DURHAM, NH – Bernie Sanders and Joe Biden are the current favorites in the 2020 New Hampshire Democratic Presidential Primary, with Kamala Harris and Elizabeth Warren trailing. However, most voters are still trying to decide whom to support. Among Democratic candidates, primary voters believe Biden is most likeable, has the right experience, and has the best chance to win the general election, while Sanders is seen as the most progressive. Just over two-thirds of Republican primary voters would vote for Donald Trump if the primary were held today, while one in six would vote for John Kasich and very few would support William Weld.

These findings are based on the latest Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. Six hundred four (604) randomly selected New Hampshire adults were interviewed in English by landline and cellular telephone between February 18 and February 26, 2019. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 4.0 percent. Included in the sample were 218 likely 2020 Republican Primary voters (margin of sampling error +/- 6.6 percent) and 240 likely 2020 Democratic Primary voters (margin of sampling error +/- 6.3 percent).

Interest in 2020 New Hampshire Presidential Primary

With nearly a year to go until the 2020 New Hampshire Presidential Primary, half of Granite Staters (49%) say they are extremely interested in the Primary, 28% are very interested, 16% are somewhat interested, and 7% are not very interested. Interest in the 2020 Primary has declined since August 2018 (60% extremely interested) but remains a good deal higher than at the same point in the last three presidential cycles.

Democrats (61%) are much more likely than Republicans (45%) and Independents (35%) to say they are extremely interested. Democrats in 2019 are twice as likely as they were in February 2015 to report being extremely interested in the upcoming Primary.

Extremely Interested in Primary - By Party ID

* We ask that this copyrighted information be referred to as the Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center.

While the number of New Hampshire residents who say they are extremely interested in the Primary has fallen since August, the proportion of residents who say they will definitely vote in the primary (78%) is unchanged. Nine percent say they will vote unless there is an emergency, 6% say they may vote, 2% probably will not vote, and 5% are unsure.

Democrats (85%) are slightly more likely than Republicans (76%) or Independents (71%) to say they will definitely vote in the primary. The proportion of Democrats who say they will definitely vote in the primary (85%) is slightly higher than in February 2015 (73%).

2020 Democratic Primary

Despite the high level of interest, very few likely voters have decided whom they will vote for in the 2020 Democratic Primary. Eighty-five percent of likely Democratic primary voters say they are still trying to decide whom they will support in 2020, while 10% say they are leaning towards someone and only 5% have definitely decided. Since August 2018, as many candidates have announced exploratory committees for a presidential run, the percentage of likely Democratic primary voters who say they are still trying to decide has increased.

When provided a list of some Democrats who have declared themselves as candidates for the 2020 nomination or who are considered likely to do so, 26% of likely Democratic primary voters support Sanders and 22% pick Biden. Ten percent of Democratic voters choose Harris, 7% favor Warren, and 5% select former Texas Congressman Beto O'Rourke. Fewer likely voters choose Klobuchar (4%) or Booker (3%), 1% each select South Bend Indiana Mayor Pete Buttgieg, Hawaii Congresswoman Tulsi Gabbard, former New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg, New York Senator Kirsten Gillibrand, or Ohio Senator Sherrod Brown, and less than 1% choose Maryland Congressman John Delaney or former Colorado Governor John Hickenlooper. Three percent of respondents mentioned another candidate while 14% remain undecided.

Support for Harris (10%) has slightly increased since August (3%), while support for Warren (7%) has declined since that time (17%). Likely Democratic primary voters aged 18 to 34, those with a high school education or less, and Manchester Area residents are more likely than others to support Sanders, while those aged 65 and older and those who watch WMUR are more likely to support Biden.

Preferred Democratic 2020 Presidential Nomination Candidate - List

When asked whom they would support if their preferred candidate were not on the ballot, 18% of likely Democrat primary voters say they would support Biden, 17% would support Sanders, 14% would support Harris, 10% would support Warren, 9% would support Booker, and 6% would support O'Rourke. Very few Democratic primary voters say their second choice would be Klobuchar (2%), Brown (2%), Gillibrand (2%), Gabbard (2%), Bloomberg (1%), Hickenlooper (1%), Delaney (1%), or Buttigieg (<1%). One percent say their second choice would be someone else, 3% say they don't have a second choice, and 11% don't know or are undecided.

Sanders supporters are divided on their second choice among many candidates, with the greatest number selecting Biden or Warren. Four in ten Biden supporters say Sanders is their second choice, with smaller numbers selecting Harris or Warren. Nearly half of Harris supporters pick Biden as their second choice, while a majority of Warren supporters choose Harris or Sanders as their second choice.

Second Choice for Democratic 2020 Presidential Nomination

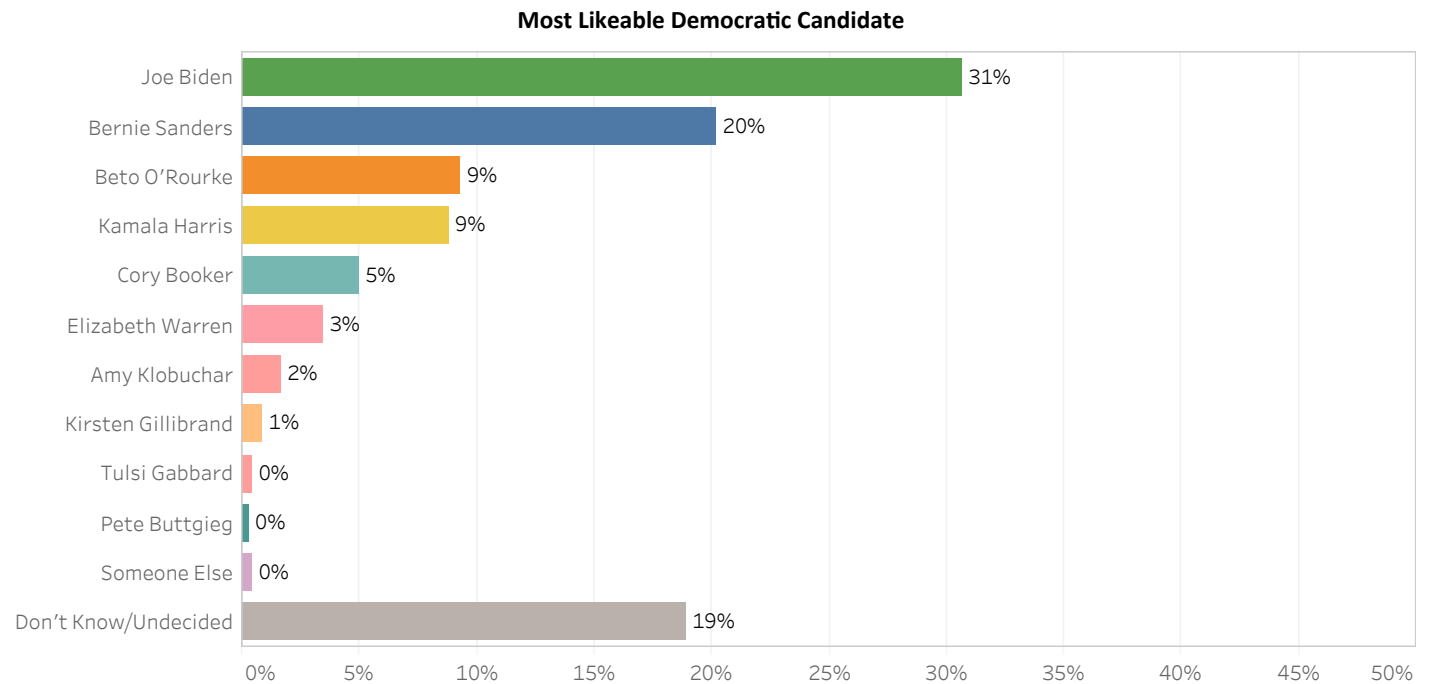

When asked which candidate they would not support under any circumstances, half of likely Democratic voters (50%) say that they don't know or are unsure (35%) or that all of the candidates are acceptable to them (15%). Thirteen percent of likely Democratic voters say they wouldn't under any circumstances vote for Warren, 8% wouldn't vote for Sanders, and 6% wouldn't vote for Bloomberg. Fewer likely voters say they wouldn't under any circumstances vote for Gillibrand (4%), Booker (3%), Harris (3%), Biden (3%), O'Rourke (2%), Gabbard (2%), Former Health and Human Services Secretary Julian Castro (1%), Buttigieg (1%), Klobuchar (1%), Hickenlooper (<1%), or Delaney (<1%). Four percent mention someone else they would not vote for under any circumstances.

Would Not Vote For Candidate Under Any Circumstances

Likely Democratic Primary voters were asked which candidate is the most likeable. Just under one-third of likely Democratic primary voters (31%) believe Biden is the most likeable Democratic candidate, 20% say Sanders is most likeable, and 9% each believe O'Rourke or Harris to be most likeable. Fewer likely primary voters say that Booker (5%), Warren (3%), Klobuchar (2%), Gillibrand (1%), Gabbard (<1%), Buttigieg (<1%), or someone else (<1%) is the most likeable Democratic candidate. Nineteen percent don't know or are undecided whom they consider to be the most likeable Democratic candidate.

Massachusetts Border residents and those aged 65 and older are more likely than others to say that Biden is the most likeable candidate while those with a high school education or less, Connecticut Valley residents, and those aged 18 to 34 are more likely to say that Sanders is most likeable.

Nearly half of likely Democratic primary voters (44%) believe Sanders is the most progressive Democratic candidate; 10% believe Warren is the most progressive while 8% believe Harris is the most progressive. Few likely primary voters say that Biden (3%), O'Rourke (2%), Booker (1%), Castro (1%), Klobuchar (1%), Gabbard (1%), Gillibrand (1%), or someone else (1%) is the most progressive Democratic candidate. Twenty-eight percent don't know or are undecided whom they consider to be the most progressive Democratic candidate.

Ultimately, Democrats want to nominate a candidate who can win the 2020 general election. One-third of likely Democratic primary voters (32%) believe Biden is the candidate with the best chance to win the general election, while 22% say Sanders has the best chance. Fewer likely primary voters say that Harris (5%), O'Rourke (3%), Warren (2%), Booker (2%), Bloomberg (1%), Klobuchar (1%), Brown (1%), Gillibrand (<1%), or someone else (1%) has the best chance to win the general election. Twenty-nine percent don't know or are undecided whom they consider to have the best chance to win the general election.

Massachusetts Border and Connecticut Valley residents and those aged 65 and older are more likely than others to say that Biden has the best chance to win the general election while those with a high school education or less and self-identified Independents are more likely to say that Sanders has the best chance to win.

Candidate With Best Chance to Win General Election

Nearly half of likely Democratic primary voters (47%) believe Biden has the right experience to be President while 20% believe Sanders is the candidate with the right experience. Fewer likely primary voters say that Warren (5%), Booker (2%), Gabbard (2%), Klobuchar (2%), Bloomberg (1%), Harris (1%), Brown (<1%), O'Rourke (<1%), Castro (<1%), Buttgieg (<1%), Gillibrand (<1%), or someone else (1%) has the right experience to be President. Eighteen percent don't know or are undecided which Democratic candidate they consider to have the right experience to be President.

Those aged 65 and older and local newspaper readers are more likely than others to say that Biden has the right experience to be President while those with a high school education or less, Manchester Area residents, and self-identified Independents are more likely to say Sanders has the right experience to be President.

Candidate With Right Experience to Be President

2020 Republican Primary

Despite Donald Trump being the incumbent President, more than half of likely Republican primary voters (57%) are still trying to decide whom they will support in the 2020 Republican Presidential Primary. Ten percent say they are leaning towards someone while one-third (34%) say they have definitely decided, slightly higher than in August 2018 (23%).

Definitely Decided on Candidate - Republican Primary Voters

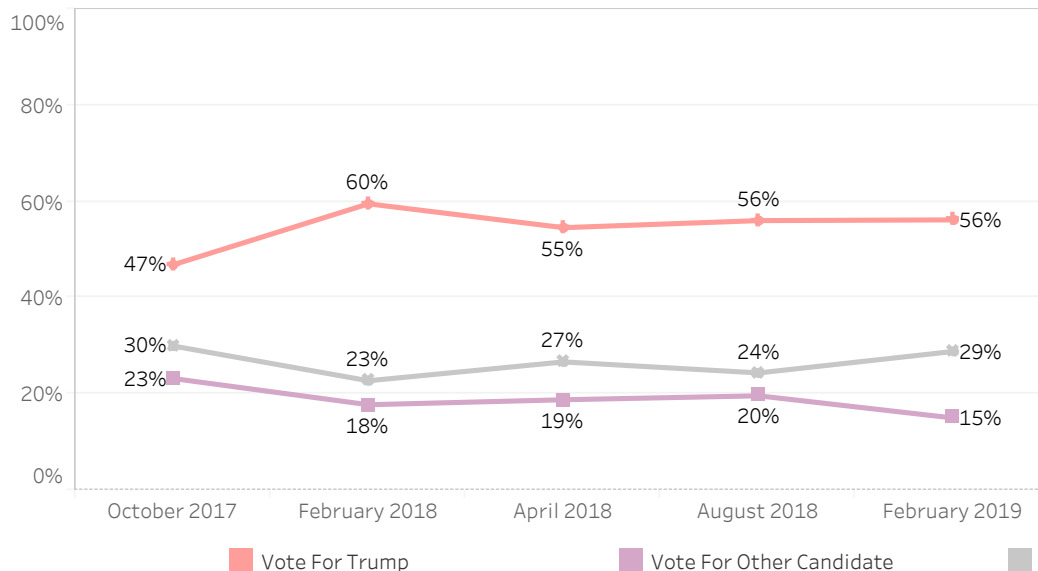

February 2019

While more than 80% of self-identified Republicans approve of President Trump's job performance, only 56% of likely Republican primary voters say they plan on voting for Donald Trump in the 2020 New Hampshire Republican presidential primary, unchanged since August 2018 (56%). Fifteen percent say they plan on voting for another candidate, while 29% don't know or are unsure.

Likely Republican primary voters who attend religious services once or twice a month, conservative talk radio listeners, those with a high school education or less, those aged 65 and older, those who voted for Donald Trump in 2016, and Central/Lakes Region residents are more likely than others to say they plan to vote for Trump in the 2020 Republican primary. Likely Republican primary voters who are self-described moderates and women are more likely to say they plan to vote for another candidate.

Plan on Voting for Trump or Other Republican Candidate?

February 2019

Several Republicans have tested the waters to see if there is support for a challenge to Trump. When asked to choose between Donald Trump and possible candidates former Ohio Governor John Kasich and former Massachusetts Governor William Weld, just over two-thirds of likely Republican primary voters (68%) would vote for Trump if the primary election were held today, 17% would support Kasich, 3% would support Weld, and 12% don't know or are undecided.

Those who attend religious services once or twice a month, conservative talk radio listeners, those who voted for Trump in 2016, self-described conservatives, and those aged 65 and older are more likely than others to say they would vote for Trump if the Republican Primary were held today. Self-identified Independents, those aged 18 to 34, and self-described moderates are more likely than others to say they would vote for Kasich.

Granite State Poll Methodology

These findings are based on the latest Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. Six hundred four (604) randomly selected New Hampshire adults were interviewed in English by landline and cellular telephone between February 18 and February 26, 2019. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 4.0 percent. Included in the sample were 218 likely 2020 Republican Primary voters (margin of sampling error +/- 6.6 percent) and 240 likely 2020 Democratic Primary voters (margin of sampling error +/- 6.3 percent). The design effect for the survey is 1.2%.

The random sample used in the Granite State Poll was purchased from Scientific Telephone Samples (STS), Rancho Santo Margarita, CA. STS screens each selected telephone number to eliminate non-working numbers, disconnected numbers, and business numbers to improve the efficiency of the sample, reducing the amount of time interviewers spend calling non-usable numbers. When a landline number is reached, the interviewer randomly selects a member of the household by asking to speak with the adult currently living in the household who has had the most recent birthday. This selection process ensures that every adult (18 years of age or older) in the household has an equal chance of being included in the survey.

The data have been weighted to adjust for numbers of adults and telephone lines within households. Additionally, data were weighted by respondent sex, age, education, and region of the state to targets from the most recent American Community Survey (ACS) conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau. In addition to potential sampling error, all surveys have other potential sources of non-sampling error including question order effects, question wording effects, and non-response. Due to rounding, percentages may not sum to 100%. The number of respondents in each demographic below may not equal the number reported in cross-tabulation tables as some respondents choose not to answer some questions.
