University of Maine, Rhode Island State, and Submarine University of New Hampshire base ball up sports all over the East, the University team beat Rhode Island Durham; on Thursday the New Hampshire team beat Rhode Island State.

The University of New Hampshire and its baseball clubs on Tuesday night engaged in two intercollegiate debates, both of which were on the proposition, "Resolved, that the University of New Hampshire gives the University of Rhode Island a fair and square chance in all athletic sports.

When the University of New Hampshire beat Rhode Island State on Tuesday night, the students on both sides showed the "student spirit" which is so characteristic of the two universities and were mighty pleased with the result. After the presentation of the debates, the judges took up the proposition for discussion and by a majority of two to one the "student spirit" of the "Subs" was voted to be the winning side.
