Reins of “The New Hampshire” Taken over by Paul Blaisdell

Due to the fact that George Hadley of Manchester did not return before the time the paper was to be published, Paul Blaisdell of Concord has been appointed editor of "The New Hampshire." Blaisdell has been a member of the Department of English at Hanover for the past three years. He is a member of the fraternity Delta Sigma Chi, a member of the Dramatic Club, and former member of the Mask and Dagger society.
