To the Editor:

Dear Sir,

On Tuesday, April 15, an affair took place in Durham which has been categorized as an attempted robbery. The incident involved several individuals who attempted to enter the women's dormitory at the University of New Hampshire. It appears that the excitement of a certain event caused a disturbance, resulting in property damage and minor injuries. The university administration is currently investigating the matter and working with local authorities to ensure the safety of all students.

We favor the abolition of several existing public service organizations. The first of these groups is the New Hampshire State Action Commission, which is responsible for the management of public service organizations. For this purpose, we are examining several possible solutions, which include the establishment of a new public service organization that would be better suited for the study of organization and management.

Association to Present Works of Young Writers

E. Barton Hills of English Department

Chairman

Meredith Leadership to Only Nine Undergraduates

A new campus organization, Erato, the University of New Hampshire, has been enrolling in news recently on the campus... Orville... New group to make itself known and, at this time, eager that any person interested in poetry in a creative way submit contributions to the poetry magazine sometimes during the latter part of the year.

Erato has been recognized by the English department of the university and is being advised at all activities by E. Barton Hills, an instructor in the English department. It is an attempt to meet what has been felt to be a need on the campus for an organization of some sort for the encouragement and aid of young poets and a means through which these poems may present their efforts.

At present the membership consists of five regular members and one honorary member. The honorary member is William H. Brown, Jr., who is assistant librarian in the university library. The charter members are: Carl R. Strom, '32, C. Monroe Walker, '26, (President), Mr. Charles Davis, '18, George R. Aske, '16, Martin E. Foss, '24, and Henry S. Daniels, '30. As a result of the constitution, no other than only one undergraduate member at any one time, two or less. This is the reason for its soliciting of contributions at any time by the members interested.

Four more members are needed to make the membership legal, as soon as they are elected, the present number of members shall be increased to the legal limit, plus one. All members are expected to submit a contribution at least once a week, to be taken into account; that is, no poem will be given a place on the list of poems by the regular freshman because of his class rating. These contributions will be suitably considered for publication in the official organ of the society, "ERATO."
