somewhat in need of repairs will come second on the list of the day's events. There is a desire on the part of the executive committee to get this field into condition so that the old athletic field may be turned over to the engineers who will begin work on the new $25,000 Memorial Field as soon as the former one is vacated. Not the least among the many tasks which were successfully carried out last year and which have been of value to the entire community, is the cinder walk built by members of the Agricultural division and extending from the railroad station to Thompson hall. This is to be continued this year as far south as the Commons building. Although the above items will constitute the major portion of the day's endeavor, groups will be at work at intervals along the campus setting out shrubs, sowing grass seed, pruning trees and giving themselves over to a general and thorough scouring of the campus. The tennis court which was started a year ago will be completed, one badly in need of repair will be put into shape, and a new court will be built for the use of the women students.

A grove of memorial trees, one for each of the gold star men of the institution, will be set out on this day also. The brush in back of the gymnasium will receive a great deal of attention, and a large gang will be set to work at that point. The sign board near the railroad track which was painted a year ago by a group of students will be repaired this time. On last New Hampshire Day a road was started through the college woods, and the committee plans to continue this road indefinitely this year. A log cabin to be used by those who wish to do cooking in the woods will be erected in the heart of the forest. It is expected that this will greatly offset the number of brush fires which have often originated from abandoned campfires. The old bleachers will not be painted this time but new ones for the girls' "gym" will be made. A gang will be set to work putting the girls' athletic field into condition while another outfit will proceed to clean up the accumulation in back of Smith hall.

HOW TO BEGIN

On the morning of April 27 each one of you will discard your conventional college togs and don the outfit of a laborer. At eight o'clock you will be at the gymnasium ready to begin work at once. As announced elsewhere in this issue you will be in squads of ten each with a senior in charge who, in turn, will be under the supervision of a member of the faculty. While you are working, the college band (and it is thought that this organization will turn out in full force) will play you a number of visits and render for your approval appropriate music depending largely on what your particular group happens to be doing.

The main activity will come at noon at which time a luncheon will be served on the college green under the direction of Mr. H. F. DePew, who will be assisted by the girls of the Home Economics department. Tickets now on sale will admit the bearer to the all-college entertainment the night before and cover the cost of one meal.

Following the meal, work will be resumed and the event will close with a "victory" parade through the streets which will terminate at the flagpole where college songs will be sung. The singing of Alma Mater while the colors are being hauled down will impressively close the day's labors.

Below is given a list of the professors and foremen in charge of the different projects and the students assigned to given squads. Those whose names do not appear below will be assigned later and should watch the bulletin boards for further announcements. Those whose names do appear below should also watch the bulletin boards for minor changes in this list. If your name does not appear below and if it's not posted during the week, you will report to "Andy" at the "gym" at 8 o'clock New Hampshire Day morning.

DRAMATIC CLUB TO PRESENT COLONIAL PLAY

H. G. French Is Captain in "Rose O'Plymouth Town"

Robert Burnham of Emerson School of Oratory is Assistant Coach—to be Given in Gym Friday Night—Tickets Now on Sale

The historic comedy, "A Rose O'Plymouth Town" will be presented by members of the college dramatic club at the gymnasium on Friday evening, April 22.

The leading part of "Rose" is to be taken by Florence Basch, '23, of Ashuelot, N. H. The part is an excellent one and requires ability in acting.

Harold G. French, '21, of Hudson, N. H., has the part of the historic captain of Plymouth—Miles Standish, and as Rose's uncle is an important character in the play.

The story depicts the life in the little New England town in 1622-23. The love story of a Puritan man and a Puritan maid, the duel between the hero and his rival, and the Indian attack are woven together into a realistic picture of early colonial life.

In the first act, the hero, Garrett Foster,—Donald Mattoon, '22, a young dare-devil of twenty, is found to have stolen some green corn, which is a grave offense because of the scarcity of food. The brave defense of the heroine saves him from a public flogging.

The rivalry between Foster and Margeson for Rose's hand leads to a duel. Rose's brother, Philippe, is wounded as he tries to interfere. This, Foster's second offense, so provokes Captain Standish that he banishes the young man from the colony.

How Foster wins his way back into the hearts of the hard old Puritan settlers is the plot of the play.

Following is the cast of characters: Miles Standish, Harold French, '21, Garrett Foster,

Donald P. Mattoon, '22
John Margeson, Karl Ricker, '24
Philippe de la Noye,

Harvey W. Goodwin, '23
Miriam Chillingsley, Gladys Holt, '23
Barbara Standish, Unice Rice, '24
Resolute Story, Margaret Osgood, '24
Rose de la Noye,

Florence Basch, '23
Miss Helen Bartlett, coach, was able to secure the assistance of Mr. Robert H. Burnham of the Emerson School of Oratory, in directing two rehearsals. Through the aid of this professional coach, a new sense of the beauty of the play was recognized, and his knowledge of the setting of the play has helped much in a faithful interpretation of its characterizations.

Tickets for the play can be obtained from members of the club for fifty cents.

FRANK W. LADD, '21,
TO BE CLASS ORATOR.

A short meeting of the Senior class was held in the Zoology Lecture room, Wednesday evening, April 13. The class voted to appoint a committee to confer with Mr. Johnson in regard to the class insurance. A letter was read from Raeburn S. Hunt saying that he would be unable to be class orator, since his return in time for Commencement was very uncertain. Frank W. Ladd, '21, was elected to take his place.

NEW PASTOR ASSUMES DUTIES

Rev. M. R. Lovell Accepts Call to Community Church

HAS ENVIABLE RECORD
Successor to Rev. Vaughan Dabney Comes from Central Congregational Church of Boston—Is Graduate of Boston University—Was Lieutenant During Recent War

The Rev. Moses R. Lovell, who has been assistant to the Rev. Willard L. Sperry, pastor of the Central Congregational church of Boston during the past winter, assumed the pastorate of the Durham Community church on Sunday, April 17.

The church in Durham has been without a pastor since the resignation of the Rev. Vaughan Dabney took effect last December, and the parsonage has been vacant since the Dabneys' departure. The new mistress of the parsonage is a young woman who graduated but a few years ago from Boston University.

Mr. Lovell graduated from Boston University in the class of 1917 and was in a Georgia training camp as a machine gun instructor with the rank of second lieutenant for two years following his graduation. He has been at the Boston church during the past two years during which time he also carried on work at the Andover Theological Seminary.

The new pastor of the Durham church has been accustomed to working with young people, and this ought to add greatly to his work here. One point in common between the large city church which Mr. Lovell has left and the Community church here is the likeness that exists between the Central Club of the former church and the New Hampshire Young People's Organization of the latter. The Central Club is a student organization which has the same social and religious purposes as does the N. H. Y. P. O. Its "guest book" includes the names of students from all the colleges in and around Boston and from every state in the union. Students representing as many as five different continents have been known to attend one of these meetings and to take part in the same general discussions.

ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE AT CHAPEL EXERCISES BY PROF. WHORISKEY

Message Comes Unexpectedly to Students and Is Received Amid a Torrent of Cheers and Applause

LARGE PARADE BEGINS CELEBRATION

Students March Behind College Band to Flagpole in Front of "T" Hall—President Hetzel Makes Address—Resolutions Drawn Up and Copies Sent to Officials Instrumental in Bringing About Success of Measure.

That Gov. A. O. Brown had signed the college appropriation bill and that New Hampshire State college was destined to go forward with sufficient funds available to meet the needs of the institution for the next biennium, was the message which the student body received upon assembling for the weekly convocation exercises here today.

The meeting was in charge of Prof. Richard Whoriskey who read in full the bill which had been enacted a few hours before by the signature of the governor.

TORRENT OF APPLAUSE

The news was received amid a torrent of applause and cheers, and above all others cheers for "Prexy" and the governor easily predominated. The information came as a complete surprise to practically all the students and so no plans in the way of a general celebration had been drawn up. When the chairman was able to quiet the crowd he announced a plan of campaign.

In less than three minutes the spacious gymnasium in which the meeting had been called was entirely empty, and the young people drew themselves up on the college green across the street where they began again to give cheers varied now and then by the singing of college songs.

Members of the Reserve Officers' Training corps had come to the meeting in full dress uniform assuming that the regular schedule of an hour's drill following the exercises would be held. These sought out their respective companies and the rest of the gathering formed in the order of classes behind the battalion. Then, headed by the band they began a march down the main street of the town cheering all along the route in order that the good news would penetrate to the class rooms and laboratories and call out any who had delved into the unknown at an earlier hour that day.

The march continued until every one in Durham was informed of the glad news. Then the column moved to the flagpole situated in the center of the college grounds. All along the route shouts and cheers never failed to come in volleys, and nothing save the loud pealing of the bell in the belfry of Thompson hall, which has announced tidings of a like nature on many other occasions, could be heard above them.

President R. D. Hetzel responded to the cheers with an address in which he went over the entire course of the college bill and told of the difficulties as well as the helpful and encouraging things experienced. He mentioned the various arguments which had been advanced with regard to the institution and ended his remarks with an appeal to his listeners to do their very best at all times and to make the most of the opportunities that the people of our state through their lawmakers had given them.

CHEERS FOR EVERYBODY

Another demonstration followed the president's speech during which cheers for both branches of the general court, for the governor, for the trustees, and for President Hetzel, himself, were given. The band struck up a popular air and the line of march was continued toward the "gym" where an informal dance was enjoyed until evening.

A committee was appointed to draw up a resolution and to send copies to Governor A. O. Brown, to Hon. Leslie P. Snow, president of the Senate, and to Hon. Fred Jones, speaker of the House of Representatives. The following resolution was drawn up and signed by a number of students who represented the various groups on the campus.

"We, the undersigned, duly appointed to act for the students of New Hampshire State College beg to express to the honorable members of the House of Representatives and the Senate and his Excellency, the Governor, our deep appreciation of their support in providing for the needs of our State college. We pledge ourselves to uphold the best traditions of New Hampshire and to strive to keep unsullied her fair name."

The college appropriation bill which was passed by both branches of the general court and signed by the governor carries a total of $638,705. All the items asked for are provided for in this bill with the exception of the proposed new heating plant. In lieu of this building the legislature added the sum of $12,000, to be used in putting the present heating plant into condition to meet the needs of the institution temporarily.

LOAN FUND

A feature of the bill just enacted is the limitation placed upon the number of Grange, Senatorial and State scholarships that can be issued; but in spite of this limitation college officials believe that there will be a sufficient number to take care of all New Hampshire students who actually need this assistance in order to permit them to attend college. The provision allowing the trustees to treat some of these scholarships as loans, and in that manner to make provision for building up a Student Loan Fund, seems to add a desirable feature to the plan of handling scholarships and student aid in general. While this latter feature will not contribute materially to the aid of students during the next four years, it will soon result in establishing a substantial fund adequate to meet the need for money that can be loaned to the students who do not have resources, or who are unable to establish regular banking credit.

The items providing for the support of agricultural research work represent the first appropriations the State of New Hampshire has ever made to the Experiment Station and will make possible the publication of some data which will be of great value to the agricultural world but which has been delayed because of lack of funds. New agricultural problems facing our state can now be studied, thanks to our lawmakers. The Extension Bureau will now be in condition to meet the pressing demands for additional service that are being made upon it by the people of the state, as a result of the special additional appropriations for extension work in Agriculture and Home Economics embodied in this bill.

THE BILL

The bill enacted last Wednesday morning by the signature of Governor A. O. Brown is as follows:

"That there is hereby appropriated for the maintenance fund of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts the tuitions and fees received from students of the College, and the sum of $245,059 for the fiscal year 1922; and the sum of $255,656 for the fiscal year 1923, to be allotted as follows:

For the fiscal year 1922: Salaries, $126,039; other operating expenses, $119,020.

For the fiscal year 1923: Salaries, $132,120; other operating expenses, $123,536.

STUDENTS AID

In aid of needy students resident in New Hampshire, the trustees shall not issue scholarships in excess of $37,500 per year, of which amount the trustees may use such part as they may deem advisable in making loans to students, which loans, together with interest thereon when repaid, shall become a part of the permanent student loan fund of the college.

There is also appropriated for repairs and replacements for the fiscal year 1922 the sum of $22,745; and for the fiscal year 1923 the sum of $14,925.

For miscellaneous improvements for the fiscal year 1922 the sum of $8,040; and for the fiscal year 1923 the sum of $8,900.

For co-operative agricultural extension work under the provisions of the Smith-Lever Act for the fiscal year 1922 the sum of $12,801; and for the fiscal year 1923 the sum of $14,579.

For the purchase of farm land to be available in the fiscal year 1922, the sum of $18,000.

For extension work in agriculture and home economics, $8,000 for the fiscal year 1922, and $10,000 for the fiscal year 1923.

For agricultural research work $5,000 for the fiscal year 1922; and $7,000 for the fiscal year 1923.

For poultry breeding (Chapter 177, Laws of 1913) $4,000 for the fiscal year 1922; and $4,000 for the fiscal year 1923."

DON'T LET GEORGE DO IT!

The editorial in our issue of April 13, entitled "The Sentiment of all of us as written down by one of us," reopens a question which is periodically brought to our attention; the necessity of some form of student government.

We are all willing to admit that evils exist, but when it comes to eradicating them, to quote an expression now obsolete, we generally say "Oh, let George do it!" As George is occupied with something else about that time, that is the end of it. There can be no doubt that freshmen need disciplining, but it is doubtful if proper results can be obtained by a reversion to the "dog-parties" of the old type.

The interior discipline of a college, the discipline of students by students, is a serious thing and cannot be lightly dealt with. Since colleges were founded there has been an antagonism between the freshman and sophomore classes, resulting in a good deal of "disciplining" of the freshmen, but very little permanent bettering of the standard of the student body when these freshmen became upperclassmen. We must have as our aim the improvement of the student body through the best that is in it and not the training of the freshman class by undergraduate classes hardly more mature.

The day, visionary perhaps, that sees dog-parties conducted by a council of upper classmen, having authority to try offenders and after the sentence has been approved by a faculty advisor, to administer punishment, will prove memorable among the attempts to better the standards of the student body.

So much for visions; to bring the matter to an issue, when are we going to stop talking and act? This question was asked a month or so ago when the matter of dishonesty among students was brought to our attention, and now, weeks later, the first step to eradicate this evil has yet to be taken.

It is not for the faculty to act. Their rules would be opposed by the student body except in the case of the man who suffers through the conduct of his fellow students. Moreover, they feel, and rightly so, that we ought to settle this question for ourselves.

Action must come from the student body but first, a leader for this movement must be found. The task is difficult and thankless but it is necessary. The founders of the movement will have done a greater thing for their institution than did those who, by their courage and perseverance put over the Memorial Field drive. The former worked only for money and the building of an athletic field; the latter will work for college honor and the building of student character. As was pointed out in the editorial last week, it is not too late for our leaders to make a beginning this term, to give their successors something to build upon, and to get the credit for being the first to respond to the call of duty.

Members of the Senior Class, you are, or should be, the leaders of the student body. You pride yourselves or should pride yourselves, on standing for the best in college tradition. It is up to you. What are you going to do about it? Your time is short, your interests varied, your goal is now outside the college, but your duty here is not yet done. Are you going to do it or let George do it?

N. H.

NOT ALL OF US.

Again "the time has come" and we are still talking. It was with some surprise that I read "The Sentiment of All of Us,"—surprise, occasioned at finding just where I stood and what (all of our) sentiments are. However whose sentiments they are or whatever my sentiments should be, there are a few points in which I disagree with "Duke."

In the first place, if conditions exist here that he is so evidently positive do exist here, it would seem that we are more in need of a police force, or a vigilance committee to enforce law and order, than a "dog party" which adds confusion to confusion. In the second instance, if such conditions do exist, WHY do we waste words and leave a critical situation unattended?

Is there not the fear that a few of us have become a little hot headed over an exaggerated situation and have dwelled upon our petty hurts until we now believe that it is dangerous?

I'm from Missouri, as far as this case is concerned and I want to know for myself before I believe that such deplorable conditions as have been described are prevalent here. We have a Students' Council elected for some purpose or other. Here is an opportunity for the council to prove its rights to existence. Why can't it handle this problem? Duke and "all the rest of us" can take our complaints to them. If we have no problem this representative body of men and women should be able to recognize that fact, if we have a problem they ought also to be able to recognize that fact and govern themselves accordingly. Surely we cannot let the pupils go on believing Duke's exaggerated view of the matter and think that we are doing nothing to correct the conditions.

Come, let each and every one of us do all in our power to protect the name of our institution, and prove to the world that if such things did happen here that they never can happen again! (Signed) JACK.

N. H.

AGAIN.

Hail to the old stone age! There was a time when anything resembling the recent egg parties at the gymnasium would have brought down a speedy and just retribution upon—not the head—of the unhappy offender. Often, in the ages well nigh forgotten, did the brutal cavemen pick up their clubs and sally forth from their lairs in Fairchild Hall and Pettie Block; bent on impressing some freshman, or if necessary, an upper-classman, with the sad fact that while he "used to be a wise guy" those days were past and had best not be revived.

This is not necessarily an argument for the return of the "Dog Party." However, we have been assured by those in authority that there is a more safe and sane substitute for the "Dogs," and that it is time Fido and his friends retire from active business and begin a search for more genteel activities.

Some of our fellow students have an excellent sense of humor. The mere spattering of one or two co-eds and a visitor from another college with the contents of THE EGG does not detract in the least from the delicate savor of such a joke. A humorist of such ability surely should receive recognition on the part of his college. The best reward would seem to be a free ticket to the town in which his prep school is located—not however, a return ticket.

Seriously, it is unfortunate but true that conditions on this campus, as has already been stated by "The New Hampshire," are not what they should be. It is time that a whole-hearted effort to locate the causes of such disturbances be made. If such causes are found, they cannot be remedied in too expeditious a manner. (Signed) JAMES.

ELK STROLLS ON CAMPUS

Captured on Smith Hall Lawn Wednesday Morning

BACK IN "T." HALL NOW

Former Resident of Corbin Park, After Many Years of Guarding the Door of the Women's Gymnasium, Breaks Away—Has Now Returned to Captivity

"Oft in the Stilly Night," do mysterious things occur on New Hampshire College Campus.

While students were peacefully sleeping last Tuesday evening, the large elk, which has been in captivity for so many years on the top floor of "T." Hall, left his abode, and started on a sight-seeing trip.

When the fair "co-eds" of Smith Hall arose on Wednesday morn, they were greatly surprised to see their old friend "the elk" standing peacefully among the rocks on the little rise of Terra Firma near the hall. This curious sight caused much laughter and excitement among all who saw the old fellow.

After standing there for several hours, under the eye of so many "fair ones," the blushing old quadruped was finally relieved of his position, and carried by workmen to his old stand just outside the door of the "Girls' Gym."

DO DREAMS COME TRUE?

I went to sleep and I dreamed a dream. I dreamed that I was in the Commons eating supper. And an angel came to me and said, "Lo, forego the hash. This night thou art to have a Feed of Feeds—a feed such as you only dream about. So why waste your time here?" And I said, "Sure, why?"

I arose and went away from there, and as I went down the broad steps a companion accosted me, saying, "You goop. Have you had supper? Why, we are tonight to feed at a Feed of Feeds." And I told him that I had eaten no supper, but that I would go with him.

We went down the street to the church, and at the door—oh, sad Fate!—at the door was a banana peel. I stepped on it. And its slippery qualities manifested themselves with great gusto. And I fell on my neck; and wept. For with the shock of landing on my neck I awoke and it was all a dream.

TWO WEAK

By Elinor Gryn. A Serial of Slush, Mush and Gush (2)

Thursday. Oh, dear diary, I have found the truth. He loves me! Listen. I met him at the Banquet of the Undertakers' Union last night, and we talked in the moonlight. Oh, how romantic I felt! I told him I was heir to a million dollars, and he asked me to marry him. Of course I said Yes, after the conventional "This is the thudden!" I should like not to be conventional. I should like to fall on his neck! But he looks frail—too weak. The sudden shock of such a move might break his heart or his collarbone or something.

Afterward he took me home, and as we lingered in the entry, he whispered, "I am on fire with love for thee!" Then papa came and put him out. I am sure he loves me for myself alone.

Friday. Oh diary, all is tragedy, I mean tragedy! He has left me! Today I told him the brutal truth—that I was not heir to a million cents even. I told him of my love for him, and that I was assured of his love for me even though I was a poor working girl. It was as I feared—the shock was too great—he was too weak. He turned silently and left me.

He has eloped with the nursemaid, my Oswald! Oh, woe is me—I have nothing to live for now except death. . . . Death, whose grim shades approach nearer and nearer with every tick of the clock—the invincible implement of Fate—Death cometh. . . . But perhaps in Heaven, where the doodle birds chirp all the day, I will be free from my woe. And in the meantime, there are other fish in the sea, and Barnum said that there was a sucker born every minute. Next time I will tell my Oswald or Alexander that I haven't the million dollars only after I have led him to the halter to the music of the Bridle chorus and the nuptial knot has been tied with a tie that binds. Goodbye, dear diary. Finis.

FOILED, cried the villain as he unwrapped the cigar that came wrapped up in silver paper. —College Coyote.

Soph: "What makes you so little?" Fresh: "My mother fed me on canned milk and I'm condensed." —Washburn Review.

Prof: "What do we have for Friday?" Class (in unison): "Fish!" —Colby Voice.

He was smoking a cheap cigar, and it had a peculiar odor. Roommate: "I smell punk." Smoker: "Naw, naw, you smell all right. It's the cigar." Roommate: "Where did you get it?" Smoker: "Cuba. I have an uncle who knows the ropes down there." N. H.

MR. DEPEW ADDRESSES AGGIE CLUB

Instructor Advises Men Not to Miss Opportunities

SUPPORT ATHLETICS

"What a Man Loses in Going to College" Discussed and Outlined—Alpha Zeta Debates Begin April 25

In the absence of both president and vice-president, Secretary Howard A. Rollins, '23, of the Agricultural Club presided over the fortnightly meeting Monday evening, April 11. Incidentally he performed his duties as club secretary in a very creditable manner. A communication was read from a representative of the debating team of Massachusetts Agricultural College announcing that it will be impossible to hold an intercollegiate debate during the spring term. It is thought probable that the event will be put through early next year.

Information has recently been solicited by the Agricultural Club of the New Jersey College as to the policies, standing and accomplishments of the local organization, their purpose being to publish a bulletin of general information which will be of value to younger clubs. Secretary Rollins has forwarded the desired facts and in this way New Hampshire College will get some very desirable publicity.

MR. DEPEW SPEAKS

Assistant Master-of-program Alfred French, '23, introduced as the speaker of the evening Mr. Heber F. DePew of the dairy department. Mr. DePew in an intensely interesting talk expounded some advice that may well be of value to freshmen and upperclassmen alike.

"The man who goes through college confining himself to his books, his meals and his classes is not getting all that he should from his courses. The man who is most likely to fulfill the promise that he has shown as a boy in grammar school and academy is the one who gets into things while he is at college. The college paper, the monthly magazine, the class year book, all offer excellent opportunity to the under-graduate to show his worth. And athletics should be supported more religiously by the student body. The time is coming, I believe, when every college man will be required to go out for some form of athletics. Why not anticipate the ruling and get out now?"

Mr. DePew then proceeded to outline the recent article that appeared in the "Saturday Evening Post" under the heading, "What a Man Loses by Going to College." By the use of pertinent illustrations, he demonstrated some of the truths expressed in the story, and quoting statistics from the federal Department of Education, he pointed out the cases where the argument did not hold good. The speech was concluded by an exposition of the present trend of scientific instruction, practical experience in the elected line now being considered essential.

DEBATES COMING

The next club meeting will be April 25, and as the Alpha Zeta debates may be started that night, it behooves all good Aggie "men and true" to turn out in force and cheer for their favorites.

ENGINEERS DISCUSS LIME PRODUCTION

N. E. Meras, '21, Addresses Engineering Society—Describes Maine Quarries

Monday evening, April 11, Norman Meras, '21, gave a talk to the Engineering Club on "The Production of Lime." He spoke chiefly of the process as carried on at Rockland, Me., where large quantities of "lime rock" or calcium carbonate are found. Lime rock is made chiefly of calcium carbonate, although silica iron, aluminum and magnesium are also present to some extent. The rock is dug or quarried from the veins which are only a few feet below the surface of the earth, the quarries being from 300 to 600 feet deep, a quarter of a mile wide and about three-fourths of a mile long.

When a quarry is started the loam and loose earth are first removed and then holes are made with the steam or compressed air drill. The rock is blasted away so that a circular hole about twenty feet in diameter is formed; the rock is blasted out until the hole is 50 or 60 feet deep. It is then enlarged and the real quarry is started, the rock being blasted from the sides falls to the bottom where it is broken up by men with large sledge hammers. The rock is removed from the quarry by electric tramways, and then carried in cars to the burning kilns.

These kilns are large steel cylinders lined with fire brick, the rock being dumped in at the open top, and a double fire grate at each side at the bottom. These kilns are about 40 feet tall, the rock is carried to the top in cars which run up on trestles. The kiln is fired with wood or soft coal, the heat from the furnaces passes up through the kiln, heating up the lime rock and driving off carbon dioxide. When the carbon dioxide is driven off calcium monoxide is left, this is the commercial "lime." The burning process takes about 49 hours. Six pounds of lime are produced or burned for each pound of coal used. Kilns fired by producer gas are now being made which are expected to give double this economy.

The uses of lime were briefly described, such as the making of mortar, lime water, and in bleaching and purifying processes.

SOCIETY

MOVIES

There was a very good attendance at the movies in the gym last Friday evening. The feature, "Twenty-three and a Half Hours' Leave," showed incidents of camp life, and provoked much mirth owing to the clever acting of Douglas McLean.

ALPHA ZETA

The Fraternity of Alpha Zeta enjoyed a very pleasant evening, Thursday, April 14, as the guests of Prof. H. R. Kraybill. After a short business meeting, an interesting paper by H. T. Woodward, '21, on "Methods of Lumbering" was read. Refreshments of lemonade, sandwiches, ice cream and cake were served. After a social hour the meeting broke up at ten thirty.

PHI LAMBDA PHI

Phi Lambda Phi, the honorary physics fraternity, observed a guest night April 14. Dr. Horace L. Howes talked informally on "Luminescence." Refreshments of sandwiches and fruit punch were served.

ALPHA CHI SIGMA

ENTERTAINS SOPHOMORES

The Alpha Chi Sigma entertained the Sophomore would-be chemists at a social gathering Monday evening, April 11. Professor G. A. Perley told the group about the ideals of Alpha Chi Sigma. Although the fraternity is rather a brotherhood for the development of the chemist as an independent thinker in his profession rather than a social organization or an organization to get the better jobs for its members, the first ideal of the society is "to promote good fellowship among members." The second ideal is "to further the advancement of chemistry."

Ice cream was served in evaporating dishes, and the way it evaporated was evidence of the good quality of apparatus supplied by the Chem. Department. Coffee was concocted in large flasks and poured into 250 cc. beakers for consumption. During the evening chess and card tournaments took place and also some of the wearing apparel of unlucky chemists. Prof. Perley demonstrated a new experiment on percentage moisture in a Buckner funnel, which proved very instructive.

The gathering broke up at about ten and every one went home with the feeling of having had a good time.

PHI MU DELTA FRATERNITY

HOLDS INITIATION BANQUET

The Phi Mu Delta Fraternity held initiation ceremonies at the Grange hall last Thursday evening. Cecil Webster Boodey, '21, Clyde Archibald, '16, and Neil Sargent '17, were the initiates. Mr. Sargent and Mr. Archibald are now connected with the Merrimac Chemical Company, Mr. Sargent being treasurer. They were members of the club before it became a national fraternity and are active in the Boston branch of the New Hampshire College Alumni Association.

After the initiation, a dinner was enjoyed at Brackett's Cafe, Horace E. Hobbs, '21, acting as toastmaster. Speeches by Everett Dow, '21 and Charles Ferris, '22, of Connecticut Agricultural College, Theodore Martin, '22 of the University of Vermont and Raymond B. Meader, '21, and Edson M. Bailey, '22 both of the local chapter were in order.

These ceremonies were a part of the business of the national convocation of Phi Mu Delta, which was held here in Durham the last three days of last week, Nu Beta Chapter being host to representatives from other chapters. The convocation, an annual affair, is for the purpose of settling business and determining the policies of the fraternity.

MEMORIAL FUND STILL GROWING

Huntley N. Spaulding Sends in Pledge for $500

TWO-YEAR MEN SHOW LOYALTY $26,000 Mark Has Been Reached— Alumni Proud of Success of Campaign

A subscription of $500 from Huntley N. Spaulding, D. Sc. '18, of Rochester, N. H., together with other subscriptions pushed the Memorial Field Fund over the $26,000 mark last week. Mr. Spaulding's contribution has only been equalled by the one from C. H. Hood, and it brought the total amount now subscribed up to $26,028.79.

"I understand that the fund has been raised," he writes in a letter to Director Kendall, "but I know that work of this kind always costs more than was first anticipated, and so I am sending you the enclosed check. I am pleased to have an opportunity to share in this work." Congratulations upon the success of the campaign have been pouring in during the week. The alumni seem more than pleased that the campaign has reached the goal set.

TWO-YEAR CLASSES

Additional contributions have been coming in, particularly from the two-year men, of whom to date 97 have subscribed. The standing by classes of two-year graduates is as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Year, Amount. 1898, $36.00; 1900, 30.00; 1902, 10.00; 1903, 80.00; 1904, 50.00; 1905, 10.00; 1906, 10.00; 1907, 25.00; 1908, 25.00; 1909, 13.00; 1910, 55.00; 1911, 83.00; 1912, 197.00; 1913, 25.00; 1914, 161.00; 1915, 135.00; 1916, 102.50; 1917, 378.00; 1918, 35.00; 1919, 25.00; 1920, 25.00

NEW SUBSCRIPTIONS

Among the subscriptions were the following: Roland W. Abbott, 2-yr. '17, $10.00; L. H. Burns, '10, 50.00; C. B. Blodgett, 2-yr. '13, 10.00; Leon Batchelder, '07, 10.00; Mrs. Oliver M. WOMEN COMMUTERS ELECT OFFICERS.

On Wednesday, April 6, the Commuting girls held a business meeting at which the officers for the ensuing year were elected. The elections resulted as follows: Fannie Spinney, '22, president; Elvira Benfield, '22, vice-president; Mary Reiley, '23, secretary; Helen Murphy, '23, treasurer. According to the rules of the constitution, these new officers assumed their duties immediately upon election. Following the business meeting, entertainment was furnished by the Juniors and Sophomores.

STUDENTS HEAR DR. SHELDON.

A group of "Good Methodists" gathered last Sunday noon at Brackett's dining room and after enjoying a fine chicken dinner, had the opportunity to listen to Warren F. Sheldon, Secretary of the Methodist Board of Education.

The object of Dr. Sheldon's talk was to make clear to the young men, the benefits that could be derived from an organization of students affiliated with the Methodist church. He gave several good examples of the way in which Methodist students of different Western colleges and universities have organized.

It was decided that a committee be appointed to see what can be done in arousing spirit among Methodist students at N. H. C.

N. H.

The second informal of the term was held in the gymnasium Saturday evening, April 16. On account of the Ballard Hall dance on the preceding evening there were comparatively few women students present. The music by the college orchestra was unusually good.

The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Slobin, Miss Ruth Richardson and T. O. Smith.

YOUR AUTOMOBILE or YOUR STOMACH

If the mixture in your automobile is too rich you are careful to have it corrected at once, but are you as careful with your digestive apparatus?

You can buy a new car if the old one plays out, but we are not aware that new stomachs are generally offered.

If you are losing PEP probably your system is carbonized with too much rich eating. The best way to overcome this difficulty is to eat simple food—and that means EAT MORE M. & M. BREAD.
