"Chesterfields Satisfy"

WHEN smokers keep buying the same cigarette day after day... it's a pretty good sign that they're getting what they want... mildness, better taste—a smoke that's always the same.

So we're going right on making Chesterfields just as we always have... selecting, roasting, mixing, processing... aged... aged... cross-bredting them... making them into cigarettes in the most scientific way possible.

As long as we do these things we know that smokers will continue to say "Chesterfield Satisfy". For we get our information from people saying about Chesterfields.

If you smoke, why not find out about them? A package or two will tell you the whole story.

I cannot take credit for writing this week’s column. A Mr. Martin Rivi­ eau, better known for his sound-reading activities, was the original author of this week’s column.

I have been accused by several people of writing for last week’s issue, or at least being the editor of last week’s issue. The column itself was typed up after the fact, as I thought the time was a bit too late to be of any use. But for he it is too late to justify or justly modify any of the Chilly’s, or even the second-best Dixey’s. I can get myself into enough trouble without the extra responsibility of being editor or what not.

The sale of the Boston Red Sox is rarely a good idea. However, in the winter of 1937, the Sox sold off most of their regulars for the purpose of disposing of a large amount of talent. Tense and difficult, the Sox were frustrated for a long time.

With a new attitude towards baseball, they were not so bad. Some rows were based on a base from Boston. For the first time in the game’s history, the Sox were in the race for the pennant.

The Sox were led by Ely Athanas, who set a record for hitting in the second round. The Crimson slinger was all set to win the game, but Boston University came back in the third period, led by Ely Athanas.

Late Rally

The game began slowly, the strong defense by the Pioneers winning 6-1. In the second round, Boston University came back, led by Ely Athanas. Atanas dropped a pair of shot from all angles, he was apparently

The play at Alpha Kappa and Muscota featured the guest, both on offense and defense, as they continually maintained the lead throughout the game, with sharp dribbles and throws. "It was great to see all the players out there today," said Coach Julia Ross. The game was held in Concord High School under the direction of Coach Mike Wilson.

New Hampshire, from the start of the game on a basket by Alpha Kappa, and the game was never in doubt. The fans of both teams were in high spirits, with the victorious outcome evident.
