PERCY GRAINGER GIVES LYCEUM COURSE RECITAL

Internationally Famous Pianist-Composer Plays Numerous Selections From Well-Known Composers

First Part of Program Contained Selections From Bach and Franck—Last Part Included His Own Original Compositions

Tonight at Symphony Hall in Boston

Percy Grainger, the well-known Australian composer, pianist, and conductor, famous throughout the world as "the supreme representative of the piano," played his Lyceum Course Recital at Symphony Hall in Boston last night.

The evening presented a comprehensive program of 56 music selections from various fields of music, ranging from baroque to modern compositions.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Grainger expressed his gratitude to the audience for allowing him the opportunity to perform these pieces. He then proceeded to play the following selections:

1. "Ode to Joy" by Ludwig van Beethoven
2. "Piano Concerto No. 1" by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart
3. "Symphony No. 4" by Antonín Dvořák
4. "Carnival of Venice" by Niccolò Paganini
5. "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2" by Franz Liszt
6. "Prelude and Fugue in C Major" by Johann Sebastian Bach
7. "Canon in D" by Pachelbel
8. "The Bells" by John Philip Sousa
9. "In the Air" by Claude Debussy
10. "Sheep's Symphony" by Percy Grainger

Throughout the evening, Mr. Grainger demonstrated his virtuosity on the piano, captivating the audience with his expressive and technically flawless performances. The program concluded with the audience's enthusiastic applause, marking the successful conclusion of the evening's performance.

WHO'S OUT OF STEP?

Once upon a time, a student at the University of New Hampshire decided he would like to transfer to another college in a different part of the country. Accordingly, he went to his advisor in the registrar's office and asked for a transfer form. The advisor handed him one, and then asked:

"What is your intended major at the new college?"

"Business Administration."

"And what is your major here?"

"Business Administration."

"Well then, why are you transferring?"

"I don't know. It just seems like the thing to do."

"Well, if you're not going to learn anything from this experience, I don't know what you're going to learn from anything."

The student walked away, feeling a little foolish. But he had learned something: sometimes, you don't need to be different to be out of step.
