NEW ENGLAND STATE COLLEGES TO PLAN LEAGUE

Athletes Committee of Faculty Discuss Ideas With Five Groups

New England state colleges have made plans for a football league to begin in 1923. The idea of the league was first suggested by President E. G. Hillebrand of the University of Maine. The league is to include at least six colleges. Presumably, Dartmouth, Harvard, Boston University, and Haverford would be included. A statement of exactly how many colleges will participate will be made later.

At a meeting of the artists committee of the Faculty recently, the idea of organizing a football league was discussed. It was decided that a committee of five should be appointed to draw up a report on the subject. The committee is to be composed of representatives of Harvard, Dartmouth, Boston University, and the New Hampshire colleges. The committee is to have the task of preparing a plan for the league and presenting it to the football associations of the colleges. The report of the committee will be submitted to the athletic committee of the Faculty for consideration.

The football season of this year was marked by the lack of interest on the part of the student body. It was felt that a league would help to stimulate interest in football and would make the sport more interesting.

The committee is to be composed of representatives of Harvard, Dartmouth, Boston University, and the New Hampshire colleges. It is hoped that the committee will be able to present a report to the Faculty within a short time.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

A whole lot of the make-believe has been eliminated from selling operations in the past ten years. The old idea that salesmen were born to the sample-case, that they carried some sort of a special diploma from the University of Pool, has had to break down, along with the other exploded theories which insisted that salesmen must be "good fellows," a man of strange habits, tremendous stores, and unpredictable qualities, both as a miser, and as an assimilator.

Now we believe—we know—that the best salesman is the man who knows most about his goods, and can talk most interestingly about them.

This being the proven case, it is no queer that engineering should find a real and effective application in the selling field, especially if the merchandise marketed is in an engineering product that is bought and operated by engineers.

Every engineer who now engages in the sale of this product finds that he is doing work worthy of his training—for he is carrying Service and Service to Industry, and to mankind! He is out where the fighting is the most keen, and he is putting up a battle for the things that he believes are right. And a man can't expect, nor ask, a bigger challenge than that!

Sixty percent, approximately, of the engineering graduates who come to Westinghouse find their way eventually into some phase of selling. And we are proud to have them there—and they are glad to be there!

The Ninety-Four

Someone, probably an insurance agent, showed up on my door one day last week with a form which, from the man of one hundred college presidents who had previously been in the office of the late Walter L. Hurd, must rank as a veritable wonder. After much discussion it was determined that the form was to be left as a visitation card and that he was to be asked if he had any more cards. He replied in the affirmative and was given a card. The form was then taken back and the man was escorted out of the room.
