

University Day is September 16

Thursday, August 28, 2014

Learn to juggle, join the Birding Club, meet a zombie or spread the word about your department or organization at University Day on September 16. The annual campus cookout and student activities fair will be held from 3:30 – 6:30 p.m. on the Thompson Hall lawn. The campus community and residents of Durham, Lee and Madbury are welcome.

“University Day is one of the best days we have all year; it’s when students, faculty, staff and members of the larger community come together to celebrate the start of a new academic year and have a great time,” says Patrice Russell, director of University Events and Programs.

“It’s also a great place for students to find organizations of interest to them and for organizations and departments to spread the word about their offerings,” Russell adds.

In the event of rain, the event will take place on September 17.
