R. O. T. C. NEWS

Col. A. F. Darmenzies, Chief of the School of Military Science, has disclosed that the winter training period for R. O. T. C. cadets begins January 2.

All freshmen and sophomore commanders should make plans to attend the meeting of the Class of 1929, scheduled for the first Tuesday in December at 5:30, in order to register for winter training and to retain their cadet rank.

The names of the girls' rifle team who will represent the college in the upcoming competition in New York are: George M. Gibbons, '29; Shirley A. Cottrell, '29; and Helen E. White, '30.

Placid a short time ago he decided to return to this country, and the next day he was on his way to Manchester, N. H., where he now resides. The trip was made in the company of a friend, and, as a result, the news of his return was not generally known at first.

The inscription, written in the hand of an unknown artist, is to be placed in a prominent position in the library of The New Hampshire, and it will be open to the public for viewing during the week.

The purpose of the committee is to recommend to the Alumni Association leaders of men and women from the college who have shown exceptional ability and who have made contributions of value to the college.

The meeting was originally arranged for the purpose of making a discussion of the problems of the day, and it was hoped that the meeting would be attended by a large number of people. However, due to circumstances beyond the control of the committee, the meeting was postponed until a later date.

The meeting was held in the main hall of the Community house, and the attendance was large. The speeches were short, and the discussion was active and interesting.

In the second part of the meeting, the committee appointed a committee of four members to prepare a report on the results of the meeting, and to submit it to the committee for consideration.

The meeting was held in the main hall of the Community house, and the attendance was large. The speeches were short, and the discussion was active and interesting.

Between now and Commencement we shall be kept busy by the demands of "Barons." "Watch out for the space with the Financial Signature."

If Horace Greeley were alive today he would probably say that the work of the American citizen is not only to work for the nation, but also to work for the world. The American citizen should be a world citizen, and he should work for the betterment of the world in the same way that he works for the betterment of his own country.

The percentage of American citizens who are engaged in foreign work is very small. This is because the American citizen is too often content with the work that he does at home. He should be encouraged to do more work for the world, and to take an interest in the work of the world.

The world is in a state of unrest and poverty. The American citizen should be a world citizen, and he should work for the betterment of the world in the same way that he works for the betterment of his own country.
