UNIVERSITY INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE PROCEEDS CAREFULLY TOWARD DECISION

Meets Twice Wtih Governor Winant in Executive Session-President Hetzel Presents Facts and Figures-Auditor Reports Favorably on Institution's Financial Records-Other Concord News

SPECIAL TO THE NEW HAMPSHIRE

By A. S. Baker, '21

CONCORD, March 10.-Today was town meeting day in New Hampshire with every town holding its annual reorganization gathering and solving its own problems of local government. For that reason there was no session of the New Hampshire Legislature today but when the House and Senate reconvene tomorrow there will be held the second meeting of the joint House and Senate committee with his Excellency the Governor to study the problems of the University of New Hampshire.

The committee was appointed to make a thorough study of conditions at Durham and directed to report to the Legislature a definite policy for future maintenance and development of the University.

A conference with this group of investigators constituted Governor John G. Winant's first executive act upon his return from the national capital, where he witnessed the inauguration of President Coolidge and Vice-Pres-

The investigating committee met in the executive offices at the State House and following an executive session called upon President Ralph D. Hetzel of the University to describe to the committee the present conditions at Durham, figures relating to past developments at the University and the expectations of himself and the trustees as to its future developments.

The first game was won by Alice Tirrell, '25, and Mr Stewart Coach Gustafson's yearlings by a 31 to 13 score and on Saturday night, in the last contest, the Maine boys were unable to score a basket from the floor. The game ended with the locals ahead, 38 to 6. Every man on the squad entered the contest, but the visitors were unable to make any headway against the third and fourth string men.

On Friday night, the freshmen showed superb form throughout the game and were never in danger of being headed. They displayed the same fast and untiring action that has predominated in the last few games. The contest opened with a few flashy plays and before the visitors were aware of the fact, the freshmen had dropped in a basket. Again and again the yearlings scored before the Kent's Hill Aggregation called for time out, after they finally succeeded in dropping in a lone goal. Here the freshmen's fast winning streak was stemmed for a short time and the visitors managed to add a few more points to their credit. Fourth Annual Interscholastic Basketball Tournament Red-Letter Event of Week-end on New Hampshire Calendar of Sport-Interest Runs High as Games Begin-Housing Accommodations Taxed to Utmost as Visitors Throng into Durham

Friday and Saturday of this week-end are red-letter days of the interscholastic basketball season in New Hampshire, and Durham is the one spot in the state to which the eyes of all followers of sport in New Hampshire are turned. The reason for this interest is the Fourth Annual Interscholastic Basketball Tournament, arranged by the Department of Physical Education of the University, at which eight high schools and four preparatory teams which he is a member, in getting the dinner in the President's Room at the of the state will compete for honors in their particular classes. More than 125 boy athletes with their coaches and managers are in town where they are being entertained by the department and the fraternities. The games will start on Friday at three p. m. and will continue until Saturday night when the finals will be played and the beautiful trophies which have been provided will be presented to the winners. The teams entering the tournament are: High school class, Portsmouth, Bartlett, Manchester, Lebanon, Laconia, Nashua, Marlboro, and either Berlin or Lancaster, who are to play off a tie for the right to compete in the local Gymnasium on Thursday night. In the prep school class, Proctor Academy, Sanborn Seminary, Holderness and Titlon schools will battle for honors.

DURHAM A HEALTHY PLACE TO LIVE

Vital Statistics Show Gain of One in Population for 1924

The vital statistics for the Town of Durham as published in the annual Town Report for the year of 1924 reveal the fact that the population of the town is on the gain, aside from the constant additions the crowds of students who swarm numbers.

The report says that in 1924, 12 births were recorded with the town clerk, Charles Wentworth, while only 11 deaths occurred. The net gain in the population was, therefore, one.

Durham seems to be a healthy place. Of the 11 deaths noted, two were of infants, and the average age of the other nine adults who died was 70.4 years. Joshua B. Smith, who died in August, had attained the ripe old age of 101 years. The most prevalent cause of death was pneumonia and heart disease.

Ten couples visited Mr. Wentworth to obtain the well known license, and the Reverend Moses Lovell seems to be the most popular offiicial for the actual tying of the knot. His name is given as the officiating clergyman in five of the weddings. The Reverend Morse of Dover, a popular Convocation speaker, performed two of the ceremonies.

The New Hampshire bids the schoolboy basketball players a hearty welcome. Each year, as you ament assumes a more and more im-Hampshire sports. In previous years the games have always been hotly contested, have displayed some good basketball, and have all been noticeable for the good sportsmanship and fine spirit which has been engendered. We are confident that this will be true once again.

Some of you are with us for the engagements. Many of you plan to cured and will be awarded to the Hampshire extends a hearty invita- 2.30. tion, and we are sure that the student body expresses the same wish, to look us over carefully during your short stay with us. We are rather crowded, and particularly so this week-end, but close quarters are conducive to ready and more intimate acquaintance.

We wish you all good luck; but of course everyone cannot win. We hope, however, that everyone of you play the best game that you know, that you get your share of the breaks, and that if you are beaten, it will be at the hands of a truly better team. In other words, "May the best man win!"

MORE ADVICE

To the student body we say this, "Give the schoolboys some time." They are our guests and they should see the University at its best. If you have a copy of last week's New Hampshire in your room, read our editorial entitled, "Plain Talk." Substantially it said this. Be impartial in your attitude toward the players when they are on the floor. Don't make your applause for one team obnoxious to another. The same rules of good sportsmanship and fair play which we observe when our own teams are playing should be followed throughout the tournament. Send the boys home with a good word for your institution.

IN RE! RESPONSIBILITY

"To thine own self be true And it must follow as the night the day

Thou canst not then be false to any man.'

It makes no difference that the above lines were spoken in hypocrisy and cant; that they are essentially smugly sentimental; that they are sufficiently general to be almost meaningless; they hold the vital part of responsibility in their brief compass. For there are two phases in the control of conduct: Authority and responsibility, one external and at best unsatisfactory in its results, the other self-contained and, theoretically at least, highly effective With authority we have ever had little sympathy. It has been the subject of bitter attack through all ages, in all lands and in all classes of society. The antique the medieval Luther, and the modern flapper have this in common: An abiding resentment of external control.

If we are to flout or disregard authority, it is necessary to replace it with some other sanction. And responsibility is the logical answer to our daily needs. Our daily responsibility follows us as closely and as inconveniently as our daily work. And it serves its purpose in the development of self-respect and characteristic freedom even when it becomes tiresome. We hear much of authority in the classroom, on the parade ground, in our campus or-We even hear, at times and rather dubiously, some mention made of responsibility. A professor of history mentioned student responsibility the other day without, we venture to say, a clear conception of its implications or a very far-sighted vision of its possi-

The matter impels us to this query. What is the exact nature of the obligation students owe to instructors? And again, what is the exact nature of the obligation instructors owe to their students? And the answer seems to be, after some study of the subject, that the duties THE UNIV. OF NEW HAMPSHIRE of students and instructors are conjunctive in the obligations gentlemen owe to one another. If the student is responsible, on the one hand, for attention and a reasonable preparation of assignments, the instructor is no less under the obligation of seldom being tiresome. that that is not always the case.

day in the week, providing that the game is played on a regulation sized floor. The Berlin team came down disappointed when Lancaster received the invitation last year. This According to the report during the year, the Berlin team was defeated two years 1922 and 1923 by Lancaster on the Lancaster court Hampshire students were admitted 26 to 23; later in the season, in Berto post-secondary schools in the follin, the Paper City quintet defeated lowing number Lancaster 31 to 21 on the Berlin floor which is nearer regulation size. Coach Stoughton feels that his boys were upset by the importance of the contest which was further enhanced by the presence of several hundred fans and a special train which accompanied the team to Berlin. In order to settle their difference in a fair and square manner, the two teams agreed to play in the New! Hampshire Gymnasium, on Thursday night to decide who shall represent their section in the big games. The winning team will be entertained by the Tournament Committee for the duration of the games while the loser will probably go home. Lang Fernald is to referee the contest. Both teams are eager for the victory, the backers in the North Country are eagerly awaiting the results and the game itself should be chock full of pep and interest. There are several boys on each team who intend to enter the Univerty next year. Stafford, one of the mainstays of the Berlin five, has had three brothers graduate from the University, one of them being Theodore Stafford, captain of the 1923 varsity basketball team, a four letter man in track, and winner of the Chase Davis medal for that year.

This year marks an important step in the conduct of the games. The state has been divided into eigh. sections regardless of county line. and by this process the eight best high school teams have been selected to complete. In addition to this innovation, another class has been arranged for the preparatory teams which have somewhat of an advantage over the average New Hampshire high schools both in material, coaching and equipment. Four prep schools have been invited to compete in this class. A beautiful gold plaque will be presented to the winning teams, and the individual winners will be given gold basketball trophies for their watch chains; the runners-up will receive silver bas-

Interest in the tournament has grown so rapidly that this year a preliminary tournament was held at Tilton between five high schools in that district to decide who should have the honor of coming here. addition to this, the Berlin and Lancaster teams are to come here before the tourney to settle their difficulties in a preliminary game. The probable result of this competition will eventually mean the formation of a league in each section of the state whereby each team will play the other and so eliminate the difficulty of choosing between two teams with equally good "paper rec ords" who have not played each oth-

LACONIA SENDS QUINTET TO DURHAM HAS UNUSUAL RECORD

Second Time High School Has Been Represented at Annual Tournament-Team Should Be Strong Contender

The High School five from Laconia comes to the Tournament for the second tim.e Last year Laconia was represented by a team that played in the semi-finals. They were defeated only by the champions of the Tournament last year, Manchester. Their season has been rather hectic, losing five out of the first eight games played. The team must have a lot of fight, however, to clean up the three games they played at the Tilton elimination tournament. Manchester, Ashland, and Portsmouth are the teams which hold victories over Laconia. The scores have been close, however, and the Lake team will be a big obstacle in someone's path at the Tournament.

Laconia is coached this year by a former New Hampshire star, H. F. Fernald "Kike," as he is called by his former schoolmates, played varsity baseball for three years, being captain during his junior year in college. This is his first year coach-He has played on semi-pro baseball teams during the summer and while in college played on a collegiate basketball team.

The star of the Laconia team is "Bill" Clement. He has played on this team for the past four years and has been captain for the past two years. Clement plays a for-ward position and does the bulk of the scoring together with Jones, the

LANCASTER ACADEMY

Has Defeated 13 of 14 Opponents-Hot Struggle Against Berlin Quintet Thursday Night Is Anticipated

Lancaster Academy of Lancaster, N. H., has an unusual record for the rast season, having defeated thirteen f her fourteen opponents, incidentally riling up a total of 629 points against 275 for her adversaries. Thursday night in Durham will witness Lancaster struggle against the powerful Berlin quintet which has defeated her once and which she in turn has vanquished, for the title of Section I and the privilege of contesting for the teams are more than usually hotblooded and as neither is particularly anxious to journey homeward on Friday, the day on which the tournament begins, a game worth while is anticirated.

Lancaster is coached by Carroll Stroughton, a graduate of Worcester Academy and later Worcester Tech., where he was a prominent figure in athletics, playing on Henry Swasey's New England basketball champions of the year 1920. He also studied coaching at the University of Michigan Summer School for coaches. There are no individual stars on the Lancaster team, each man playing a consistent game with obvious success, Charles Young, has played an excellent brand of basketball all season. MANCHESTER CHAMPS STILL HAVE KICK

Will Enter Tournament Minus Greatest Star, John Bozek, but Still Have Formidable Club

McDonough has coached Manchester for the past four years. Before going into the coaching game "Hubie" attended the Coaches' School at Harvard. Since his arrival at Manchester, athletics have been in the fore, and the success of last year's basketball team, which placed third in the National Tournament at Chicago, is merely a record of his accomplishments. Manchester has lost its scoring star, the elder Bozek, but it still has Johnny's brother, Emil. The younger Bozek and the acting captain, Tiffin are the stars of the team, Bozek on the scoring end and Tiffin on the defensive. Tiffin jumps center and then plays a guard position. The younger Bozek is one of the fastest forwards playing in New England. He has a tendency to play a bit rougher than his teammates, however, and this has handicapped his scoring ability. Manchester predicts that Emil will develop into a better and faster player than the brother who preceded him

This team has had a very successful season, losing only hree of its 19 games during the year, and piling up a total of 620 points scored against its opponents 352. Of all Lebanon's opponents, only the powerful Dartmouth freshman quintet, the Manchester West Side High School, and Clark School of Hanover proved too much for the strength of Lebanon, whose chance of attending the tournament last year was spoiled by Hanover in a hotly contested game during the latter part of the season.

Lebanon is coached by Raymond E. Claffin, graduated from Brown University in 1920 and head coach in three sports at Kimball Union Academy until 1922. At this time, he accepted a position as headmaster at Lebanon and acted as coach in addition to his other duties. The team is built about a powerful Bartlett High school of Bartlett is sending its basketball quintet to the interscholastic tournament after completing a very satisfactory and creditable season, having won twelve of its twenty games with a total score for the scason of 561 points to its opponents 414. This is the first tournament at Durham which Bartlett has attended and hopes run high in the little upstate school for fur ther opportunities to show her basket-tossing prowess in the future.

Bartlett is coached by Harry Mc-Hugh of Littleton, a graduate of the Littleton High school and a referee and semi-professional ball player of repute, whose first attempt at coaching has proved a success in the fullest sense of the word.

F. Donahue and F. Chandler, both of whom intend to enter the University of New Hampshire, are the high point scorers of the team Chandler having piled up a total of 171 points and Donahue 151. HOLDERNESS SCRAPS FOR PREP HONORS

Comes to Tournament with Good Record-Captain of Team to Enter New Hampshire Next Fall

Holderness School, from Plymouth, s sending a team to the Tournament for the first time. The upstate quintet has had a successful season, winning six games and losing three. Tilton, beaten once by Holderness, managed to turn the tables in a return engagement; Proctor Academy registered a defeat over its old rivals, and the strong Dartmouth freshman defeated the Holderness outfit by a wide margin. In its other games, which included some strong competition, Holderness came through scoring 201 points for the season against 167 for her opponents.

Holderness is coached by Edward R. Clare, who received his educa-tion at Holderness School and Trinity College, where he was active in sev-Basketball in Connecticut. He has also played professional baseball and basketball in Conencticut. He has had a wide experience in the direction of boys' athletics; this is his third year as director of athletics at Holderness, and he has also been connected with the recreational activities of boys' summer camps for nine

Holderness is described by newspaper men as a smooth working organization with few individual stars. Fred Hopewell, center, played for the Manual High school of Brooklyn, N. Y., last season and is considered a valuable man. Stoddard B. Chase of Manchester, guard and captain of the team, is playing his second year at Holderness and is rated as one of the best running guards in the state. He plans to matriculate at New Hampshire next year. The names of the players and their positions, the team's record and the college intentions of the seniors follow: Names of players

TILTON COMES TO FOURTH TOURNAMENT

Ceach Thompson, '15, Has Had Poor Season with Tilton Quintet, But Close Competition in Prep School Is Expected

Tilton School is coming to the Prep School Tournament this year represented by a team that has won four games and lost seven. The teams defeating Tilton, however, were mostly college freshman teams and Exeter Academy. Tilton won the first tournament at Durham three years ago and will be a close contender for the Prep school championship. She has been a contender in every tournament conducted here.

Tilton is coached by a former New Hampshire man, John Thompson. Thompson graduated from New Hampshire in 1915. While in college he played varsity football and varsity basketball for his entire four years. He was captain of the basketball team during his last two years in college. In 1916, Coach Thompson was at Sanborn Seminary; during the two years following he coached at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, going from there into the service. Since then he has been coach at Ashland for two years and for the past four years has been the coach of Tilton. He is a member of the A. T. O. fraternity.
Harlan F. Woods is the captain of the Tilton quintet. He is prominent in all athletics at Tilton, playing football and baseball. Woods is a senior and he plays a guard position
