DURHAM, NH – With two weeks to go before the election, Democrat Chris Pappas holds an advantage over Eddie Edwards in the race to replace retiring Democratic Congresswoman Carol Shea-Porter in New Hampshire's First Congressional District. Congresswoman Annie Kuster holds a double-digit lead over her challenger, Republican Steve Negrón, in New Hampshire's Second Congressional District. Granite Staters report hearing a lot about Brett Kavanaugh's confirmation to the Supreme Court. Democrats are slightly more likely to say his confirmation will affect their vote in November.

These findings are based on the latest Granite State Poll*, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. Six hundred and forty-three (643) randomly selected New Hampshire adults were interviewed in English by landline and cellular telephone between October 10 and October 18, 2018. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 3.9 percent. Included were four hundred and ninety-nine (499) likely 2018 general election voters (MSE = +/- 4.4%). Two hundred and sixty-five (265) likely voters (MSE= +/- 6.0%) were from the First Congressional District while two hundred and thirty-four (234) likely voters (MSE= +/- 6.4%) were from the Second District.

Favorability - 1st District Candidates

With the retirement of Carol Shea-Porter, the election for Congress in New Hampshire's 1st District features Executive Councilor Chris Pappas, the Democratic nominee, and former NH Liquor Enforcement Chief Eddie Edwards, the Republican nominee.

However, both candidates are not well-known in the 1st Congressional District. Pappas is viewed favorably by 26% of First District residents, 16% have a neutral opinion, 13% have an unfavorable opinion, and 46% don't know enough to say. Seventeen percent have a favorable opinion of Edwards, 17% are neutral, 13% have an unfavorable opinion, and 52% don't know enough to say. Favorability of both candidates has remained largely unchanged since April.

Pappas enjoys higher favorability than Edwards within their own parties: 40% of Democrats have a favorable opinion of Pappas while 27% of Republicans view Edwards favorably.

1st District Democratic Candidates Favorability

* We ask that this copyrighted information be referred to as the Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center.

2018 1st District Congressional Election

Pappas holds an advantage over Edwards with Libertarian candidate Dan Belforti trailing. If the election were held today, 46% of likely voters say they would vote for Pappas, 37% would vote for Edwards, 4% would vote for Belforti, and 13% are undecided or would support another candidate.

Pappas has stronger support than Edwards among his partisans. Eighty-six percent of Democrats say they will vote for Pappas, while 71% of Republicans say they will vote for Edwards. Eighteen percent of Republicans say they are undecided or will vote for another candidate, but only 7% of Democrats say the same. Independents are divided: 38% say they will vote for Pappas while 35% say they will vote for Edwards.

Self-described liberals, those who voted for Hillary Clinton in 2016, Boston Globe readers, those with a college degree or more education, NHPR listeners, North Country residents, those aged 65 and older, and women are more likely than others to say they will vote for Pappas. Conservative radio listeners, self-described conservatives, those who voted for Donald Trump in 2016 or did not vote, those who attend religious services once a week or more often, and Central/Lakes Region and Massachusetts Border residents are more likely than others to say they will vote for Edwards.

Favorability - 2nd District Candidates

Second District Congresswoman Ann Kuster's favorability is at an all-time high among 2nd District residents. Currently, 44% of residents of New Hampshire's 2nd Congressional District have a favorable view of Kuster, 26% have an unfavorable view of her, 11% are neutral, and 19% don't know enough about her to say. Her net favorability rating is +18%.

Kuster is very popular among Democrats (net favorability rating of +69%), somewhat popular among Independents (+11%), and unpopular among Republicans (-38%).

Kuster Favorability Rating

Kuster's Republican opponent in November's congressional race, State Representative Steve Negron, is not well-known in the Second Congressional District. He is viewed favorably by 12% of Second District residents, 15% have a neutral opinion, 6% have an unfavorable opinion of him, and 67% don't know enough to say. The percentage of respondents who don't know enough to say about Negron (67%) has declined since August (88%) and April (84%).

Among Republicans, 25% have a favorable opinion of Negron, a substantial increase since August (6%). Eighteen percent of Republicans have a neutral opinion of Negron, 2% have an unfavorable opinion of him, and 56% don't know know to say.

Negron Favorability Rating

2018 2nd District Congressional Election

Kuster holds a lead over Negron with Libertarian candidate Justin O'Donnell trailing. If the election were held today, 53% of likely voters say they would vote for Kuster, 38% would vote for Negron, 3% would vote for O'Donnell, and 6% are undecided or would support another candidate.

Kuster has stronger support than Negron among her partisans. Ninety-six percent of Democrats say they will vote for Kuster, while 84% of Republicans say they will vote for Negron. Kuster holds a small advantage over Negron among Independents: 40% say they will vote for Kuster while 26% say they will vote for Negron.

Those who voted for Hillary Clinton or did not vote in 2016, self-described liberals, Boston Globe readers, NHPR listeners, those who have completed postgraduate work, women, and those aged 18 to 34 are more likely than others to say they will vote for Kuster. Conservative radio listeners, those who voted for Donald Trump in 2016, self-described conservatives, North Country and Manchester Area residents, those who attend religious services once a week or more often, and those with a high school education or less are more likely than others to say they will vote for Negron.

Kavanaugh Hearings

Nearly two-thirds of New Hampshire adults (63%) say they saw or heard a great deal about Brett Kavanaugh's confirmation process to the U.S. Supreme Court. Twenty-two percent say they heard a fair amount, 9% say they heard only a little, 6% say they heard nothing at all, and less than 1% don't know or are unsure.

Democrats (66%) and Republicans (69%) are about equally likely to say they heard a great deal about Kavanaugh's confirmation process, but only 41% of Independents say the same.

How Much Heard About Kavanaugh - By Party ID

When asked how they feel about the Kavanaugh confirmation, 18% of Granite Staters say they feel enthusiastic and 17% say they feel satisfied. Thirteen percent describe themselves as indifferent, 17% say they are dissatisfied, 29% say they are angry, and 5% don't know or are unsure.

Nearly all Democrats (89%) say they feel dissatisfied (30%) or angry (59%) about Kavanaugh's confirmation, three-quarters (74%) of Republicans describe themselves as enthusiastic (41%) or satisfied (33%), and nearly half of Independents (48%) say they feel indifferent or don't know or are unsure how they feel.

How You Feel About Kavanaugh Confirmation - By Party ID

A plurality of likely voters (41%) say that Kavanaugh's confirmation to the Supreme Court will have little impact on their vote in the November elections; one-third (34%) say it will make them more likely to vote for Democratic candidates, 23% say it will make them more likely to vote for Republican candidates, less than 1% say it will make them more likely to vote for third party candidates, and 1% don't know or are unsure what effect it will have on their vote.

Nearly two-thirds of Democrats (65%) say that Kavanaugh's confirmation will make them more likely to vote for Democratic candidates and half (49%) of Republicans say his confirmation will make them more likely to vote for Republican candidates. Most Independents (63%) say Kavanaugh's confirmation will have no impact on their vote, while 20% say it will make them more likely to vote for Democratic candidates and 12% say it will make them more likely to vote for Republican candidates.

Favorability - Jeanne Shaheen

New Hampshire senior Senator and former Governor Jeanne Shaheen, who is up for re-election in 2020, remains largely popular in the state, but her popularity has fallen for the fourth consecutive quarter. Currently, 49% of New Hampshire adults have a favorable opinion of Shaheen, 33% have an unfavorable opinion of her, 7% are neutral, and 12% don't know enough about her to say.

Those who voted for Hillary Clinton in 2016, self-described liberals, self-identified Democrats, those with a college degree or more education, NHPR listeners, local newspaper and Boston Globe readers, Seacoast residents, and those aged 65 and older are most likely to view Shaheen favorably. Conservative radio listeners, those who voted for Donald Trump or did not vote in 2016, self-identified Republicans, self-described conservatives, and those who attended technical school or have some college education are least likely to have a favorable opinion of Shaheen.

Shaheen Favorability Rating

Shaheen's net favorability rating (the percentage with a favorable opinion minus the percentage who have an unfavorable opinion) is +15%, down from +30% a year ago. She remains very popular among Democrats (net favorability rating of +73%), slightly popular among Independents (+15%), and unpopular among Republicans (-44%).

Net Favorability Rating - Jeanne Shaheen

Net Favorability = (% Favorable - % Unfavorable)

Favorability - Maggie Hassan

New Hampshire's junior Senator Maggie Hassan is slightly less popular than Shaheen. Currently, 45% of New Hampshire adults have a favorable opinion of Hassan, 36% have an unfavorable opinion of her, 7% are neutral, and 12% don't know enough about her to say.

Those who voted for Hillary Clinton in 2016, self-identified Democrats, self-described liberals, those with a college degree or more education, NHPR listeners, local newspaper readers, and those aged 65 and older are most likely to view Hassan favorably. Conservative talk radio listeners, those who voted for Donald Trump in 2016, self-identified Republicans, and self-described conservatives are least likely to have a favorable opinion of Hassan.

Hassan Favorability Rating

Hassan's net favorability rating is +9%, down from +21% a year ago. She remains very popular among Democrats (net favorability rating of +67%), slightly popular among Independents (+12%) and very unpopular among Republicans (-54%). Hassan's net favorability among Republicans is at an all-time low.

Granite State Poll Methodology

These findings are based on the latest Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. Six hundred and forty-three (643) randomly selected New Hampshire adults were interviewed in English by landline and cellular telephone between October 10 and October 18, 2018. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 3.9 percent. Included were four hundred and ninety-nine (499) likely 2018 general election voters (MSE = +/- 4.4%). These MSE's have not been adjusted for design effect. Included were three hundred and fifty-four (354) residents of New Hampshire's First Congressional District (MSE +/- 5.2%) and two hundred and eighty-nine (289) from the Second District (MSE +/- 5.8%). Two hundred and sixty-five (265) likely voters (MSE= +/- 6.0%) were from the First Congressional District while two hundred and thirty-four (234) likely voters (MSE= +/- 6.4%) were from the Second District. The design effect for the survey is 1.2%.

The random sample used in the Granite State Poll was purchased from Scientific Telephone Samples (STS), Rancho Santo Margarita, CA. STS screens each selected telephone number to eliminate non-working numbers, disconnected numbers, and business numbers to improve the efficiency of the sample, reducing the amount of time interviewers spend calling non-usable numbers. When a landline number is reached, the interviewer randomly selects a member of the household by asking to speak with the adult currently living in the household who has had the most recent birthday. This selection process ensures that every adult (18 years of age or older) in the household has an equal chance of being included in the survey.

The data have been weighted to adjust for numbers of adults and telephone lines within households. Additionally, data were weighted by respondent sex, age, education, and region of the state to targets from the most recent American Community Survey (ACS) conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau. In addition to potential sampling error, all surveys have other potential sources of non-sampling error including question order effects, question wording effects, and non-response. Due to rounding, percentages may not sum to 100%. The number of respondents in each demographic below may not equal the number reported in cross-tabulation tables as some respondents choose not to answer some questions.
