DURHAM, NH – Approval of Governor Chris Sununu's job performance in New Hampshire remains high but has slipped in recent months. Three-quarters approve of Sununu's handling of the COVID-19 pandemic, but only one in ten believe it is the most important problem facing the state, far lower than earlier in the year. Granite Staters oppose abortion-related policies in the recently passed budget bill.

These findings are based on the latest Granite State Poll*, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. One thousand seven hundred and ninety-four (1,794) Granite State Panel members completed the survey online between July 15 and July 19, 2021. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 2.3 percent. Data were weighted by respondent sex, age, education, and region of the state to targets from the most recent American Community Survey (ACS) conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau, as well as party registration levels provided by the NH Secretary of State and 2020 election results in NH. Granite State Panel members are recruited from randomly-selected landline and cell phone numbers across New Hampshire and surveys are sent periodically to panel members.

Gubernatorial Approval

Governor Sununu continues to have high job approval ratings, but they have been on a downward trend for the past several months. Currently, 63% of Granite Staters approve of Chris Sununu's job performance as governor, one-third (33%) disapprove, and 4% neither approve nor disapprove or don't know. Sununu's net approval rating (the percentage who approve minus the percentage who disapprove) among Granite Staters is +30, down from +37 in June.

COVID-19

Three-quarters (76%) approve of Sununu's handling of the COVID-19 pandemic while 21% disapprove. Approval of Sununu's handling of COVID-19 has remained high since the pandemic began and is currently at its highest point since October 2020 (83%). Approval of Sununu's handling of the pandemic is also bipartisan: 90% of Republicans, 85% of Independents, and 60% of Democrats approve.

Most Important Problem Facing New Hampshire

Nineteen percent of New Hampshire residents believe that jobs or the economy is the most important problem facing the state, eclipsing COVID-19 as the problem most frequently mentioned. Only 10% now believe COVID-19 is the most serious problem facing the state, down from 36% in March and 48% in November 2020. Another 10% believe housing or the cost of housing is the most important problem facing the state and 8% believe that drugs is the most important problem, while smaller numbers cite education (4%), taxes (3%), healthcare (2%), or the state budget (1%). Forty-two percent mention another problem and 2% don't know or are unsure.

Abortion-Related Policies

The two-year state budget and an accompanying policy-focused trailer bill that passed in June contained two controversial changes to abortion-related restrictions.

One provision is a ban on abortion after 24 weeks, except for emergencies involving the health of the mother, with no exceptions for rape, incest, or fetal anomalies. Doctors who perform abortions banned by this policy could be charged with a felony. This policy is unpopular among Granite Staters: only one-third (33%) strongly (26%) or somewhat (7%) support it, more than half (56%) strongly (49%) or somewhat (7%) oppose it, 5% are neutral, and 6% are unsure. Most Democrats (87%) are opposed to this policy, while six in ten Republicans (60%) support it. Independents are more divided, but a plurality are opposed - 49% to 40%. Nearly two-thirds (63%) of women oppose this policy while 46% of men are opposed to it.

Another abortion restriction is a requirement that all women seeking an abortion first have an ultrasound. This policy is also unpopular: only 31% strongly (23%) or somewhat (8%) support it, more than half (53%) strongly (45%) or somewhat (9%) oppose it, 13% are neutral, and 3% are unsure. Eighty-seven percent of Democrats are opposed to this policy, while a slight majority of Republicans (55%) support it. Independents lean towards opposition, with 27% in support and 41% opposed.

Education Policies

Also included in the budget trailer bill were two controversial policy changes related to education, a ban on the teaching of "divisive concepts" in public schools and the creation of "education freedom accounts."

The ban on the teaching of divisive concepts, including "critical race theory" divides Granite Staters on party lines. Overall, 42% strongly (37%) or somewhat (6%) support it, 44% strongly (39%) or somewhat (5%) oppose it, 5% are neutral, and 9% don't know or are unsure. Eighty percent of Democrats oppose the ban, three-quarters of Republicans (74%) support it, and Independents are divided, with 45% in support and 39% opposed.

Another provision establishes "education freedom accounts" that allow tax dollars to pay for tuition and fees at private and religious schools. Nearly half (49%) of Granite Staters strongly (40%) or somewhat (10%) oppose this policy, 42% strongly (27%) or somewhat (15%) support it, 5% are neutral, and 4% are unsure.

Support for education freedom accounts is also a very partisan issue - 79% of Democrats are opposed to them, while 69% of Republicans support them. Independents are more divided with 50% in support and 39% opposed. Among those with children in their household (N=546), 50% support this policy while 44% oppose it, while among those with no children in their household (N=1,214) 38% support it and 52% are opposed.

Tax Policy

Another provision in the budget trailer bill phases out New Hampshire's 5% Interest and Dividends Tax over five years. A plurality (42%) strongly (29%) or somewhat (13%) support this move while 19% are strongly (12%) or somewhat (7%) opposed to it, but a high percentage of residents are neutral (19%) or are unsure (20%). Nearly three-quarters (74%) of Republicans and 44% of Independents support phasing out the tax, while a plurality of Democrats (37%) are opposed.

The budget trailer bill also includes a provision that requires the governor to convene a session of the full Legislature ninety days into a state of emergency so that lawmakers would vote to continue or end the governor's state of emergency. Just over half (52%) of Granite Staters strongly (23%) or somewhat (29%) support this policy, 16% strongly (8%) or somewhat (9%) oppose it, 16% are neutral, and 16% are unsure. Seven in ten (70%) Republicans and 60% of Independents support this policy, while Democrats are more divided, with 31% in support, 19% opposed, 21% neutral, and 29% unsure.

Granite State Poll Methodology

These findings are based on the latest Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. One thousand seven hundred and ninety-four (1,794) Granite State Panel members completed the survey online between July 15 and July 19, 2021. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 2.3 percent. These MSE's have not been adjusted for design effect. The response rate for the July 2021 Granite State Poll is 28%. The design effect for the survey is 2.9%.

Data were weighted by respondent sex, age, education, and region of the state to targets from the most recent American Community Survey (ACS) conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau, as well as party registration levels provided by the NH Secretary of State and to 2020 election results in New Hampshire.

The Granite State Panel is part of an effort by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center to investigate new ways of gathering and understanding the opinion of New Hampshire residents. Approximately 6,250 New Hampshire adults were recruited from randomly selected landline and cell phone numbers to participate in the panel. Panelists are then asked to participate in online surveys sponsored by the UNH Survey Center.

The number of respondents in each demographic below may not equal the number reported in cross-tabulation tables as some respondents choose not to answer some questions. Due to rounding, percentages may not sum to 100%.

For more information about the methodology used in the Granite State Panel, contact Dr. Andrew Smith at (603) 862-2226 or by email at andrew.smith@unh.edu.
