UNIQUE PROGRAMME

Get-organized for girls and boys.

Deputations have reached the state department of commerce and industry.

The purpose of the Council, as stated in its charter, is to coordinate and coordinate the studies of the problems connected with the supply of foods and other agricultural products of New Hampshire.

Dr. Scuttledt declared at the meeting that one of the real problems of the agricultural college is the preservation of the supply of foods. The deputations have been doing some work on this subject, he said, and they are trying to develop methods for preserving foods.

Last week, the deputations met in New Hampshire College, accompanied by Miss Mildred Ayers, Dean of the college, and Dr. Ayers, who was the chairman of the committee.

The deputations were greeted by Miss Mildred Ayers, who said that the college was glad to have the deputations.

The deputations were given a tour of the college, and they were shown the various farms and buildings.

The deputations were then taken to the dining room, where they were served a meal.

At the end of the meeting, Miss Mildred Ayers thanked the deputations for their visit and for their work.

The deputations then adjourned.

The New Hampshire College band played "The Star-Spangled Banner" as the deputations left the college.

The deputations then went to the New Hampshire Agricultural College, where they were given a tour of the college.

At the end of the tour, the deputations met with the president of the college, who thanked them for their visit and for their work.

George Westinghouse

Thirty years ago the alternating current system was but an idea, for whose life those who believed in it were fighting daily and nightly battles; today this same system is a story of almost inconceivable doings, capable of defending itself that no one seeks to attack it. For 80% of the electricity that is generated and transmitted today is alternating current.

The story of the development of alternating current is a story of courage and vision; of stubborn persistence and unswerving faith in the righteousness of cause; of tackling engineers and financiers; of putting up with hardships and dangers; of never giving up until they accomplished their goal.

No one has accomplished more in this field than George Westinghouse, the man whose courage and foresight laid the foundations of his great company, which bears his name.
