DURHAM, NH – Former Vice President Joe Biden continues to lead President Donald Trump in New Hampshire with only five weeks to go until Election Day. Half of likely voters say they have definitely decided to vote for Biden while four in ten say they will definitely vote for Trump. Despite trailing, most Trump supporters believe he will win the state of New Hampshire and the presidential election. Last night's debate is unlikely to have had much impact as most Granite Staters planned to watch all or some of the debate, but the few who have not definitely decided who to vote for were less likely to watch.

These findings are based on the latest Granite State Poll*, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. One thousand and thirty (1,030) Granite State Panel members completed the survey online between September 24 and September 28, 2020. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 3.1 percent. Included were 972 likely 2020 general election voters (MSE = +/- 3.1%). Data were weighted by respondent sex, age, education, and region of the state to targets from the most recent American Community Survey (ACS) conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau, as well as party registration levels provided by the New Hampshire Secretary of State and 2016 election results in NH. Granite State Panel members are recruited from randomly-selected landline and cell phone numbers across New Hampshire and surveys are sent periodically to panel members.

Presidential Election

Just before the first presidential debate, Joe Biden continues to maintain a solid lead over Donald Trump. When asked who they would vote for if the presidential election were held today, 53% of likely New Hampshire voters say they would vote for Joe Biden while 43% would vote for Donald Trump, 1% would vote for Libertarian Jo Jorgensen, less than 1% would vote for another candidate, and 3% don't know or are undecided. When those who are leaning towards a candidate are included, 53% support Biden, 44% support Trump, and 1% support Jorgensen. Biden's lead over Trump (+9 percentage points) has slightly declined since July (+13).

2020 Presidential General Election (With Leaners)

* We ask that this copyrighted information be referred to as the Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center.

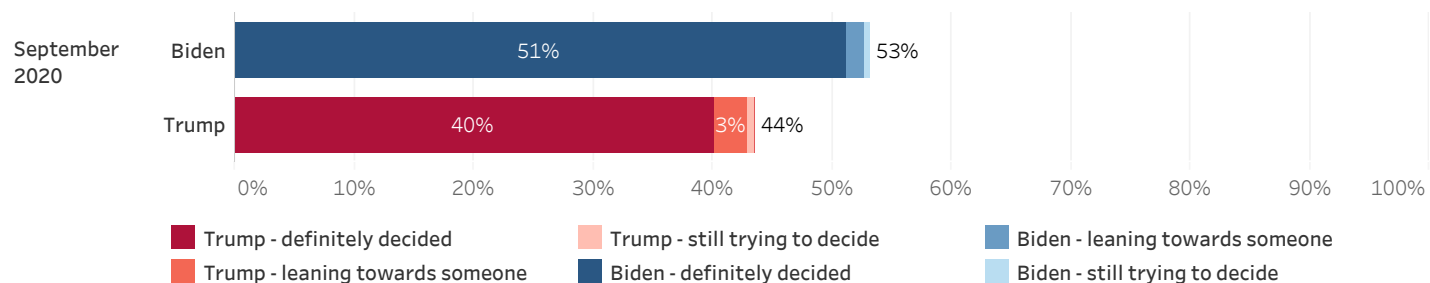

With the election only five weeks away, 92% of likely voters in New Hampshire say they have definitely decided whom they will vote for, up from 82% in July. By contrast, in October of 2016, only 73% of likely voters had definitely decided who they would vote for.

Decided on Choice for Presidential Election

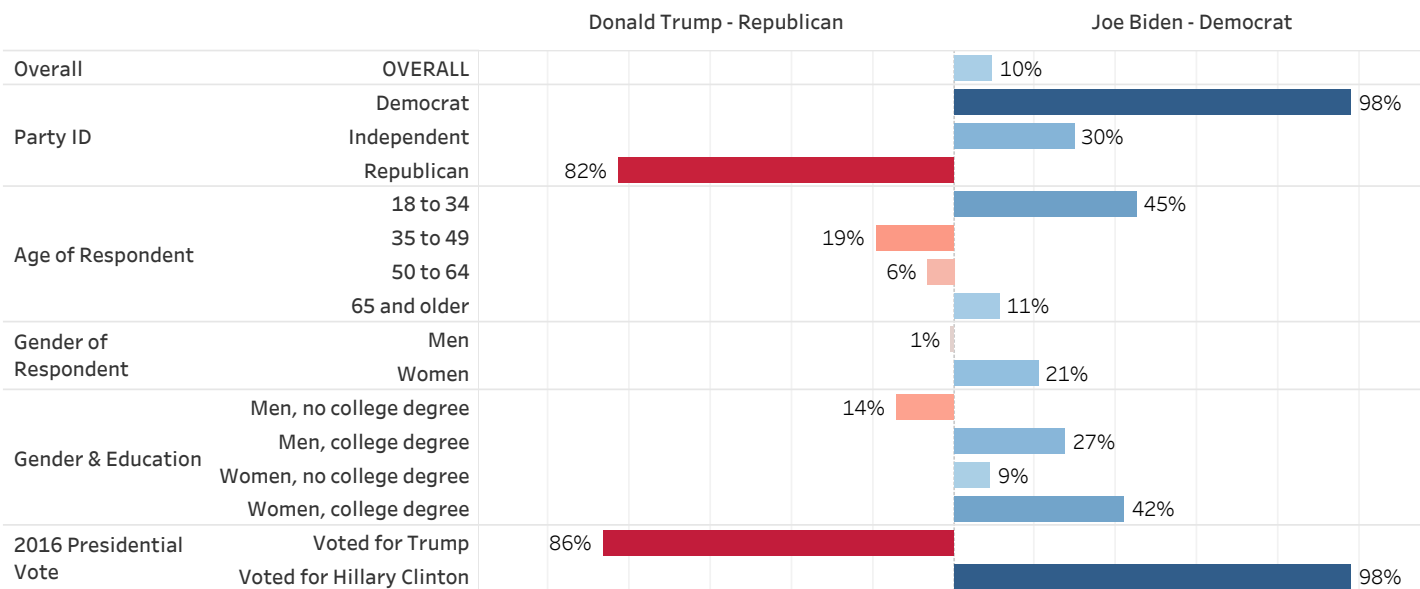

New Hampshire voters are unlikely to change their minds - just over half of likely voters (51%) say they have definitely decided to vote for Biden, 2% lean toward Biden, and less than 1% currently support Biden but are still trying to decide. Forty percent of likely voters say they have definitely decided to vote for Trump, 3% lean toward Trump, and less than 1% support Trump but are still trying to decide.

Decided on Choice for Presidential Election - By Preferred Candidate - September 2020

- Biden leads Trump by 98 percentage points among Democrats and by 30 points among Independents. Trump holds a 82 point lead among Republicans.
- Biden holds a commanding lead over Trump among those aged 18 to 34 (+45 percentage points) and a smaller lead among those aged 65 and older (+11) while Trump leads among those aged 35 to 49 (+19) and holds a very small lead among those aged 50 to 64 (+6).
- Trump and Biden are nearly tied among men (Trump +1) while Biden holds a wide lead among women (+21 percentage points).
- Biden holds clear leads among women with a college degree (+42 percentage points) and men with a college degree (+27) and holds a smaller lead among women without a college degree (+9). Trump leads among men without a college degree (+14).
- Biden leads Trump by 98 percentage points among those who supported Hillary Clinton in 2016 while Trump holds a slightly smaller lead (+86) among those who voted for him in 2016.

2020 Presidential General Election - Difference in Support - September 2020

Forty-six percent of likely voters in New Hampshire said they planned to watch all of Tuesday's presidential debate, 23% planned to watch most of the debate, 24% didn't plan to watch much of the debate but planned to pay close attention to news stories afterwards, 2% didn't plan to watch the debate or pay attention to news stories about it, and 4% didn't know or were unsure.

Among voters who are leaning towards someone or are still trying to decide, only 40% said they planned to watch all or most of the debate while nearly three-quarters (72%) of those who have definitely decided planned to watch all or most of it.

Plan for September 2020 Debate - By Firmness of Choice in Presidential Race - September 2020

When asked which candidate they think will win the presidential election in New Hampshire, regardless of who they plan to vote for, 51% of likely voters think Biden will win New Hampshire, unchanged since July (51%), while 37% think Trump will win, less than 1% say another candidate will win, and 12% don't know or are unsure. Biden and Trump supporters are about equally confident that their preferred candidate will win New Hampshire - 79% of Biden supporters think he will win while 75% of Trump supporters think he will win.

However, residents are split in their assessment of who will win nationally - 43% think Biden will win, largely unchanged since July (44%), while 43% think Trump will win. Eighty-eight percent of Trump supporters believe he will win nationally while 73% of Biden supporters believe Biden will win.

Which Candidate Believe Will Win NH & National Presidential Election - September 2020

Presidential Candidates Favorability

Forty-two percent of New Hampshire residents say they have a favorable opinion of Donald Trump, 55% have an unfavorable opinion of him, 3% are neutral, and less than 1% don't know or are unsure. Trump's net favorability rating (the percentage with a favorable opinion minus the percentage with an unfavorable opinion) is -12% and has remained largely stable over the past two years.

Trump (R) Favorability

Joe Biden is slightly more popular than Trump – 44% of New Hampshire residents say they have a favorable opinion of Biden, 46% have an unfavorable opinion of him, 9% are neutral, and 1% don't know or are unsure. Biden's net favorability rating is -3%, largely unchanged compared to July (-5%).

Biden (D) Favorability

Libertarian presidential nominee Jo Jorgensen is not well-known in the state - only 5% of New Hampshire residents have a favorable opinion of her, 12% have an unfavorable opinion of her, 11% are neutral, and nearly three-quarters (73%) don't know or are unsure.

Jorgensen (L) Favorability

Political Engagement

Eighty-six percent of New Hampshire residents say they will definitely vote in the 2020 election, 9% will vote unless some emergency comes up, less than 1% may vote, 4% will probably not vote, and less than 1% don't know at this time. The percentage who say they will definitely vote is slightly higher than in October 2016 (79%) but largely matches results from October 2012 (88%).

General Election Voting Intent

Democrats (96%) are slightly more likely than Republicans (85%) and a good deal more likely than Independents (63%) to say they will definitely vote in November. Since July, men, particularly those without a college degree, are less likely to say they will definitely vote.

Will Definitely Vote in General Election - Change from July 2020 to September 2020

Eighty-five percent of New Hampshire residents describe themselves as extremely interested in the upcoming general election; 11% say they are very interested, 3% say they are somewhat interested, less than 1% say they are not very interested, and 1% don't know or are unsure. The percentage of respondents who say they are extremely interested (85%) is largely unchanged since July (83%) but remains far higher than around this point in the 2016 (60% extremely interested) and in the 2012 (60% extremely interested) election cycles.

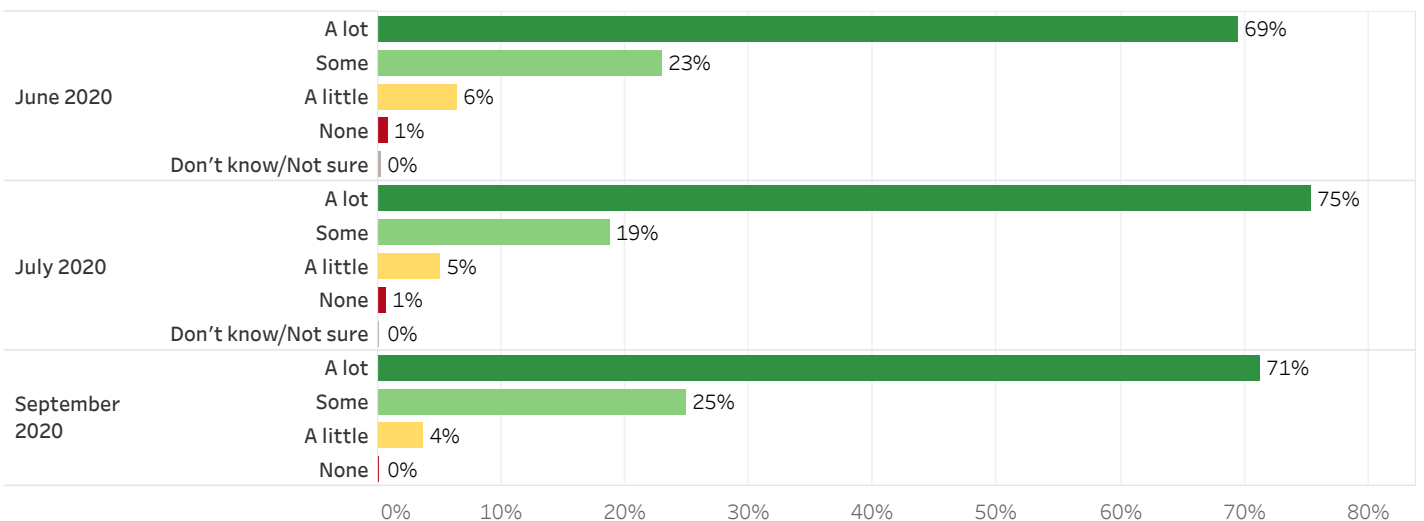

Democrats (92%) are slightly more likely than Republicans (84%) to say they are extremely interested in the 2020 general election while 81% of Independents are extremely interested.

Interest in General Election

Seventy-one percent of New Hampshire residents say they are paying a lot of attention to the 2020 election; 25% say they are paying some attention, 4% are paying a little attention, and less than 1% are not paying any attention. Democrats (84%) are more likely than Republicans (67%) and Independents (58%) to say they are paying a lot of attention to the election.

Granite State Poll Methodology

These findings are based on the latest Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. One thousand and thirty (1,030) Granite State Panel members completed the survey online between September 24 and September 28, 2020. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 3.1 percent. Included were 972 likely 2020 general election voters (MSE = +/- 3.1%). These MSE's have not been adjusted for design effect. The response rate for the September 2020 Granite State Poll is 37%. The design effect for the survey is 2.5%.

Data were weighted by respondent sex, age, education, and region of the state to targets from the most recent American Community Survey (ACS) conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau, as well as party registration levels provided by the New Hampshire Secretary of State and to 2016 election results in New Hampshire.

The Granite State Panel is part of an effort by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center to investigate new ways of gathering and understanding the opinion of New Hampshire residents. Approximately 5,750 New Hampshire adults were recruited from randomly selected landline and cell phone numbers to participate in the panel. Panelists are then asked to participate in online surveys sponsored by the UNH Survey Center.

The number of respondents in each demographic below may not equal the number reported in cross-tabulation tables as some respondents choose not to answer some questions. Due to rounding, percentages may not sum to 100%.

For more information about the methodology used in the Granite State Panel, contact Dr. Andrew Smith at (603) 862-2226 or by email at andrew.smith@unh.edu.
