

Roof Garden for Sophomore Dance

Annual Affair in Men's Gym Tomorrow Evening

Isle of Blues Will Furnish Music for Semi-Formal Social Function of Second Year Class

Arrangements for the annual Sophomore Hop are complete, according to the committee in charge. Participants this year will witness one of the most brilliant affairs ever put on by a Sophomore class when they go to the men's gymnasium tomorrow evening, between the hours of eight and twelve.

The Isle of Blues, famed campus orchestra, will furnish music for the semi-formal affair which will be chaired by President and Mrs. Edward M. Lewis, Captain and Mrs. Arthur Gilmore, and Professor and Mrs. Thorsten Kalijarvi.

The gymnasium will be transformed into a modernistic roof-garden in black and white, and all decorations will be in keeping with the modernistic idea.

Tickets will be on sale at two dollars per couple at Harmon's, Gorman's, Ben Hill's, and the various fraternity houses.

Alumni Branch Newly Formed

Twelve Former Students Form California Branch

Furthest Alumni Organization from Campus—Succeeds Oklahoma as Most Distant—Members All Residents of Los Angeles

Though three thousand miles separates them from the campus twelve graduates and former students of the University of New Hampshire gathered in Brookside Park in Pasadena, California on April 6 to organize the Southern California branch of the general alumni association. All are residents of Los Angeles and its vicinity.

An outdoor dinner and program was enjoyed in the California sunshine at the time of the organization meeting when C. B. Tibbetts '17 was unanimously elected President of the newly organized club. The rest of the officers are: Lester Sawyer '22, vice-president; Roger E. Sprague, ex-'25, secretary; and E. L. Sanborn '16, sergeant-at-arms.

This is the alumni organization most distant from Durham. The alumni club of Oklahoma formerly enjoyed this reputation but this club has since relinquished all claims to distance or existence since it was disbanded two years ago.

There are several other alumni living in Los Angeles and vicinity who were not known to the organizers of the new club who will undoubtedly be desirous of joining the new organization.

The other charter members of the club are: Julia Roberts Tibbetts '17,

The Great Rabinovitz Retires, Seeks Bullion League Crashes

By C. M. Walker '31

The Anti-Foreign League has officially disbanded! This news, of course, comes to the campus as no very jarring shock since the organization has seemed to be existing in a state of expectant stagnation ever since the beginning of this term. On Monday the last props of the association tottered, fell in a heap, and left only fond memories.

Upon the haughty resignation of "Ye Grand High Furriner" Archie Rabinovitz, the Sub-Mandarins off-handedly decided that, having long ago tired of certain required pretensions, they would disorganize on the instant and would issue a statement regarding the cause of said rupture.

Mr. Rabinovitz gave as chief reason for his resignation the argument that he was at present undergoing the reactions that all Hebrew flesh experiences, that of turning from ideals and philosophizing to the more material aspects of life as it is lived. Mr. Rabinovitz said: "I have done with radicalisms; I am through with philosophy for philosophy's sake. Henceforth my only reason for interest in anything whatsoever in this life will be a strictly monetary reason. From now on, money only shall command my attention; thoughts are futile and vain unless productive of self-betterment in a material, tangible, palpable way."

A statement was made Monday evening by the editor-in-chief of the League's former official organ of publication, as representing the entire League, to the effect that Mr. Rabinovitz in his organization of the League in the first place was very indefinite in stating its purposes and aims and insisted on remaining so. The League therefore maintained that there was now no reason for continuing since the satisfaction of Rabinovitz' desire to talk was the fundamental aim of the association.

The former editor hastened to add that "He wished Mr. Rabinovitz the best of luck in his new life philosophy and hoped that he might learn to work and so accumulate the monetary pile he is so desirous of."

There are serious rumors abroad on campus at present whispering that a similar organization has been formed at the instigation of a group of co-eds with, however, definite purposes and aims. The campus should keep an eye open and see whether this society or any society so conceived and so dedicated can long endure.

THETA KAPPA PHI CHOOSES FITZGERALD AS PRESIDENT

Richard Fitzgerald '30 of Manchester, has been chosen as president of Beta chapter of Theta Kappa Phi fraternity to succeed Real DesRochers '29, who leaves the office on May 1. Fitzgerald is highly esteemed on the campus.

The other officers newly elected are: Edward Haggerty '31, vice-president; Theodore Minah '30, treasurer; John Shea '31, secretary; and George Rioridon '31, historian.

These men will also take office on May 1.

Alfred Brailsford, 2 yr. '14, R. C. Foster '20, Daniel L. Sprague ex-'20, William T. Halvorsen ex-'26, Henry Halvorsen '25, H. E. Nesbitt '24 and John Sawyer '25.

PLANS PROGRESSING FOR COMMENCEMENT

Canes Have Already Been Selected—Students Must Have Orders for Caps and Gowns in Early

Plans for Commencement Week in June are rapidly progressing according to President Robert Starke of the Senior Class. The various committees report that their plans are nearly complete. The canes have been selected and should be at Harmon's Store within a few days.

Those who have not already ordered their caps and gowns should do so immediately, as John Wettergreen, chairman of this committee, states that an early order is necessary for satisfactory results. Likewise, orders for invitations should also be in before Monday. These may be turned over to the committee consisting of Edward Hunt, chairman, Jane Blake, Lloyd Atwood, Louise Sprague, Robert Starke, and John Fleming.

Baseball Team Plays Saturday

Men Practicing Outside After Several Days' Rest

Tilton and Reinhart Moved to First Base and Shortstop Respectively—Roberts Back for Practice—McFarland III at Home

The University baseball team will play its first game in Durham next Saturday on Brackett field.

Although the varsity nine was unable to play its game with Northeastern University because of poor weather, last Saturday the field has dried up enough so that the men have had an opportunity for some outdoor practice after a rest of several days. Coach Swasey has found it advisable to change the team about somewhat in order to get the best possible results.

Roberts '30 came out to practice again Tuesday after having been unable to play for several days on account of splitting two fingers in practice. Roberts' return intensifies the competition for reserve catcher. Lynch '31 and Casey '31 are also working hard for this position. At present Shea '29 seems to have the advantage over the others for the first string position.

Lord and Jablonowski, sophomores, and Clement '29 are the leading candidates for the pitching assignment in the Providence game. Kirvan, another senior, is also showing up well and, according to coach Swasey, will probably see some service during the season.

Tilton '31 has been shifted from the outfield to first base where he will compete with Dawson, a junior. Both men are about of even ability. Tilton is a better batter, but Dawson has had more experience in the position.

Second base seems to be clinched by Capt. Flynn '29, who is showing up better as a hitter than ever before, according to the coach.

Reinhart '29 has been moved to shortstop to take the place of Lane '31 who will go back to his old position in the outfield.

Redden '29 is still holding down third base, and is developing into one of the best hitters on the squad.

McFarland '30, who played left field for the team last year is ill at his home, but it is hoped that he will return soon to take his old position.

Hanna '31 will play the outfield with Lane and McFarland according to present indications, but Horrigan '31 may replace either him or Lane on account of his batting strength.

John Small '30, who is out for baseball this year for the first time, may be used as an outfielder. Small now holds a letter for football, basketball, and track and is endeavoring to win his fourth.

Recognition Won By University

New England Association Enlarges Its Membership

New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools Elects University to Institutional Membership—Second Honor Received This Term

New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools elected the University to institutional membership in the association at the spring meeting recently held at Yale University in New Haven, Connecticut. President Edward M. Lewis announced Tuesday that he received the notification from Walter Ballou Jacobs, Secretary of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, of the new recognition from this group of educators.

This is the second recognition that the University of New Hampshire has received since the opening of the college for the spring term. The first was from the American Association of University. At their annual meeting held the middle of this month this latter organization gave the New Hampshire University full recognition. This meant that the women graduates became automatically from then on members of this body.

The object of this New England Association is the advancement of liberal education. This is done by the promotion of interests common to colleges and secondary schools in the New England States.

Relay Runners Appear at Penn

Team's Second Visit to American Championships

Noyes Only Member of National Relay Champions to Run Again—Lazure, Richardson, Benedict, Cahalan Also Make Trip

The University will have been represented in the annual Pennsylvania relays for the second time when Coach Paul Sweet appears at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, tomorrow and Saturday with his flashy runners to take part in the distance college medley relay championship of America and the two-mile college relay championship of America events.

Although the Penn relay carnival has been an annual affair of national interest for the past thirty-five years, the Wildcat runners did not introduce their claws into the Quakers' territory until a year ago when they tore off first honors in the class B one-mile championship of America race, and placed third in the unclassified sprint medley. In the latter event the Durhamites were defeated for either first or second place by a small margin favoring New York University and the University of Chicago respectively. Last spring's team comprised Paul V. Toolin, Reginald Atkins, Arnold Noyes, and John Small. Noyes is the only one of these veterans left to run in this national competition this week.

The distance medley relay is scheduled for Friday, and in this event New Hampshire will be represented by Albert Lazure, Berlin; Stuart Richardson, Pelham; William Benedict, Melrose, Mass.; and Arnold Noyes, Sunapee. Earl Cahalan, Everett, Mass., will alternate. As the race is made up of four different distances, one for each man, Lazure will run the quarter-mile lap, Richardson will be assigned the half mile sprint, Noyes has been selected for the three-quarter mile task, with Benedict running the mile. The Wildcats drew third post position in this race. Competing in the distance medley with New Hampshire are Lafayette, Indiana, Chicago, Columbia, Ohio State, Princeton, Syracuse, Lincoln, Pennsylvania, New York University, Michigan State, Penn State, Wisconsin, Alfred, and Harvard.

Running in the two-mile endurance on Saturday afternoon will be the same men except that Lazure will alternate and Cahalan will fare in the big racket. The events are not classified this year so if the New Hampshire entries are victorious in either of these American championship fights she will be honored with a class

Reproductions of Renaissance Paintings Presented University

By Eleanor Bell

An interesting exhibit on campus at the present time is a group of photographs of renaissance paintings, presented to the University by Colonel and Mrs. Lynde Sullivan. They have been carefully arranged by Mr. Shramm, head of the art department, in the drawing room, third floor of DeMerritt hall. The pictures will be kept up for another week and may be visited, between nine and four o'clock any day except Wednesday and Saturday.

With two exceptions, the forty-four paintings have all been attributed to Sandro Botticelli. The exceptions are a large production of da Vinci's incomparable "Mona Lisa," and "The Dance of the Muses" by Giulio Romano. The latter was the most gifted and active of Raphael's pupils, working with his master on a number of masterpieces. The subject in question shows Apollo in the center of a dancing circle, five Muses on the left and four on the right. The movement of the limbs and flow of draperies is equal to that executed by Botticelli, at the same time showing more sturdiness and restraint than the earlier flower of the Renaissance seemed to possess.

The most famous of Botticelli's paintings is "Primavera" or "The Return of Spring." Venus stands in the center with Cupid hovering above, Mars and the three Graces dance on the left, while Spring on the left is heralded in by Mercury and gently urged on by Flora and Zephyrus. The detail of the three dancing Graces is used in another photograph and it may be observed that the central figure is almost modern in pose and treatment.

Another classical allegory provided inspiration for "The Birth of Venus." It would be difficult for a painter to design a more exquisitely outlined form than that of Venus standing in a conch shell with no covering but her golden hair, being carried to the shore by zephyrus.

An interesting portrait is that of "La Bella Simonetta." This lady was a particular friend of the artist and posed as a model for several of his paintings. The "Venus with Cupids" shows a gracefully posed head, small pointed mouth, distinguished nose and beautiful hands.

Of Botticelli's religious subjects, the "Madonna and Child with St. John the Baptist" shows in three different studies the evolution of the artist's idea, using in each picture the same figures and arrangement, yet changing the details and lines. Likewise, there are two similar pictures of the

Successful N. H. Banquet Held

Commons Decorated in Novel Manner for Event

Dr. Fred Marvel, Supervisor of Athletics at Brown University and Fred Tenney, Old Professional Baseball Star, Speakers

An annual event the certificate banquet held in the Commons dining hall last Thursday night was a decided success. According to Mr. Cowell it was the most successful certificate banquet that has been held since its inauguration three years ago.

The commons was arranged in novel form for the affair. The tables formed a large square while space inside the tables was decorated to resemble a football field, with miniature goal posts erected.

Dr. Fred Marvel, supervisor of athletics at Brown University, and Fred Tenney, friend of President Lewis, delivered a well received talk to the assembled men.

Ernest W. Christensen is accorded credit for the excellent manner in which the event was handled. It is hoped that the certificate banquet will become a New Hampshire tradition. William H. Cowell announces the date of April 16, 1930, for the next one.

Gold fobs were awarded the members of the winter sports team. The fobs are cast with the figures of a snowshoer, a skier, and a skater on the front. On the reverse side are engraved the words, I. W. S. U. Champions, third consecutive year, 1929.

The latter part of the meeting will be given over to an informal discussion, under the leadership of Miss Edith Swain of Laconia, on "Written Composition in the High School and in College." Special attention will be given to the following topics: (1) The Real Aim of Composition, (2) The Relative Weighing Given to Content and Form, (3) Reading Papers.

MORE ABOUT TOLERANCE

As a certain member of the faculty remarked to us the other day, "The ostrich idea never got anybody anywhere." It may seem very silly for us to bring up this idea of religious and racial tolerance on a New England college campus, since this is a New England campus and as such must be narrow-minded by tradition, but we feel that the matter is one which deserves at least an attempt at a plea. We shan't get anywhere, the matter is too deep-rooted for any one man or group of men to change it, and yet it is wrong and as a wrong should at least be recognized.

Our editorial and the letter we published last week brought no evident results. We didn't expect that they would, but at any rate they did point out to a few people that even a deep-rooted intolerance can seem wrong to some of us. And we venture to assert that it had never even occurred to many of the students that anyone could question their attitude. It seems holy and right to them, something that is natural and everyday like wearing a raincoat in stormy weather or going to church on Sunday. And we are very much afraid that some of the students who are loudest in their condemnation of some creed other than their own don't even do the latter.

That a university campus, a place where culture and free thinking are supposedly brought within the grasp of a few fortunate young people, should be the place where prejudice, superstition, intolerance, and ignorance are not only permitted to exist, but are actually fostered by nine-tenths of the students and faculty seems on the face of it unthinkable, unbelievable. And yet it is the truth and all we know it. As the letter last week pointed out we have social fraternities and sororities which take only Protestants, or only Jews, or only Catholics, or only Greeks; we have other groups of similar nature with similar restrictions; we have a campus honorary society which chooses its prominent men first on the basis of their religions and then on the basis of their qualifications for helping their University and influencing student opinion. And we not only know all this; we tacitly agree to it and the University, of necessity, also agrees to it although it is a non-sectarian institution, because it can do nothing else. The fortunate young men and women acquiring culture and the broadening influences of education don't wish anyone to interfere with their prejudices.

It isn't any one creed or group of creeds that is to blame. It is every one of us that permits such a state of affairs to exist. The whole matter resolves itself into a little whispered war that is constantly going on in every part of the University, in every part of New England for that matter, and the suffering and ill-feeling that it breeds are as bitter and cowardly as they are unnecessary.

Incidentally, while disliking to bring the personal element into the matter, we feel called upon to state that during Mr. Blaisdell's illness we are handling THE NEW HAMPSHIRE at his request and accept all responsibility for it. Despite rumor to the contrary, we did not wait to relinquish the editorship before touch-

Yale Addresses Army Officers

History Instructor at Portland Reserve Dinner

Tells of Military Experience at Allenby's Campaign in Near East During World War—Compliments Col. Lawrence

Major William Yale, instructor in the department of history, addressed the Portland, Maine Chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association at a dinner meeting in the Columbia Hotel of Portland last Thursday night on interesting personalities of Allenby's campaign in the Near East during the World War. Mr. Yale was a military observer with Allenby and came to know the prominent figures of that campaign intimately.

Allenby, Major Yale characterized as a typical Britisher, and the type of Englishman of whom Americans could be proud. Colonel T. E. Lawrence, author of Revolt in the Desert, he called a true adventurer because he was not seeking adventure. The speaker paid his highest compliment to Col. Lawrence. "His greatness lay," said Major Yale, "in uniting in a common fight for independence hundreds of tribes which had warred against each other for thousands of years. He accomplished something which sheriffs, sultans and prophets had been unable to do."

Emir Feisal, third son of the Sheriff of Mecca, he termed, "A magnificent type of Oriental." Emir Feisal led the Arabs to independence during the great struggle. In telling stories and anecdotes of these three outstanding leaders of the Near East campaign, Mr. Yale related the general outlines of this "war within a war". He showed how Allenby, aided Emir Feisal, and Lawrence with the Arabs drove the Turks out of the Holy Land.

NORWICH MAN WILL REPLACE GILMORE

Lt. George B. Anderson Will Serve as Asst. Prof. of Military Science and Tactics—Gilmore to Serve on Foreign Duty

Lieutenant George B. Anderson of Fort Monroe, Virginia, will become a member of the staff of the Military Department at the University of New Hampshire at the opening of the college year in the fall, according to an announcement made from the office of President Edward M. Lewis.

Lieutenant Anderson received a B.S. degree in electrical engineering from Norwich University and is now attending the Coast Artillery School at Port Monroe where he will graduate in June.

Anderson is a First Lieutenant in the Coast Artillery Corps and will serve at the University of New Hampshire as Assistant Professor of Military Science and Tactics. Lieutenant Anderson will fill the vacancy caused by the transfer of Captain Arthur F. Gilmore, who has been Assistant Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the Granite State institution for four years. Captain Gilmore will serve on foreign duty after leaving New Hampshire.

JOINT MEETING OF YM AND YW MONDAY

E. C. Davis, Pastor of University Church of Concord Will Speak Before Combined Gathering of Student Organizations

There will be a joint meeting of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. on Monday, April 29, at seven o'clock in the Commons organization room. Reverend E. C. Davis, the pastor of the University Church in Concord, will speak on religion and ethics.

There will be a joint deputation team from New Hampshire University who will attend the First Congregational Church in Concord on Sunday, April 28. Ben Andrews will preach the morning church service. The vesper service and young people's meeting which is held in the afternoon will be conducted by the team. The members of the team are the Misses Grace Jameson and Winifred Low, and Messrs. Ralph Brown and Vasiliou Vasiliou.

The members of the Freshman Committee of the Y. W. C. A. will spend this week-end at Wheelwright. Misses Marjory Berry, chairman, and Carol Rudd, advisor, together with Miss Henthorne, will accompany them.

ing upon something we did not like to face before. Certain matters during the past few weeks have brought the intolerance on the campus into the light and we feel ourself very fortunate in being thus able to express our sentiments on the matter.

Between the Kappa's baseball playing and the A. T. O.'s victrola playing, it's worth one's life to go down the main street.

Too bad Poe isn't writing now. He could get all the morbid atmosphere he wanted by staying in Durham over a rainy week-end.

Have you noticed the rabbits running around wildly behind Congreve? We've been wondering if someone smoked them out.

REMINISCENCE

This battle for honor, sir, this struggle for mirth
 Think you 'tis just mortals, we folks on the earth,
 Who know it?
 'Tis a poor thought to think, sir, 'tis selfish, I say
 There are bigger issues than just our small day
 To pause on.
 'Tis the seasons right now, sir, this April and May
 They've each had rough contacts, they didn't just say,
 "We've come!"

Isn't it about time that the Phi Sigma stunts begin? We hope that they're careful about getting their stunts approved by the faculty, though for our own amusement we hope they don't.

It's remarkable how the Freshmen and Sophomore women keep away from the beach. Or is a Freshman man now counted as a chaperone?

Why all the people leaving class suddenly this week? Perhaps on account of the rainy weather—wet feet are very comfortable.

How come the English department decided to teach Sophomores poetry spring term? Surely they didn't think that Durham spring weather would inspire any verse.

REMINISCENCES

I remember you as only beauty is remembered:
 The infinite sweetness and all-pervasive charm that you possess.
 I remember your glowing eyes, your silky hair, your velvety dark skin,
 And most of all your voice's soft warm huskiness.
 I remember the ecstasy of your strong young arms,
 Holding me ever closer; clinging to me very softly;
 Of your warm lips so full of passion and yet so soully meeting mine,
 And that exquisite, everlasting, overpowering agony.

We wish to correct a statement made last week. It seems that the senior with false teeth is a Phi Mu and not an Alpha Chi. It's just a matter of a few teeth more or less, mostly less.

Shades of John Coolidge and Florence Trumbull!!! We have a similar case on our campus. If furtive notes passed in the recesses of the Commons mean anything. But what's your father president of, John?

The Adam's ale that we've been drinking lately isn't up to par. We suggest a change of boot—pardon us—reservoirs.

The N. H. banquet last Thursday, got away to an auspicious start. The waiters, who were numbered, lined up for an imaginary kick-off at the beginning of the meal. At the blast of the whistle they broke formation and contributed a few end runs and line smashes bearing the food to the starving athletes.

We've heard many novel ways of entertaining young ladies on rainy nights, but this has most of them stopped. One lad from the class of '31 called on his little lady in Ballard. He brought a telegraphy set with two sets of headphones. The evening's entertainment consisted of tapping out coy messages to each other. Of course the real spice of the evening lies in what they telegraphed.

The Delta Sig's and Alpha Gamma's tell us that the complaint against the Alpha Xi's wasn't really a complaint. Not really.

Mills says that any noble thought, beautifully expressed, is poetry. We print the following—

As he pitched forward, epilepsy-stricken,
 A thoughtless truck brought drowsy death.
 Soon a crowd milled around him
 And one old woman fugitively murmured,
 "Good God."

WHAT WELL-DRESSED GANGSTER IS WEARING

(CURRENT READER)

An exhibition of what the well-dressed gangster is wearing may be seen at the Franklin Theatre next Monday where Colleen Moore's new comedy "Synthetic Sin," is playing. Jay Eaton, who enjoys the reputation of being one of Hollywood's best-dressed actors, portrays a suave gunman in this entertaining picture, and his clothes reflect the sartorial elegance of the modern crook. A suit of plum-colored English cricket cloth, a soft tan shirt with a futuristic tie, spats, and a tan fedora make up Eaton's correct costume.

Ben Hendricks, Jr., is dressed with similar taste, and Fred Warren and Phil Sleeman, in other gangster portrayals, offer further evidence that the sweated, sloppy crook of a decade ago is obsolete.

Important supporting roles in "Synthetic Sin" are played by Antonio Moreno, Miss Moore's leading man, Montagu Love, Gertrude Astor, Edythe Chapman and Kathryn McGuire. John McCormick produced this comedy for First National Pictures.

REALIZATION

Like leaves that rustle in the trees
 Buffeted by the wind—
 Am I—
 Buffeted by love.

Love that once encompasses my soul,
 If watch it fade,
 Then die.....
 Grow cold.

Then—all too soon, to spring again,
 Cast itself,
 Cling to Another man.

Pickle woman, you say? Ah 'tis true
 But God—
 The men
 Are fickle too.
 .. F. B. '32

With busses running to the beach from Jim's....we expect there will be a young mob scene staged every Saturday night in the main drag. The whole Durham police force (Hello, where are you Looie?) will be needed to enforce law and order.

The F. B. below is not the first F. B., although their thoughts are somewhat synchronized.

A CONCEPTION OF LOVE
 Love thou art like in spring a fresh young flower,
 A wondrous flame that fades and passes with the hour;
 Captivating and blinding in your sway,
 Mighty in power thou makest the ages sing,
 Yet subtle a wasp cursed with a hidden sting—
 Which awakens and warms leaving cold dismay.

Intramural baseball's schedule for the 1929 season has recently been released by the athletic department, according to H. L. Also, because of a limited amount of time, some of the games will be played in the morning.

Students Visit N. H. Legislature

Gov. Charles W. Tobey Gives Short Talk to 55 Students

Party Sees Senate and House of Representatives in Session and Watches Procedure of Passing Bills

By the arrangement of Registrar Orin Henderson, Prof. Thorsten V. Kalijarvi, of the Political Science department, with approximately 55 students of political science visited the state legislature in session on Wednesday, April 17.

The party met the Governor by appointment and was entertained with a short talk by him in which he urged that students take more interest in the field of government, stating that he felt it to be one of the most honorable fields of endeavor open to young people. He recommended strongly that more students prepare to enter the field of politics.

The party then saw both the Senate and the House of Representatives in session and watched the entire procedure of passing bills. They were afforded the unusual opportunity of hearing both the first and second readings of bills and also heard a communication sent from the Senate to the House. They witnessed the House resolving itself into a Committee of the Whole and the Speaker leave the chair and appoint a chairman in his place.

The bill was then discussed, recommended by a special committee of investigation, doing away with course duplication between normal schools and colleges. The students then went down onto the floors of both houses and later met the speaker of the Senate, Mr. Davidson.

DEBATING TROPHY GIVEN BY ALUMNUS

Edward M. Stone '92, Hartford, Conn., has donated a beautiful debating trophy to be awarded to the winner of the interfraternity debating league beginning next year at the University of New Hampshire.

Edmund A. Cortez, a member of the faculty of the Department of English and director of forensics at the University announced today that rules and methods of awarding the cup will be drawn up later in the term. Director Cortez is of the opinion that the trophy will become the permanent possession of the fraternity winning it four times in succession.

Activities of debating among the fraternities next year will be conducted under the direction of Tau Kappa Alpha, national forensic fraternity.

Mr. Stone received a B.S. degree from New Hampshire in 1892 and graduated from the Thayer School of Engineering in '94, receiving the degree of Civil Engineer.

Following his graduation from Hanover, Mr. Stone was active in civil engineering work in New Hampshire later moving to Hartford, Conn., where he is now located. He not only carries on his engineering work in Hartford but owns and operates large holdings in real estate.

He is now serving his second term as first vice-president of the University of New Hampshire Alumni Association and is a member of the board of directors of that organization. Mr. Stone is also ex-president of the University of New Hampshire Alumni Association of Connecticut.

INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING SENIORS VISIT BOSTON

Industrial engineering seniors, who are designing a plant for the manufacture of steam valves as a class problem, visited the plant of the Walworth Company of Boston last week. This company manufactured the valves which were installed in the new power plant on the campus.

The students were shown every step in the manufacture of valves and told of the organization needed to carry on the work of the plant. An interesting part of the plant was the iron foundry, which is entirely modern and equipped for large-scale production.

The college of Technology plans to install a foundry next year as a part of the practical mechanics department.

State Forest Reports Loss

Bill in Legislature to Preserve Timber Lands

Reduction in Taxation of Standing and Growing Timber Proposed by Society for Protection of New Hampshire Forests

Statement that New Hampshire is destroying a future asset worth millions of dollars by its annual tax on growing timber, making forest farming unprofitable and devolving almost "forest bankruptcy" upon the State, was made recently at Concord by John H. Foster, New Hampshire State Forester.

The statement was given in the light of pending legislative action upon two bills, one substituting a single 10 per cent. tax on timber when cut, the other providing recompense to towns for revenue thus temporarily lost.

"Because trees are now taxed from 40 to 60 times before they are ready to cut," said the Forest Society's statement, "the State's forests are being lumbered as fast as possible. Forests, when taxed more than their total worth, are literally asked to lift themselves by their own boot straps. As a result nearly 2,000,000 of New Hampshire's acres, fit only for growing timber, are now lying idle.

"No shadow of doubt can exist as to the need of growing forests in every state of the United States. To publish the nation's newspapers and magazines alone is required the equivalent of more than 10 square miles of forest every day in the year. "In the face of such a condition, New Hampshire, with facilities for growing $31,000,000 board feet of lumber annually, markets but a diminishing 400,000,000, and is importing every year 350,000,000 board feet to meet its own needs. Further, it is importing this lumber at freight costs mounting into the millions of dollars."

In advocating passage of the two forestry measures now before the Legislature, the Society for Protection of New Hampshire Forests pointed out that the practice of applying a general property tax to forests, which these measures would change, was put in effect 150 years ago, when forests were comparatively without value. The principle of levying a single tax upon forests at the time of their harvest, the Society's statement said, is now widely approved.

The sectional conferences are ten in number, lasting from 2:00 to 4:30. The leaders of these open forums are prominent in their ability to lead in respect to their subjects.

The evening session consists of a banquet at 7:00 o'clock at the freshman dining hall, and two addresses at 8:00 and 8:30. All who are interested are asked to attend.

Alumni News

Alumni Office, April 25.—What is the Class of 1492? This is the question we are asked whenever we mention this newest on the roll of classes at New Hampshire, which made its debut in Durham on Alumni Day last year. We hope the ranks of this new class will be swelled this year on June 15. As for the answer to the above question: The Class of 1492 is composed of all alumni who have returned to Durham for the Alumni Day festivities without their classmates, i. e. despite the fact that their classes have no reunions they are interested enough to return just the same. The class assemblies only once during the day, when it forms for the alumni parade under the banner of "1492."

Why the Class of 1492? In order to provide some real interest for returning alumni "sans class," and to provide for better fellowship between members of all classes who are not "reuning." We may sometime, on demand, provide for a luncheon, an election of officers, and for other events for 1492, but until then, come on back and join the class of 1492, unless you know of a better class here on June 15!

1917—Rohlf C. Wiggin is in Poland conducting some investigational work for the National Shawmut Corporation of Boston with which firm he is now connected.

Cheshire County Branch Reorganizes

Robert E. Watkins '22 of Keene will head the reorganized Cheshire County Branch as a result of a meeting to consider ways and means of making the club effective in its work for the University, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus B. White at 79 School street, in Keene on Friday evening, April 19. Ralph W. Newell '23 was elected secretary-treasurer of the club. Pres. Watkins was authorized to appoint a committee of twelve to draw up a constitution to be adopted at the next meeting of the branch organization. The committee will also discuss various projects and ways in which the club can assist the University.

The club will hold its next meeting in Walpole and preparations for this meeting are in charge of Reginald Cahalan '18. The club hopes to invite all undergraduates and prospective freshmen in the county to attend this meeting.

Alpheus B. White '19 was elected to serve as the club delegate to the meeting of the Advisory Board in Durham on June 14. The Alumni Secretary was present at the meeting with the hope that he might be of assistance to the club in its reorganization. He suggested several club projects which the club members favorably considered. He later showed the members several recent stereopticon views of the campus and student activities. Delicious refreshments were served to the club members by Mr. and Mrs. White at the conclusion of the meeting.

New Society Formed Here

Informal Discussion Held In Murkland Hall

Undergraduate Argumeters Wax Enthusiastic Over Problems That Have Puzzled Philosophers for Ages—Discuss Life Purposes and Aims

The first meeting of a new and nameless society was held at Murkland Hall last Tuesday evening with Yvonne Beaudry and Jeannette McGrail as prime motivators, a round-table discussion group has been formed, at present including five men and eight women with the purpose of introducing mixed discussions. During the meeting, opinions and questionings were exchanged with extraordinary vigor. With Dr. Eugene A. Bishop, of the Sociology department, as chaperone and informal leader of the informal discussion, many philosophical, sociological, and psychological ideas were aired and several general conclusions of widely-varying nature were reached.

It was generally accepted that all motivations are primarily self-centered and egoistic in origin; that all activities are undertaken, basically speaking, with a view to personal satisfaction. Another conclusion was that all social progress is brought about by a gradual process and is not apparently the result of direct group action.

Madonna with six children and one with five children. A fourth study of the Madonna with six saints is composed in the same manner but the figures are taller, older and more dignified.

There is none considered to equal Botticelli for poetical fantasy and mystical imagination. A tendency to over-imagination is his greatest fault. His influence was felt all through the period of the Renaissance.

A win. In the two-mile, the local team drew twelfth post position and is to receive opposition from Pittsburgh, Geneva, Bates, Detroit University, Army, New York University, Georgetown, Princeton, Michigan State, Chicago, Holy Cross, Cornell, Western State Teachers' College and Ohio State.

By defeating Ralph Crosby in a fast quarter-mile on the track Monday, Lazure settled the question as to which of these two able men were to make the trip. Coach Sweet had decided before that time who the other men were to be and considered this a fair way to select the extra man. Lazure won by an arm's length.

While there the Durhamites will be entertained by the Philadelphia branch of the University of New Hampshire alumni association at the Pennsylvania Athletic Club.
