DURHAM, NH - Florida Governor Ron DeSantis has opened a lead over former President Donald Trump among likely voters in the New Hampshire 2024 Republican presidential primary. Less than half of likely GOP primary voters think Trump should be running.

2024 Republican Presidential Primary

The New Hampshire 2024 Republican presidential primary is about a year away and Republican candidates have been visiting the Granite State to talk to voters in the "first-in-the-nation" primary state. DeSantis, who has not yet announced his candidacy, holds a lead over his potential rivals, most notably Trump. When provided with a list of Republicans who are thought by observers to be considering running for President in 2024, DeSantis currently has the support of 42% of likely New Hampshire Republican primary voters (N=347), followed by Trump at 30%. Other potential candidates get far less support: 8% of likely GOP primary voters support former UN Ambassador Nikki Haley, 4% each support New Hampshire Governor Chris Sununu, former Wyoming Representative Liz Cheney, or former Maryland Governor Larry Hogan, while 2% support South Dakota Governor Kristi Noem. No other candidate was chosen by more than 1% of respondents, while 2% are unsure who they would support. It should be noted that primary campaigns are very volatile and leading a year before the primary does not guarantee a win in New Hampshire.

First Choice GOP 2024 Presidential Candidate - Among Likely GOP Primary Voters - January 2023

* We ask that this copyrighted information be referred to as the Granite State Poll, a States of Opinion Project, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center.

Support for DeSantis (42%) is largely unchanged since June 2022 (39%) while support for Trump (30%) has steadily declined from a high of 47% in July 2021.

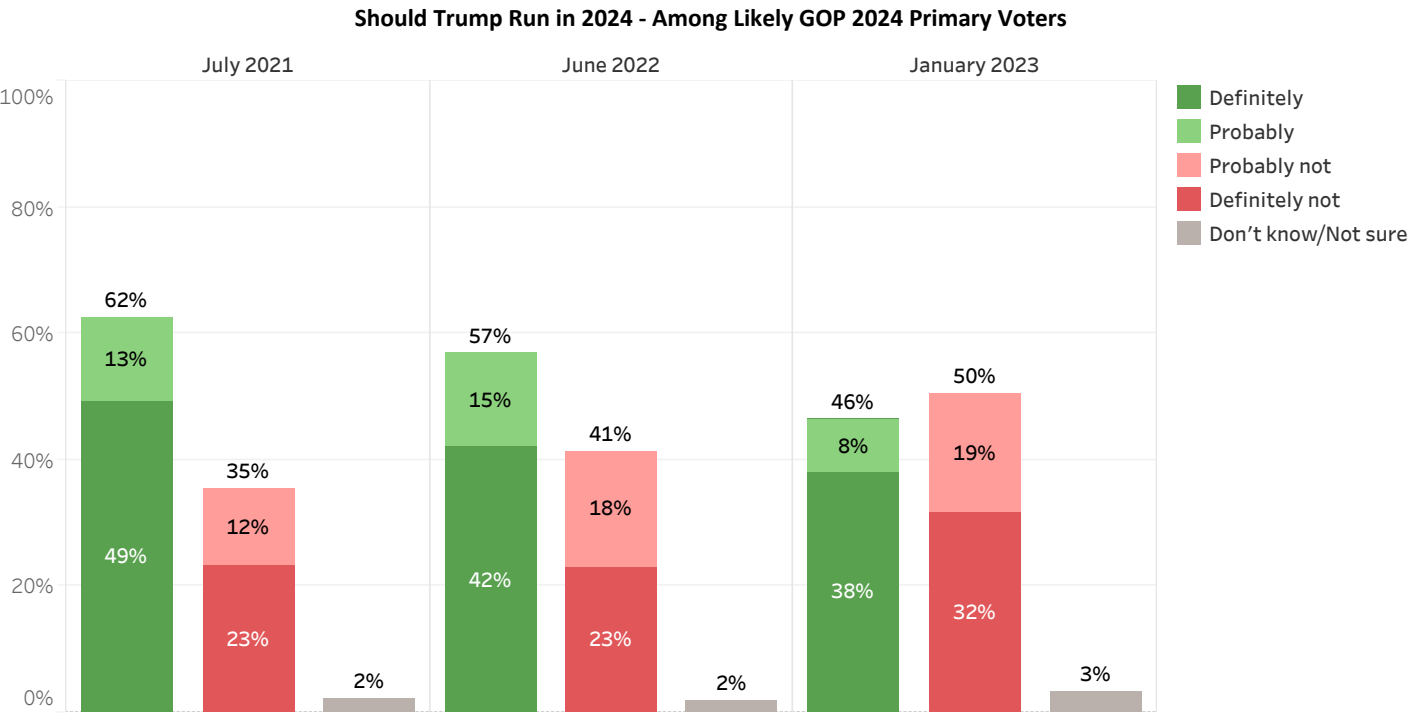

When asked for their second choice, 30% of likely Republican primary voters support DeSantis, 19% support Sununu, 14% support Trump, 7% support Texas Senator Ted Cruz, 6% support former Secretary of State Mike Pompeo, and 5% support Haley. Less than 5% support South Carolina Senator Tim Scott (3%), Cheney (2%), Noem (2%), former Vice President Mike Pence (2%), or Hogan (2%). No other candidate was chosen by more than 1% of respondents, while 1% say they would not vote or do not have a second choice and 4% are unsure who would be their second choice.

More than three-quarters (78%) of those whose first choice is Trump say that DeSantis is their second choice, while those whose first choice is DeSantis have more varied second-place picks, with Trump (30%), Sununu (16%), Cruz (15%), and Haley (10%) each receiving double-digit second choice support.

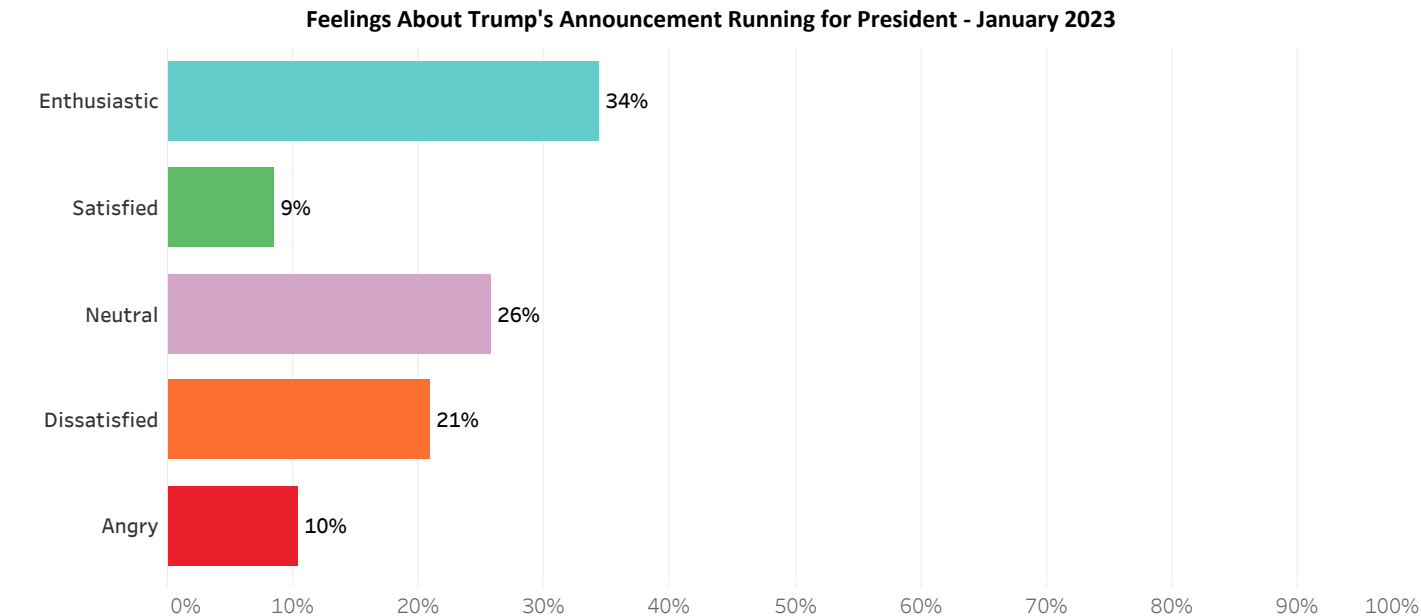

As time has passed, fewer New Hampshire Republicans want Trump to run in 2024. Forty-six percent of likely New Hampshire 2024 Republican primary voters think Trump definitely (38%) or probably (8%) should be running for President in 2024, 50% think he definitely (32%) or probably (19%) should not run, and 3% are unsure. Majorities of likely Republican primary voters said they wanted Trump to run in July 2021 (62%) and in June 2022 (57%) before he announced his run for President in late 2022. Fifty-eight percent of self-described conservative likely Republican primary voters think Trump should be running but only 44% of moderate and 24% of libertarian likely GOP primary voters agree.

Among all Granite Staters, only 21% think Trump definitely (17%) or probably (4%) should be running for President while 73% think he definitely (61%) or probably (12%) should not be running.

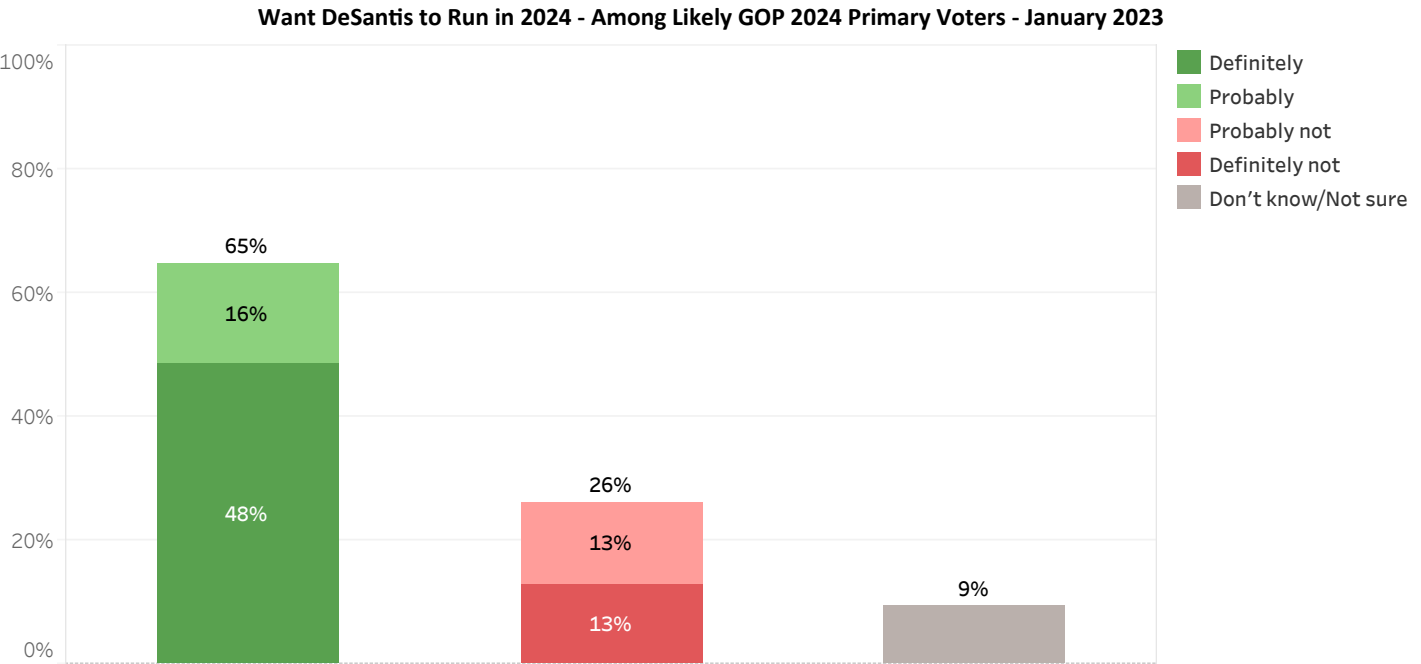

Soon after the 2022 midterm elections, Trump announced that he would seek the presidency again in 2024. When asked how they feel about Trump's announcement, 34% of likely New Hampshire Republican primary voters say that they are enthusiastic, 9% describe themselves as satisfied, 26% say they are neutral, 21% say they are dissatisfied, and 10% say they are angry. Among conservative likely GOP primary voters, 43% say they are enthusiastic and only 6% say they are angry, while moderates are more divided, with 44% describing themselves as enthusiastic but 21% describing themselves as angry.

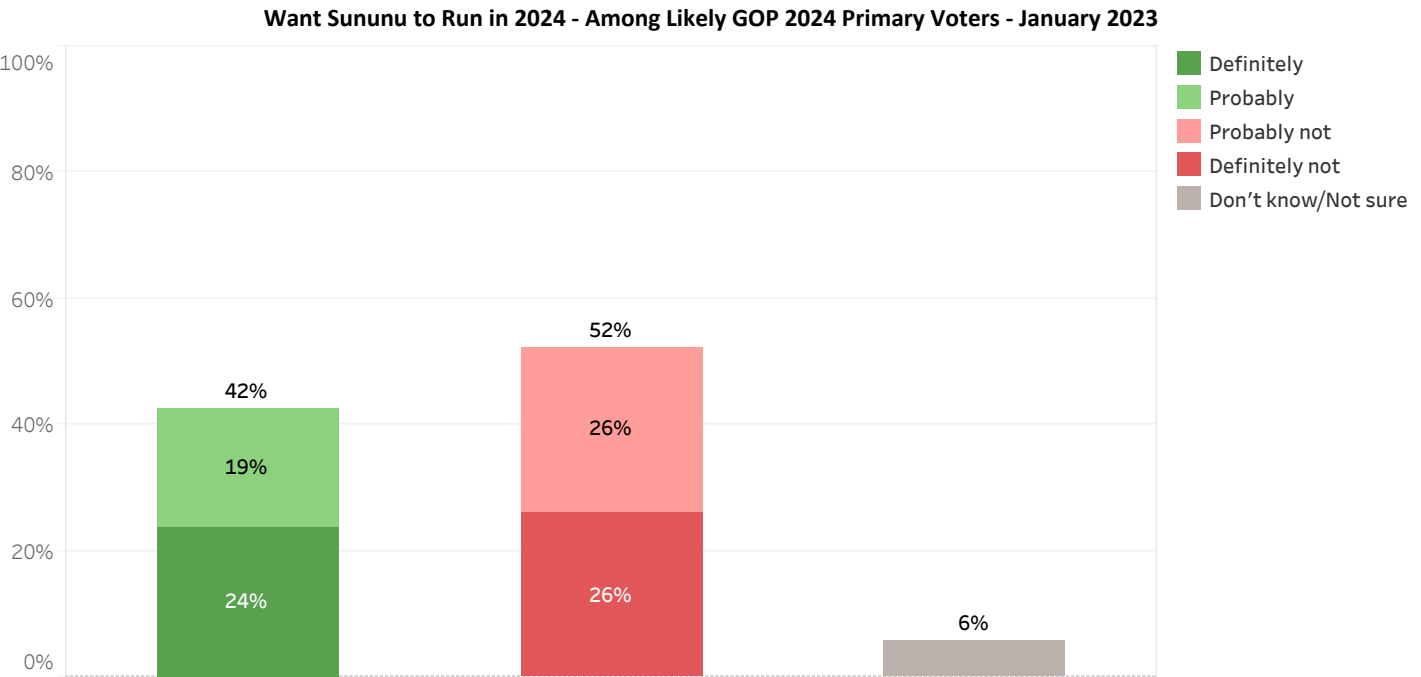

Nearly two-thirds (65%) of likely New Hampshire 2024 Republican primary voters think that DeSantis should definitely (48%) or probably (16%) run for President in 2024, 26% think he definitely (13%) or probably (13%) should not run, and 9% are unsure. Most self-described libertarian (81%) and conservative (76%) likely Republican primary voters think DeSantis should run for President, while moderates are more divided, as 55% think he should definitely or probably run and 40% think he definitely or probably should not.

Among all Granite Staters, 35% think DeSantis definitely (23%) or probably (12%) should run for President while 54% think he definitely (47%) or probably (7%) should not.

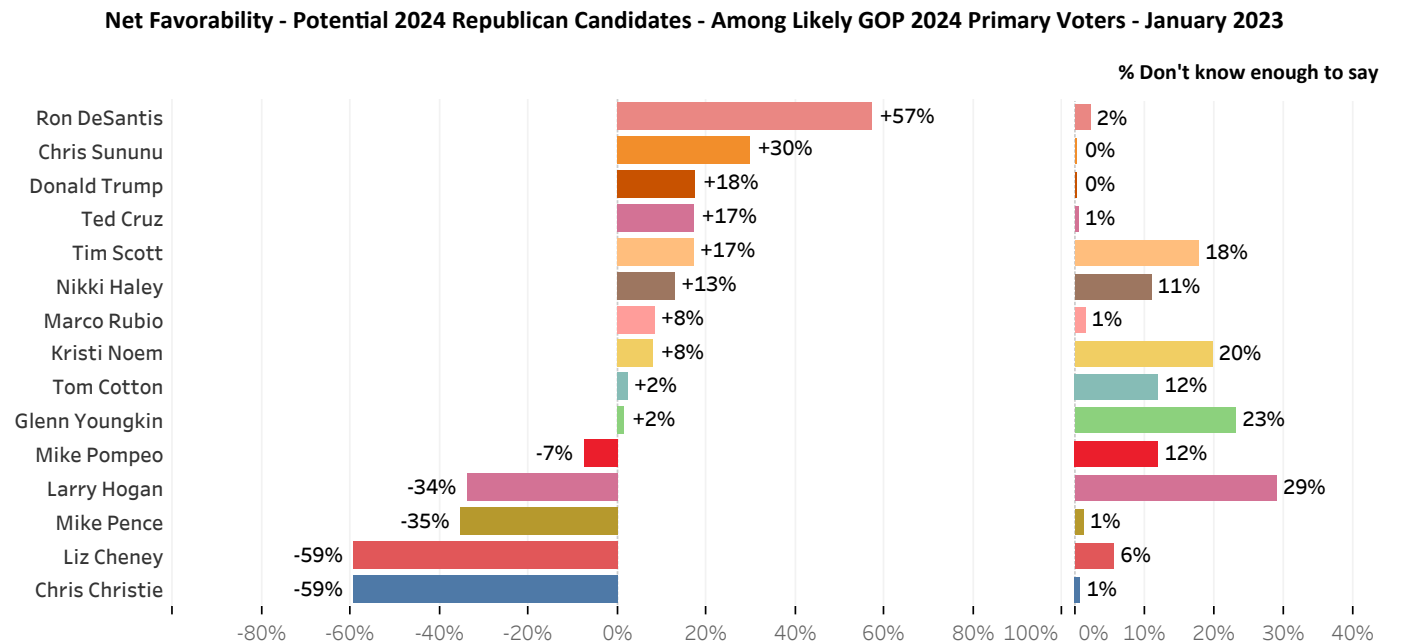

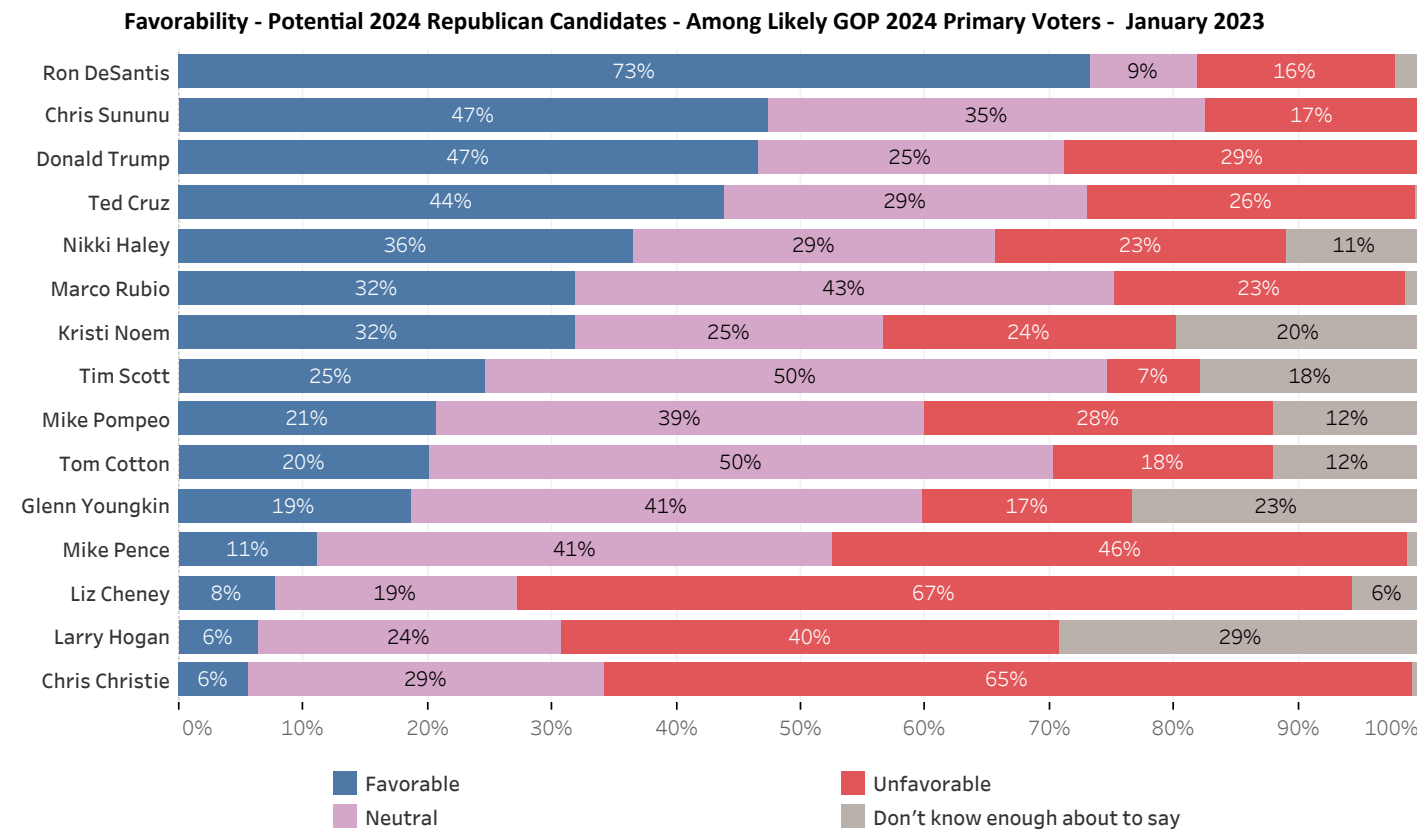

A slim majority (52%) of likely New Hampshire 2024 Republican primary voters think that Sununu should definitely not (26%) or probably not (26%) run for President in 2024. Only 42% think that he definitely (24%) or probably (19%) should run for President while 6% are unsure. Fifty-six percent of libertarian and 48% of moderate likely Republican primary voters think Sununu should run for President but only 27% of conservatives agree.

Among all Granite Staters, 31% think Sununu definitely (11%) or probably (20%) should run for President while 59% think he definitely (34%) or probably (25%) should not.

Among likely 2024 Republican New Hampshire presidential primary voters, DeSantis is by far the most popular potential candidate. Nearly three-quarters (73%) of likely Republican primary voters have a favorable opinion of DeSantis, 16% have an unfavorable opinion of him, 9% are neutral, and 2% don't know enough about him to say. DeSantis' net favorability rating (the percentage who have a favorable opinion minus the percentage with an unfavorable opinion) is +57. Sununu (+30) has the next highest net favorability among likely Republican primary voters, followed by Trump (+18), Cruz (+17), Scott (+17), and Haley (+13). Likely Republican primary voters are largely neutral in their feelings towards Rubio (+8), Noem (+8), Cotton (+2), Youngkin (+2), and Pompeo (-7), while Hogan (-34), Pence (-35), Cheney (-59), and Christie (-59) are unpopular among likely Republican primary voters.

One-fifth or more likely Republican primary voters don't know enough about Hogan (29%), Youngkin (23%), or Noem (20%) to have an opinion about them.

Granite State Poll Methodology

These findings are based on the latest Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. Eight hundred ninety-two (892) Granite State Panel members completed the survey online between January 19 and January 23, 2023. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 3.3 percent. Included in the sample were 349 likely 2024 Republican Primary voters (margin of sampling error +/- 5.2 percent) and 346 likely 2024 Democratic Primary voters (margin of sampling error +/- 5.3 percent). These MSE's have not been adjusted for design effect. The response rate for the January 2023 Granite State Poll is 26%. The design effect for the survey is 3.0%.

Data were weighted by respondent sex, age, education, and region of the state to targets from the most recent American Community Survey (ACS) conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau, as well as party registration levels provided by the NH Secretary of State and to 2020 election results in New Hampshire.

The Granite State Panel is part of an effort by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center to investigate new ways of gathering and understanding the opinion of New Hampshire residents. Approximately 7,500 New Hampshire adults have been recruited from randomly-selected landline and cell phone numbers to participate in the panel. Panelists are then asked to participate in online surveys sponsored by the UNH Survey Center.

The number of respondents in each demographic below may not equal the number reported in cross-tabulation tables as some respondents choose not to answer some questions. Due to rounding, percentages may not sum to 100%.

For more information about the methodology used in the Granite State Panel, contact Dr. Andrew Smith at (603) 862-2226 or by email at andrew.smith@unh.edu.
